A Plant Never Had It So Good

By LEN BATEMAN
Of The Graphic Staff

In this era of the super specialist it seems surprising that no one had thought of opening a clinic for the sick, household plants of people who do not have the knack of Luther Burbank.

Just my wife and her long-nurtured but non-thriving "hanging gardens" alone require the scope and skill of a botanical equivalent to the Mayo Clinic.

Once, but only once, our treasured spider plant did what it was supposed to do. Out of its spindly midst came a stalk bearing another tiny spider plant.

The resultant shock waves when my wife first noticed it and screamed, "We're having a baby!" evidently did more harm to the poor plant's central nervous system than to mine.

The stalk disappeared the next day, I am still around, and the "mother" just sits there, barren but well fed and watered.

Michael Werman of 37 Woodchester drive, Newton, must have heard the silent pleas of my wife and countless others, concerned with the health of their ecological contribution to a better environment.

Last Saturday, Mike opened a clinic at Piccadilly Square in Newton Centre called "Glo Worm."

Not only is Mike inexpensive-you will not need Blue Cross, Blue Shield for your African Violet-he is also phenomenal.

About 11 years ago, Mike picked up a flower from a florist's floor, took it home and started a veritable garden of delight.

He specializes in indoor gardening and suffered all that time because there was no central source for the supplies he needed to maintain his hobby.

A few months ago, he decided to rectify that situation and today sits on top of the proverbial gold mine.

But you can tall immediately that Mike is more interested in the real green stuff and not just the money. He left a career in real estate investment to open his shop.

The back room of the Glo Worm is perhaps more interesting than the display floor. In fact, Johnny Appleseed should still be around.

It is there, under strictly controlled lighting, that Mike practices the art of his craft, bringing forth unbelievable creations from minute seedlings.

And it is there that Mike is probably the happiest, unless of course he is counseling a housewife on the care and nourishment of her plants.

For the novice grower he will offer a simple introduction to the various plant families and instruction as to their care.

Disposal District Victim Of Stalling Tactics Again

By invoking the "charter objection" before a vote on five mayoral appointees, Alderman Peter Harrington Tuesday night again singlehandedly prevented the Newton-Waltham regional refuse-disposal planning district from becoming a viable body.

Harrington's action in not allowing the Board of Aldermen to vote on the names will be negated on Monday night at a special meeting of the board called by Mayor Theodore Mann.

(A charter objection postpones the vote on an item until the next regular or special meeting of the board.)

The Newton-Waltham planning district was established July 12, by signature of the agreement by Mayor Theodore Mann of Newton and Mayor Arthur Clark of Waltham. It has received a $112,000 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to study the feasibility of the two cities joining together for disposal of solid waste and to try to ascertain the best method of disposal.

According to the agreement, the district committee must have completed a report by Dec. 31, 1973, for submission to the administration of each city by Jan. 31, 1974.

Each mayor must submit the report to their respective legislative bodies by Feb. 28, 1974, and affirmative action must be taken by the two city governments by May 31 if the district is to become operational.

The district has met opposition and stalling maneuvers all along the line from several aldermen.

On June 26, Harrington chartered the vote on entering into the agreement, despite a Public Works Committee vote of 5-1 in favor. (Harrington opposed).

Following a 15-6 vote of the board on July 2, in favor of establishing the district, Alderman Richard McGrath filed a motion for reconsideration, which nullified the vote.

At a special meeting called by the mayor for July 5, approval was voted, and the agreement was signed July 9.

Names of the five Newton members of the district committee, submitted by the mayor, were not approved by the Board of Aldermen at its Aug. 13 meeting, but were referred to the aldermanic Public Works Committee.

Alderman David Jackson pleaded unsuccessfully with the opposing board members to approve at least three of the names — Jackson, Mary Adelstein and Dr. Melvin First, who had been members of the group instrumental in getting the district into the possibility stage.

Jackson pointed out the short time left until the report would be due, and the inability to take binding votes unless some of the Newton appointees were approved.

The principal objection to approval of the names appeared to be failure of the mayor to appoint a representative of organized labor to the committee, as had been suggested by Public Works Committee Chairman Joseph McDonnell.

McDonnell felt that since members of the city's work force were concerned about what effect a regional refuse–disposal district might have on their jobs, a union man should have a seat on the committee.

Mayor Mann's appointment, a Street Department foreman, was not acceptable to the PW Committee.

At a PW Committee meeting Aug. 16, the mayor withdrew Tatten's name and substituted that of Daniel MacLaren, a union steward who was the choice of Local 800 for the regional committee.

The five members, including Richard Dudman, Newton Director of Public Works, were approved with little debate by the Public Works Committee.

The vote was 5-0, including Harrington, in favor.

The reasons for continuing opposition to the Newton–Waltham regional refuse--disposal district ostensibly have been a fear that instead of a planning district, the two-city agreement has in effect legally created an operational district, with the powers and duties that such a district entails.

Another objection, raised only this week, is that the Board of Aldermen has not yet seen the solid-waste--management report by Arthur D. Little, Inc., completed last week (see story, Page 3).

Many seasoned, perhaps cynical, observers attribute the opposition to the politics of a municipal election year.

Towers Construction Halted

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of The Graphic Staff

Construction has been stopped on the $40 million Chestnut Hill Towers condominium site.

A cease-and-desist order has been issued by Building Commissioner Emil Larson, Mayor Theodore Mann announced Tuesday.

Howard Levine, city solicitor, ruled that the permissive use granted by the Board of Aldermen in 1966 for a five-year period has expired in 1971, since Chestnut Hill Towers, Inc., had not exercised all the uses permitted.

Mario DiCarlo, a partner with Albert Goodman of Detroit in the corporation, was notified Tuesday morning of the city's action at a meeting in Mayor Theodore Mann's office, and papers were served at his Auburndale office about 1 p.m. At 2:30 p.m. at the site no equipment was in operation.

The matter came to public attention last week, when aldermanic candidate Mark White requested the Building Department ask the court for an injunction against construction at the Towers because the permissive use had expired.

White issued a statement at the meeting charging the mayor with delaying action on the Towers for political reasons.

DiCarlo must now request an extension of the permissive use or "seek administrative or judicial review of the city's action based on those facts which he may choose to present," a statement from the mayor's office said.

If DiCarlo elects to come before the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen to ask for an extension of the expired permissive use, one question that may be expected to arise is that of the unwritten policy of requiring developers to lease 10 per cent of their units to the Newton Housing Authority for low-income persons.

The "10 per cent policy," which has been in effect unofficially for some years, received impetus recently by the League of Women Voters, and by Alderman David Cohen and Edward Richmond, in two different proposals that have been consolidated by the Planning Department.

In essence the proposals will require developers to set aside for the Housing Authority a proportion of the number of bedrooms in their development.

A public hearing on the Planning Department's proposed ordinance has been scheduled tentatively for Oct. 15.

Jason Sacks, selling agent for the Towers, and an alderman, Tuesday reiterated his position on the unsuitability of low-income housing in the Towers, where apartments are selling from $70,000 to $250,000 per unit.

"But," Sacks said, "Goodman has said all along that he is willing to build some low–income housing somewhere else instead."

Sacks referred to the oversight in not having the permissive use renewed as a "comedy of errors."

If the extension of permissive use is sought, the Land Use Committee and the Board are now in a position to require other changes from the original plan submitted and approved by the 1966 board.

Changes that might be requested are greater attention to landscaping and parking and exterior lighting.

A large billboard on Route 9 at the western edge of the property might also be affected, since it was permitted by the 1966 agreement.

Planning Director Charles Thomas, who along with Levine had for some time been

Paul Daley

A West Newton businessman has revealed the existence of a state plan to bisect West Newton by altering the existing traffic pattern on Washington and Watertown Streets.

Paul K. Daley of 94 Prospect St., West Newton, who has announced his candidacy for alderman from Ward 4, warned of the impact any such change in the traffic flow might have in the West Newton area.

Daley pointed out that as a member of the community with a business establishment on Washington St. he is extremely aware of the drastic effect any such major project would have on the area and its residents.

According to Daley any such plan could be detrimental or beneficial, depending on just how much influence political and civic leaders from West Newton can muster. He said he feels it will be important in the next few years for the West Newton community to have a powerful voice on the Board of Aldermen.

Daley also said that it is his belief that the normal chain of events indicates another air rights project over the Massachusetts Turnpike Extension in the not too distant future. According to Daley, the logical location of any such project would be on the West Newton-Auburndale boundary where there still is land to be developed.

Edward Richmond

Alderman Edward L. Richmond, 833 Commonwealth Av., Newton Centre, has announced his candidacy for re-election as alderman-at-large from Ward 2.

"My record of concern for the quality of life in our city qualifies me for re-election to the Board of Aldermen, in order to finish the work that I have begun," Richmond said.

A practicing attorney, Richmond holds BS and MA degrees from Boston College, and a Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from Boston College Law School.

He is a partner in the Boston law firm of Richmond, Kassler & Feinberg, and has practiced in state and federal courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court. He serves as an arbitrator with the American Arbitration Association, where he has arbitrated numerous commercial disputes principally in the area of building construction contracts.

Richmond was the only freshman alderman appointed to an aldermanic committee chairmanship currently serving as chairman of the Aldermanic Cable TV Committee and he also serves as a member of Mayor Mann's Advisory Committee on Cable Communications.

Richmond presided over the aldermanic committee sessions in the drafting of the Design Review and the Designer

Lasell Meeting Rekindles Feud

By DANIEL BARKIN

At a meeting of the Lasell Committee on Community Relations, a presentation of "long-range objectives" provided the spark to rekindle the feud between Lasell Jr. College officials and the representatives of the Lasell neighborhood in Auburndale.

College President Kenneth M. Greene , in a letter to Mrs. Sheila Farnese, president of the Auburndale Community Association, attempted to set forth the long-range goals of the college's building plans as a result of a request from the ACA Executive Committee that these goals be placed in writing.

President Greene's letter, the single item on the agenda last week, described five "objectives or goals" which the college feels are necessary to "organize the campus into more manageable and economical entities." These goals include improved arts facilities, improvement of student housing, and the construction of an administration building and new health facilities.

Mrs. Gail Densler, a neighborhing resident, challenged the college's credibility, citing its failure to be candid about plans and priorities.

James Broderick echoed her sentiments, adding that "the community has some right to say what the college does with its real estate."

Broderick pointed out to the committee that the proposed health center on Maple Terrace was a very significant addition to the plans as he understood them, and he was surprised to see it on the map, which was a graphic representation of the layout of future building plans sent to each Lasell alumna.

Greene had already answered Broderick's charge in the letter, allowing that "such representation must necessarily be somewhat speculative and idealized at this stage, and though it is generally desirable to include them in promotional literature, they cannot be read as immutable plans."

Joseph Skinner, a trustee of Lasell Junior College, chastised the protesting neighbors for the "prevailing overtone that there is a conspiracy to be secretive and divisive." Skinner noted that the neighbors wouldn't take a straight answer.

The consensus of the neighbors on the Lasell Committee on Community Relations indicated their feeling that Greene's letter was not "a straight answer," as Skinner claimed, but merely another smokescreen tactic to divert their attention from the College's disregard for the community's interests.

Skinner did not appear to allay the fears and suspicions of the neighbors. If anything, he may have worsened the already strained relations between town and gown, as a direct result of his patronizing attitude towards the outraged neighbors.

Mrs. Farnese, in her capacity as president of the Auburndale Community Association, pointed out after the meeting that this attitude was typical of the college, and any hope of understanding and compromise between the groups would be impossible until the college dispensed with their "arrogant posture."

Crystal Lake

Holding their trophies at Crystal Lake ceremonies are: Thomas Ross, left, winner of the first annual Gil Champagne Award for increased swimming skill; and Darcy Moreales, right, the recipient of the fifth annual West Award for outstanding service and cooperation. Both boys served as volunteer staff assistants at Crystal Lake this summer season. Between them is Mrs. Worthing L. West, Newton Recreation Commission member. Standing are, from left: Chief of Police William F. Quinn; Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney; Mayor Theodore D. Mann; and retired Safety Officer Gilbert J. Champagne.

Commissioner Larsen Spars With Aldermanic Committee

Newly appointed Public Buildings Commissioner Emil G. Larson sparred with members of the aldermanic Finance and Public Buildings Committees for the first time since assuming the post at a recent FinCom meeting.

Members of the committees cautioned Larson against expecting to be able to spend on a level with the Air Force, from which he recently retired as a lieutenant colonel. Larson parried with "there's no difference between a city and the Air Force—we had budgets and unions and civil service."

"But the Air Force doesn't have the whipped cream you had to put into your high schools," he said.

Larson is a civil engineer and had been in charge of construction and maintenance of several installations in his military career.

Larson outlined some of the steps he plans to take to improve operations of Newton's Public Buildings Department, including setting up a control center to show the location of all workmen and the use of a radio transmitter-receiver and walkie-talkies for communication to and from workmen.

"I could have written the Peat, Marwick, Mitchell report myself, as far as the Building Department goes," Larson commented. (The recent report was an analysis of city management and operations.)

In reply to a comment from Alderman Louis Egelson that "one of our beefs was the Public Buildings Department spent all its money in 10 months instead of 12." Larson said he hoped to have the aldermen and Mayor Theodore Mann attend monthly meetings to keep current with expenditures and programs.

"When I come before you at budget time," Larson added, "I'll have been through every one of the 100 public buildings."

Asked how long he had been in and why he had left the Air Force, Larson responded, "Twenty years and three days—as close as I could cut it, sir. I was fed up with it and tired of whitewall haircuts."

Correction

Names on the ballot for the preliminary election for alderman at large for Ward 7 will be in the following order: Mark White, Jason Sacks, Alice Wilson, Henri Pelletier, Dominic Taglienti, and Melvin Norris.

In the original story, Henri Pelletier's name was inadvertently omitted.

Campus Note

Theresa Lanigan, 21 Beninton St., Newton was among the 592 students who received their master's degrees during the 1973 Summer Sessions of the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Theresa has been granted the master of science degree in library science.

Recreation Notes

Labor Day traditionally signals the end of Summer and the beginning of Fall. The Newton Recreation Department, in preparation for the transition, announces that Crystal Lake will close for the season on Sept. 9th, but that the Gath Pool at the Albemarle Playground will remain open through the end of September.

Hank Barry, Manager of Crystal Lake, reports that the Fifth Annual Children's Carnival for the benefit of Newton's emotionally disturbed and retarded children, climaxed an extremely successful season.

The Carnival, directed by Assistant Manager Russ Brooks and Swimming Instructor Beth Carleo was based on a three ring circus theme. Roger Lehrberg was Master of Ceremonies.

Colorful costumes highlighted the Carnival. Among the many characters were Bonnie and Clyde, George Washington and the Indian, Alice in Wonderland, Neptune's daughters, Mermaids, Peter The Wolf, Big Bird, Flopsy, Mopsy and Cottontail and of course a Clown.

Cakes, cookies and tonic were sold as the spectators watched the Swimming Events, Boat Races and took advantage of the opportunity to tour the lake by boat.

Water related events included swimming contests, flutterboard contest and the obstacle course. Participants were entered in four age groups, 6 to 8, 9 to 11, 12 to 14 and 15 to 16.

The winner of the week-long sailing regatta held in conjunction with the winding up of the Crystal Lake season was won by a 12-year-old young lady named Haya Mayman.

Recreation Supervisor Fran Towle announces that a meeting of individuals and teams interested in the Girl's Street Hockey League will be held at Cabot Park on Tuesday, Sept. 18 at 6:30 p.m. In addition to receiving rules, regulations and tips on skill techniques, a clinic will be held. Those who plan to attend should contact Fran Towle at 969-3171.

The six-team League will continue play through October and equipment including masks, pucks, sticks and nets will be furnished by the Recreation Department. If there is enough interest the League may be expanded to eight teams to allow all girls to play.

Women who would like to join the Doubles Tennis Ladder should contact the Recreation Department for the telephone number of the Ladder Chairman. Play is scheduled to begin at courts throughout the city on September 10th. All matches must be coordinated through the Ladder Chairman.

The Recreation Department's popular Tag Football League for men over high school age will begin play on Sept. 17 at the Albemarle Playground. The games are scheduled for 7:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Recreation Supervisor William J. Barry asks all last year's managers contact him at 969-3171 as soon as possible. Last year there were eight teams in the League and it is possible it may be expanded to 12 this season.

The Recreation Department's Mini Bike Track in Newton Highlands opens Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the Fall season. It will remain open through Thanksgiving.

Freeport Can Go Coed

Two major points of a petition from Freeport, Inc., a temporary residence for Newton teenagers unable to get along well at home, were granted by the Board of Aldermen this week.

Freeport's request to be allowed to house 12 instead of nine students, and that the students be allowed to be of both sexes instead of all male, were approved 16-4.

Other components of the petition - to allow students from Wellesley and Weston, and to be required to obtain extension of permissive use only once every two years instead of every year - were denied.

Major opposition came from Alderman Michael Antonellis, who said, "What we see here is creeping institutionalism. You have a full-fledged institution in a Residence A district, the finest district. This is the breaking-point. If you give them what they want now, you're never going to take anything away."

Conditions attached to the renewal of permissive use were that not more than five counselors live in Freeport House and that their names be listed with the City Clerk, and occupancy of the third floor be allowed only upon receipt of a favorable report from the Building Department.

Other Land Use actions included returning to committee a petition for 54 apartments to be constructed at 2326 Commonwealth Ave. The petitioner declined the Land Use Committee requirement that he make available three two-bedroom and two one-bedroom apartments to the Newton Housing Authority for leased low-income housing.

Permissive use was denied for the conversion of two Jenny-Citgo gasoline and service stations into gasoline-only outlets which would also sell a limited number of food and variety items.

Passed without debate was an amendment to the zoning ordinances proposed by Mayor Theodore Mann to allow a smaller lot area for garden apartments under public housing, but not less than 1500 square feet per unit.

In other action, the Board of Aldermen approved an appropriation of $14,400 for aldermanic compensation for Jan. 1 - June 30, 1974 (annual rate of $1200), assigned proposed legislation on the "10 per cent policy" (developers to lease 10 per cent of new housing units to the Housing Authority) for a public hearing Oct. 15, and approved the designation of Chestnut Street as a "scenic road."

Other measures passed were a request from the MBTA for temporary parking restrictions and bus stops between Riverside trolley station and the Highlands station during the period of track improvement beginning Sept. 8, and an increase in taxi fares to allow additional charge for waiting time in traffic delays.

Women Support Growth

The Women's Cooperative is planning an evening of discussion around the issues and ideals of being a woman today.

Each and everyone is invited to contribute, to discuss the values and directions for which the Women's Cooperative was formed, namely, the legitimization of each woman's experience and the support of her growth.

The meeting will be held on Sept. 12, 7:30 p.m., in Wolpe Hall, Room 303, of Lasell Junior College in Auburndale.

For further information, interested persons may call Ms. Lindy Beasley at 332-2932.

Waban Man Drowns In Backyard Swimming Pool

A backyard swimming pool turned into a scene of tragedy Sunday morning when its owner apparently drowned while waiting for a friend to arrive for a refreshing dip during the current intense heat wave.

Aaron Blauer, 57, of 57 Montclair Rd., Waban, was found at the bottom of his pool by a neighbor, according to the police report.

The victim's wife, Ella Blauer, immediately notified the police who, upon arrival at the scene, dove into the pool and brought Blauer to the surface where revival efforts proved fruitless.

Newton Police Officers James P. Akins Jr. and James R. Verduccio doffed their uniforms and retrieved the victim from the deep end of the pool where it was estimated he had lain for about 30 minutes, police said.

Dr. T. Powell, another neighbor and family physician, arrived shortly after the police and pronounced Blauer dead at the scene.

Official cause of death was drowning, but a police spokesman theorized that Blauer, who suffered from mild seizures and took medication, may have suffered some type of attack and tumbled into the pool.

Funeral services were held for Blauer on Wednesday, Sept. 5, at Temple Reyim in Newton.

Besides his wife he leaves three children, Arnee, Janice, and Julie, all of Waban; a mother, Clara (Rose) Blauer of Belmont; three brothers and one sister.

New Phones For City Hall

"Let your fingers do the walking and you can do the talking" may soon again be true for callers to City Hall.

To remedy the frequent busy signals and long delays in answering at the City Hall switchboard, the Public Building Department has solicited bids for a brand-new "interconnect" system.

Bid specifications called for 15 both-way trunks, instead of the present 10, plus seven outgoing trunks (dial-9).

There will also be extension-to-extension dialing, outgoing-call restriction, denial of toll calls except to department heads, call transfer, and other modern conveniences.

Present equipment totals 176 instruments, excluding equipment in the mayor's office. Capacity called for by the specifications is 150 extension lines, with future expandability to 200 lines, some of which would have more than one instrument connected.

The "base lump sum bid" is to include installation of a complete operating system with free maintenance for one year.

Bids received were $99,504 (National Telephone), $93,721 (Communicon), $64,231 (Seaboard Systems), and $2,948 monthly (New England Telephone).

Alternate bids were sought on monthly cost for on a lease-purchase system.

Turnpike Crash Fatal

A Malden man was killed on the Massachusetts Turnpike Sunday while playing the part of the good samaritan to motorists involved in a previous accident.

John B. Williams, 28, of 34 Main St., Malden, was struck while attempting to reach three stranded vehicles, state police said.

According to the state police, the vehicle of Barbara J. Hankin, 23, of Boxboro, initially struck the rear of a vehicle attempting to make an illegal U-turn across the median strip of the highway.

The motorist behind the Hankin vehicle, Emmanuel Derosu, 32, of Cambridge slowed down to avoid the accident and was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Elmiro Rereria, 28, of Cambridge, state the police.

Williams left his car to aid the three, and was struck in the westbound lane by a vehicle driven by Floyd Yuen of Boston.

Yuen told state police he could not stop in time to avoid hitting the victim.

A passenger in the Hankin car was injured and taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital and released after treatment.

A hospital spokesman said Susan Preisig, 20, of Boxboro was treated for facial bruises as a result of the accident.

ADL Tells City To Abandon Newton Incinerator Use

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of The Graphic Staff

Newton's incinerator should be scrapped or mothballed in favor of having the city's solid waste trucked out of the city, says Arthur D. Little, Inc.

In a $35,000, 128-page analysis and recommendation, ADL pointed out the pitfalls of trying to upgrade the incinerator to meet air-quality standards that may become more and more stringent and suggested an interim measure — the transfer-haul system — that would be compatible with the state's regionalization program that is now being studied by the legislature.

Eventually, said the ADL report, the city either alone or in combination with the Newton-Waltham region, should promote the development of a resource-recovery plant in the Newton area.

Indebtedness on the incinerator, opened in 1967, is now $1.2 million.

In recommending that incineration be discontinued, ADL presented figures of $1.8 million to bring the incinerator into compliance with state regulations and improving operation.

Operating expenses for the incinerator are expected to increase sharply with the necessity for continuing antipollution measures.

In addition, ADL noted, the city's landfill area is rapidly running out, and the incinerator residue would still need to be removed at more expense.

The transfer-haul system, on the other hand, would require a capital investment of only about $260,000. The incinerator would be converted into a transfer station, to which the city's packer truckers would deliver the rubbish for transfer to trailer trucks and hauling away either to a landfill site or a resource-recovery plant.

One disadvantage of transfer-haul is that the city would be dependent on an outside source to accept its refuse. ADL's study expresses confidence that careful selection of the receiver and the increasing number and types of receivers would make transfer-haul less risky.

The main advantages of a short-term commitment to the transfer-haul system are its compatibility with any regional plan the state may effect and its "time-buying" aspects.

Environmentally, the transfer station is acceptable, the Little report said, because there are no pollutants or effluents and no refuse is stored for any length of time.

The only major environmental disadvantage, accordig to ADL, is the three trips a day by the four tractor trailers from the transfer station through Newton streets to the receiving facility.

The ADL study recommended the encouragement of a resource-recovery plant to be built privately or by the state in or near Newton.

Politically, ADL recognized that although the concept of resource recovery is acceptable to most communities, the initial capital outlay of $6.6 million and the financial risk involved in trying to market the end products, if Newton were to undertake a municipally owned and operated plant, would cause insuperable resistance.

A state-built resource-recovery facility in Newton could become a regional center in accord with the state's master plan for solid-waste management, would entail trucks from elsewhere, but would cut Newton's refuse transportation charges.

A private, regional facility built in Newton would merely exchange the cost of transportation of refuse to the plant for the nuisance of having trucks from other communities traveling Newton streets to deliver to a Newton facility.

Not only is resource recovery desirable in order to conserve natural resources, but it also has been proved to be economically feasible by the sale of recycled materials.

ADL recommends a recovery center producing salable solid fuel and ferrous metals as best for the city of Newton.

The plant would produce a sterile residue, 10 to 20 per cent of the original volume, which could be used as landfill or disposed of by further processing elsewhere.

Only the transfer-haul system or the resource recovery system would be able to serve Newton and Waltham, which have recently joined together to form a regional disposal planning district under a $112,000 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

According to ADL, the Newton incinerator will be unable to service both cities for more than a few years.

The cost of disposal for Newton, including capital investment, would be in the range of $11-$15 per ton using the transfer-haul system, $16 per ton using the resource-recovery system, and $14-$17 per ton for incineration, according to ADL estimates.

Sidelights from the ADL study touched on the efficiency of present methods of disposal of garbage, collection of rubbish, and the operation of the Beacon Street compost area.

Newton's collection cost per ton of rubbish appears to ADL to be somewhat higher than it should be, and ADL recommends that the city "seriously consider reducing the size of collection crews," which might result in savings of "several hundred thousands dollars."

Garbage disposal costs have reached a level which should make the city consider alternatives to the present method, according to ADL. One alternative suggested is that the city discontinue municipal collection of garbage and license a contractor to deal directly with persons wishing to purchase the service.

Those who do not wish to pay the cost of service could install a garbage disposal device.

Combined collection of trash and garbage, as has been proposed unsuccessfully several times recently before the Board of Aldermen, is not judged practical from a health point of view in the ADL report.

The Rumford Avenue landfill and Beacon Street compost area were both cited by the state Public Health Department in December, 1972, for deficiencies, according to ADL.

Violations of regulations at Rumford Avenue were failure to post signs to indicate clearly where trucks should dump, and failure to provide a drainage system.

The Beacon Street compost area deficiencies were lack of continuous supervision and confinement of refuse to the smallest possible area, lack of signs to indicate where to dump, layers of leaves and brush exceeding two feet in thickness, failure to compact the material, failure to spread at least six inches of cover material on exposed refuse daily, failure to chip all brush, and failure to maintain conditions unfavorable to the production of insects and rodents.

No action will be taken on the ADL report until review by the aldermen, the Newton-Waltham regional solid-waste disposal study district, and the mayor's office.

Cohen Goes To Court On Vale

Robert Cohen, owner of Webster Vale, has asked the courts to decide whether the Planning Board may reject two of three sewer plans for his proposed subdivision of the land.

The return day at Middlesex Superior Court was Sept. 5, at which time a date for a hearing was to be set.

According to Cohen, three sewerage plans were approved by the Health Department, but the Planning Board approved only one of these. Cohen contends that failure to disapprove the other two is tantamount to acceptance.

The statute concerning subdivisions, Cohen said, requires a planning board to approve, approve with modifications, or deny. A statement of reasons for disapproval must accompany the denial.

Cohen said denial of the two plans was not accompanied by reasons for denial.

The Vale, a seven-acre parcel of land in Chestnut Hill, is of great concern to environmentalists throughout the city because of its unique ecology.

It contains the headwaters of Thompsonville Brook, has never been built on or farmed, contains several rare species of plant life, and is considered to be a self-contained ecosystem.

Friends of the Vale, a group dedicated to saving the land, has collected more than $1000 toward the purchase price of the Vale, should the city administration decide to take the land by eminent domain.

The decision about whether to acquire the land for public purposes by the city will be determined in part by its value, which has been appraised by two firms.

Their reports were due at the Planning Department this week.

Cohen has offered a perpetual conservation restriction on some of the Vale, in exchange for going ahead with his plan to build four houses on the Ridge.

Meanwhile, he has filed plans for the subdivision, in which a larger number of houses could be built.

Women Schedule Candidates' Night

The Newton Women's Political Caucus will hold the First Women Candidates' Night on Sunday, Sept. 9, from 8:30 to 10 p.m. at the Lasell College Library Auditorium on Maple Street in Auburndale.

The nine women candidates for School Committee and Board of Adlermen in Newton are expected to participate.

The purpose of the event, open to the public, is to discuss issues of importance to Newton women and to provide an opportunity for those women attending to make decisions on whose campaign they will work.

The Newton Women's Political Caucus was convened in April, 1973, by Janet Bond Arterton, 335 Lake Ave., Newton Highlands, and Priscilla Leith, 1831 Washington St., Auburndale, as the local affiliate of the National Women's Political Caucus and the Massachusetts Women's Political Caucus, whose chief aim is to increase the participation of women in politics.

Aldermanic candidates are Cynthia Lacey, Susan Schur, Joan Saklad, Ethel Sheehan, Barbara Schiller, and Alice Wilson.

School Committee women candidates include incumbents Dorothy Reichard, Eleanor Rosenblum, and Joan Needleman.

The planning committee for the candidates night include Sheila Decter, 13 Ransom Rd., Newton Centre; Helene Martin, 73 Randlett Park, West Newton; Caryn Mofenson, 19 Hargrave Circle, Newton Highlands; Mary Berger, 403 Highland St., Newtonville; as well as Ms. Arterton and Ms. Leith.

Notary Reappointed

Sidney Marks, 1445 Commonwealth Ave., West Newton, has been reappointed as a notary public, State Secretary John F. X. Davoren has announced. Confirmation of the reappointed notary was made here at a meeting of the Executive Council following submission of the name by Governor Francis W. Sargent.

The term of the West Newton notary public will expire in seven years.

Hospital Releases Newton Airplane Crash Survivor

A 23-year-old Newton man, the only survivor of a plane crash that killed three others, has been released from the Massachusetts General Hospital after treatment of his injuries.

Arthur Grillo sustained a broken nose, leg bruises and shock after the light plane he occupied with Peter Cully, also 23, of 294 Kendrick St., Newton, Gary Kahn of Framingham and Clifford Asaff of Newton went down about 10 miles outside Scituate Harbor on a flight from Provincetown to Beverly.

Kahn, the pilot, managed to transmit distress signals to Logan Airport when the plane developed engine trouble.

According to the report of the tragedy recounted by the lone survivor, he and Asaff managed to extricate themselves from the fallen craft and struggled together in the water while a commercial airliner diverted to the scene by Logan Airport circled overhead.

Cully and Kahn hit their heads against the top of the plane and were knocked out, according to Grillo.

"The poor guys never had a chance," he said.

Before a Coast Guard rescue helicopter arrived on the scene, Asaff panicked and went down in the water.

"I kept him up as long as I could," Grillo recounted, "and if only he could have stayed with it for a few minutes longer."

The four were on a pleasure trip when the accident occurred.

According to Frank Mitchell, 21, of 16 Braeburn Rd., Newton, a friend of the four men who had planned to go on the trip, all five had originally intended to go to Provincetown by boat.

"When they said they were going by plane, I begged off," stated Mitchell.

"I'm grateful to be alive and I guess you can say I'm lucky — but I'm sick over the whole thing," he said sadly.

"My friends, my friends, I couldn't save my friends," the lone survivor, Grillo, kept repeating when admitted to the hospital in Boston.

According to a Coast Guard spokesman, the craft dove into 194 feet of water. "The search for the plane and its three victims has been called off," said the same spokesman.

Kennedy

Even though the next presidential race is three years away there has been a grand scale of speculation on Ted Kennedy and the 1976 contest.

This growing guessing game is not just here in the home state of the senator. It abounds, sometimes embellished with outlandish liberties, in articles and broadcasts that are far beyond our fringe on the map.

But when the material is just about digested and you have worked your way down to the supposed cliff-hanger last sentence the reader and listener hardly closer to the real Kennedy command decision than he was when the stories first began to circulate. And the Kennedy conjecture pieces began to make the printed rounds within minutes after the results were final in the last election.

Since then the conjecture, surmises, speculation and wild card guesses have come our way with increasing regularity. Too much saying too little and it's just the beginning.

If the senator has made known his exact aspirations to his inner political cadre they certainly are not saying. And the question marks are even more obvious. If there is one thing sure at this stage it is that no decision has or can be made here and now.

So if you read or hear as you surely will that the Kennedy course is set and sure, then take it for what it is, nothing more than a guess. And even pre-schoolers tire of same-name nursery rhymes.

Kennedy doesn't have a decision right now. He certainly has a dilemma. To say "no" removes his influence. To say "yes" makes him the Democratic front-runner, a position that hinders more than helps at this point on the calendar. And saying yes will also put all future actions deeper in a vote getting contact.

When the time is ripe, when Kennedy does make up his mind, no one will have to interpret or decode his decision for us.

Help Wanted

Almost everyone knows something about Girl Scouts. They have been an integral part of the American scene for over 60 years.

We take for granted that any girl who wants to can belong. That is true but only up to a point. The unhappy truth is that, without enough adult leaders and assistant leaders, girls who want and need Girl Scouting have to wait.

Today, Girl Scouting serves one out of every seven girls ages 6-17 in the U.S.A. It could and would serve many thousands more if those adults who say they care about our youth would volunteer to be leaders.

There is a mistaken tendency to believe you must be a parent of girls in order to be a Girl Scout leader. This of course is nonsense. Thousands of women and men, from young singles to senior citizens, from every ethnic, economic, and educational background are in Girl Scouting.

Right now the Girl Scouts in our area need you. They are ready to provide leadership training and to give you all the help you want, so that you can work in partnership with girls, sharing your skills, your enthusiasm, and some of your time.

Because we know Girl Scouts represent a positive factor in our community, we are glad to lend a hand to their current adult recruitment campaign.

Call or write your local Girl Scout council and volunteer to be a Girl Scout leader or assistant leader. They will be deeply appreciative and take it from there.

HEAVYWEIGHT PROBLEM

A Bunch Of Little Things

By CYNTHIA BLACK

Blessing upon blessing, City Hall is going to have a new telephone system at last.

Will this mark the end of the "fast" busy signal?

That reminds me, I consider the "fast" busy signal nothing short of a phenomenon. Until I came here, I'd never heard of it. Not only that, but 95 per cent of the time I can't distinguish it from a "slow" busy signal.

Anyway, as noted in a story on page 2, the ball is rolling and the phones are coming.

Nobody draws the line between August and September more clearly than the people in Newton.

Our little pile of summer morning mail rose majestically and became a mountain once more as soon as we turned the calendar page.

Just one more reminder to the candidates: the deadline for your announcements is Monday, September 10. After the Sept. 13 issue, we will not be printing announcements.

I was up in the White Mountains of New Hampshire last week on vacation and I have a question.

I had hay fever when I lived in Wisconsin and it went away when I moved to Boston.

I barely got one foot in New Hampshire before tears came to my eyes and my nose started to drip.

Well Newton environmentalists, is it possible to be allergic to clean air?

The local support for the Community Residence for the Retarded program is heartening, and we have more letters on the plan this week. What's nice is that in the case of the Waban Women's Club, one voice is really 200, or maybe even more.

Perhaps we should consider recalling the Charter Commission for the purposes of renaming the so-called "charter objection" the "Harrington objection."

Bartley To Break Tradition Limiting Speaker To 3 Terms

David M. Bartley of Holyoke has been an excellent Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

He has presided over the House proceedings with ability, dignity and decorum and has made an obvious effort to improve the image reflected by the body to the general public.

His sense of civic responsibility has been akin to that displayed by Leverett Saltonstall and Christian A. Herter back in the days when the Bay State law-makers wore stiff collars and conservative suits and were considered to be political snobs by many people.

Most Beacon Hill observers assume that Bartley can hold the Speakership as long as he wants it and until he is ready to strike out for some higher elective office or accept an appointive position.

Tradition, however, holds that a Speaker moves on after heading the House for six years, that he aims for the Lieutenant Governorship, a seat in Congress or the State Senate in the rare event that one is up for grabs, or accepts an appointive position in the state government or a highly paid job in private industry.

Bartley, who is now serving his third term as Speaker, intends to seek a fourth at the start of the 1975 legislative session.

While current rumbles indicate that some member will step up to oppose him, Bartley should be able to beat back any challenge without too much trouble. He has the respect and support of a big majority of the Democratic members.

Leverett Saltonstall broke the six-year tradition when he held the Speakership for eight consecutive years and then was defeated for Lieutenant Governor by Francis E. Kelly in a tremendous upset in 1936.

Salty surged back after that unexpected setback and defeated James M. Curley for Governor in 1938. He went on to serve six consecutive years as Governor and 22 successive years as U.S. Senator. In Salty's years on Beacon Hill, Massachusetts was slowly changing from a Republican to a generally Democratic State.

It's possible that Bartley eventually will surpass the eight years Saltonstall served as House Speaker, but the guessing is that he will set his sights elsewhere after the 1975-76 term.

Massachusetts, incidentally, is fortunate to have two legislative leaders with the capacity, integrity and over-all ability of Speaker Bartley and Senate President Kevin Harrington. Both deserve to be ranked with the State's great legislative chieftains.

Richardson Must Look Back On Bay State Days With Envy

If Elliot L. Richardson had run for reelection as Lieutenant Governor back in 1966 instead of shifting his political sights to the Attorney Generalship, he probably would be serving as Governor of Massachusetts today and would be preparing to stand for reelection next year, with only a remote worry as to whether the Watergate scandal would injure his reelection chances.

Instead, he is probably in the hottest position in the national government. Whatever Presidential hopes and ambitions he may have had must be eroding under the impact of the hard problems he faces and the tough decisions he must take.

After stints as Secretary of HEW and Secretary of Defense, Elliot Richardson now serves as the U.S. Attorney General. He's the "Mr. Clean" who may have to decide on whether to seek an indictment against the Vice President of the United States, and he may well be caught in the middle of a history-making constitutional crunch between the Judiciary and the President who appointed him.

Vice President Agnew has charged there were leaks in the Justice Department and that officials in the department had decided to try to indict him in the press, whether or not their evidence warranted that action.

Archibald Cox, Richardson's special Watergate prosecutor, is tangling head-on with the President of the United States over the so-called Watergate tapes. Washington observers already are speculating on the possibility that the time may come when Richardson will find it necessary to fire Cox.

Richardson, meanwhile, has been working to polish up the tarnished image of the Justice Department and to restore public confidence in it.

At times he must look back with a touch of nostalgia upon his days in the maelstrom of Massachusetts political life.

Spiro Agnew holds the Vice Presidency and would assume the Presidency if Nixon moved out— assuming that there is hard evidence on which Nixon could be impeached and tried —a dangerous assumption which has not been established.

The newsmen sipping beer and watching "Starring the Editors" were in agreement on one thing. That is that things are in a heluva mess, thanks to one factor and another.

Another expression of opinion on which there was a unanimity of conviction was that if the television networks are to be so holier-than-thou about big campaign expenditures, they should help overcome the problem by making free time available to major candidates and eliminate the need for campaign contributions for that purpose.

Philadelphia's Mayor Rizzo Took Lie Test & And Flunked

One of life's most embarrassing moments came recently to tough-talking Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo when he took a lie-detector test–and flunked.

"I'm baffled," declared Hizzonor after the results of the test were reported by the Philadelphia News which sponsored the examination of Rizzo, Deputy Mayor Philip Carroll and Philadelphia Democratic Chairman Peter Camiel.

Camiel had claimed that last February Mayor Rizzo offered to allow him to select architects and engineers for city jobs in return for Democratic Party endorsement of a Rizzo-designated candidate in the District Attorney's race. Rizzo denied the allegation and offered to take a lie detector test.

"I've great confidence in the polygraph," Rizzo was quoted as declaring when he was being strapped to the lie detector. "If this machine says a man lied, he lied."

The machine said Rizzo and Carroll both lied and that Camiel told the truth. "I'm baffled because I know I told the truth," asserted Rizzo. Camiel said he was happy the truth came out. "I feel vindicated," he added.

Mrs. Paula Gold May Run For Govs. Council Against Cronin

Mrs. Paula Gold of Brookline, whose nomination by Governor Sargent to be a special justice in the Dorchester District Court, was twice blocked by the Executive Council last winter, is considering two possible moves in reprisal.

She is weighing a possible run against Executive Councillor George F. Cronin, Jr., of West Roxbury, and she plans to join with Democratic State Senator Chester G. Atkins of Acton in an attempt to abolish the Governor's Council.

Mrs. Gold understandably believes that the Council has outlived its usefulness even though she would be willing to serve on it as long as it continues in existence.

A battle between Mrs. Gold and Councillor Cronin would be an interesting one since Cronin was outspoken in explaining why he felt the 32-year-old Mrs. Gold, a civil rights attorney and mother of two, was not qualified to serve as a special justice at the Dorchester Court.

Although the powers of the Executive Council were drastically curtailed a few years ago, many students of government believe it still serves a useful function in confirming the appointments of judges, court clerks, justices of the peace, coroners and a number of state officials, including the members of the Public Utilities Commission, Industrial Accident Board, State Parole Board and Appellate Tax Board.

Even the most energetic advocates of the abolition of the Governor's Council, have been unable to advance any satisfactory plan for confirming judges if the Council were put out of business entirely.

A suggestion was made at one time that this function be turned over to the State Senate. That proposal did not arouse any cheers, not even from the Senators themselves who pointed out valid objections to the idea.

An unusual aspect to the two-point plan of Atkins and Mrs. Gold is that they hope to achieve the election of better and more responsive members to the Executive Council, one of them presumably Mrs. Gold, before wiping out the body.

Adoption of an amendment to the State Constitution would be needed to abolish the Governor's Council. That would take at least four years. In the past the Democratic-controlled Legislature has balked at going along with the proposal.

Nixon Far Too Sanctimonious To Arouse Much Forgiveness

One of the reasons the American people have been so slow to forgive President Nixon for whatever part, if any, he had in the Watergate scandal is that Nixon is much too sanctimonious and displays far too little humility.

That opinion came out of a dispassionate discussion of the Watergate mess by a group of veteran newsmen who expressed great concern that the ramifications from the Watergate probe appear to be bringing on an economic recession.

William Dwight, publisher of the Holyoke Transcript Telegram, one of the most respected newspaper men in the United States and the father of Lieutenant Governor Donald Dwight, had another explanation for the lack of public forgiveness for Nixon when he appeared recently on the televised panel show, "Starring the Editors."

Dwight pointed out that Nixon never has had the affection of the American people to the same extent as a really popular President such as Franklin D. Roosevelt even though Nixon last November carried 49 of the 50 states.

Perhaps the most significant observation by publisher Dwight was that Nixon is "crippled" as far as his ability to perform his Presidential duties is concerned.

That expression of opinion came from a liberal Republican, not a hard-bitten Democrat. In fact, it came from the father of the man who headed Nixon's campaign in Massachusetts last fall.

If Nixon's ability to carry on the orderly and efficient operation of the federal government, has, in fact, been crippled, it is an extremely serious situation and is what many thoughtful students of government have been afraid would happen.

If the Nixon administration is to limp along for almost another three and a half years, as Bill Dwight suggests, holding a periodic defensive nation-wide telecast and an occasional defiant press conference while the U.S. prestige and the national economy go down the darin, the primary victims will be the American people.

The veteran newsmen who sipped beer and watched Bill Dwight and his colleagues on "Starring the Editors," had no easy answers, and there does not appear to be any ready solutions.

President Nixon is not likely to resign. Congress is not likely to impeach him or the Senate to convict him of wrongdoing while

Beacon Hill Reports Claim Fishman May Get Judgeship

Reports on Beacon Hill indicate that Senator Irving Fishman of Newton will not be obliged to run against Senator Jack Backman of Brookline in next year's Democratic primary unless he chooses to do so.

When the Senate Redistricting Bill was enacted by the Legislature and signed into law by Governor Sargent, making possible the election of the first black State Senator, Fishman and Backman were placed in the same senatorial district.

This supposedly would set the stage for a battle between Fishman and Backman, which would eliminate one of the two Democratic liberals from public life.

However, usually reliable sources at the State House now predict that Fishman will be offered a judicial appointment next year. If that happens and he accepts a judgeship, it would take him out of political life.

If Fishman does retire voluntarily from the Senate, some other Newton Democrat quite probably would challenge Backman.

Things Are Looking Better For The All-Volunteer Army

Despite the gloomy predictions by high military officials, there are some slight indications that the volunteer army may prove a success and that it will not be necessary to revive the draft.

The volunteer army came into being last January and now is in the second six-months period of its existence.

Military experts say the big test will come when the enlistments in the months ahead are added up for 1973.

The army needs a total of about 162,000 recruits. The likelihood is that it will approach that figure but not quite reach it. But things definitely are looking up for the volunteer army to which so much planning has been devoted and into which so much money has been poured.

Wide Community Support Key To Success

Editor's note: This letter was sent to the Aldermen of the Land Use Committee with a copy to The Newton Graphic and concerns the efforts of the Newton-Wellesley-Weston Committee to Establish Community Residences for the Retarded, Inc.):

Dear Aldermen:

On August 13 I wrote you a lengthy letter asking for denial of the subject petition. During the Land Use hearing August 20 I modified my view to one of asking you to grant petition but to do so on condition that the Committee make its structure more democratic and that they involve the Newton families of the retarded, civic and social groups in Newton and that they create a viable membership.

I wish to make two additional points in this letter to you. First, I want to make some additional remarks about the importance of wide community financial support. Second, I will make a very serious charge about the integrity of some of the key evidence presented to the Land Use Committee during the first hearing.

Importance of Wide Community Support

The Department of Mental Health, according to the testimony given before you, would like to move 3000 of the 6000 retarded who are now in state institutions into mini-institutions in the community wherein the local institution is run by a private group on a contractual basis with the DMH. The DMH says it will pay all staff costs and a small share of a few of the other expenses. The local contractor, in this case the petitioner, will pay all other costs out of room and board charged the retarded people living in the home (who will receive welfare payments from the state) and from funds they raise in the community. This means that start-up costs, improvements, property up-keep, allowances for inflation and coverage of any decline in state funding, which is annually at the whim of the state legislature, will have to come from private funds raised by the contractor.

I have alleged that the contractor has shown a very poor track record in this regard and that the Land Use Committee should approve the petition only on condition that the Committee promise to make much greater efforts. The petitioner, in the testimony, alleges that they have done a good job as far as getting community support. Mention was made of, I believe, a hundred individuals who had promised things like TV sets, use of a truck and furnishings for the residence. This is not the kind of substantial community support I had in mind, nor is it the kind that is available to other contractors of the DMH on this kind of project who are located in other communities.

I refer to significant financial support from service clubs, social organizations, religious groups and other types of private or public organizations located in the community. Fitchburg, a group I spoke a great deal about in my first letter to you, has sixteen sponsoring organizations some of whom have given a thousand dollars, one of whom has given a great deal more. They have a wide base of support to fall back on in an emergency. The N-W-W Committee has accomplished "nothing" in this area.

Misleading Evidence on Membership

The key point at issue between me and the N-W-W Committee is the lack of any members in the group other than the handful of directors who have been running the Committee all along. At the August 20 meeting a list of eighty (80) members was presented to the Land Use Committee in the brochure handed out and in the oral presentation. I have not seen the brochure handed out and in the oral presentation. I have not seen the brochure yet but certainly in the oral presentation there was clear intent to convince you that there were eighty members.

What are the facts?

The list of eighty is a list of all those people who at one time or another have been to one of the meetings of the Committee over the past eighteen months. It is a mailing list only.

There are no paid members even though the present by-laws make provision for this.

Members, under the present by-laws, have the right to vote only at the annual meeting on the second Monday in May. Last May when the corporation was six months old, the annual meeting was held to be unnecessary by a vote of the Board at the second Monday in May.

Dr. John D. Webster, superintendent of Wrentham State School and Mental Retardation Administrator for Region V (in which Newton is located), pointed out to one of the Committee members when the three of us met in my home on the morning of August 15 to discuss by-laws for the Committee that there were, in fact, no members; that the Committee consisted only of the active directors.

Let me point out that Dr. Webster was not at the planning meeting the night before the Land Use Hearing and that he did not in any way indicate to the Land Use Committee that there were members or a viable membership as part of the N-W-W Committee.

Since he was a key witness or spokesman for the petitioner and since I was the only person familiar with the Committee's work who opposed them, the Aldermen present may have gotten the impression that all people speaking for the Committee agreed with such keypoints as to membership. Frankly, all they all agreed upon was the desire to have residence approved.

I realize the serious nature of the charge made above. Unless the brochure handed out to the Land Use Committee indicates that the eighty names is merely a mailing list and not a membership list, then the Committee has not come before the Aldermen with clean hands.

The Ladies Of The Lake

Editor, Newton Graphic:

After cooling myself off throughout this summer two to four times a week in the afternoons, it became obvious that the parking lot at Crystal Lake is one great free-for-all.

At first, I thought that a few young housewives were simply being discourteous, and that in some cases this was the norm. After all, human nature allows for the greedy as well as the thoughtful.

But it soon became obvious that the dash for the parking space that is opening up resembles a cross between World War II ladies scrambling for silk stockings at Macy's and an underwear sale in Filene's Basement. Discourtesy seems to be the byword there.

Would you cut in front of the line at a supermarket, ladies? Then why cut the throats of those waiting for places at Crystal Lake? Of course, at the lake there are no clerks to tell you to get back in line.

I spoke to one gentleman about it there, and he told me he found the same thing true himself and indeed got his fender crumpled in one rush for a place.

Honking the horn to indicate you are waiting has about as much effect as a mouse squeaking at a tiger to make way. I almost got my fender crushed by one young housewife who managed to swing in through the gate and cut me off as a parked car backed out.

Of course, most of the time there is not a wait for a place, so the mad rush there is not always apparent. But put three cars in the lot all waiting for a place to open up, and you'll see another rendition of the "Gun Fight at OK Corral."

Honking horns, snide comments, outright anger, has no effect on these beauties from Newton. Why is that? It is a consistent and wholesale practice. I've never, in all honesty, seen anything like it ever on the road before.

A sign should be put up there requesting courtesy.

More Voices Heard For The Home For Retarded

(Editor's note: The following letter has been sent to Newton aldermen in support of the community residence program for the retarded)

Dear Alderman,

In regards to the Newton-Wellesley-Weston Committee to Establish Community Programs for the Retarded, Inc. request for permission to use the house at 14 Newtonville Ave. as a residence for retarded adults. The Waban Woman's Club wants to be counted as supporters of this organization and their present request.

A representative of our club attended the Aldermanic Land Use Committee public hearing last week, and because one of the opposition suggested that there was not general support for "The Committee," we feel it is necessary to write you.

The Waban Woman's Club, a Massachusetts State Federated Club, with an active Waban membership of 200 women, are supporters of "The Committee" and its objectives because we believe that the mentally retarded should receive better educational and vocational training, recreational activity, social acceptance, job opportunities, and living conditions.

Our Club has been interested in "The Committee" right from its inception and since January we have been working to help collect furnishings for their first residence for retarded adults through our Community Improvement Project. We have also given "the Committee" a grant from our Philanthropic Funds, and we have made eight other Federated Newton Woman's Clubs aware of the work and needs for the retarded adult residences (another 500 Newton women from eight villages).

We hope you will approve the Newton - Wellesley - Weston Committee's request as stated above because there is a real need for such homes and this particular house is ideal for a residence.

Lois Morog, President
Waban Woman's Club

Center Thanks Contributors

Editor, Newton Graphic:

The Board of Directors of the Garden City Activity Center for Cerebral Palsy and Other Physical Handicaps would like to extend our warmest thanks to the many children in the Newton Playgrounds who raised money for the center during their "Carnival Days."

We were surprised and delighted to receive a check for $50. This is certainly a most generous contribution and one which must have taken a great deal of effort and time to raise.

The money will be used to purchase sports and recreation equipment for use by physically handicapped persons. If you haven't ever seen wheelchair sports, we hope you will come to the Center sometime to observe how basketball, ten-pin bowling, ping-pong and other sports are played from a wheelchair or by someone using crutches.

All the people involved with the Activity Center are greatly appreciative of your thoughts and your donation, and we wish we could thank each one of you personally.

Delta Appreciated Aid

Editor, Newton Graphic:

Chief Frederick A. Perkins, Jr. is in receipt of a letter from Delta Air Lines, Inc. expressing appreciation for services rendered by the Newton Fire Department at the time of the tragic air crash at Logan Airport July 31.

The Newton Fire Department is the designated control center for an extensive fire mutual aid network comprising more than 23 cities and towns in Metropolitan Boston; including Logan Airport.

Immediately following the crash, Newton relayed and tabulated the appeal from Boston for all available ambulances over this network, which is continuously monitored around the clock by all the fire departments within the net. Within minutes, a total of 31 ambulances, with other equipment on stand-by, were on the way to Logan from the various cities and towns.

This radio network, known as Metropolitan Boston Fire Radio Newtwork, having its origin in Civil Defense, has proven invaluable over the years to provide mutual fire assistance to the cities and towns within the net. A complete inventory of available fire equipment, special equipment, etc. of the cities and towns is maintained at Newton Fire Headquarters. Chief Perkins was designated by the group as District Director.

Dear Chief Perkins:

On behalf of the management of Delta Air Lines and particularly on behalf of our people who were on the scene at Boston, I would like to express our sincere appreciation for your dedicated efforts during the tragic crash on July 31.

An accident of this nature is terribly difficult for the employees of the airline, although it cannot compare to the personal tragedy experienced by the members of the famililes directly involved. The consideration and compassionate service provided by you and your department through this trying time has earned the gratitude of everyone involved. Thank you so very much.

David C. Garrett Jr.,
President, Delta Airlines

Out $50

Editor, Newton Graphic:

On Saturday, Aug. 25, my son and several neighborhood children ran a Muscular Dystrophy Carnival.

It was a huge success and they were thrilled when they counted up their total of $50. As a reward for all of their time and effort, to help sick children, the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation had set aside Wednesday, Aug. 29, for donations to be returned at Paragon Park and thus entitled the children to ride the amusements.

Someone broke into our home late at night and made off with the donation.

In order to restore 10 children's faith in people, my husband wrote a check (which is not covered by insurance, by the way) to Muscular Dystrophy. We know and appreciate how much these carnivals and fairs help research as one of our children has an illness.

In closing may I say to whoever broke into the house, I hope you enjoyed the money and you never have a sick day.

Selection Ordinances, and he currently serves as a member of the Design Review Committee.

During his current term on the Board of Aldermen, Richmond serves as a member of the City Planning, Franchise and Licenses, Public Buildings, Solid Waste, Drug and Recodification committees.

He has initiated numerous municipal studies, such as the Electric Power Study Committee, the Building Code Revision Study Committee, the Ambulance Study Committee, and he co-sponsored the Resolution to require a study of payments by colleges to the city of Newton in lieu of taxes.

Richmond drafted and co-sponsored the ordinances which have created the Urban Beautification Commission, and the Cultural Affairs Commission. His Anti-Discrimination in Licensing Resolution was passed by the board, as was his ordinance providing that the sale of any municipal land dedicated to park or recreation purposes must be replaced by equivalent recreational land. He has sponsored major legislation in the area of land use and preservation of open space, such as the "Major Parcels" Ordinance, the "Hike and Bike" Resolution which will provide continuous linear recreational spaces along Newton's aqueducts and the banks of the Charles River; an ordinance requiring public notice of the sale of municipal land, and an ordinance giving certain rights to Newton citizens whose property is taken by right of eminent domain. He is the co-sponsor of the 10 per cent subsidize housing ordinance, and was one of the sponsors of the ordinance to ban the sale of non-returnable bottles.

Richmond is a veteran of the naval service during World War II, and has held the rank of Lieutenant j.g.

He is married to the former Rita Copel and has four children attending Weeks Jr. High and the Mason-Rice School.

Richmond has expressed his eagerness to talk to Newton citizens about housing, recreational facilities, ecological concerns, youth problems and other concerns, and he is scheduling a series of informal house parties for this purpose. He invited anyone interested in holding a meeting for such a discussion to contact him.

For the more serious, heavy into "growing under lights," Mike will provide additional creative ideas and an introduction into the more exotic species.

He carries a complete line of all the necessary equipment and supplies for the indoor gardener and is as careful in mixing his own brand of fertilizer as in his advice.

Mike will also make house calls, a feat as rare as some of his plants. He specializes in interior landscaping and is currently working on a design for a new restaurant in Newton Centre.

Glo Worm is the first shop of its kind anywhere and the calls and letters are already streaming in from all over the country.

But Mike Werman remains unperturbed. Right now he is more concerned with developing a convenient watering system for all those plants hanging from his ceiling.

Towers Construction Halted

investigating the Towers' standing in relation to the permissive use, said Tuesday that the Planning Department will "look at a request for extension of permissive use as if it were a brand-new matter."

"The Planning Department will make a recommendation to the Board of Aldermen, as we do with all requests for permissive use," Thomas said, "and we could recommend changes."

Mario DiCarlo was unavailable Tuesday for comment.

The Law Department is still investigating DiCarlo for possible conflict of interest in connection with the presence of a DiCarlo Bros. truck working at the Newton Redevelopment Authority site in Lower Falls.

DiCarlo is a member of the authority.

Mayor Mann said Tuesday that he has requested DiCarlo's resignation "last week, last month, last year," but has been refused.

The mayor continued, "At this point there is no proof of legal wrongdoing, but DiCarlo's presence on the authority is a deterrent to orderly business. We see there is an insensitivity to the people," the mayor continued.

"Much as I'd like to see the man removed, there is now no written document that would allow us (the mayor and the Board of Aldermen) to hold a hearing on his removal," the mayor added.

Jewish Center Offers Education Supplement

A new early afternoon recreation program, geared to meet the needs of Newton children and parents, is being offered by the Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center, according to Jay E. Orlin, president.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays, when the Newton schools dismiss at noon, children in grades one through six will be picked up at school and taken to the center.

The children will bring bag lunches, eat together, and then take part in club groups and different activities.

The program is also open to kindergarteners, but transportation cannot be provided for them.

"We hope that this will make it easier for Newton families to take fuller advantage of the programs and services offered by the Center and we will be following with great interest the success of this innovative approach," Orlin stated.

Regular after school clubs and interest groups will run Monday through Thursday afternoons.

Registration for children's activities will be held at the Center, 50 Sutherland Rd., Brookline, on the following dates: Sept. 12 from 2 to 5 p.m.; Sept. 13, from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. and Sept. 14, from 2 to 4 p.m.

For further information, call the director of the children's department, Ms. Sue Roberts at 734-0800.

Parkwood Trust Plans Housing

A $1,285,000 first mortgage loan has been placed by the Herriott Company, Inc., of Waltham, for Parkwood Realty Trust of Newton, to construct an 88-unit rental apartment complex in Revere, according to an announcement by Richard L. Herriott, president of one of New England's largest mortgage bankers operating on a national scale.

Lender was the real estate lending subsidiary of a major bank. The apartments, to be located on Charger street near Route C-1 in Revere will be four stories in height, constructed of block and brick, with elevators, two swimming pools, wall to wall carpeting, saunas and parking for 135 cars. There will be 74 one-bedroom and 14 two-bedroom apartments at prices ranging from $240-$270 monthly plus electricity.

in charge of Consumer Protection and the Student Intern Program. Currently, he is a partner in the law firm of Seron & Frisoli, and is also a member of the Faculty of Boston College School of Management. He has recently been selected to appear in the 1973 awards edition of Outstanding Young Men of America "in recognition of outstanding ability, accomplishments, and service to the community."

As the Ward 4 alderman, he said he would "not only fulfill his obligation as a spokesman and representative of the community but in addition would devote his energies to the development of citizen awareness, citizen participation, and citizen faith in city government."

Frisoli, for example, is strenuously opposed to the recent passage of the alderman's salary resolution, with its resulting chaos, confusion, and misrepresentations.

An alderman should be a representative and voice of the citizens of Newton and be able to view all matters presented with an unbiased and critical outlook, and not be prejudiced towards personal gain, he commented.

He has also indicated that the ever increasing ecological and financial impact of the municipal incinerator and disposal area on the people of Newton, and more particularly the citizens of Ward 4, is a subject which must be dealt with directly and in depth with definite solutions offered now and not in the unforeseeable future.

The Committee to Elect Frisoli feels that his education, training and experience in management, finance, consumer protection and law make him an excellent candidate for Ward 4 Alderman, he said.

Saklad

Mrs. Saklad is a Newton resident of 14 years, wife of Dr. Martin J. Saklad, and the mother of three boys, Larry, Steven and Scott, who are attending the Newton schools. She attended Chatham College, Pittsburgh, Pa., received her B.A. in Business Administration from Adelphi College, N.Y., and is presently employed as an administrative assistant to an architect.

Among Mrs. Saklad's community involvements is the single session-lunch program in the elementary schools. She led the long and successful effort to establish an elementary school schedule which better met community needs.

"This issue involved many citizens from all parts of the city. The program has been operating for several years and illustrates how citizen involvement can effect change." she stated.

"As an interested observer over many years of both the Board of Aldermen and the School Committee, I believe that I can be an effective liaison, especially in budgetary and educational issues that fall within the jurisdiction of the Board of Aldermen," she said.

"Safety in Newton has been and will continue to be one of my special interests." Mrs. Saklad stated.

Her concern with the effect of the MBTA buses in the congested Newton Highlands area during the upgrading of the Green Line led her to call for immediate action to insure that optimum safety conditions prevail for school children during the period that the buses will operate.

She served on the P.T.A. Council Safety Committee in 1968, which did a city-wide study of safety needs. Recently, she sponsored a Safety Resolution, unanimously approved by the Board of Aldermen.

"Safety matters still need attention," she said. "It is my firm conviction that citizen input about their area's safety needs often provide the best answers in solving safety problems. Newton has needed the services of a Traffic Planner, and we are awaiting the filling of that position."

"As far as north-south transportation in Newton, we must develop programs to meet the anticipated need." she said. An assessment of the various segments of the population should occur. The Department of Human Resources, School Department and the City Census could provide most of the necessary information through a city-wide survey. Programs such as Dial-a-Bus, or utilizing school buses on return trips, could be tried."

"Land Use will continue to be one of Newton's prime concerns over the next decade. Preserving and acquiring open space by orderly acquisition plans and providing housing for low and moderate income groups must both be achieved Zoning concepts for the large tracts such as Planned Residential Development will increasingly occupy our attention.

"An inventory of areas in Newton that need rehabilitation is important. We need to provide incentives for landlords to upgrade properties in such areas, instead of penalizing them taxwise for making improvements." Mrs. Saklad stated.

Joan Saklad's concern with revising Newton's City Charter led her to run for the Charter Commission and to suggest a Referendum Petition regarding changing the School Committee to ward representation.

She suggested that the new Charter needs further revision. The Referendum section should be revised so that citizens can more readily repeal a legislative act. She also would like to have the preliminary elections, which will cost the city approximately $25,000, studied when other charter matters will be.

"It is totally unnecessary to have a preliminary election for Aldermen and School Committee," Mrs. Saklad stated.

Active in many local and national clubs and organizations, Joan Saklad was Publicity and Bulletin Chairmen for the Hyde School P.T.A.; President of the Emma Lazarus Chapter of the American Jewish Congress and Editor of their Suburban Region Bulletin; Clubs and Organizations Chairman for the Heart Fund; worker for the United Fund; Trustee on the Board of the Garden City Activity Center for Cerebral Palsy, Post 440; Ticket Chairman for the Newton Centennial Ball.

"I believe that women in Newton have played a very active role in the many clubs, organizations and commissions that serve the city. There are many capable women who are qualified to serve in positions of leadership in city government and on legislative bodies, and I am proud of the ever-increasing number of women who are seeking elective office."

Joan Saklad said she believes that the day of the politician making promises is long past. "The people to whom I have been talking want to know that I will weigh both sides of an issue before arriving at a decision, and they want to be assured that I will do a thorough job. This is a commitment that I can make to them. My past performances are the best references I can give," she stated.

DANIEL CADIFF

Appointed As Cornerstone Vice President

Daniel L. Cadiff of 10 The Ledges Road, Newton Center, has been named a Vice President of Cornerstone Financial Services, Inc., the direct sales subsidiary of Keystone Custodian Funds, Inc.

In announcing the appointment, President James B. Ross of Cornerstone said that Cadiff will direct the Eastern operations of the company from headquarters in the Keystone Building, Boston.

Cornerstone sells shares of Keystone and other mutual funds, Keystone Provident Life Insurance Company, pension and profit sharing plans, Keogh Plans and individual securities.

Cadiff joins Keystone with a background of many years in the financial sales field. He was formerly associated with VanSanCo and Channing Co., serving as Vice President for each of those companies.

Norris

where he serves on its Criminal Code Committee.

Norris served as vice chairman of the Newton Crime Prevention Committee and is now a member of the city's Building Code Revision Committee. He was appointed by the President of the United States to serve as advisor to registrants for Local Board 116 of the Selective Service Administration.

Norris has also been active in various B'nai B'rith activities. He is vice president of Public Service Lodge and a member of both the Society of Fellows and regional board of directors of the Anti-Defamation League.

Norris is a practicing attorney and was counsel for the Federal Trade Commission in Boston. He is a veteran of the Korean War.

Norris served as master of Adelphi Lodge AF&M and also served as president of Temple Emanuel's Couples' Club with his wife, Gail.

He is married to the former Gail Altman and has two children, Jonathan, a student at Newton High Schol and Dana Ruth, a student at the Ward School.

Norris stated that he "supports efforts to up-date programs which meet the social and economic needs of the residents of Newton–including youth and senior citizens–while safe-guarding the city's ability to meet the cost."

Area Mental Health Staff Grows By Two

The Newton-Wellesley-Weston Area Mental Health Office has recently expanded with the appointments of Dr. Robert M. Kaplan as area program director and Jeffrey Schwamm as area drug program coordinator.

Dr. Kaplan comes to the Newton-Wellesley-Weston Area from the central office of the Department of Mental Health where for two years he was the Inspector of Facilities.

In this position Dr. Kaplan was involved in inspections of state hospitals and state schools for the retarded, reviewing programs and evaluating standards. Dr. Kaplan also functioned during this time as a co-supervisor of the phase out of Grafton State Hospital.

Prior to Dr. Kaplan's position at the central office, he worked at Boston State Hospital for a total of seven years in such positions as director of the day hospital, unit director, and assistant superintendent.

Dr. Kaplan completed his undergraduate work at the University of Michigan in 1952, medical school at the University of Maryland in 1956 and psychiatric training at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Boston and University Hospital, Boston, Schwamm is a recent graduate of Boston College School of Social Work with the degree Master of Social Planning. He completed his undergraduate studies at Brandeis University in 1971 with a concentration in economics.

Schwamm served as an officer for three years in the United States Army, with one year overseas. Returning to Brandeis he worked with students on the resident staff for two years.

During Schwamm's professional training he worked with assistant secretary of the executive office of Elder Affairs in a planning project for the Commonwealth which focused on the local councils on aging in Region V. He also served a summer internship as a junior planner for the Planning and Development Department for the City of Cambridge.

Small

leading to the passage of the revaluation of the city. First as a sub-committee member and later as chairman of finance, he worked with several committees of the board and with the consultant hired by the board to finalize our revaluation specifications and determine the company ultimately chosen to conduct the re-evaluation.

Small cited as perhaps his "proudest accomplishment" this year, the leadership and coordination he exercised in directing the board of aldermen to the $5 tax cut.

"As chairman of finance it was my responsibility to work with the Executive Department of our city to first bring to the Board of Aldermen a budget that would show substantial savings by the use of prudent and up to date management."

Small then led the board in its budget hearings and ultimately to the passage of the 1973 budget.

"My next task was to examine carefully our financial situation so we could determine how much of our surplus funds could be devoted to the cutting of the 1973 tax rate. The result is the largest cut in our real estate tax in the recent history of the city."

Small is a chemical manufacturer. Born in Boston, he attended Roxbury Memorial High School, Boston University and the U.S. Army Leadership Training School, followed by service in the U.S Army Chaplain's Corps.

Small is a past grand chancellor of the Massachusetts Knights of Pythias and served for four years as a supreme representative to the supreme lodge Knights of Pythias.

During the August, 1973, Supreme Convention Small led the floor fight for the passage of Massachusetts sponsored legislation eliminating all racial barriers in membership to the Knights of Pythias, the first national fraternity to do so.

A member of Garden City Lodge A.F. & A.M. in Newton and Public Service Lodge of B'nai B'rith, Small is a director and trustee of many charitable organizations throughout Massachusetts, which include his service as vice president of Kiddie Kamp of Massachusetts. He is also a member of Temple Shalom of West Newton In Newton Small has been connected with all baseball programs, Little League, International League and the National Twi-Light League.

Small has been honored by the Massachusetts Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Foundation; he has received the "Carnation Award" presented by the Jewish Advocate.

Also Small was chosen by Kiddie Kamp of Massachusetts as "one of our Commonwealth's outstanding men" during which time he was honored by the late Cardinal Cushing. Small was also the recipient of the "Man of the Year" award by the humanitarian committee of the Massachusetts Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorasan.

In seeking re-election, the Alderman cited his continued conern for the financial situation of the city during the next few years.

"We face reorganization of many areas of our government, changes that will undoubtedly be costly." he said. "We expect inflationary conditions to increase many of our costs."

Small said he hopes to continue to fight for additional revenue sharing from both our state and federal governments. Carefully examined budgets as well as additional revenue from sources outside of our present real estate tax, is what he hopes will help keep taxes down.

"Of course it will be necessary for close scrutiny of the expected re-evaluation and I plan to be very close to this matter in the next two years," he noted.

A member of the legislation and rules, as well as the education committee, Small says he continues to share the same concern for the ambition, desires and needs of his fellow Newton citizens. "I expect to continue my work and interest in public service to my community."

Small is married to the former Janet Sgan of Medford. They have four children, Karen Brody of New Jersey, Russell, attending University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Phillip and Kenneth who attend Newton Schools.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Mazda "Piston Engine Goes Boing, Boing, Boing" commercial won three awards at the annual Clio Awards held in New York.

Any such development, Daley said, would probably lead to changes in the Massachusetts Turnpike Extension interchange pattern, posing still more problems for the people of West Newton.

As a member of both the West Newton business and residential communities Daley has an advantage in his intentions to keep working for the best interests of all the people of West Newton.

Landscaped Interiors Opens Needham Shop

A tropical garden has been planted right in the heart of the town of Needham. Passerbys are startled when they peer through the window at 936 Great Plain avenue, and see a veritable paradise.

Landscaped Interiors, Inc., Boston, active for several years in industrial and commercial interior landscape design and installation, has just opened a new retail shop.

The shop stocks exotic plants of all description as well as related planters and gift items, but perhaps most intriguing of all is the "Garden Room." Featuring a bubbling waterfall, it is possibly the coolest (or at least the coolest-looking) place in town. Lush tropical foliage seems to be everywhere.

Landscaped Interiors is also equipped to give advice on growing conditions for the literally hundreds of tropical plant species available. Later in the fall there will be a 'sick plant' day when shoppers will be encouraged to bring their ailing house plants to the shop for expert diagnosis and advice on treatment. This is in line with the parent company's policy of service.

Landscaped Interiors is well-known for it's 'Tropicare' maintenance contract. Under this plan the company will guarantee the life and health of any plant it installs and maintains. Another service provided by the shop will be custom designs and installations for homes and offices.

Stanley D. Romaine, Jr. of Westwood, president of Landscaped Interiors, Inc., has announced the appointment of Marge Scholz as manager, retail shops. Mrs. Scholz will be managing the Needham shop as well as planning openings of additional retail outlets in the area during the coming year.

Community Education Program Offered At Hale Reservation

A unique and exciting program, attempting to educate the public to the out-of-doors, will be sponsored by the Hale Reservation this fall.

The Reservation is a non-profit, privately administered organization dedicated to serving the community in such areas as outdoor education, recreation, and conservation. It is a one thousand acre tract located in Westwood and Dover and composed of forests, meadows, ponds, and marshes.

The community education program is rather unique because it has been developed with family participation specifically in mind. However, individuals are welcome and invited to take part. Qualified instructors will teach courses and workshops ranging from an environmental education weekend to snowshoe making. A terrarium workshop, bicycle tour and workshop, and basic first-aid will all be offered.

Two seasonal courses for the nature lover will be available; they are "The Autumn Sky & Night Sounds" and "The Autumn Woods." Also offered will be a "Golden Ager Natural History" course for Senior Citizens. This will consist of a leisurely investigation of the out-of-doors through short walks, tours, fishing, and related activities. Rounding out the program will be a "Natural History Nursery Hour" and a Walt Disney film festival.

The courses promise to be an exciting and natural experience for both the beginner and the pro.

A comprehensive brochure is available free of charge and may be obtained by calling the Hale Reservation office (326-0163) or writing (Box 241, Westwood). The program is open to the public and all are encouraged to participate.

Antique Show In Lexington Sept. 13, 14

What's new in antiques? Abundant answers to this question will be found at the fourth annual Antiques Show and Sale which ushers in the fall season of the Lexington Arts and Crafts Society, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 13 and 14, from 1 to 9:30 p.m., and Saturday, Sept. 15, from 1 to 6 p.m.

This prestigious show will be greatly expanded this year in the society's enlarged new building at 130 Waltham street, Lexington, where a group of 30 carefully selected dealers will display their wares in a unique setting of attractively decorated booths. The Antique Show will be under the management of Lloyd A. Hathaway, well-known for his shows at Strawberry Banke and at the Browne & Nichols School.

Antiques connoisseurs and novice visitors alike will find a broad spectrum of antique treasures for browsing and buying, for giving and keeping, for investing, for sentimental reminiscing, or for an unusual educational experience. Featured among the many unusual, superb quality collectibles will be antique furniture, accessories, clocks and watches, glass and silver.

MBTA Relies On Buses While Green Line Rebuilt

Starting Saturday, Sept. 8, Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) plans to substitute buses for streetcars between Newton Highlands Station and Riverside Station while this section of the Green Line's Highlands Branch is rebuilt.

General Manager Joseph C. Kelly said that under Phase I of the $7,116,560 contract for the reconstruction of the Highlands Branch, the contractor has been given the exclusive use of the right-of-way between Newton Highlands and Riverside until late December. Therefore, he said, the Authority must terminate streetcar service at Newton Highlands during the reconstruction period.

"So that the streetcars can be turned around at Newton Highlands," Kelly said, "the contractor is building a loop track there."

This work will be completed in time for the start of the substitute bus service when the fall timetables go into effect on Sept. 8," Kelly said.

"For the convenience of our riders," he added, "the Authority plans to operate the substitute buses to or as near as possible to the Eliot, Waban and Woodland intermediate stations, making stops along Woodward Street and Beacon Street."

Reconstruction of the Highlands Branch, is part of the Green Line System Improvements Program that the Authority has launched in preparation for the arrival of the new, high-speed Light Rail Vehicles.

The Urban Mass Transportation Administration in Washington has approved a two-thirds capital facilities grant of $25.4 million to assist in financing the program.

Phase II work, according to Kelly, will begin in the spring on the section between Newton Highlands Station and Reservoir and Phase III work between Reservoir and Fenway Park, in the early summer.

The weekday bus schedule from Riverside during the Phase I reconstruction work is as follows: every 10 minutes from 5:55 a.m. to 7:05 a.m.; 7:13 a.m.; 7:20 a.m.; every five minutes to 8:45 a.m.; every seven minutes to 3:02 p.m.; every six minutes to 4:20 p.m.; every five minutes to 5:55 p.m.; every six minutes to 6:31 p.m.; 6:38 p.m.; 6:45 p.m.; every 10 minutes to 11:55 p.m.; 12:05 a.m.; 12:15 a.m.; 12:35 a.m.; and 1:01 a.m.

The weekday schedule from Newton Highlands is: 6:17 a.m.; every 10 minutes to 7:27 a.m.; 7:35 a.m.; 7:42 a.m.; every five minutes to 9:07 a.m.; every seven minutes to 3:30 p.m.; every six minutes to 4:42 p.m.; every five minutes to 6:17 p.m.; every six minutes to 6:53 p.m.; 7:00 p.m.; 7:07 p.m.; every 10 minutes to 11:57 p.m.; 12:08 a.m.; 12:18 a.m.; 12:28 a.m.; 12:40 a.m.; 1:00 a.m., and 1:25 a.m.

Printed schedules will be available Thursday, Sept. 6. at the Park Street Station Information Booth and at Riverside Station. Bus operators will also have them on their buses.

Equal Rights Gain Legislative Approval

A constitutional convention of both branches of the Massachusetts' legislature recently convened and by a vote of 261 to 0, passed the State Equal Rights Amendment, co-sponsored by Rep. Lois G. Pines (D-Newton).

Before it is accepted as an amendment to the Constitution of Massachusetts, the act must be considered by the next legislature when it convenes in 1975. The act will then be presented to the voters of the commonwealth at the elections of 1976.

The original order convening the constitutional convention did not include a provision for discussion of an equal rights amendment, but was amended at the insistence of Rep. Pines and Sen. Chester G. Atkins (D-Acton) to include consideration of the act.

According to Rep. Pines, "The principle on which the Equal Rights Amendment rests is 'sex should not be a factor in determining the legal rights of men or women'."

"Isn't equal treatment of individuals the principle on which our government was founded?" asked Rep. Pines.

"The passage of the Equal Rights Amendment would significantly reduce sex discrimination," stated Rep. Pines, while noting that discriminatory laws still exist in the areas of property rights, unemployment, consumer, finance, public accomodations, education, housing, the court systems and corrections.

Pennsylvania, Texas, Maryland, New Mexico, Washington and Hawaii have already passed state equal rights amendments, and three more, Illinois, Virginia and Florida, are presently considering such amendments.

"Such a progressive state as Massachusetts should be included in the list of states which are securing by their constitutions the long denied rights of women," explained Rep. Pines.

"Since the federal Equal Rights Amendment may not be ratified it is imperative that Massachusetts enact its own amendment," she added.

"I was very pleased to see that all of our representatives and senators present supported this critical amendment," concluded Rep. Pines.

In addition to Rep. Pines and Sen. Atkins, the amendment was also sponsored by Rep. Charles F. Flaherty (D-Cambridge), Rep. Royal L. Bolling (D-Boston), Rep. Marie E. Howe (D-Somerville), Rep. John Businger (D-Brookline) and Rep. Ann C. Gannet (R-Wayland).

Housing Program Upped

The Newton Housing Authority has received approval from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Department of Community Affairs, for 20 units of subsidized housing under the State Leased Housing Program.

This will provide additional assistance to the city's low-income families. This program is separate and distinct from the construction program presently being undertaken by the Newton Housing Authority.

Through a similar program sponsored by HUD, the Newton Housing Authority has presently an allotment of 200 such housing units now occupied by families and the elderly scattered throughout the city.

Applications may be requested at the Newton Housing Authority office, 200 Commonwealth Ave., Auburndale, 02166, or by calling 969-8404. Landlords wishing to lease their apartments in this program may also call the above number.

Campus Note

Susan Bornstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bornstein of 170 Old Farm St., Newton, has been admitted to the World Campus Aloat program of Chapman College in Orange, Calif., for the fall 1973 semester at sea.

The World Campus Afloat extends from Sept. 4 to Dec. 21, and all students carry on a regular college semester at sea, with laboratories, libraries, etc.

Innovations In Sound

You've probably never thought of your car as an ideal stereo listening studio. Well, it is! The minute you sit in your stereo equipped auto, you're blanketed in thrilling sound. You'll witness an entirely new perspective in stereo listening; a richness in stereophony and realism of sound reproduction that has never before been possible. Now, with stereo tape cartridges, whether you listen in your car, home, boat, plane or trailer you enjoy an unparallelled sound sensation . . . crisp clarity and maximum fidelity, superior craftsmanship . . . and a wealth of music for every taste from Broadway to The Beatles, from current hits to classical.

Stereo cartridges are carefully engineered to afford maximum reliability and convenience of operation.

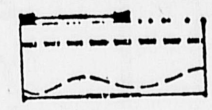
1. You never have to thread or even touch the tape.

2. You may change from one stereo program to another with the press of a button.

3. Tapes are continuous and never need rewinding.

4. With a minimum of care, the playing life of the tape is practically unlimited.

What is four-track and eight-track stereo tape? Within the ¼-inch tape width, music is recorded on four or eight parallel tracks which run the length of the tape. Two tracks play simultaneously and produce true stereo sound. Standard tapes provide up to 40 minutes of continuous music. Twin cartridges up to 80 minutes.



How does a tape cartridge work Stereo cartridges contain a tape in a continuous loop, which simply means that the tape runs from the center of the spool and is returned to the outer lap of the reel. Thus, never needs rewinding. Inserting the cartridge into the tape playback unit is probably as easy as replacing your cigarette lighter in the dash.

Seeing is believing, however, and perhaps the least expensive method for you to experience the unusual convenience engineered into a stereo tape is to visit a dealer and ask for a demonstration.

Realizing that stereo tapes are here to stay, Lechmere Sales of Cambridge, Danvers, Springfield and Dedham is now compiling substantial stocks. This foresighted record dealer and department store devoted exclusively to providing the consumer with even a larger and more complete musical selection than previously realized with the more traditional record album departments.

Long recognized as a retailing leader and innovator, Lechmere now features perhaps the largest selection of stereo tape cartridges in New England. It's a certainty that a visit to either Lechmere in Cambridge, Danvers, Springfield or Dedham will prove a most rewarding musical experience.

Mostly for Women

Food, Fashions, Socials

The vested suit, 1973 model . . . Cricketeer gives Stevens expresso brown flannel suit the 1973 country treatment by the simple addition of a tattersall vest. Side vented, patch pocketed, the widely revered two-button, single-breasted shaped coat and flared cuffed slacks are handsomely united with an off-white tattersall vest. A John Weitz off-white monochrome tie and shirt complete the look.

Good Grooming Is Important To Men

"Why do I like these shoes?" the young man asked as he walked carefully across the shoe store carpet, his eyes down on his shiny brown snub-toed shoes with their three-inch heels.

"Because now I'll be taller than my girlfriend, and . . . because I like them. That's the way I feel about anything I buy . . . if it makes me feel good, improves the way I look and I can afford it, why not!"

That just about sums up the attitude many men have regarding fashion, hair styling, as well as beauty treatments. Good grooming interests have escalated the sales of men's colognes, sprays, hair blower combs, skin toners and even skin creams. Today's man is not willing to "relax" into middle age because of the calendar's dictate — he wears clothes that improve his image, has his hair styled and even resorts to facials as well as plastic surgery when necessary.

Fashions By Ruth Lenson

It's not the movie personality or TV actor who goes after a facelift or hairgraft — just average men who want to look their best, according to a leading plastic surgeon also says he would prefer that men observe good skin care instead of resorting to surgery.

He suggests using a soap that is super-fatted — tub-soakers should always use bath oils and lukewarm water. Over-washing is responsible for men's skins becoming prematurely wrinkled and dry.

What do you think of when you hear the word "wig"? Probably a woman's wig, long, silky hair and, most likely, blonde. Times have changed. Instead of women's wigs cut down for men there are now wigs for men, conceived and created as wigs for men. The new man's wig has adjustable sideburns, which will cling closely to the man's face. A man's natural hair will have different textures at hairline, sideburns, crown and nape of the neck.

Many men prefer combing a part and the new man's wig can be parted within a four-inch range. Because of styling, proper fit is even more crucial for men than women. The new man's wig comes in two sizes, both of which are further adjustable.

The fiber is Monsanto modacrylic. It is remarkably like real hair, yet the synthetic fiber will not oxidize as quickly as human hair used in wigs. If rained on, it will keep its style. It will look completely realistic under all lighting conditions and wash and dry quickly.

And why not a wig! In today's society, there is a premium on youth and a middle-aged man who has lost all or much of his hair is always at a competitive disadvantage with a younger man . . . or someone who looks younger.

A woman is more interested in having her wig look beautiful. For a man, it is more important for the wig to look natural. These wigs will be available this fall and sold by professional hair stylists for men.

Shopping for clothes for some men is quite an ordeal. If you become easily discouraged and confused, take along a companion — especially one who has a reputation for being "clothes-wise."

Following are clothing tips of interest to the man with the less than ideal silhouette.

DON'T choose big, bold patterns in light tones . . . this is a sure fire way of attracting a lot of attention.

DON'T buy suits that are too tight or too baggy — seek help from your salesman and be critical about your reflection in the three-way mirror.

DO try vertical stripes, especially the new chain-link design stripes seen in the new knits. Nothing garish in stripes; tone-on-tone whisper stripes help give a slimmed-down look.

Last Sunday I met Henry Caniglia, owner of a gourmet delicatessen in East Greenwich, Rhode Island. After just a bit of coaxing, he offered this squid recipe which was developed by his college professor and class in Invertebrate Zoology at the University of Rhode Island. For all you squid fanciers, here it is, thanks to Henry:

SQUID CACCIATORE
RANGER HALL

Clean, skin, and wash 12 small fresh, or thawed fresh-frozen squid. Cut off the tentacles, remove the viscera, and discard. With a sharp knife, slice the bodies either longitudinally or transversely into strips an inch to an inch and one-half wide and set aside. Mix ¼ clove garlic, minced; one-third pound of mushrooms, halved or whole; 4 slices bread, crumbled; 1 tablespoon parsley, chopped; ¾ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; ¼ teaspoon oregano; and 6 tablespoons olive oil. Arrange around the center of a cast iron skillet. Into the center of the skillet pour from ¼ to one-third pint of prepared spaghetti meat sauce and turn the stove on low heat. Place the squid strips in the warm spaghetti meat sauce and turn the stove on low heat. Heat the squid strips in the warm spaghetti meat sauce for about 5 minutes. Combine squid strips with other ingredients encircling spaghetti sauce and squid and mix; turn up the heat and cook for 10 to 15 minutes over low heat until white, slightly curled and tender; occasionally stir thoroughly while cooking. Serve on toast points. Should serve 4 people with "moderate" appetites.

Question: A number of years ago, you published a recipe for Sour Tomatoes and I had great luck with it, but somehow during moving I lost the recipe. Now my neighbor tells me I am going to get all his home-grown green tomatoes and I desperately need the recipe. Hope you can come through for me as you have for others! — Mrs. T., Dedham.

Answer: Here we come! This is the recipe and I agree, it's a great one!

HELEN'S SOUR TOMATOES
15 pounds hard green tomatoes
2½ cups coarse Kosher salt
3 stalks celery
Handful mixed spices
6 cloves garlic, split
1 fresh red hot pepper OR
3 dried red hot peppers
Water

Dissolve salt in 4 cups warm water. Place tomatoes and remaining ingredients in a clean crock; add salt water and cover tomatoes to the depth of 3-inches above the tomatoes with cold water. Weight down tomatoes with platter and heavy stone or a large jar filled with water (capped). After the third day, mix contents. Every other day mix (removing any accumulated scum) and allow to "set" in a cool place from 2 to 3 weeks, depending on the weather. When done, bottle tomatoes in brine and refrigerate.

A bouquet of roses to Mrs. J. M. who writes: I just returned from a visit to Chicago where my sister introduced me to a cake that is all the rage out there. I brought back not only the cake but three prize rose bushes — thought you would like the recipe for your readers. (We do, we do!)

CREAM CHEESE
COFFEE CAKE CHICAGO
½ cup margarine, softened
1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1¼ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¾ cups unsifted all purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teapsoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup milk
½ cup sugar
4 teaspoons cinnamon
4 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons margarine

In a large mixing bowl, cream together margarine and cream cheese. Add sugar (1¼ cups) to creamed mixture, mixing well. Beat in eggs and vanilla until ingredients are well combined. Sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Add flour mixture to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk; stir until smooth and turn into a 9 x 13 inch greased and floured baking pan. Combine sugar, cinnamon, flour and butter until crumbly and sprinkle over batter. Bake in 350 degree oven 35-40 minutes or until cake tests done.

Question: We were in a restaurant not too long ago and ate a dish called Swedish Meat Balls with Poppy Seed Noodles. I didn't have the nerve to ask the waitress if she could get the recipe for me, and so I wondered if you could print one. Thank you very much. — Mrs. B. N., Canton

Answer: This is a very good meatball-gravy-noodle dish sure to please many!

SWEDISH MEAT BALLS WITH POPPY SEED NOODLES
1 pound ground chuck
½ cup fresh bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons minced onion
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 clove garlic, minced
1 beef bouillon cube
1 can (10 oz.) condensed beef bouillon
½ cup water
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 pkg. (5 oz.) egg noodles

Lightly mix beef, bread crumbs, egg, milk, onion, pepper, nutmeg, dry mustard and salt; form mixture into small meat balls and brown in ¼ cup margarine. Remove meat balls and keep in a warm place. Add flour to pan drippings and brown. Add minced garlic, beef bouillon and blend and cook slowly until gravy is thickened; stir often. Just before serving, add sour cream; blend and add meat balls to gravy to reheat. After adding sour cream DO NOT boil mixture or the gravy will curdle. Serve over hot Poppy Seed Noodles.

POPPY SEED NOODLES

Cook and drain egg noodles as directed on package. Toss drained noodles with ¼ cup melted margarine and poppy seeds. Serve meat balls and gravy over noodles. Serves 6 to 8.

Across The Kitchen Counter Ruth Lenson

The phone rings. It's relatives in town on a visit and of course you invite them to dinner . . . then panic sets in.

What to serve when it's difficult enough planning, shopping and preparing meals (with no frills) for the family, and the budget won't budge for this kind of "luxury" entertaining.

Cheer up. First of all, everyone knows that food prices are astronomical and nobody expects you to serve steak or roast beef. Besides, it's the wise hostess who can produce a meal she can proudly proclaim is the result of her ability to stretch small amounts of costly ingredients such as meat, fish or poultry. No apologies are required. It takes a lively ingenuity to make a "lot" out of a "little" the way our grandmothers and great-grandmothers did.

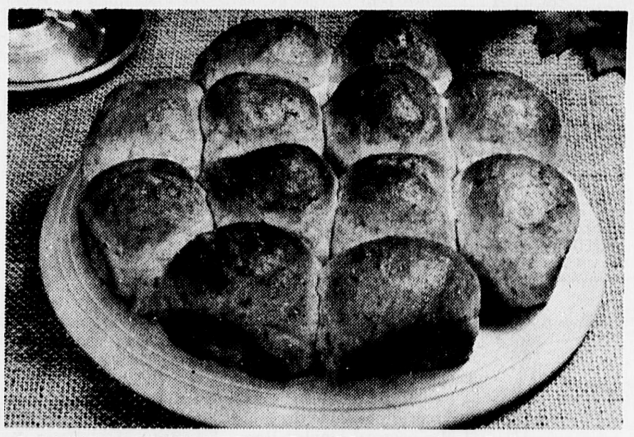
How about a hearty beef and beans stew with lots of seasoning, a tossed green salad, home baked bread or rolls and dessert? Or a beef stew that reaches new heights when grape jelly is added to make a rich gravy served over hot buttered noodles.? Less expensive cuts of lamb can be given the gourmet touch with seasoning and vegetables. Try a new delicious Chinese style chicken with green beans served on crisp Chinese noodles, salad and chilled pineapple slices.

Melons are relatively inexpensive this time of year; quartered and served icy cold they make an excellent appetizer. And should you bake these tasty caraway rye pan rolls, your guests will be so delighted they won't be aware that a budget-type main dish is being served. For dessert an eye-appealing delicious parfait of rice custard and cranberry sauce.

After dinner, sit back and accept the praise . . . you deserve it!

BEEF AND BEAN BAKE
2 pounds boneless beef for stew, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 cup dried navy beans
6 cups water
2 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
3 small onions, halved
2 tablespoons mustard
1 teaspoon chili powder

Sort and rinse beans. Cover with water and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand for 1 hour. Combine flour and salt. Dredge beef cubes in seasoned flour. Brown in shortening. Pour off fat. Drain beans, reserving 2 cups of the liquid. Combine meat, beans, reserved liquid, tomato sauce, onions, mustard and chili powder. Cover and bake at 325 degrees for 2 to 2½ hours or until beans and meat are tender.



CARAWAY RYE PAN ROLLS are a flavorful accompaniment for hearty soups, stews, and casseroles. Rapid mix method completely eliminates the tricky step of dissolving yeast in warm water. Delight the family with this new recipe.

CHINESE STYLE CHICKEN
WITH GREEN BEANS
3 whole chicken breasts, about 2 to 3 pounds
2 tablespoons butter
1 envelope (¾ oz.) mushroom gravy mix
½ cup water
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen cut green beans
2 tablespoons sherry
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Skin and bone chicken; cut into 1-inch squares. Cook in butter in large skillet, turning until the chiken loses pink color. Stir in contents of envelope of gravy mix, water and green beans. Cover and simmer 10-15 minutes. Stir in sherry and pimiento. Serves 6. (Serve with Chinese noodles or hot rice.)

CARAWAY RYE PAN ROLLS
4 cups unsifted white flour (about)
1 cup unsifted rye flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon caraway seeds •
1 pkg. active dry yeast
1 cup milk
¾ cup water
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon margarine
1 egg white
2 tablespoon water

•Caraway seeds may be omitted.

Combine flours; in a large bowl thoroughly mix 1 and two-thirds cups flour mixture, sugar, salt, caraway seeds and undissolved active dry yeast. Combine milk, ¾ cup water, honey and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are warm (margarine does not need to melt). Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat for 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 1 cup flour mixture, or enough flour mixture to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed for 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough flour mixture to make a soft dough. (If necessary, add additional white flour to obtain desired dough.) Turn dough out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide in half; form each piece into a smooth ball. Cover; let rest for 10 minutes. Form each piece into a roll 12 inches long. Cut into 12 equal pieces; form into smooth balls. Place in 2 greased 9-inch round cake pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Combine egg white and 2 tablespoons water; brush rolls. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, about 25 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking pans and cool on wire racks. Makes 24 rolls.

BEEF A LA GRAPE
2 pounds boneless chuck cut in 2-inch pieces
¼ cup shortening
1 cup hot water
2 beef bouillon cubes
½ cup grape jelly
6 large carrots, cut in thirds
3 large onions, halved
1 can (4 oz.) mushrooms (optional)
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons cold water

Melt shortening in heavy skillet; brown meat cubes in hot fat (all sides). Pour off fat. Combine bouillon cubes, hot water and jelly. Pour half the mixture over meat. Cover and simmer about 1½ hours. Add remaining jelly mixture. Arrange carrots and onions over top of meat. Cover. Continue to simmer another 30 minutes, until meat and vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables to hot serving dish. Add mushrooms with their liquid to gravy in pan and bring to a gentle boil. Mix water and cornstarch to make thin paste, pour into simmering gravy and continue to simmer, stirring, until sauce is thickened. Serves 6.

PARTY LAMB AND RICE
3 pounds boneless lamb (shoulder or neck)
4 tablespoons flour
¾ cup margarine
2 cloves garlic, minced
4 large onions, slices
4 small apples, pared and chopped
3 tablespoons curry powder
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
4 tablespoons brown sugar
4 tablespoons raisins
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
4 tablespoons shredded coconut
½ cup slivered almonds
Juice of ½ lemon
2 cups water
1 can (8 oz.) mushroom pieces

Cut meat into 2-inch cubes. Dredge with flour. Melt margarine in large saucepan. Add meat, garlic, onions and brown lightly, stirring constantly. Add remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 1 hour or until meat is tender. Serve with boiled rice. Serves 6-8. (Beef or veal may be used.)

CRANBERRY SWIRL PARFAIT
3 cups cooked rice
3 cups milk
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs, separated
1 cup whole cranberry sauce
2 tablespoons sherry, optional

Combine rice and milk. Heat and cook for 10 minutes, or until slightly thickened, add ¼ cup sugar and vanilla. Beat egg yolks; spoon some of the rice mixture into eggs, blend all into rice mixture. Cook about 1 minute. Cool. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; add remaining sugar gradually and continue beating until whites are stiff. Fold into rice mixture; combine cranberry sauce and sherry. Alternate rice custard with cranberry sauce in parfait glasses. Serves 8.

Weddings

Miss Rand Is Bride Of Alan Markovsky

MRS. ALAN MARKOVSKY

Honeymooning in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania are Mr. and Mrs. Alan Markovsky (the former Judith Rand), who were married on Sunday, August 26, in the Oval Room of the Copley Plaza. Rabbi Samuel Chiel of Temple Emanual, Newton, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Markovsky of Newton Centre.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore an ivory silk organza gown which had a Venice lace bodice, a mandarin neckline and bishop sleeves.

Deborah Bial of Boston, as her sister's honor attendant, wore a blue and green puckered plaid gown trimmed with Val lace and fashioned with an empire bodice, a ruffled neckline, an A-line skirt, and flounced hemline. She carried green-orchid flowers and had a matching headpiece.

Identically attired and carrying blue and green flowers were the bridesmaids, Linda Fine of Brookline and Paula Thall of Newton.

Serving as best man was Richard Gould of Newton. Ushers included Ronald Markovsky of Newton, brother of the groom; Mitchell Blaustein of Waltham, Robert Blaustein of Brighton, and Saul Bloom of Newton. The Oval Room was also the scene of the reception.

The couple's future home will be in Waltham. The bride is a graduate of Brookline High School and Dean Junior College. Her husband was graduated from Newton South High School and Dean Junior College and is a senior at Bentley College. (Photo by The Nourses)

Marcia Swartz Is Bride

At a double-ring ceremony performed at Congregation Kehillath Israel in Brookline, Miss Marcia Faith Swartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Swartz of Chestnut Hill and Hull recently became the bride of Mr. Leonard Stanley Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ross of Milton.

Rabbi Manuel Saltzman and Cantor Michel Hammerman officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception in the Temple auditorium.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a silk organza gown with re-embroidered Alencon lace, bib front, crystal pleated ruffled cuff and hemline, high neck, straight sleeved with deep cuffs, Empire waist and chapel train. Her chapel-length mantilla was bordered with matching lace, and caught to a lace camelot headpiece appliqued with seed pearls. She carried a Bible with a cascade of white orchids, carnations and roses.

Wearing gowns with white puckered, scoop neck peasant-style bodices and A-line blue chiffon skirts, were the maid of honor, Judith Ross, sister of the groom and bridesmaids Sherrill Berk, Miami, Marcia Damory, Brighton; Mrs. Peter Kahn, New Jersey, and Robin Ross, sister of the groom. All carried bouquets of mixed yellow and white flowers.

Jay Derman, Milton, was best man. The bride's brother, Jeffrey Swartz ushered with the groom's brother Martin Ross; Joseph Faron, Chicago; David Nickinson, Milton; Jerry Strauss, Wollaston, and Mark Taitz, Medford.

The bride was graduated from Wheelock College. Her husband, a cum laude graduate of Tufts University, received a master's degree from Amos Tuck School, Dartmouth College, where he was a Tuck Scholar.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple is residing in Framingham.

O'Hara — Arthur Marriage

An evening service in Marsh Chapel, Boston University, was the setting for an exchange of marriage vows when Catherine Charlotte Arthur, daughter of Mrs. Margaret C. Arthur of Boston and Dr. Charles B. Arthur of Carlisle, became the bride of Edward John O'Hara, son of Mrs. James O'Hara of Oradel, N.J.

The bride's mother was children's librarian at the Newton Centre branch library from 1961 to 1969.

Officiating at his first wedding, the Rev. Wayne Walther performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her godfather and uncle, Capt. John W. Crawford, U.S.N., A.E.C., of Rockville, Md. She chose an empire gown of polyester satin hand-trimmed with seed pearls and her shoulder-length veil fell from a cap of Dutch lace. She carried a bouquet of coral gladiolus and white camellia petals.

Identically gowned bridal attendants, Mrs. Stephen Pettibone, matron of honor, and bridesmaids Mrs. Ivan Biddick and Mrs. Stephen Lekowics wore gowns of English nosegay print over skirts of coral and cerise organza, sashed with wide velvet ribbons of coral and cerise to match the trim of their white picture hats. They carried bouquests of white roses and baby's breath. All are colleagues of the bride at Mugar Library, Boston University.

Flower girls, in matching costumes and carrying similar bouquets, were Misses Faustine and Marion Smoler of Manhasset, Long Island, nieces of the bride. Their brother, Stuart Smoler, was ring bearer.

Gordon S. Brooks of Wadsworth, Ill., was best man, and ushers were Kenneth Garetano of Flushing, N.Y., and Gus Sayers of Boston. Soloists were Janna Bremer of Norwood and Sue Walther, accompanied by Joseph Dyer, organist.

The bride is a graduate of Mount Saint Joseph Academy, Brighton, and Boston State College. Her husband graduated from American University in Washington and has an M.L.S. from Rutgers.

The honeymoon trip includes London, Chamonix and Munich. On their return, the newlyweds will live in Brookline. (Photo by Westwood Studios).

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD JOHN O'HARA

Adler — Stroyman Bridal

MRS. LANCE ADLER

Miss Sandra Gail Stroyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Stroyman of Waban, became the bride of Lance Adler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Adler, on Sunday, August 26, at Popponesset Inn, Popponesset Beach.

Rabbi Murray Rothman officiated at the wedding ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Inn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had Miss Amy Adler of Yonkers, N.Y., sister of the groom, as her maid of honor.

The bridesmaids were Laurie Rubenstein of Newton, and Lenore Borowsky, Nancy Asch, Patty Cotton and Liz Cotton, all of Waban. Shari Gochberg of Holliston was the junior bridesmaid.

Serving as best man was Albert Shikaly of Yonkers, N.Y., and ushers included Bill Harding of Allston, Jim Cotton of Waban, Ray Lowery of Starke, Florida, and Bob Garafallo of Eastchester, N.Y.

Upon returning from a honeymoon on Nantucket Island, the couple will reside in Natick.

Anniversary Celebration

Following the evening service at the Evangelical Baptist Church, 23 Chapel street, Newton, a surprise wedding anniversary celebration was held in the Fellowship Hall, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Perley Banfill, 252 Harvard street, Cambridge, who were twenty-two years married on Sunday, August 12.

The hall was decorated with ribbons and wedding bells. The couple was led from the sanctuary of the church on the arm of Dr. John S. Viall, Pastor of the Church, and Mrs. Virginia Viall, the Pastor's wife.

A special program followed with two solos rendered by Mrs. Dorothy Gott of Newton, accomapnied by Mrs. Helen Hallowell of Sudbury. Appropriate poems were presented by Mrs. Elena Malcolm of Cambridge, and Mrs. Virginia Viall. A money gift of twenty-five dollars was presented the couple, entwined on a rose branch.

Refreshments followed, and Mrs. Banfill cut the anniversary cake, made by the Pastor's wife especially for the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Perley Banfill have been affiliated with the Parish for many years, and have been actively interested in Christian work throughout their twenty-two years of married life.

A First Child

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan L. Hacker (Marjorie Meyer) of Newton announce the birth of their first child, a girl. Melissa Anne, on August 7 at Framingham Union Hospital.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hacker of Newton Centre and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Meyer of Newton.

Mr. Louis Fried of Newton is the baby's great grandfather.

Alice Smith Marries Bruce Houghton

Wed August 19 at a Friends' Meeting of Cambridge, were Alice Dolores Smith, daughter of Dana Andrew Smith, and Bruce Edwin Houghton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Proctor W. Houghton, all of Newton.

The bride wore a cotton eyelet dress she had made and carried a bouquet of field daisies.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts in Boston and is employed as director of the Cambridge Hotline. His wife is an elementary education major at Boston State College.

After a camping trip to Canada, they will reside in Cambridge.

"It's A Woman's World" Expo Coming To Boston

At Boston's beautiful spacious Hynes Veterans' Auditorium, adjacent to th Prudential Complex, a new and exciting Woman's Exposition, the likes of which New England has never seen, will take place on Nov. 15, 16, 17, 18.

The title, "It's A Woman's World," will develop every conceivable phase, philosophy, product and promise for today's woman, from Golden-agers to Teen-agers and all the in-between-agers. Every facet of femininity will be featured.

Gifts, give-a-ways and gala attractions, including noted personalities and speakers, with demonstrations and audience participation will add dimension to a woman's world including: Journalist-author-TV-Radio personality Paul Benzaquin; Gus Saunders, broadcasting his two-way telephone recipe show "Boston Kitchen"; Fashion lecturer, comedienne-entertainer, Ms. Bobbi Baker; Dr. Theodore X. Barber, a strong advocate of "mind control" demonstrating self-hypnosis; Wally Bruner, host of TV show, "Wally's Workshop" with his charming wife, Natalie; Diane Hofferty of the Boston Police Department, discussing the trials and training of a she-cop; Hollywood make-up artist, Beau Wilson; Fashions on Parade; Wives of Boston Athletes in an informal seminar setting; speakers from the National Genetics Foundation and the Boston Family Planning Project plus the debut of "Viva", a new magazine scheduled for October publication; Dr. Waldo Fielding lecturing on Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Boston's own Sonya Hamlin.

A "Ms. Mass. Contest," a first in this area, will look at a woman's ideals and ideas in determining a winner, who will receive among other prizes a 7-day Windjammer Cruise-for-two in Bermuda waters.

"It's A Woman's World" is billed as the most exciting and attractive exposition ever planned for the New England Woman covering a board spectrum of activities and events, designed to entertain, inform and communicate meangingful material, from involvement activities to employment advantages, from physical fitness to foods, fashion and fun.

Dedham Evening High Offers College Credit

Did you know that soon you will be able to go to college in Dedham? It all starts in two weeks.

"A unique opportunity for residents of this area to earn college credits is being sponsored by the Dedham Adult Education Center in cooperation with Massachusetts Bay Community College," states Carole H. Iwanicki, director of the Dedham Evening School.

Two levels of post-secondary education will be provided: Certification and the Associate in Science Degrees. Areas of study will be: Certification in Child Care; Associate in Science Degrees in Business Administration, Liberal Arts, Federal Government, Child Care, Law Enforcement, Fire Science and Secretarial Science.

Courses to be offered this September at Dedham High School are: Fundamentals of Computer Science, English Composition and Literature I, Finite Mathematics, Early Childhood Education, Introduction to Fire Protection, General Psychology I, Principals of Accounting I, European History I, and Beginning Italian. Additional courses will be offered if there is sufficient enrollment.

These classes are all fully accredited Massachusetts Bay courses. Anyone who holds a high school equivalency certificate or a high school diploma is eligible to apply as a degree candidate. Graduates of the Dedham Evening School are encouraged to continue on in one of these programs.

It is also important to note that high school academic records and College Board Scholastic Aptitude Tests will not be required for anyone who wishes to enroll in a college level course or courses.

Registration for classes will be held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, September 12 and 13, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at Dedham High School. Classes will begin the week of Monday, September 17. Late registration will be accepted up to and including the first class meeting.

For further information concerning transfer of credit, grading system, attendance, degree programs, etc., consult the Massachusetts Bay Community College Evening Division catalog, which may be obtained by telephoning or writing the Evening Division at the College, 57 Stanley Avenue, Watertown, MA 02172.

For further information about other Dedham Evening School courses such as the High School Diploma Program, contact the director, Mrs. Iwanicki, by calling the Dedham High School Guidance Department.

Monte Carlo Night Sept. 15 In Stoughton

Baptists Begin Devotion Days

Members of American Baptist Churches in Massachusetts will be called to a "day of repentance" on Sunday, Sept. 16, to mark the opening of 100 days of devotion concluding on Christmas Eve.

Churches throughout the state will have special events including study groups covering 15 Sundays, but the emphasis will be personal, according to the Rev. Ellis J. Holt, executive minister of the American Baptist Churches.

The call to "One Hundred Days of Devotion" comes from the Rev. Dr. Gene Bartlett, of Newton Center, president of the 6000 church American Baptist Convention, who conceived it.

"I am not comfortable with 'organized devotions,' " said Dr. Bartlett. "However, it is a mystery beyond denying that faith and new experience are the source of our energy."

"New energy comes not from greater activity but deeper receptivity. And for us that centers in Jesus Christ. We often are not sure how to appropriate that power which comes from faith in Jesus Christ. That's why we propose to go back to the simplest of disciplines; a daily exposure to his word and life," he said.

"How shall we obey what we do not know? Many of us never have put it all together. Christ remains a shadowy and vague presence, not one who became a man and walked among us, most at home in the human scene," continued the Rev. Bartlett.

"Strangely, it is an involvement in social concerns which led me to the devotional need. For any Christian, social involvement cannot rest on a secular or even a political base alone. The Christian comes to the social struggle not on the basis of expedience, but on the ground of obedience."

Dr. Bartlett noted that the "One Hundred Days" will have a definite focus. It is to see what Christ says to men and women like us who have become adapted to a secular environment.

"And because, we who daily have the secular assumptions, have a new 'viewpoint,' it is possible that Christ will say things to us never heard before. Nothing less than that will do for our expectations."

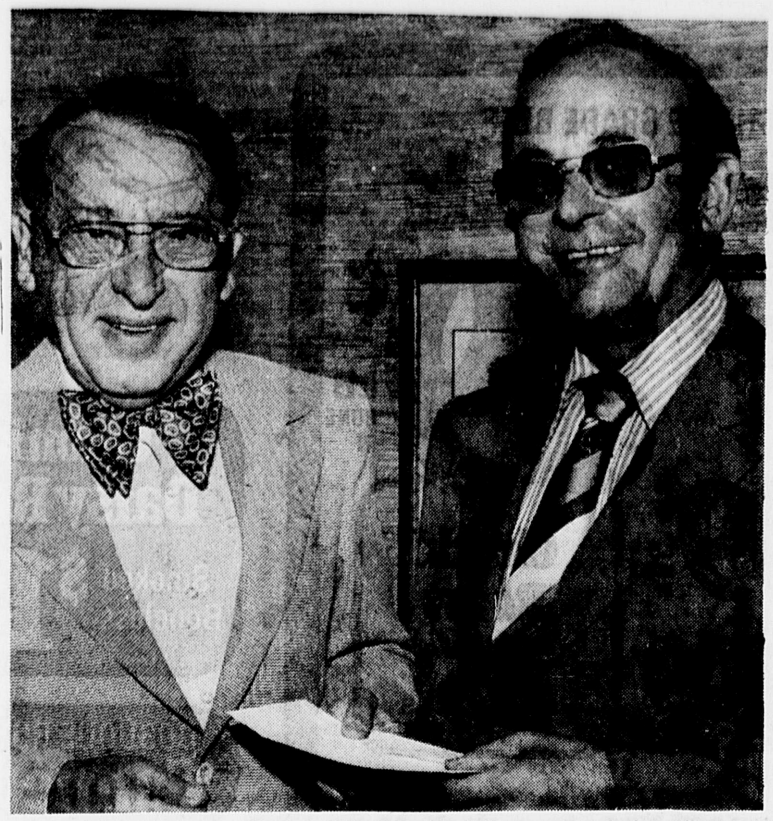
Holt pointed out that the single theme of the special observance would be, "Understanding What Christ's Word and Way Mean in a Secular Day."

Boston Hadassah Meets Sept. 12

Mrs. Maurice Silverstein of Chestnut Hill is Program Vice President for the opening meeting of the Boston Chapter of Hadassah next Wednesday (Sept. 12) at Temple Ohabei Shalom, 1187 Beacon St., Brookline.

Mrs. Marver H. Bernstein, wife of the Brandeis University President, will be the guest speaker, discussing "Israel Revisited."

A coffee hour will begin at 12:30 p.m.



Check

Harry A. Stein of Newton (left) presents a check to Albert J. Sinofsky of Newton, executive director of the Jewish Big Brother Association of Boston, establishing the Sally M. Stein Memorial Scholarship Fund to help finance the college education of "Little brothers." Over the past eight years, JBBA has provided $30,000 in scholarship aid to 32 former "little brothers."

Twins' Mothers Start Season

The Dedham Regional Chapter, of the Massachusetts Mothers of Twins Association, Inc., will hold their first meeting of the 1973-1974 season on Monday, September 10, at 8 p.m. at the Endicott Estate on East Street in Dedham with Mrs. Thomas Wynne presiding.

This will be a combination get "two"gether, get acquainted night with all members being asked to gift wrap and bring a deluxe dessert. In addition, a surprise is being planned by the program chairman using the childhood snapshots the members were asked to send her during the summer. The usual clothing exchange and coffee hour will follow.

All mothers and grandmothers of twins and triplets in Dedham and the surrounding communities are invited to attend.

Just a reminder that a family picnic for all members will take place on Sunday, Sept. 23, at Hopkinton State Park from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Hot dogs, tonic and ice cream will be furnished by the club.

If you desire any further information please call the district representative in Newton, Maureen Kelly, at 969-5079.

Christian Scientists Present Lecturer

What is the significance of spiritual healing in today's world?

James Spencer, C.S.B., of Detroit, will discuss this question in a public lecture to be given in Newton on Monday, Sept. 17.

Healing by spiritual means alone, the lecturer will bring out, "extends beyond just physical health to morality, fulfillment in home life and useful, meaningful careers. It extends to our daily, routine contacts with others, how we think about them and act toward them."

Spencer is on tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He will speak in the church auditorium at 391 Walnut street, Newtonville, at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of First Church of Christ, Scientist.

According to the lecturer "healing means proving our direct, individual relationship to our spiritual source. And this kind of healing that touches the whole spectrum of human affairs, deeply involves us in helping others and society as a whole."

A number of instances of physical healing through wholly spiritual means will be related in his lecture entitled "The Healing Method of Christian Science."

During the Korean War, Spencer served as a lieutenant in the Marine Corps. He has also served as a Chaplain in the United States Army and as a Christian Science Minister for the Armed Services. Since 1953 has been active in the public practice of Christian Science healing and he became a teacher of Christian Science in 1971.

Tremont Temple Plans Reunion

Three Newton deacons of Boston's downtown Tremont Temple Baptist Church are serving on the committee for the annual reunion and homecoming dinner to be held Monday, Sept. 17, at the Dorothy Quincy Suite of the Hancock Building, Boston.

The featured speaker will be the Rev. "Don" Lonie of Illinois, one of the nation's outstanding evangelical youth leaders. Mr. Lonie has spoken to students at more than 3,500 high school assemblies in 48 states, Canada, Europe and the Far East. He is also widely known as a speaker for business and civic groups and churches of all denominations.

The local committeemen include H. Elmore Blanton, Newtonville; Francis M. Parkhurst, Newton Highlands; and O. Berner Vikre, Chestnut Hill.

Hebrew School Registers Pupils

The Kehillath Jacob Community Hebrew School, a division of Kehillath Jacob Institute of Religious and Social Studies located at 858 Walnut St., Newton, announced this week that registration is open for new students in all departments.

All school sessions will begin immediately after Labor Day. Registration is open in the following departments: Jewish Identity School for pre-teens and teens with sessions on Sunday mornings from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

The Pre-Hebrew School with sessions from 10:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. are open to boys and girls between the ages of five and seven. The three day per week Hebrew School is open to students between the ages of seven and nine.

Registration is open for grade one and two with sessions on Sunday, Tuesday, and Thursday.

In a statement of policy about a program of Kehillath Jacob Community School, Rabbi Samuel I. Korff declared, "the program of the school is all encompassing and is based on the belief that only through an intensive program of youth oriented activities will our children experience a sense of fulfillment in Judaism.

"We have shown," said Rabbi Korff, "our commitment to Jewish youth by focusing on them completely and making their activities an integral part of the services we rendered to the community."

The school is offering a diversified program in all phases of Jewish education. The approach is experimental and the student is encouraged to examine what he learns in the context of his own life.

He will be able to incorporate what he absorbs into constructive activity by participating in our dramatics, journalism, group dynamics and Hebrew dance workshops.

The influence that Jewish history has exerted upon Western Civilization will be explored in depth. Modern improvisational methods will be used to insure a high level of class participation and expression.

So that they may progress according to their own abilities, children will receive individualized attention.

The pre-school program for children ages five, six and seven meets on Sunday morning and strives to provide the young student with diversified opportunities for enjoyable experiences in Jewish living.

A special class, known as Jewish Identity School, will be offered to those teens and preteens who have missed the opportunity for obtaining a Hebrew school education.

Youth activities for Hebrew School registration are not contingent upon affiliation with the congregation. Registration is now in progress at the Temple, 858 Walnut St., Newton. Inquiries may be made by calling 527-9427 for an appointment or for further information on registration.

The office is open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m to 4 p.m. and on Fridays from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Union Church In Waban Begins Fall Worship

On Sunday, Sept. 9, at 11 a.m. the first service of the fall season will be held at The Union Church in Waban following joint summer union services.

Greeters at the door will be Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Manchee. The Adult Choir, under the direction of Jack Fisher, will sing two anthems, "Lord, For Thy Tender Mercy's Sake," by Hilton, and "Lord, Be Merciful Unto Us," by Moe.

Pastor Boyd Johnson Jr. will speak on the theme, "He Stood Still!" Following the service a special fellowship hour will be held in the reception room.

The reception was arranged by the hospitality committee of the church's Women's Association under the leadership of Mrs. Harvey L. Alexander Jr.

Child care will be provided during the morning service.

Church school will commence on Sunday, Sept. 16, at 9:30 a.m. for the junior and middle high departments and at 11 a.m. for the nursery and lower junior departments. The school is under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor F. Hinsey, director of Christian Education.

The Young Peoples' Fellowship will hold its first meeting on Sunday, Sept. 16, at 7 p.m. with their advisor, Richard T. Jolly, assistant minister of the church.

The new director of the Junior and Youth Choirs is Mrs. Eris P. Donovan. Rehearsals will begin for the Junior Choir on Thursday, Sept. 13, at 4 p.m. and at 7 p.m., on the same date, for the Youth Choir.

The Adult Choir will rehearse at 8 p.m. and share in a hymn sing.

Temple School Open For Fall Enrollment

School enrollment for Temple Beth Avodah Hebrew and Sunday School is now open for the 1973-1974 academic year.

The school staff is under the direction of full-time principal Ms. Judith Aronson. A graduate of Brandeis University, Ms. Aronson has been associated with religious school teaching for the past 20 years.

Mother of three teenagers, she is well skilled in dealing with young people, and has instituted creative services led by the school, as well as other student conceived projects.

All the school's teachers are experienced and they include: Mrs. Edna Grad, Mrs. Leah Golden, Mrs. Hagit-Ben Akiva, Mrs. Sara-Ben-Meir, Rabbi Jake Rubenstein, Mrs. Beverley Singer, Ms. Marjorie Kaplan, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Grinfield, Mrs. Mildred Freeman, Mr. Lewis Etcoff, and Miss Lillian Rabinowitz.

Rabbi Robert Miller, spiritual leader of the Temple, works closely with the children, guiding and encouraging them in their learning, and the confirmation class flourished in his hands.

For more information concerning school enrollment, interested parents may call the Temple office at 527-0045.

Temple Reyim Opens School

Hadassah Regional Meeting

The first Open Regional Board Meeting of the Hadassah women's organization will take place on Tuesday, Sept. 18, at the Maridor on Rte. 9 in Framingham. Chapters which receeived National awards will be cited at this time.

Reservations for the all-day meeting may be made by contacting Mrs. Nathan Hill at 396-8010, or the Hadassah office before 1 p.m., at 734-5444.

Mrs. Elihue Bell of Newton Highlands is New England Region Recording Secretary.

Laurie Lipkind Completes Audit Intern Program

Laurie J. Lipkind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Lipkind, 36 McCarthy Road, Newton Centre, has recently completed the Summer Intern Program sponsored by the Department of the State Auditor. The program was initiated by State Auditor Thaddeus Buczko in order to give students an opportunity to work under supervision on various audits including local housing authorities, state agencies, and redevelopment authorities.

Miss Lipkind is a graduate of New South High School and is currently attending the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Temple Emeth Elects Membership Officers

Joseph A. Miller, president of Temple Emeth, has appointed Coleman L. Bornstein of Newton and Mrs. Bernaard S. Kaplan of Chestnut Hill as co-chairmen of the Temple Emeth Membership Committee.

Bornstein attended Boston Latin and is a graduate of Tufts University and Harvard Law School. He is a member of the Jewish War Veterans, Knights of Pythias and Masons.

He is also a Director of the Suburban National Bank of Arlington, Chairman of the Group Insurance Committee and Tufts Alumni Steering Committee.

Bornstein is a partner in the law firm of Bornstein and Cohen. He is married to the former Eleanor Miller of Lock Haven, Pa. They have two children, Warren Jay and Susan and reside at 107 Adeline Road, Newton Centre.

Eleanor Kaplan graduated from the Jeremiah Burke High School and attended Boston University and is married to attorney Bernard S. Kaplan. The Kaplans have three children, Meredith, James and Susanne.

Temple Emeth offers to families of the Brookline, Newton and West Roxbury area the modern inspiration of conservative Judaism, religious education for their children, adult forums and social activities for every age group.

Bags Save Goodwill $44,500

In 1970, Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries in Boston, Lynn and Worcester asked the public to donate used grocery bags. Goodwill stopped providing the large donor and store customer bags at that time, because of increased costs.

In the last three and a half years, Morgan Memorial has saved over $44,500 by not supplying Goodwill bags. Goodwill bags were distributed prior to that by truck drivers making home pick-ups, at the Goodwill Thrift Stores and Collection Boxes.

Since contributors started donating bags and using their own bags, Goodwill has been helping the cause of recycling, too. The manufacture of Goodwill bags was drawing on the already short supply of paper.

at Morgan Memorial, handicapped men and women receive work evaluation, job training and transitional employment while refurbishing donated materials. The materials are then sold in Goodwill Thrift Stores, and sales dollars return to the workers at Morgan Memorial in the form of wages.

Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries is only 79 per cent self-supporting, and relies on public support to sustain its services. People can donate materials they no longer want (but Goodwill does) by dropping them in Goodwill Collection Boxes or calling for a truck pick-up.

Strangest Food

CHICAGO (UPI) — Here's a food that's perhaps the strangest of all—and, at the same time, the most abundant and the most difficult for man to obtain.

It's plankton and, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, all animal life in the sea is ultimately dependent on it for existence. Yet mankind only recently has become aware of its importance and potential.

Plankton is defined as that form of marine life which drifts under the influence of currents. There are few if any masses of water without it. The great majority of planktonic organisms are microscopic plants and animals, but plankton also includes large organisms, such as jellyfish.

Varying widely in shape and size, planktonic life usually is found in recognizable communities, often in such quantity as to form distinct patches in the sea.

Some fish, such as herring and mackerel, feed largely on plankton and it is the chief food of the largest animals of the world—the blue and fin whales. So dense are the plankton swarms in the Antarctic that the whales, by taking gulps of water and straining out the plankton, can feed fast enough to attain a weight of 60 to 70 tons within two years.

Little was known of any except the largest species of plankton until 1845, when Johannes Muller towed a conical net of fine-meshed cloth behind a boat and collected a sample of the minute plants and animals. Many forms new to science were soon collected, even in coastal waters.

Plankton's Role

Biologists soon established plankton's role in marine life cycles but it was not until the 1930s that attempts were made to fit it into man's economic development. So far only a few algae have been cultured, but success has laid the basis for attempts at larger efforts.

One project involved "manuring" of large tanks of natural seawater to insure a rich food supply for newly hatched oysters. In another experiment increased planktonic production was effected with the manuring of a small area of the sea.

Young fish in the area grew at twice the normal rate.

Whatever can be achieved through stimulation of plankton growth, it is known that the world's oceans already contain literally mountains of it—estimates of planktonic plants alone are from 100 billion to 1 trillion tons produced annually. Yet only a minute fraction of this weight is available to man in the form of edible fish.

The big problem in utilizing this immense resource is that of filtering the microscopic plants and animals. If man can develop an automatic filter as efficient as that of the whale and the herring, the job will be accomplished and literally oceans of food will be available to a hungry world—year in, year out.

Don't worry about the length of skirts this fall, just so long as the hemline flirts with the knee —just above, mid or just below. Nothing indicates that the day of the fashion dictate or dictator is over so much as the vagueness of hemlines. Women can wear what suits their figures and their dignity without feeling that frumpiness that used to go along with last year's look.

Israel Committee Honors J. Fialkow

JAY L. FIALKOW

Jay L. Fialkow of Newton Centre will be honored for his outstanding achievement on behalf of the Jewish community and the cause of Israel and its economic development at a testimonial dinner on Saturday, Sept. 29, at Spring Valley Country Club.

The dinner is the third annual event to be held under the auspices of the Greater Boston Committee for Israel Bonds.

The announcement of the dinner was made by Melvin A. Ross, chairman of the Spring Valley event, who pointed out that the dinner will focus attention on the 1973 worldwide campaign to achieve an unprecedented goal of $360 million in Israel Bond sales in the United States and other countries of the free world to strengthen Israel's economy in the face of mounting burdens.

The Greater Boston Committee has adopted a record quota of $2.5 million for this year's Israel Bond drive.

Fialkow has long been active on behalf of Israel and the Jewish community. He is presently campaign chairman of New England Histadrut; formerly the recipient of Man of the Year Award, Histadrut; and has been honored by the Women's Apparel Team of Combined Jewish Philanthropies. The guest of honor is a member of the Board of Governors, Spring Valley Country Club.

Fialkow, a senior partner of Kaye and Fialkow, was formerly Assistant Attorney General under the Honorable Edward W. Brooke and Elliott Richardson. He is Treasurer, Normest Homes, Inc.; former president, B'nai B'rith Apparel Lodge; member, Board of Directors, Anti-Defamation League; member, Board of Directors, Temple Mishkan Tefila; Class Agent, Harvard College; member, Harvard Fund Council; and former Director, Apparel Industries of New England.

Summer Intern At RCA Plant

Thomas J. Teixeira of West Newton is one of 16 top-ranked college students completing RCA's Summer Intern Program of work in a company plant or office, it was announced today.

Teixeira is assigned to the Aerospace Systems Division in Burlington, and works in the area of automatic monitoring and control systems for building management functions. He is majoring in electrical engineering at M.I.T.

RCA Government and Commercial Systems initiated the Summer Intern Program in 1968 to give outstanding students an opportunity to gain working experience in their fields of study.

G&CS is an organization of five RCA divisions with headquarters at Camden, Moorestown, and Princeton, N.J.; Burlington, Mass. and Van Nuys, Calif.

Local Firm Names New Director

LFE Corporation announced the election of Bernard J. O'Keefe as a director.

O'Keefe is president, chairman of the board, and chief executive officer of EG&G, Inc., an international science and electronic manufacturing firm based in Bedford. He is also a director of New England Merchants National Bank, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., Intercontinental Energy Corporation, Health Advancement, Inc., and Cer Geonuclear Corporation.

He has served as first vice chairman of the board of higher education of Mass., and is a past president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

O'Keefe resides in Wayland, is married and has four children.

LFE Corporation, headquartered in Waltham, is a major producer of control systems and equipment for the industrial and municipal markets. LFE also provides maintenance and consulting engineering services.

ERNEST I. GLICKMAN, 17 Peach Tree Lane, Newton Center, has been promoted to the position of vice president with Harbridge House, Inc., an international, management consultant and education firm.

Community National Assigns VP To Newton

Community National Bank has announced that George A. Munroe, vice president, has been assigned to the Branch Administration Division to assist with business development in the Newton area.

He will be at the bank's Newton Corner office and will be responsible for the operation of the branch.

Munroe is a graduate of Brighton High School and attended Boston University. He joined the staff of Community National Bank (formerly Newton National) in 1962 as an assistant cashier. In his previous capacity at Newton National he served as cashier, secretary to the board of directors, and loan officer. He was named a vice president in 1970 and also handled the bank's personnel department.

Munroe is a member of the Newton Lodge of Elks and the director and treasurer of the Newton Taxpayers' Association. He is presently serving as vice president of the Norfolk-Middlesex Bankers' Association, and as president of the Newton Bankers' Association.

Munroe and his wife Peg live in Hyde Park.

Rotarians Hear William Oliskey

The Rotary Club of Chestnut Hill was addressed by William Olisky, staff member of the Newton-Wellesley-Weston Multi-Service Center, at their recent meeting held at Valle's Steak House, Route 9, Chestnut Hill.

He described the work of the Center which started in 1971 as a drug counselling and aid center and now encompasses an evening medical clinic, an emergency housing facility and counselling service for the 13-21 age group; covering drug, family or individual problems.

A large staff of volunteers has made the facility an effective community organization.

The future plans of the Center include a new building to house their activities, publishing of a "Survival Booklet of Adolescents," and the broadening of a community educational program.

Olisky noted that we have a large drug problem in the community, although it is not as obvious as a few years ago.

President Marvin Cantor announced that Jim Williams, Governor of District 791, will visit Chestnut Hill Rotary on Aug. 24 at Valle's Steak House.

Hammett Joins Boston Bank

Lowell Hammett has been appointed manager of the Mortgage Servicing Department of the Suffolk Franklin Savings Bank of Boston.

Hammett came to the Suffolk Franklin Savings Bank from the Newton Savings Bank where he was employed as an assistant treasurer, and with whom he was associated for thirteen years.

Hammett attended Boston University, the American Institute of Banking, and is currently attending the School of Mortgage Banking.

He is past Committee Chairman of the Boy Scouts of America in Newton and a past Director of the Newton Center Business Association.

Hammett, who formerly lived in Vineyard Haven, Martha's Vineyard, currently lives in Natick with his wife, Jean, and their two boys.

Richard Joins Insurance Club

Howard J. Richard, CLU of 71 Commonwealth Ave., Chestnut Hill, has qualified as a member of the 1973 President's Council of New York Life Insurance Company.

The President's Council is composed of the top 500 agents in the company's field force of 9,000 throughout the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico. Membership is based on 1972-1973 sales records, according to General Manager William F. Leisman Jr., CLU.

A whale, which can drown if its lungs take in water, is able to stay beneath the surface up to 50 minutes without breathing.

LOWELL HAMMETT

New York State firms manufacture products classified in 409 of the 422 industries listed by Standard Industrial Classification codes.

Soybeans generally require more water for germination than corn, according to the University of Tennessee extension service.

DON'T buy the new wide lapels . . . they emphasize girth. A medium lapel is available and is a far better choice.

We'll put a few DON'TS into one sentence: Don't wear tight knit shirts, big wide belts and flashy buckles, excessively flared trousers, bulky-looking shoes or shoes with two and three tone coloring.

Here are some tailoring tips to look for:

The sleeve of your jacket should be smoothly sewn into the armhole.

The pocket flap should be accurately sewn into the coat so that there is a perfect pattern match and no puckers.

Patterns should match at the seams, lapels, across the front and the collar with the back.

Fabric matching: The cloth of the under-collar should blend with the suit's fabric rather than a one-cloth for everything type of match.

Watch for an ample overlay to the back vents, side or center. That's an insurance against gaping over a generous posterior.

The vest is a very important item in today's suit-dressing. The question is, do you button all the buttons? Experts maintain that buttoning depends on the style of the vest. If the bottom button is not intended for usage, the cut of the vest will indicate this by veering away from the straight button line. However, if the buttons have a straight line, the decision is optional.

The standard rule for length of jacket is, the coat should be long enough to cover the seat of the trousers, but no longer than the knuckle of his thumb when he stands with hands at his sides.

Sleeves should come to the break at the wrist, the shirt sleeve showing that half or three-quarter-inch below.

Trouser length is a matter of style or wearer's choice. The present trend is trousers touching the shoe tops, or breaking just slightly. Many uncuffed, flared styles, are angled to be longer at the back than in front.

For years, men's fashions inched along at a snail's pace. Today men are demanding and getting classic but non-stodgy clothing and beauty aids once thought belonging only to women. Men have finally achieved liberation.

Goodwill Saves $44,500 By Collecting Bags

In 1970, Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries in Boston, Lynn and Worcester asked the public to donate used grocery bags. Goodwill stopped providing the large donor and store customer bags at that time, because of increased costs.

In the last three and a half years, Morgan Memorial has saved over $44,500 by not supplying Goodwill bags. Goodwill bags were distributed prior to that by truck drivers making home pick-ups, at the Goodwill Thrift Stores and Collection Boxes.

Since contributors started donating bags and using their own bags, Goodwill has been helping the cause of recycling, too. The manufacture of Goodwill bags was drawing on the already short supply of paper.

At Morgan Memorial, handicapped men and women receive work evaluation, job training and transitional employment while refurbishing donated materials. The materials are then sold in Goodwill Thrift Stores, and sales dollars return to the workers at Morgan Memorial in the form of wages.

Many clubs and organizations helped Goodwill collect bags. Some groups over the years have gathered as few as 25 bags to as many as 5000. These costs savings have helped Goodwill maintain the quality of its rehabilitation programs at a time of rapidly rising costs.

Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries is only 79 percent self-supporting, and relies on public support to sustain its services. People can donate materials they no longer want (but Goodwill does) by dropping them in Goodwill Collection Boxes or calling for a truck pick-up.

Applications Accepted For Mail Handlers

Applications are now being accepted, and examinations will be given to establish a new register of eligibles from which future mail handler vacancies in the United States Postal Service, Boston, Ma. will be filled. All interested persons who meet the requirements are urged to apply. No experience is required. All applicants will be required to take a written examination. Applicants must be physically able to perform the duties required. A physical examination will be required before appointment.

The general age requirement is 18 years or 16 years for high school graduates. All applicants must be citizens of or owe allegiance to the United States of America. The starting salary is $4.31 per hour with increases to $5.50 per hour.

Consideration to fill these positions will be made of the highest eligibles on the register who are available.

Application Form 2479-AB is available at all Post Offices. Send applications to the employment Examiner, Postmaster, Boston, MA 02109 or to the Employment Examiner, Framingham, MA 01701 or to the Employment Examiner, Brockton, MA 02401.

Applications must be submitted before September 14, 1973. Applicants will be notified of date, time and place of examination and will be sent sample questions.

SPECTACULAR YEAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — American business plans to spend a record $105.5 billion for new facilities this year, an increase of nearly $17 billion, or more than 19 per cent over 1972, reports the Economics Department of Mc Graw-Hill Publications in its 26th Annual Survey of Business' Plans for New Plants and Equipment.

The survey says this is the highest percentage gain planned since the 1956 spring survey when business investment was expected to soar by 30 per cent. "1973 investment plans have been stepped up since our fall survey, taken in October, indicated an 11 per cent increase," said Douglas Greenwald, McGraw-Hill's chief economist.

MONTY MAKES IT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The name of Monty Hall, year-round Santa Claus of "Let's Make a Deal," was added to Hollywood's immortal Walk of Fame.

Since 1869, Missouri forests have contributed 5 per cent of the country's oak lumber.

BC To Honor Newton

The Boston College Athletic Department has designated Saturday evening, Sept. 15, as Newton Night - "A Salute to the City of Newton on its Centennial."

The highlight of the evening will be the football game between Boston College and Temple University, to be played at Alumni Stadium, with a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

The Honorable Theodore Mann, mayor of Newton, has agreed to be the honorary chairman of the evening, and Boston College has come up with a committee of outstanding names of people who either live or work in the City of Newton.

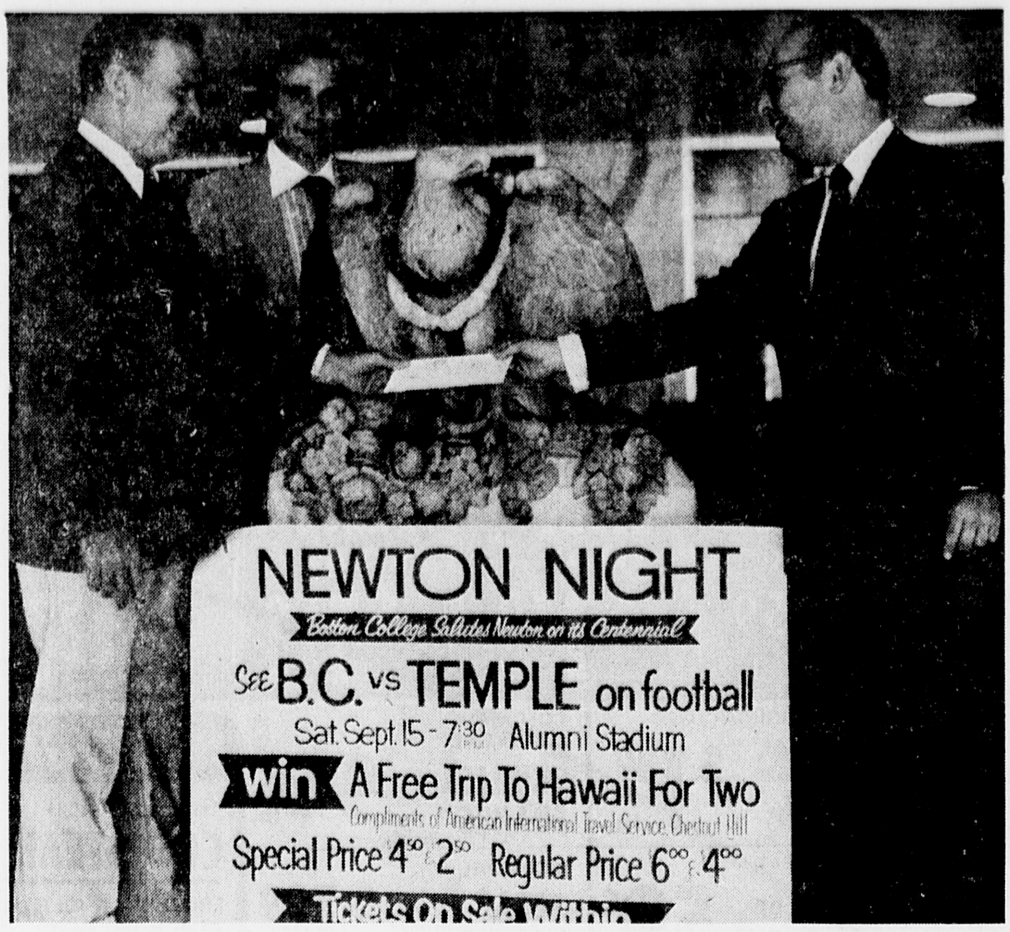
Tickets for the game are being offered to Newton residents at a special reduced rate: $6 tickets for $4.50 and $4 tickets for $2.50, with 50 cents from each sale going to the buyer's favorite charity in the city of Newton, e.g., Pop Warner, the Jimmy Fund, et-cetera.

As a special bonus, the 50 cent donation will entitle each person buying a ticket to a chance to win a trip for two to Hawaii donated by the American International Travel Service, whose headquarters is in Chestnut Hill.

Mayor Mann will draw the lucky number at halftime, and the high school football teams of Newton, St. Sebastian's and Our Lady's will also be saluted at that time. A special tribute will be tendered to Jim Ronayne, the very successful coach at Newton High School, who just recently retired from coaching to devote full time to the athletic director's duties.

The committee will begin the sale of tickets throughout the Newtons on the Labor Day weekend. A great number of Newton merchants have agreed to place signs announcing Newton Night and football schedules in their store windows, and a great number have also agreed to sell tickets at their place of business.

All in all, it is shaping up as a fun night for residents of the Garden City and their families. As Boston College athletic director Bill Flynn put it, "It is a very fitting occasion, giving us the opportunity to pay a well-deserved tribute to our Newton neighbors."



Bill Flynn (left) athletic director at Boston College, receives from Arthur Waltzman (right), president of American International Travel Service, Inc. of Newton, two tickets to Hawaii which will be given away to a lucky Newton resident during half-time ceremonies of the B.C.-Temple football game on Sept. 15. Tickets for the B.C. Salute to Newton's Centennial may be purchased at the offices of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Co., and at various selected businesses throughout the city. Charles Caruso, vice president of the travel service, and the Boston College Eagle look on as the free plane tickets are passed.

Power Squadron Offers Free Boating Course

A boating course emphasizing safe handling techniques is being offered by the Pequossette unit of the United States Power Squadrons.

Classes begin at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 10 at the East Junior High School, 341 Mt. Auburn St., Watertown. Registration will take place at the first class.

The free, 12-week course is open to men and women, 18 and over, and to teenagers, under 18, who are accompanied by an adult. Admission is based on a desire to learn correct boating techniques. Ownership of a boat is not required.

The course is aimed at teaching the minimal knowledge required for safe boating and developing the boatman's confidence. Subject matter covered in the classes includes boat handling under favorable and adverse conditions, seamanship, rules of the road, aids to navigation, compass and chart instruction, running lights and equipment, boat trailering and more.

Completion of the basic boating course is one of the prerequisites for admission into any of the United States Power Squadrons. Squadron members further their boating knowledge by taking advanced courses. Pequossette Power Squadron advanced courses are held at the Weston Junior High School.

Squadron members come from all walks of life and share a common interest in boating. Members live in Newton, Waltham, Watertown, Weston, Wayland, Wellesley, Belmont, Lincoln, Needham, Brookline and other Boston suburbs.

The United States Power Squadron is the largest volunteer educational organization for boatmen in the world. Its members are dedicated to promoting safety in boating through education and they donate much of their time to this service. There are more than 400 squadrons in the United States, with approximately 85,000 members.

For additional information about the course, call Ned Lensen in Newton at 969-7799.

Bike Riders Aid Needy

The Second Annual Ride-A-Bike-for-the-Retarded, sponsored by the Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) in cooperation with the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Citizens (MARC) has netted over $200,000, according to figures released today by Dr. William H. Hebert, MTA Executive Secretary.

Approximately 30,000 members of local teacher associations, school children, Highwheelers of America, League of American Wheelman, Massachusetts Federation of Womens' Clubs, Jaycees, Coca-Cola Bottling Company, and the 187th Infantry Brigade Army Reserve Unit joined together in over 100 Massachusetts communitites last April to raise money for education and research for the state's retarded citizens.

"The project has been so rewarding that MTA hopes to make Ride-A-Bike an annual project," said Hebert. "Teachers, their students, and other cooperating groups and individuals worked long, hard hours to make Ride-A-Bike a success and has been worth the effort in every sense of the word," he added.

DAR In State Meet

Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be represented by several members at the Fall State Meeting of the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution to be held Sept. 7 and 8, at the Wychmere Harbor Club, Harwichport, Mass.

Mrs. Joseph P. Maloney, regent, and Mrs. William A. Hurley, vice regent, will be delegates. Alternates are Mrs. Leslie W. Irwin, Mrs. Ross E. Langill, Mrs. James S. Gove, and Mrs. Herbert Anderson.

Holding positions in the state organization are Mrs. Hurley, state chairman, American History Month; Mrs. Irwin, assistant state registrar; and Mrs. David Hamblen, III, state historian.

The meeting will be prefaced by workshops on Friday afternoon, and on Friday evening a banquet will be held. Principal speaker will be Col. John T. Murphy, USAF, Staff Judge Advocate, Hanscom Air Field, Bedford. He will discuss "Our Commitment as Patriots."

A business session is scheduled for Saturday morning, followed by a luncheon at 12:15 p.m. The latter will be highlighted by the presentation of a special award, given in honor of State Regent Mrs. George C. Houser by her husband, George C. Houser, a member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

This will be given to an outstanding cadet from the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, Buzzards Bay. Rear Admiral Lee Herrington, U. S. Marine Service, president of the Academy, will present the cadet who is superior in the study of American history.

Mrs. Houser will preside at all meetings. Also present will be the state officers: Vice Regent Mrs. Raymond F. Fleck; Chaplain Mrs. Franklin R. Swan; Recording Secretary Mrs. Donald B. Atkins; Corresponding Secretary Miss Myra I. Hatfield; Organizing Secretary Mrs. Lauren H. Dearborn; Treasurer Mrs. Elmer J. Smith; Assistant Treasurer Mrs. Donald LeStage, Jr.; Registrar Mrs. Anthony A. Barbara; Assistant Registrar Mrs. Leslie W. Irwin; Historian Mrs. David Hamblen, III; Librarian Mrs. Elwood L. Yeager; Curator Mrs. Walter T. Williams.

State counselors will also attend: Mrs. Edwin W. Currier; Mrs. Hubert P. Cushman; Mrs. Donald M. Guiler; Mrs. Gerald E. Riley; and Mrs. William A. Tracy.

Obituaries

Oscar R. Wolfson

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, Sept. 4, for Oscar R. Wolfson, 91, of 180 Allen Ave., Newton, who died on Sunday, Sept. 2.

Mr. Wolfson was born in Vilna, Russia, and was a barber in Woburn for over 50 years prior to his retirement.

He is survived by his wife, Anna (Abramowitz), and was the devoted father of Richard of Malden, Raymond and Crafton, both of Newton, Bertram of Melrose and Rita Rotman of Malden. Mr. Wolfson also leaves 13 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren.

Services were held at the Stanetsky-Schlossberg-Solomon Memorial Chapel, 1668 Beacon St., Brookline, with Rabbi Samuel Chiel officiating. Cantor Gabriel Hochberg assisted. Interment was in Sharon Memorial Park.

Expressions of sympathy in Mr. Wolfson's memory may be made to the Heart Fund, 677 Beacon St., Boston.

Rena Spikes

Funeral services were held Tuesday (Sept. 4) for Mrs. Rena (Madlin) Spikes in Myrtle Baptist Church.

Mrs. Spikes, 85, of 47 River St., West Newton, died Thursday (Aug. 30) at the Chetwynde Nursing Home after a long illness.

Born in Munroe, N.C., she had made her home in West Newton for more than 50 years.

Activie in Myrtle Baptist Church, Mrs. Pikes was a charter member of the Daughters of Myrtle and a member of the Deaconess Board and the Missionary Society. She was also a member of the Newton Community Center.

Wife of the late Winthrop O. Spikes, Mrs. Spikes is survived by three sons, George and Orpheus of Detroit and James of West Newton; a sister, Mrs. Mabel MacDowell of Southern Pines, N.C.; three grandchildren, six great grandchildren and a close friend, Ellen Snow of Wellesley Hills.

Burial is in Newton Cemetery.

New York State leads the nation in exports by the printing and publishing industry.

Clifford E. Asaff

Memorial services for Clifford E. Asaff will be held Friday (Sept. 7) in Auburndale Congregational Church at 2 p.m.

Mr. Asaff, 23, of 93 Hancock St., Auburndale, was one of three men who drowned last week when a single-engine plane crashed into the ocean about 10 miles east of Scituate.

Born in Boston, he had lived in Auburndale most of his life and graduated from Newton High School in 1968. He was active on the school's baseball, hockey and tennis teams. Mr. Asaff also attended Boston University for three and a half years and worked as a self-employed painter.

He is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Annis G. Asaff; three brothers, Ernest and Allen, both of Marshfield and Wade of Watertown; a sister, Mrs. Patricia Laughlin of Hyannis; and his gradmothers, Mrs. Minnie Asaff of Auburndale and Mrs. Florence Ferry of Sudbury.

Mary F. Sullivan

The funeral of Mrs. Mary F. (Connelly) Sullivan was held in St. Bernard's Church Wednesday (Sept. 5).

Mrs. Sullivan, 66, of 121 Farwell St., Newtonville, died Sunday (Sept. 2) in Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a brief illness.

She had lived in West Newton for many years before moving to Newtonville several years ago.

Widow of Joseph A. Sullivan, Mrs. Sullivan is survived by her son, Joseph A., Jr., of Milford, N.H.: four sisters, Mrs. Kathryn B. Murphy of Waltham, Mrs. Ruth M. Mooers of Weston, Mrs. Helen P. Farry of Newton Centre and Mrs. O'Donnell of Norwood, and one grandchild.

Bernard F. Thomas

A funeral mass was said in Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church Friday (Aug. 31) for Bernard F. Thomas.

Mr. Thomas, 59, of 30 Abbott St., Newton Upper Falls, died suddenly at work Monday (Aug. 27).

He was a former treasurer of Local No. 525 United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers and a member of the Holy Name Society at his church.

Mr. Thomas is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna M. Thomas; his sons, Bernard F. Jr. of Framingham, Francis C. of Merimack, N.H., and Joseph J. of Newton; and two grandchildren.

Burial is in St. Mary's Cemetery, Needham.

Thomas J. Lepore

Funeral services for retired Newton Firefighter Thomas J. Lepore were to be held at 9 a.m. Thursday (Sept. 6) in the Church of Our Lady.

Mr. Lepore, 68, of 35 Walker St., Newtonville, died Monday (Sept. 3) in Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a long illness. He worked as a buyer for the Republican Shoe Co. after retiring from the fire department.

He was a member of the Bosox Club and the Gridiron Club of Boston too.

Mr. Lepore is survived by his wife, Mrs. Grace Lepore; two daughters, Mrs. Grace Vlack of Plaistow, N.H. and Mrs. Jane Barclay of Edmunton, Alberta, Canada; 5 brothers, Domenic of Colorado Springs, Colo., Lawrence and Nicholas of Worcester, Charles of Framingham and Ralph of Miami and nine grandchildren.

Burial will be in Plaistow.

Hospital Administrators Elect Brines Chairman

William S. Brines, administrative vice president of Newton-Wellesley Hospital, has been named chairman-elect of the American College of Hospital Administrators (ACHA), a professional society of over 9,500 hospital and health care administrators in the United States and Canada.

His election and installation took place at the 39th annual meeting of the College held concurrently with the American Health Congress in Chicago.

In the normal progression of executive service within the ACHA, Brines will serve one year each as chairman-elect, chairman and past chairman. He will become chairman of the College during its 40th Annual Meeting in 1973.

Brines, a veteran of over 35 years administrative experience, has been administrative vice president of Newton-Wellesley Hospital since 1954. Previously, he was associated with Malden Hospital.

A Fellow of the ACHA since 1952, Brines served on the professional society's Council of Regents from 1964-1969 and the Board of Governors since 1969.

He is a member and past president of the Superintendents Club (1963-1965), New England Hospital Assembly (1956-1957) and Greater Boston Hospital Association. He is a member and past delegate at large of the American Hospital Association (1968), former trustee of the Massachusetts Hospital Association (1946-1948), and past board director of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston (1967-1970).

Author of many articles and professional papers, Mr. Brines received the New England Hospital Assembly's citation for service in 1956.

Maternity Specialist Joins Hospital Staff

A maternity clinical specialist has joined the staff of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital's Outpatient Department.

The title is brand new and Mrs. Joanne Costa is one of only four nurses to have completed training in this special area in a new two-year graduate program introduced by Boston College and the Harvard Medical School.

Mrs. Costa will follow all obstetrical clinic patients from beginning of pregnancy to the six-week checkup after childbirth, in an effort to provide continuity of care with emphasis on primary or preventive care.

Heretofore, clinic patients have seen members of the medical staff in rotation, and deliveries have been handled by whichever doctor is covering the obstetrical service at the time. Mrs. Costa's presence in the clinic means that patients will now see her, along with the doctor, on each visit, and that they will have a familiar face on hand at the time of delivery as well.

Mrs. Costa is one of eight clinical specialists to have finished the Boston College-Harvard Medical School program designed to give nurses advanced training in patient care; most graduate nursing work in the past has been geared to work in administration and nursing education. The first graduates of this program include four clinical specialists in maternity and four in pediatrics. All are concerned with primary distributive care, which is the care and guidance of healthy persons for the purpose of maintaining health.

Mrs. Costa, who has been obstetrics-maternity oriented throughout her career at Mt. Auburn and Cambridge City Hospitals, is the only one of her group to join a hospital outpatient department, and this makes Newton-Wellesley Hospital the first to boast a clinical specialist in this position.

Mrs. Costa's interest if family-centered maternity care. She believes in enhancing pre-and post-natal care by giving continuity and support throughout this period, with special recognition to the psychological stages of the maternity cycle. She makes one home visit before, and one after, the baby's birth in order to meet the family and review the home situation.

The Newton-Wellesley clinic currently sees some ten-to-twelve patients a week, over half of them are sixteen to eighteen years old. Mrs. Costa sees patients during regular hours and is able to help by telephone, in consultation with the medical staff if necessary, at other times.

The Newton-Wellesley obstetrical and gynecological clinic is open to anyone in Newton, Wellesley, and Weston who does not have access to private medical care, as is the new Comprehensive Child Care Service, one of several hospital clinics providing outpatient care on a similar basis.

Lipof

Company, the city now has a workable means of requiring landlords to bring their properties up to code standards, he said.

As chairman of the Aldermanic Drug Committee and the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Alchoholism and Drugs, Lipof has been responsible for the present mandatory aspect the drug education program in the Newton Public Schools. His committees have spent many hours analyzing the various ongoing drug programs in the city.

Said Lipof, "As a public official, I consider it my responsibility to be constantly informed of the needs of my constituency, and my privilege to try to meet these needs."

In this spirit, Alderman Lipof recently filed a resolution which brought togetherice cream shop owners, city officials, police and social workers to establish a better plan for public safety in and around these shops.

As a result of his efforts, the administration has convinced the shop owners to contribute to a fund which will provide on-street social workers to work with the youth and protect users of the late-night sandwich and ice cream shops in Newton.

Lipof also filed and saw approval of the installation of sidewalk ramps in West Newton Square and Newton Centre. These ramps make it easier for wheelchairs, baby carriages and other such vehicles to get over curbs. The elderly have also found the ramps helpful in providing them with more mobility and easier access to the two trial shopping areas where the ramps are in use.

Lipof says that he plans to request an expansion of these ramps throughout the city next year.

In addition to his chairmanship of the Drug Committees, Alderman Lipof is a member of the Public Works, Street Traffic and Land Use Committees. He recently called for a revision of the city's 50-year-old zoning ordinances, with the specific intent of preserving the remaining open spaces in the city.

In 1971, Governor Francis Sargent appointed Alderman Lipof to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

Last year, the M.A.P.C. president appointed Lipof as vice-chairman of the Technical Advisory Committee on Housing. In this position, Lipof has met with such national proponents of better housing as Mayor-elect Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles and Secretary George Romney.

Lipof said, "I have chosen to face, head on, the problem of providing low and moderate income housing on a regional basis without distroying the basic character and integrity of a given neighborhood. This can and must be done."

As a member of M.A.P.C., the alderman filed a resolution criticizing the national administration for its many cutbacks on human services. The resolution was unanimously approved and sent to Senators Brooke and Kennedy.

Several months ago, Alderman Lipof was elected to the area board of the Department of Mental Health. He will be representing Newton on this board.

"It is my goal," he said, "that through this affiliation, I will be able to facilitate better coordination between Newton city government and the various mental health agencies within our area."

Lipof is a Boston realtor engaged in commercial and industrial real estate management, as well as real estate consulting. He also serves as a director of the Mt. Vernon Co-operative Bank and a director of Sharon Memorial Park. He is an advisory director of the Garden City Trust and Vice-President of the newly formed Financial Professions Lodge of B'nai Brith.

Alderman Lipof and his wife, Emily, were Newton Community co-chairmen for the 1970-1971 United Fund Campaign. They are members of Temple Shalom in West Newton. The Lipofs live in Newton Centre with their five children, Cheryl, Ronald, Mark Richard and, Philip.

It's Time To Start Thinking Hockey Says Youth Hockey Association

Although today's temperature is in the 80's, it is nevertheless necessary to spend a few minutes thinking about hockey.

The 1973-74 plans for Newton Youth Hockey call for a total enrollment of 550 boys on 32 teams. That represents an increase of 25 percent over last year and 1100 percent more than our first year, 1967. Obviously the key to success now is organization and early planning.

Already we have contracted for all our ice time for the coming season; developed a budget of income and expenses; and planned the various teams and arranged their schedules.

So that you as parents may be ready to meet your obligations, let me provide the following information:

1. The boys in the program will be divided into two separate groups.

A. Intramurals — 24 teams will be formed and skate in an all-Newton league for 30 weeks. After initial organizing sessions, each team will play one game every Sunday and practice once every other Tuesday or Wednesday, all at Wells Ave. This gives each skater 45 hours of ice time, more than last year, but, for the same price as 1972-73 - $75 per boy. In addition to ice time, this amount pays for referees, jerseys, insurance and team equipment. Each boy will be responsible for providing his own equipment other than the jersey.

b. Travel Teams (formerly call All-Stars) — Commencing in late September, these eight teams will play weekly games against other towns in the Middlesex League at the Burlington Ice Palace. Additionally, they will practice once each week at the Fessenden School in West Newton. The season will run for 34 weeks, a total of more than 68 hours of ice, at a cost of $140 per boy. This fee is slightly lower than last year's total cost, but because of our commitments, we must collect it all by November 1.

2. Registration has been scheduled for September 15 and 16 at the Charles River Skating Rink for Newton boys, aged 6 to 18. Your boy must register at that time. Information booths manned by Association Officers will be set up to answer any questions you may have about the program. Boys will be required to pay an initial fee of $40 at registration. Because of the nature of our organization, no refunds will be permitted. If you are one of the few parents who still owe a balance for 1972-73, that amount must also be paid before your son will be admitted to this year's program.

3. Your boy may, if he chooses, try-out for a position on a Travel Team at sessions scheduled the week of September 17. The exact dates and hours will be posted at registration. Boys selected for Travel Teams will begin team practices immediately. Those boys not selected for Travel Teams will begin Intramural workouts in early October. Intramural teams will be formed by October 23.

4. On October 28 final tuition payments are due. The balance of $35 for Intramural boys and $100 for Travel Team boys will be collected at the rink on that date. No boy will be allowed to skate thereafter unless his total bill is paid.

We hope that these brief notes will be helpful. Because of the costs involved, we felt that you and your son(s) would want to know about the program as early as possible.

The members of the Executive Committee are excited about the prospects of a vastly improved hockey program for the upcoming season. While much has been accomplished this summer, a great deal of work still lies ahead. We must run fund raising activities, organize better lines of communications, plan a family skating night, develop a system of keeping records and game scores among other projects.

In this regard, we need your help. Fathers, mothers, older sisters and brothers! Please don't be afraid to volunteer because you are not an expert. We have master teachers with coaching clinics set up that will provide the information and team organization required to turn Dad into an instant Harry Sinden! Won't you call our Secretary, Ken Hagerstrom, 527-4966 or Robert MacLaughlin, 527-5480.

Lions Overpower Canadians

The Newton Athletic Association Lions Pop Warner Football Team started fast by scoring three first period touchdowns and held on to upset the East Mountain Rough Riders of Hamilton, Ontario, 25-6.

The game was played last Saturday evening at Boston College and with pre-game ceremonies, had all the pomp and circumstance of a collegiate encounter.

Both teams were introduced and lined up on their respective 40 yard lines. The most impressive color guard in the area, American Legion Post 440, presented both the Canadian and American flags at mid-field. The National anthems of both countries were played.

Mayor Mann presented Ed Burrows of the Rough Riders the Key to the City. The Mayor then received a gift from Mayor John Surette of Hamilton. Mayor Mann flipped the coin and the game was underway.

The Lions kicked off and Scott Seidman got credit for the first tackle of 1973. The tenacious Lion defense really came at the Rough Riders who were slightly smaller.

The Rough Riders punted from their own 35, Rich Proia fielded the punt at the Lion 40 and behind some excellent blocking returned it to the Rough Rider 25. Two offside penalties set the Lions back 10.

Fullback Barry Gale, behind the blocks of Andy Toyias, John Kane and Mike Hernandez, rambled 12 yards. Steve Fleming then carried for 8 and 7 yards respectively.

Then Rick Proia went untouched 7 yards around end for the score. Gale, Brian Kinsella, Fleming, Shawn Daley and guard Jim Schmidlein all made the play possible. Proia then rushed the single point conversion behind tackle Mike Hernandez block and a 7-0 lead.

In the Lions second series Rick Poria went through the line untouched due to some excellent blocking by guard Schmidlein and tackle Joe Donoghue, and used some moves to go untouched 45 yards and his second score of the night. The conversion failed.

In the second period, Charlie Slack replaced Brian Kinsella at quarterback and promptly threw a 25 yard scoring pass to halfback Paul Butters who went high in the air for the catch. The points failed.

The Canadians countered with a touchdown of their own on a 16 yard pass from quarterback Matt Chairot to end Paul Rowe. The attempted kick was blocked by Pete Boisvert.

Both teams failed to mount any serious threat until the fourth quarter. With excellent balance the Lions moved from their own 35 down to the Rough Rider 25. From there Steve Fleming lugged the ball around end, broke two tackles and scored. The points after touchdown failed as the game ended. Both teams exchanged gifts at mid-field.

In the preliminary game the N.A.A. Mustangs and Tigers battled to a 0-0 tie. The game was featured by some excellent hitting.

A family day picnic was held on Sunday at Cold Springs Playground where the Canadians departed. Next Sunday the Lions travel to Maynard for their first league game.

Collier Joins Hospital Staff

The appointment of Hugh N. Collier, M.D., as a staff radiologist at The Malden Hospital was recently announced by hospital president Judge Maurice R. Flynn and Dr. Raymond Flynn, radiologist-in-chief at the hospital.

Dr. Collier received his medical degree from Queens University, Belfast, Northern Ireland, and completed his residency in radiology at the Royal Victoria Hospital in Belfast. For the past two years, he has continued his training in angiography at the New England Medical Center.

At The Malden Hospital, Dr. Collier will be involved in both general radiology and vascular catherization.

Dr. Collier and his family are residents of Newton.

SMA Fathers Celebrate 27 Years With Field Day Sun.

The S.M.A. Fathers on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 9, will celebrate the 27th anniversary of their arrival in the Archdiocese of Boston with a giant Field Day on the beautiful grounds of Queen of Apostles Seminary, Common Street, Dedham.

The 5,000 visitors who gather for this traditional occasion will be treated to the finest in singing, music and folk dancing. The program is arranged with every member of the family in mind. The little ones will have ponies and mechanical rides and beautiful prizes to gladden the heart of any child.

Refreshments of all kinds—hamburgers, frankfurters, Irish bread, coffee, tea, soft drinks, etc.—will be available all afternoon.

Admission is free and free bus transportation will be available from Dedham Line, Dedham Center and the Charles River terminal. Motorists will find ample parking on the spacious grounds. The Seminary is located just off Route 128 at Exit 58 in Dedham.

All the proceeds of the anniversary day this year will go to defray the expenses of the seven missionary priests who are going to Liberia in October.

Everybody is invited and will be cordially welcomed.

Women In Communications To Mark 50th Anniversary

Fifty years ago the first public relations course in the U.S.A. was offered at New York University. It was conducted by Edward L. Bernays, an energetic young public relations counsel destined to become a leader in the field.

The 82-year-old pioneer and his long-time wife-partner Doris Fleischman Bernays—now residents of Cambridge—are still active as public relations counselors. The Bernays will be accorded special recognition when Boston Women in Communications marks the 50th anniversary of the public relations course introduction with an open house Sept. 20 (7:30-9 p.m.) at Northeastern University.

Women in Communications, Inc., is the national organization for women in all fields of the communications industry, with 160 professional and campus groups throughout the country. Bernays was in the first group of men invited to join Women in Communications after the 1972 national convention decision to admit males to membership. At that same national meeting Mrs. Bernays received the Headliner Award, the highest honor bestowed by WICI upon its members.

Back in 1923 the official announcement of the new course offered by N.Y.U.'s Department of Journalism stated it "will analyze through specific examples, the forces of public opinion and will endeavor to establish the technical and ethical principles upon which this new profession must be built."

Further development of public relations instruction was slow until the post-World War II era when the field burgeoned. In 1948 the first full School of Public Relations (now known as the School of Public Communication) was established at Boston University. Today more than 300 American colleges include public relations courses in their curriculum; public relations courses are also offered in Canada and in many countries of South America, Europe and Asia.

Atlanta Tuna Tournament To Be Held in Gloucester

The 31st United States Atlantic Tuna Tournament will be held at Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 10, 11, and 12.

The official announcement was made jointly today by Massachusetts Commerce Commissioner Frederick A. Centanni, USATT Board chairman, Ray Dackerman, of New Jersey, and Gloucester Mayor Robert French.

Dackerman said the decision to move the prestigious tournament from Rhode Island was prompted by the abundance of tuna in Massachusetts waters and enthusiastically supported by the 44 member clubs of the USATT.

Commissioner Centanni noted that Massachusetts Governor Francis W. Sargent had extended a warm personal welcome to the members of the USATT. Governor Sargent pointed out, he said, that Massachusetts, with more than 1,900 miles of seacoast, is one of the finest tuna fishing spots in the world.

In addition to having the finest facilities, the Governor said, the Gloucester area is rich in historic lore and heritage.

Gloucester is celebrating its 350th anniversary this year; and Mayor French said he and other city officials were delighted with the opportunity to host the largest controlled deep sea tournament.

The USATT will be headquartered at the newly expanded Cape Ann Marina. Excellent motels and restaurants are near the marina and city officials have already made arrangements for the supply of bait required by the fleet.

USATT officials said a factor in the move from Rhode Island was the impressive result of last year's Cape Ann Tuna Club's annual tuna tournament in which 345 hook-ups occurred in four days. During that time, 145 giants up to 881 pounds were landed by the 55 boats entered in the affair.

Commissioner Centanni said others cooperating in the successful negotiations bringing the U. S. Atlantic Tuna Tournament to Gloucester included State Senator William L. Saltonstall (R.-Manchester), Rep. Richard R. Silva (R.-Gloucester), Rep. David L. Lane (R.-Essex), and Deputy Commissioner Ernest A. Lucci, Division of Tourism.

Western Style Square Dancing

A new beginners' class in Western style square dancing will start Sept. 7 at the Dexter School Hall, High street (Route 109) Dedham.

Gloria Brunt of Dedham is the caller and teacher.

The class will run for the whole month of Sept. from 8 to 11 p.m. The first night is free.

Square dancing has proved enjoyable for many people and Ms. Brunt invites people to try it.

Norfolk Mental Health Assn. Plans Seminar for Teachers

The Norfolk Mental Health Association is offering its ninth semi-annual Seminar for Teachers at the Westwood Junior High School, High street, Westwood, beginning Monday, September 24, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. The seminars for teachers were initiated in 1965 and have been presented twice a year. Four years ago the Norfolk County Teachers Association and the Norfolk Mental Health Association began to co-sponsor the seminars in recognition of their popularity.

The 15-session seminar is designed for teachers in elementary, junior and senior high schools to acquaint them with theories and practice of personality development to assist them in understanding and coping with emotional problems of children encountered in the classroom.

Dr. J. Edward Conners will teach the seminar entitled "Abnormal Psychology in Modern Life." Dr. Conners is a professor of psychology at Boston State College and for many years chairman of the Psychology Department. In 1954 he received his doctor of education degree from Boston University majoring in psychology and speech pathology. While receiving his master's degree at the same university his efforts were concentrated on counseling, guidance, and personnel administration.

His present duties include the directorship of teacher preparation program for special education for meeting educational needs of emotionally disturbed children. On the graduate level he teaches abnormal psychology, theories of personality control and prevention of mental disorders. He presently serves as a consultant to the Department of Mental Health in the capacity of program coordinator for Project 750. He also directed the original study for the Departments of Education and Mental Health which has led to the current standards and regulations.

Dr. Conners intends to discuss the following in the Seminar for Teachers: Personality development and adjustment, causative factors in abnormal behavior, behavior disorders of childhood, overview of learning disabilities, hyperkinesis, intellectual subnormality, adolescent behavior problems, and classroom management and techniques for emotionally disturbed children.

Upon successful completion of the course, certificates will be issued which may be presented to school administrators for increment credit. This seminar is equivalent in requirements to a graduate level three semester hour course.

Because of the popularity of the Seminars for Teachers, advance registration is necessary with the deadline of Sept. 21, 1973. The registration fee, payable in advance, should be mailed to the Norfolk Mental Health Association, 698 Washington Street, Norwood, Mass. 02026. Information may be obtained by telephoning the association office, 769-0006.

Hospital Holds Diabetes Symposium

The incidence of diabetes is increasing along with the longevity of our population, reports the September issue of the "Newton-Wellesley Quarterly.". There is now a fifty percent probability that a person may become diabetic after the age of 65.

While this implies that more predisposed diabetics are living long enough to become diabetic, there may also be a true increase in the prevalence of the disease itself, the Quarterly says. Studies show that this is apparently true for countries and races in the process of urbanization, and if it is true for them, it is probably true for countries which have "arrived" as well. There is now also evidence that certain chemicals and drugs may bring out diabetes. Among these are cortisone, birth control pills, and diuretics.

Another influecne on rising incidence is the increased life span of diabetics who formerly died of their disease after a brief period of illness. The discovery of insulin changed all that, transforming diabetes into a long-term chronic disorder which can be managed, if not cured.

"It is possible now," says Dr. Lawrence I. Stellar, president of the Medical Staff and Chief of Diabetes at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, "for diabetics to live a full life span."

Longer life, however, can also mean long-term complications which diabetics and doctors must face. One of these is the close link between diabetes and vascular disease.

"Diabetics", says Dr. Stellar, "seem to be more prone to disease of the large and medium blood vessels which might for example produce fatal coronary disease."

Disease of the smaller blood vessels is also more common in diabetics but may have a separate hereditary tie.

Diabetes is also related to degenerative changes in the nerves, infections of the kidneys and urinary tract, and skin infections.

"Whether these happen completely independent of treatment," Dr Stellar says, "we don't know, but in general, it is felt that careful treatment of the diabetic lessens some complications, but not all."

An all-day symposium at Newton-Wellesley in mid-November will devote itself to the relationship of diabetes to vascular disease. It will bring to the hospital such notable participants as Dr. Stefan Fajans of the University of Michigan, former president of the American Diabetes Association, and Dr. Harold Rifkin, head of the Diabetes Service at New York's Montefiore Hospital and Medical Center.

Among lecturers from the Boston area will be the hospital's own Dr. Paul Gryska, chief of surgery, who will discuss diabetic-related disease of the arteries and legs. Planned by the hospital's diabetes service, the symposium is open to anyone in the health care field interested in diabetic care.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital has a monthly diabetes clinic operating from its Outpatient Department, which follows over one hundred patients. The clinic is staffed by Dr. Stellar, Dr. Diane I. Schulhoff, and Dr. Theodore E. Spielberg.

Other medical staff associated with it are Dr. Sidney Brass, podiatrist, and Dr. Gryska, chief of surgery, who is its vascular consultant.

As would be expected, clinic treatment is a team effort with the doctors, outpatient nursing staff, and dieticians all intimately involved in patient care and often calling on the hospital's Social Service Department and-or the Visiting Nurse Association for additional patient support.

Y Offers New Programs

The Newton YMCA has announced that two new physical activities for children will be added this fall to its broad program which now includes 22 youth classes, clubs and recreational events.

Physical Director Vincent Goglia's new Tiny Tot Gym Classes highlight the fall offerings. Following in the footsteps of the highly successful swim classes for young children, the gym program will teach boys and girls three years old to five years old coordination and muscle development in a fun atmosphere. Half-hour classes will meet once each week where children will use a variety of apparatus and low organizational games.

Another new activity, floor hockey for girls, has been added after the tremendous success of the thrice-weekly floor hockey program for boys. Girls eight years old and over will use the same safe indoor equipment that the boys use.

Two black belt-holders, Scott Connolly and Roger Martin, will instruct the ever-popular karate and judo courses for young people.

Connolly emphasizes the sporting and fitness aspects of karate, and falls, major throws and holds are the focus of Martin's course in judo.

Joseph Carota will again teach his magic course, one of nine instructional classes for youths. Teacher, performer, author and inventor of tricks, Carota covers basic magic techniques, tricks, and the history of magic in his course. Tricks with ropes, balls, silks, coins, cards, paper, and a number of other materials are taught.

Four crafts classes include the unique Arts N' Tots program for boys and girls 3-5 years old. Paper, boxes, paint, crayons and other substances are used to create collages, rubbings, sketches, and other fun things.

Other crafts activities are ceramics (separate classes for those 5-7 and children 8 and over), painting and a general crafts workshop.

One of the finest guitar teachers in the New England area and a performer in many local establishments, Robert Gahtan, will again teach his courses in folk guitar. Gahtan takes the beginner from chords through strums and melodies toward developing a large repertoire of songs. He offers courses to both beginners and intermediates nine years old and over.

Two popular dance classes are offered by long-time "Y" instructors. John Duane, with training at the University of Mexico, the New York City Ballet Company, and Warner Bros. Studio, teaches both beginning and intermediate ballet courses to those six years old and over. And Wendy Martz, who uses games, improvisations and other movement techniques while enacting stories, animals and emotions, has classes scheduled for both four year year olds and those five and older.

For the season, Mrs. Hilda Moses will present the Children's Music Theatre, an experience for boys and girls who are interested in being a part of a production complete with choreography, music and acting. Children are accepted regardless of ability and each individual becomes an integral part of the final production. There are two groups: a primary company for children five and one-half to eight years old, and an intermediate company for those nine to 14.

Other offerings for youths include a sewing class, swimming instruction for boys and girls three years old and up, gymnastics, boys' sports, weight training for junior and senior high boys, free swims, and a perception and movement class for children with special handicaps.

Registration for all activities except swimming has begun, while registration for members' swimming lessons takes place Sept. 11. Tiny Tot and Tadpole registration is Sept. 10 for children of "Y" members, and Sept. 12 for all others. The Newton "Y" is located at 276 Church St. in Newton Corner.

AIRMAN CHRISTOPHER S. SMITH, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana A. Smith of 21 Belmont St., Newton, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. During his six weeks' training, he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. The airman is remaining at the Air Training Command base for specialized training in the security police field. Airman Smith attended Newton High School.

Pines Sponsored Bill Passes Legislative Hurdle

Legislation to update the formula used to allocate county costs among the cities and towns of Massachusetts was passed recently by the state House of Representatives.

According to Rep. Lois G. Pines (D-Newton), a sponsor of the bill and member of the Joint Committee on Taxation which reported favorably on the bill, if the measure is passed by the Senate and signed by the governor, "it will be a significant step toward allocating more fairly the onerous burden of county government."

In commenting on the House's action, Rep. Pines stated, "the established cities and towns are currently paying a greater proportion of county costs than the so-called 'growing communities.' "

"For the past ten years, " she continued, "county taxes have been apportioned on 75 percent of the 1943 property values and on 25 percent of the 1961 property values."

"Thus," explained Rep. Pines, "cities like Newton, Cambridge, Springfield, Holyoke and Lynn have for years been bearing the tax burden for those cities and towns within their counties which have increased in both population and property values."

"These older cities have not grown, and in many instances have decreased in population and property values," stated Rep. Pines, who added, "because of this inequitable formula the older cities and towns have continued to pay a disproportionate amount of the costs of operating the counties."

Similar legislation had been passed by the House of Representatives last year, but was eventually defeated in the state Senate.

Rep. Pines has estimated that if the measure becomes state law, Newton will save approximately $941,644 on its previous county apportionment.

March For Horizons Of Youth

Members of the 26th Infantry Division, Mass. Army National Guard, will march throughout the state 25 miles to benefit impoverished boys and girls through Horizons For Youth.

In Newton it is anticipated that over 900 volunteers from the Guard and community will leave the Armory at 1137 Washington St. Those interested should contact Captain Hopkins at the Armory or telephone 527-4725.

The average date for the first freeze of the winter along the Texas Gulf Coast is Christmas Day.

Urgent Need For Foster Parents

The Catholic Charitable Bureau of Boston is recruiting families to provide foster homes for children of all races from 12-18 years of age. A child may need a foster home for a number of months, a year, or even longer.

The Bureau is seeking adults who are willing to offer a positive family experience, patience and understanding to a troubled youngster. Relevant information regarding the child will be shared with you prior to placement and the child will visit with you prior to actually moving into your home.

The foster family will receive a fee once the child is placed in the home. Added expenses for the child will be paid by the agency.

The Catholic Charitable Bureau staff will be readily available to a family when one of our children is in your home. A social worker will also work closely with the child to help in his adjustment and to help him make plans for his future.

Foster parents income and size of home or apartment is not important. It's your desire and ability to help a youngster in need of a caring family.

For additional information regarding foster homes, please contact Catholic Charitable Bureau, 523-5165.

Candidates Certified For County Post

Norfolk County Treasurer James M. Collins has announced that three candidates have been certified by the Norfolk County Retirement Board as nominees for the office of the elected member to the Norfolk County Retirement Board.

Collins stated that the nominees are: Charles W. Hedges, sheriff of Norfolk County, candidate for reelection to that post; Joseph A. Mastandrea of Dedham, assistant superintendent of Norfolk County Buildings, and William F. Woloshyn, Foxboro town accountant.

Planetarium Closed Thru Sept. 17th

The Charles Hayden Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science will be closed for annual maintenance Sept. 4 through 17.

It will reopen Sept. 18 with "Stars of Autumn" a program devoted to the visible stars, planets and celestial events of the season. Beginning Oct. 2 and running through Nov. 25 will be "Worlds of Wonder," featuring Mars, Venus, Mercury, and Jupiter. In early fall Mars will be at its closest position to Earth, some 40 million miles away. Later, the Mariner 10 probe will visit Mercury and Venus and Pioneer 10 will pass by Jupiter. The program will describe what is known now about these planets and what is expected to be learned from the probes.

Panetarium programs are given daily and Friday night at an extra fee of 50 cents above Museum admission. Children under five are not admitted, although they may visit the rest of the Museum free of charge.

Choral Society Begins Its 26th Season

The Wellesley Choral Society will begin rehearsals for its 26th season on Monday, Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. Rehearsals are held every Monday evening at 8 p.m. at Wellesley Junior High School on Donazette street.

Membership is not restricted to Wellesley residents and anyone high school age or over is invited to join. Although sight reading is not a necessity, some previous musical experience is helpful. Singers are welcome in all sections, especially the men's sections.

The Choral Society performs three concerts each year and also sponsors a youth concert for talented young area musicians. Mr. Keith L. Phinney, director, has announced that this year the group will perform Haydn's "Lord Nelson," and Rossini's "Stabat Mater" at its major concert in March.

Anyone wishing more information may contact the group's president, Mrs. C. William Allen, at 237-2673, or membership chairman, Mrs. Clayton Paltrineri, at 237-0746.

Free Boating Course At Westwood High

The Great Blue Hill Power Squadron, a unit of the United States Power Squadrons, will again offer free boating classes beginning Monday, September 10, at 7:30 p.m. at Westwood High School.

To promote the objectives of safe boating, Great Blue Hill offers free instruction in a variety of boating subjects such as aids to navigation, small boat handling, use of a compass, chart reading, safety afloat, and boat trailering.

The free classes are open to everyone over 18, and those between 12 and 18 who are accompanied by an adult.

Registration for the course will be held at 7:30 p.m., on Sept. 10, the evening of the first class. Classes run for approximately 12 weekly sessions in addition to a Boston Harbor cruise on Saturday, October 27.

Further information may be obtained by calling Lt. John H. Gemmel of Needham, 449-1362.

To Be Young Once More

"To Be Young," Penelope Smith's one-woman show of candid black and white photographs of young children, can be seen at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner, now through Oct. 1.

Ms. Smith, who taught third grade in the Newton schools for ten years, took a sabbatical during the 1972-1973 school year and spent most of her time photographing children and working on a project that is expected to motivate and stimulate elementary school children to do creative writing.

While on sabbatical, Ms. Smith also worked as a volunteer at the Parent-Child Center in Roxbury where she did a photo-documentary on the Center.

To get her candid black and white photographs, Penny spends a long time getting to know the children, finding out what makes them happy and curious... and then she starts to shoot.

In a finger-painting series, the child appears more excited about the paint than the painting; concentration and concerted effort are evident in photographs of children making 'sand cakes' and taking tape off their toes and a photo of a boy and a dog reflects the boy's affection for his animal.

Penny Smith, a member of the Newton Free Library Camera Club, exhibited in their group shows for the past four years and also has exhibited at the Marshfield Public Library.

She uses an H3 Pentax camera, Plus-X film and an 80 millimeter Zeis lens for her black and white photographs and does all her own developing.

"To Be Young" is on view at the Main Library through Oct. 1. Main Library hours through Sept. 30 are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Beginning Oct. 1 the library will also be open Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Sundays from 1 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Soccer Talk

By PAUL ELDRIDGE, JR.

By the time you read this, the Boston Astros will have either been eliminated from the playoffs or will be the American Soccer League's 1973 Champions. As most of you probably know, the Astros had a protest about a player that the New York Apollos used in their second game with the Astros in New York City. What most people do not know is why the Astros protested the use of this player. The reason is that he is under suspension by the Greek National Association for taking a $20,000 bribe. Usually suspensions imposed by a National Association are recognized by other Nations and pro-leagues.

The A.S.L. threw down the Astros protest. The Astros then in turn appealed to the United States Soccer Football Association who supported the Astros protest and said that the game had to be played over in its entirety. Because of the deadline, this column was written before the game was played. We can only hope that the Astros win the game.

Even if they don't win, the Soccer fans of Boston can be proud of the team that John Bertos had put together this year. Both "Boom Boom" Barbosa and Itamar "The Rabbit" Alves were among the league leaders in scoring. Gus Carias set a league record for shutouts with three.

Art Frazer and "Dusty" Richard, the two American-born players on the team, showed that American boys can hold their own with players from other countries. Art started all but one or two games and proved to be a stalwart on defense. "Dusty" was a reserve player who did start on occasion. When he did play he gave 110 percent on the field and his booming shot helped set up many a winning goal.

These two young men are not only fine players, but along with the likes of others such as Joe Soroa and Jerry Souza, they proved to be great ambassadors for the team especially among the younger fans.

The North American Soccer League this year could be called the year of the "Rookie." Kyle Rote, Jr. of the Dallas Tornado, was named as Rookie-of-the-Year. He was also the leagues leading scorer. The first time this feat was done by a rookie. The leading goalkeeper was Bob Rigby of the Philadelphia Atoms, who is also a rookie. Al Miller of Philadelphia was named a N.A.S.L. Coach-of-the-Year. Yes, he is also a Rookie Coach. The amazing part of it all is that all three of these men are American born.

But we are not through with rookies, as the Philadelphia Atoms, a brand new team in the league, are the 1973 N.A.S.L. Champions. Oh yes, before I forget, the only veteran to win any honors in the N.A.S.L. this year was Warren Archibald of the Miami Toros who is this year's M.V.P.

SOCCER SHORTS

Bob Cusick, the Director of Recreation for the City of Boston, will kick the first ball off for St. John's home opener of the '73-'74 M.S.A. season this coming Sunday, September 9, at Fallon Field in Roslindale. Game time is 3 p.m.

I would, at this time, like to thank Alan Peterson and Brian Stewart for the columns that they wrote while I was on vacation. Also I would like to thank Joe Dente who also wrote one but it was not received at the office. Maybe we can prevail upon Joe to write another one in the future.

Next week's column will be about what I observed of Soccer on our trip to Ireland and England.

Course For Expectant Parents

The Greater Boston Red Cross will begin an Expectant Parents Class on Tuesday, September 11, at 7 p.m. at the Red Cross Service Center, 99 Brookline avenue, Boston.

Under the instruction of Greater Boston Chapter Director of Health and Nursing Services Miss Ann O. Watson, expectant parents will be helped to overcome some of the anxieties related to pregnancy, childbirth and infant care.

There will be six, two-hour sessions held on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. To facilitate instruction, the class will be limited to eight couples. Registration may be made by calling 262-1234, Ext. 221 Monday through Friday.

The Green Thumb

HORNETS AND YELLOW JACKETS: We've had information about these pests before, but would like to mention them again. The large, gray, paper nests, shaped somwehat like a football and located in trees and shrubs, are the product of one of the hornet species—not of honey bees.

Each nest starts new in the spring and becomes maximum size in the fall. Only the queens, the laying females, overwinter. Meanwhile the nest is ruined during the winter by birds and other animals seeking the remaining larvae. The nest is not reused the following year.

When hornets become a problem, your best bet is to control them with an aerosol spray designed for wasps and bees. Some of these aerosols are equipped with special nozzles allowing you to remain 8 to 12 feet away. Spray in the evening when the hornets are in the nest, directing the spray at the entrance hole at the bottom of the nest. Repeat if necessary.

Yellow jackets are often confused with honey bees, but they have definite black and yellowish bands on the abdomen. Yellow jackets nest in the ground or along foundations and are often encountered while trimming shrubs, mowing, weeding, etc.

The nest is also a paper nest and is located several inches to a underground. Spray or dust the entrance hole of thenest, using a wrap or hornet aerosol or a prepared spray or dust containing Sevin (carbaryl).

GARDENIA CARE: The gardenia is one of the toughest house plants there is to blossom. In a greenhouse, the gardenia is at home, but in the average home, it is out of place. In its native China, gardenia grows i a cool, moist climate on hillsides where drainage is never lacking. It likes high humidity. Pets can be placed on a tray of dampened pebbles.

Also, the foliage can be sprayed or syringed frequently. Place a plastic sheet over the plant to maintain humidity and to prevent buds from dropping. This plant likes good light, but not direct sunlight. Give it a bright window.

Best night temperature is 60 to 65 degs. and day temperature around 70 to 75 degs. Putting the plant oudoors in summer is a common practice as it helps buds form.

Start new plants by tip cuttings from your original plant. Cuttings can be 4 to 6 inches long. Remove the bottom foliage and insert stems in moist sand, or sand-peat mixture.

Fall Inspection Now Underway

"The period for compulsory motor vehicle inspection is rapidly approaching," Registrar David J. Lucey said today as he reminded owners and operators of motor vehicles and trailers registered in Massachusetts that the Fall inspection begins on Sept. 1 and ends Oct. 15.

In view of past experience when official stations have been hard-pressed to handle hordes of last-minute inspections, the Registrar suggests that drivers get their stickers early in the inspection period.

Official inspection stations (4,200) at various locations throughout the state have been checked by Registry officers and are ready to perform the required inspection.

Supervisor of Vehicle Inspection, Charles V. Mulhern says that the fee for inspection is still the same—50 cents for a trailer only and $1.00 for a motor vehicle only. He reminds drivers that in order for the station to inspect vehicles, the owner or operator must present the registration certificate and that the vehicle identification number on it must match that on the vehicle itself.

Items to be checked include: brakes, stop lights, lights, horn, exhaust system, steering gear, windshield, windshield cleaner, number plates, rear windows, tires, fenders, bumpers, external sheet metal, reflectors, splash guards and chock blocks and pollution control systems or devices.

Vehicles passing inspection are marked with an official orange sticker with black printing and those not passing are marked with a rejection sticker.

Drivers of rejected vehicles should go immediately to a garage of their own choice and have the necessary repairs made and then they may return to the inspection station which issued the rejection sticker where the vehicle will be re-inspected at no additional charge.

Persons driving with a rejection sticker can be stopped by an enforcement officer for a further check on the safety of the car.

Registrar Lucey says that a wise move would be to have known repairs made before the official inspection

Herb Anderson Volkswagen Has Computer Diagnosis Equipt.

NORWOOD — A computer and other highly specialized automobile diagnosis equipment were installed this week at Herb Anderson Volkswagen, Inc., introducing a unique service check-up system to this area.

Called VW Computer Diagnosis, the new approach to automobile service uses electronics and a socket installed in all VWs built since the middle of 1971. The computer is actually plugged into the socket, allowing the car to "tell" the computer how it "feels."

"VW Computer Diagnosis is the most significant change in service philosophy in the history of automobiles. It's a giant space-age step into tomorrow," said Don Glaser, general manager of the authorized Volkswagen dealership.

A VW owner receives a printout that shows the state of tune of his car and pinpoints what needs to be done to bring it to original factory specifications.

The computer is connected to the car by an umbilical cord—a multi-strand connector. It plugs into the car's socket, a kind of nerve center for various probes and sensors built into the vehicle A technician selects a program card applicable for the year and model of the VW being checked. This card is run through the computer as the technician, using a hand-held input unit, follows the test sequence.

"The system is much faster than less modern diagnosis methods and saves shop time and customer waiting time," Don Glaser said. "Also, it cuts down the possibility of human error, frees master mechanics from the drudgery of simply checking components and gives the customer a computer-printed record of just what needs to be done to bring his car to standard specifications."

Herb Anderson Volkswagen at 1210 Providence Highway, has been selling Volkswagens since 1960. It is one of more than 1,200 authorized Volkswagen dealerships in the United States, all of which are scheduled to have diagnosis equipment operational by mid-1973.

Grass Without Mowing

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — If ever you've threatened to pave your lawn with green cement, hold off! By 1980, you may be able to put your lawn mower in mothballs and hang up your pruning shears as a thing of the past.

Research programs now under way indicate that by the end of this decade, homeowners will be planting new varieties of grass that will grow only to a specified height and then stop —thus eliminating the need for mowing, says Joseph P. Sullivan, president of Estech, Inc., the chemicals and industrial products division of Esmark, Inc., Chicago.

Along with limited growth grass, Sullivan says, there are other developments in the offing that will make caring for a lawn much easier and less time consuming. Among them:

— Ornamental and shrub growth retardants that will eliminate the need for constant trimming.

—Grass seed and fertilizer combined in pellets to make the planting of a new lawn or the reseeding of an existing yard a one-step job.

—Sprinkler systems that automatically dispense fertilizer and weed killers as needed during an entire spring and summer growing season.

—Long-lasting fertilizers that will work for two years or longer once they are placed on a lawn.

—Special packages that will be used to dispense grass seed and fertilizer and then discarded, doing away with the need for a spreader.

The Outlook

The outlook for change in the home gardening field is underscored, Sullivan said, by growing concern for the environment and the increasing amount of leisure time. More and more, he said, reports indicate the "green thumb" pastime is catching on as a form of relaxation.

The burgeoning demand for more efficient land use and rising costs will result in many cases in smaller home grounds and lawns, but homeowners will want to use what land is available to the fullest extent.

For the lawn of the future, Sullivan said, several universities are experimenting with a new product developed by Estech to solve some of the problems of proper and regular lawn fertilization.

With this product, Sullivan said, large pellets containing slow-acting nitrogen and other nutrients are imbedded in the soil before planting or sodding. After the lawn has been intalled, these golf-ball size pellets will release their contents for up to three years, increasing the chance of lawn survival since the feeding takes place year round without the supervision of the homeowner.

New Cleated Shoe

By JAMES L. OVERTON

HOUSTON (UPI) — An orthopedic surgeon thinks a new swivel-cleated shoe he's developed can help reduce painful knee injuries plaguing ball players since cleats were introduced at the turn of the century.

"Ever since that man nailed on the first cleat, we have been having knee-joint injuries," said Dr. Bruce Cameron, who's performed more than 1,000 knee operations. "We've improved upon all the football injuries but those."

Cameron, a staff member at the Baylor College of Medicine, has developed a swivel-cleated shoe designed to eliminate torque—or the twisting effect—that produces thousands of ankle-knee injuries each year.

"Cleats are very unnatural; you're not supposed to have that," Cameron said in an interview. "We've been engineers for 100 million years and when you change the design, you have problems."

More than 20 years of research and development went into the design of the shoe. Models are available for all sports requiring cleated shoes in a price range of $12 to $25, he said.

Currently under production in the UQNITED States and Euro the "swiveler" has a movable metal disc with cleats strung out around the perimeter. The swivel cleat requires about five pounds of pressure to make a full turn.

"It's simply a turntable that spins 360 degrees; it is not freespinning," Cameron said. "It feels like any other shoe, but it is safer."

With the controversy over artificial versus natural turf being debated in athletic circles, Cameron said his research showed the main cause of injuries was related to the twisting effect of the knee—the weakest weight-bearing body joint.

"After extensive surgery, it was determined that torque was injuring these boys and we decided to relieve that," he said. "To do that we put in a torsion joint, a simple thing that any mechanic knows."

"A lot of people try to pivot on the heel, but that's not the way to run," Cameraon said. "The torsion joint makes you pivot on the ball joint."

Cameron said results of tests conducted at Duke University with 2,800 participants showed 500 students using the swivel-cleated shoe had 50 per cent fewer injuries than those wearing standard cleats.

Along with development of the shoe, Cameron is also working on a related conditioning program for athletes at suburban Channelview.

Are you a hazard to your wealth?

Everytime you hold your paycheck in your hot little hand, you promise yourself to salt something away. But man is weak. And what you want today seems a lot more important than worrying about what you'll need tomorrow.

Quit kidding yourself.

Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. It's easy. Just specify an amount you want set aside from your paycheck. Then that money is used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. You never see the money, so the temptation to spend it is removed. And with every paycheck, your money grows. So when you need it, you'll find you've got a sizeable amount stashed away. Enough to help out with what tomorrow may bring.

If you can't trust yourself, trust U.S. Savings Bonds. Then you'll have a fund in your future.

Now E Bonds pay 5½% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Country Players Open Fall Season

The Country Players of Newton will open the curtain on their 18th year of community theatre activity next week with double-barrelled events including a catered cocktail-and-hors d'oeuvres soiree and tryouts for their initial stage production of the season, the ever-popular Broadway musical comedy success, "The Pajama Game."

Welcoming the return of members to the fold will be the Players' eighth annual "Theatre Buff Bash" on Sunday, Sept. 9, from 7 to 9:30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Krassin, 4 Brandeis Circle, Newton Centre.

Highlighting the entertainment will be the folksinging team of Soni and Gene Tick, the introduction of both the director of the Fall production and the director of the annual children's musical, and the announcement of the complete agenda of the forthcoming year's activities. In charge of arrangements are Mikki Krassin, Cookie Kates and Sandy Deming.

Open auditions for "The Pajama Game" will be held next Wednesday, Sept. 12, at 8 p.m., at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton. There are eight major roles, five male and three female, all of which require singing voices.

The Boradway classic also features a sizeable cast of singers, dancers and actors. Auditionees are requested to bring along sheet music and resumes.

All local residents interested in participating in any phase of the production and in any capacity—stage manager, musical director, choral director, designers, costumes, technical people, cast or crew—are most cordially invited to attend.

President of the Players, Mrs. John Deming of Newton Highlands, stressed that an earnest effort will be made to place as many as possible of those attending tryouts in some area of the production, which she described as wholesome fare for the entire family.

Performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 16-17 and 23-24, with a special discount matinee for children and senior citizens on Sunday, Nov. 18. The production is available for programming to sponsor groups and theatre parties interested in fund raising at the Rebecca Pomroy Playhouse, with its seating capacity of 150.

Organization bookings for alternate mid-week dates will be considered. A cabaret-style seating arrangement with tables and chairs is planned. Producers of the show are Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Pinkofsky.

With book by George Abbott and Richard Bissell, music and lyrics by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross, the show's tuneful score features such popular classics as "Hey There," "Steam Heat" and "Hernando's Hideaway." One of the original producers of "The Pajama Game," theatre notable Harold Prince, is planning a Broadway revival this season starring Joey Heatherton.

The plot concerns a recently hired foreman in a pajama factory in the midwest. Very conscientious, he aims to succeed where his predecessors have failed. He unknowingly runs into the midst of a long dispute between the management and the girl workers. He also runs into the beautiful redhead.

Since she's Union, head of the grievance committee, and he's Management, there is the inevitable clash between them.

This is not helped by the intrigue going on between the erratic efficiency expert and the private secretary to the boss. She wears the key to the company's books around her neck with instructions that no one is to get it.

The foreman wants to see the books and get to the bottom of the dispute and romances the secretary in an effort to get the key. He finally solves the problems—the workers get the raise—he gets the redhead—and everyone is happy.

Founded in 1956, The Country Players of Newton is a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels.

For information concerning the cocktail party, phone 969-9737 or 527-6367; for information about tryouts, call 444-1987; for membership data, write P. O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159 or phone Jimmy Sloane at 969-2665.

Brockton Art Center Plans Exciting Year

Two new instructors will join the staff of the Brockton Art Center's Art Workshops when the ten-week program gets underway the week of Oct. 1.

Portrait painter Virginia Chase Earle of Sharon will bring 15 years teaching experience to her students at the Art Center.

Mrs. Earle studied at The School of Practical Art, Scott Carbee School of Art, and the Brooklyn Academy. A member of the Copley Society and the Canton Art Association, she has exhibited at the Boston Arts Festival, Bridgewater State College, Wheaton College, the Copley Society and Jordan Marsh.

Mrs. Earle painted portraits of eleven World War II soldiers, lost in service to their country, as a gift for the Gold Star Mothers of Wrentham.

The career of Claude Croney includes one man show, 60 awards and other public honors.

A teacher for many years, Croney is a member of tthe Boston Watercolor Society, Guild of Boston Artists, the Providence Watercolor Club, and holds an honorary membership in the California Watercolor Society.

When he is not writing articles for art journals and teaching at the Famous Artists School, he is working on a book, scheduled for publication in the near future.

Among the returning staff members is painting instructor Lois Tarlow of Newton. Mrs. Tarlow held a one-man show at the Helen Bumpus Gallery in Duxbury from May to June.

Beverley Edwards returns to the workshop after a successful summer. She received first runner-up at the ICA-RKO General Building Competition, Boston, her Light Sculpture included in the HUD catalogue, and two painting awards from the Cape Cod Art Association.

Charles Dwyer returns to the workshop staff as a first prize winner from the Falmouth Artist Guild. In other summer activity he was a prize winner at the Newport Festival.

Instructor Eric Michelsen will have his works in an exhibition the second week in September at the Plympton Library. Two of his works were selected for this summer's Pembroke Art Festival.

An open house and registration for all workshop courses will be held at the Art Center Sunday, Sept. 16 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Brochures are available by calling 588-6000.

All Newton Music School Inc. Begins 63rd Season This Fall

On Monday, October first, the All Newton Music School will begin its 63rd season.

Located at 321 Chestnut St., West Newton, the school is a non-profit organization founded in 1911 by Elizabeth Fyffe who, together with a group of public-spirited people of Newton, believed that music study of a high quality should be available to all children and adults. The school is a member of the National Community Schools of Music and the Arts.

The All Newton Music School offers individual instruction in all string instruments, woodwinds, brass, harp, piano, voice, classical and folk guitar, recorder, and percussion for both children and adults. For three years, at no extra cost, every instrumental and voice student may enroll in a musicianship class to acquire a theoretical background as well.

For younger children, the school offers pre-instrumental music classes, which give the child the necessary ear training, the elements of sight singing, rhythm, and melody.

For intermediate and advanced students, both children and adults, there is also a wide variety of courses in addition to the individual instruction. Classes in beginning recorder for adults and more advanced recorder workshops are offered in the evening.

The school's dance department has creative dance for children age 5 and older. Modern dance is offered to older children, teen-agers and adults, and ballet classes for children age 8 and older.

Guitar-folksinging classes are being scheduled for beginners on Saturday morning.

Registration for former students will begin September 5, and for new students on September 12. Catalogues will be sent on request by calling 527-4554 or 527-4553, or by writing to the All Newton Music School, 321 Chestnut Street, West Newton 02165.

Choral Society Seeks Enthusiastic Singers

The Wellesley Choral Society will begin rehearsals for its 26th season on Monday, Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. Rehearsals are held every Monday evening at 8 p.m. at Wellesley Junior High School on Donazette St.

Membership is not restricted to Wellesley residents and anyone high school age or over is invited to join. Although sight reading is not a necessity, some previous musical experience is helpful. Singers are welcome in all sections, especially the men's sections.

The Choral Society performs three concerts each year and also sponsors a youth concert for talented young area musicians. Keith L. Phinney, director, has announced that this year the group will perform Haydn's "Lord Nelson," and Rossini's "Stabat Mater" at its major concert in March.

Anyone wishing more information may contact the group's president, Mrs. C. William Allen, at 237-2673, or membership chairman, Mrs. Clayton Paltrineri, at 237-0746.

Newton Free Library Camera Club members will show off their camera sense with photo-essays and mini-travelogues at their first meeting Sept. 10, 7:30 p.m., at the Nonantum Branch of the Newton Free Library, corner Bridge and Watertown Streets.

A host of varied activities including field trips to Saugus Iron Works, Cathedral in the Pines and Mystic Seaport, photographic competitions among members, guest lecturers and a course for beginners are in the ground plans for the 1973-1974 season under the enthusiastic and able direction of Club President H.L. Myers.

The course for beginners will be given in three lectures covering the history of photography, camera construction, developing and processing, filters, composition and other basics you will need to know with your first camera. The lectures will be given on Mondays, Oct. 22, Nov. 19 and Dec. 10 at 7:15 p.m.

Through its affiliation with the New England Camera Club Council and the Photographic Society of America (PSA), the NFL Camera Club offers members the opportunity to enter international slide competitions in PSA affiliated divisions like photo-travel, techniques, photo-journalism, pictorial, color slide and others.

Member competitions will be held throughout the year in categories that will challenge any photographer's ingenuity from places, children and nature to patterns, available light and action.

Club members will display their sharpened photographic skills at the Globe Book Festival, Nov. 2, 3 and 4 with its theme of "Books - Your Passport to Imagination," and again at the end of the year in a show at the Main Library.

The NFL Camera Club will be geared to individual needs through a questionnaire on areas of interest to be handed out at the first meeting, Sept. 10, 7:30 p.m. at the Nonantum Branch of the Newton Free Library, corner Bridge and Watertown Streets. For more information send your name, address and photographic interests to the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner, Attention: Mrs. Persky.

For a while there, the evening dress that bared only one shoulder was what the fashion industry calls a "ford" (best seller). Then it waned, only to return for fall in several collections from New York and Paris. Dior, in Paris, showed it in black crepe georgette. Gustave Tassell, the Designer at Norell's, did it in column-shaped sheer wools either black or white.

Students Exhibit Own Art Work

Charlotte Lockwood and Ruth Golub will hold an exhibit of their students' work on Saturday, Sept. 8, at 28 Bullough Park, Newtonville.

The public is invited. At this event, students may sign up for fall classes which include a tour of museums in the local area.

Charlotte Lockwood and Ruth Golub, well-known Newton artists, have operated an art studio in Newtonville where their students are taught a variety of techniques. At this particular exhibit these techniques will be on display. Each artist has her own distinctive style.

The students vary in age from the seventh grade up to retired men and women. Art has no age barrier and many of these students who are in high school continue on to the art colleges.

Portfolios for the colleges are prepared under the direction of these two able teachers. For further information call the Golub-Lockwood Studio, 244-1872.

WORC Continues

Those women interested in previewing programs scheduled for this year at the Women's Opportunity Research Center are invited to attend "Women's World at WORC," an opportunity open house slated for 9:30 a.m. to noon, Tuesday, Sept. 11.

The Center, a program of the Division of Continuing Education at Middlesex Community College, Bedford, is located at the Marist Seminary, Springs Road, Bedford.

Distinguished through her own alliance with Massachusetts volunteerism, Mrs. Jessie Sargent, "First Lady" of the Commonwealth, will be present that morning to give special recognition awards to the volunteer professionals at the Center. Mrs. Sargent has been a member of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women since 1972.

As at the two previous Opportunity Open Houses (1971 and 1972) there will be a variety of printed materials to acquaint women with the many area opportunities in full or part-time study, employment or volunteer work, and in operation of small or home-based business.

The 1973 Open House will offer the additional chance for meeting and talking with workshop directors, consultants, and volunteers associated with the Women's Opportunity Research Center (WORC). Participants will, therefore, gain a preview into the program and course offerings for 1973-1974.

Registration forms for those women interested in coming may be obtained from WORC, Division of Continuing Education, Middlesex Community College, Springs Road, Bedford, Mass. 01730. A tax-deductible donation is suggested but not required.

Transcript Announces New Daily Paper

The Daily Transcript, a completely new daily, evening newspaper for Dedham, Needham, Norwood and Westwood, will begin publication November 5th, it was announced today by Paul J. Massey, General Manager of Transcript Newspapers, Inc.

"This is the first time that all these four communities will have their own daily hometown newspaper," Massey said. "The new paper, which will be home delivered Monday through Friday, is the natural successor to four of the Transcript weeklies that have successfully served each of these towns for many years."

The Daily Transcript will be supplemented by a new weekly shopper which will be delivered on Wednesdays so that advertisers will be assured of 100% penetration in each of the four towns. In addition to the new standard size daily and the new shopper, Transcript will also continue to publish its other weekly newspapers, The Newton Graphic, The Norfolk County Press, The Parkway Transcript and The West Roxbury Transcript.

The Daily Transcript will be delivered by carrier boy to every home without charge for the first two weeks of publication. After the initial free trial period the weekly price will be 70¢ for Monday through Friday home delivery. It will be 15¢ per copy at newstands.

The new daily will stress local news stories, features and pictures. It will also carry same-day coverage in news and pictures of national and international events.

Editor of the new daily will be Philip Keohane. Associate editors will be George K. Sherlock, Peter E. Gluckler and Malcolm G. McIntyre. Frank Wall will be sports editor, Advertising Manager will be Joseph P. Fabbo. Circulation director is John W. Gillis.

Transcript is now in the process of assembling the staff for the new publication. Additions will be made in all departments.

The new newspaper will offer newsboys more financial incentive than any other newspaper that comes from outside into the area, according to Gillis, the circulation director.

Fabbo said advertisers will be offered attractive incentives that will encourage ad placement in all Transcript newspapers, both daily and weekly.

Transcript Newspapers has been prominent in the local publishing field since 1870. Today the company is a subsidiary of the Post Corporation which also publishes daily and weekly newspapers in the Midwest. Post papers include suburban newspapers in the Milwaukee and St. Louis area. Post also has seven broadcast properties, television and radio, and other operations.

The Daily Transcript will be a full size newspaper incorporating all the technical innovations that have been introduced in the Transcript newspaper group in the past year. The mechanical and production departments are under the direction of Frank W. Massey, Jr.

The new paper will be published at Transcript headquarters in Dedham.

News and features which are of special interest to women will receive extensive emphasis in the new publication.

All departments will be interconnected through one telephone number: 329-5000.

Other Post Corporation daily newspapers include The Appleton (Wisconsin) Post-Crescent, The Twin City News-Record of Neenah-Menasha, Wisconsin and The West Bend (Wisconsin) News.

The Daily Transcript will emerge from the four weeklies that have long been an essential part of Dedham, Needham, Norwood and Westwood. The Dedham Transcript was founded in 1870. The Needham Chronicle was established in 1874. The Norwood Messenger, which has been published twice a week, dates back to 1895 and The Westwood Press was established in 1952.

Seek Open Space Acquisition

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of The Graphic Staff

Acquisition of more than 130 acres of Newton's disappearing open space was recommended for the 1973-78 capital improvements program by the Conservation Commission this week.

Recreation Commission recommendations were the acquisition of one parcel of land at the end of Rustic Street, Nonantum, for the expansion of Allison Park, and the improvement of many existing recreation facilities.

The total cost of the Conservation Commission proposal was estimated at between $900,000 and $2 million, to be bonded over 10 or 20 years.

Recreation Commission plans call for an annual expenditure of $200,000 every year for five years.

In the 1973-78 capital improvements program (CIP) the Recreation Commission was allocated $812,000 over a six-year period, while no money was earmarked for conservation-land acquisition.

The two commissions submitted their recommendations to the aldermanic City Planning Committee at the request of Chairman David Jackson.

This year, for the first time, the Board of Aldermen is required by the 1971 city charter to formally adopt the CIP. The board may amend the CIP before it votes before the end of the year.

Heretofore, the CIP was a plan of what the city would like to do, but in practice there was often little relationship between the CIP and what the city's money actually was spent for.

Jackson hopes that the requirement of a resolution of adoption by the Board of Aldermen, which must then either be approved or vetoed by the mayor, will make the CIP more of a commitment, instead of a "joke book," as Recreation Commissioner John Penney described its former status.

City Planning Committee members questioned Penney on the choice to put only $90,000 into land acquisition and the balance of the $1 million into improvement of facilities.

Penney explained that the eight-member Recreation Commission had so voted.

Improvements hoped for the first year are lighting for Albemarle playground and basketball and tennis court lighting at Auburndale playground and at North and South High Schools.

The second year should see improvement of Burr Park, Newton Centre playground, Albemarle playground, and playgrounds at Burr and Franklin Schools.

Cold Spring playground is slated for improvement in the third year and Edmands Park and Hunnewell Hill playground the fourth year.

Baseball-field reconditioning, construction of hard-surface basketball courts, replacement of and addition to play apparatus, and construction of tennis and handball walls would be citywide projects spanning three to four years.

Alderman Ernest Dietz suggested that the Recreation Commission plan "seems to have deferred acquisition of land, and there might not be any left when you need it."

"We've got to be more aggressive in acquiring recreation land. Deferment of land that can be used and is needed is nothing more than saying we've given up. With 50 per cent reimbursement from the state Department of Natural Resources it can be economical," Dietz said.

"You can always improve what you have, but you can't always get more," he added.

Penney pointed out that the Recreation Commission plan called for the use of federal funds (Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the Interior Department) in two projects — the improvement of Cold Spring playground and Crystal Lake.

When federal funds are involved, Penney told the committee, use of the facility cannot be restricted to Newton residents. In addition, he said, Crystal Lake is defined by state law as a "great pond," and for that reason also is beyond local restriction.

In Penney's opinion federal funds might be available for all the Commission's projects.

Howard Ferguson of the Recreation Commission wanted to keep Newton facilities for Newton residents, as did Alderman Wendell Bauckman, but Dietz said, "There's too much building fences around Newton."

Home For Retarded Goes Before Board

The home for retarded adults sought in Newtonville will come up for discussion before the Board of Aldermen at its Sept. 24 meeting.

The aldermanic Land Use Committee voted this week to put the matter before the full board and will also propose allowing retail sales at the Citgo Station at 1221 Washington St., and approving a request from Harold M. Boyajian for a laundromat at 971 Washington St.

Members of the Committee for Community Residences for the Retarded had met with neighbors surrounding the proposed site of the home at 14 Newtonville Ave., Land Use Chairman Alan S. Barkin reported, and have agreed to a number of restrictions that are proposed for incorporation in the house's permit.

Among the restrictions are annual review and renewal of the permit, a statement of the maximum number of residents that can live in the house and a statement that all will be over the age of 18, that no sign be placed on the dwelling, and that it not be fenced.

Neighbors and the Committee also agreed to a restriction that activities for the group not take place in the front yard or garage and that planned activities end at 10 p.m.

Six off-street parking places are also to be provided.

Aldermen on the Land Use Committee have agreed to propose trying retail sales at Washington Street gas stations but will recommend that the same plan not be

Public Hearing Set On Towers

A petition for extension of the expired permissive use to build the Towers at Chestnut Hill, a multimillion-dollar condominium complex, was requested late Monday by the Towers' attorneys.

The request for a one-year extension came six days after the city issued a cease and desist order halting construction on the project.

The Board of Aldermen, in a Monday night special meeting called for another purpose, voted to take up the Towers matter immediately instead of following the usual procedure which would have it appear on the docket for the Sept. 24 regular meeting.

Land Use Committee Chairman Alan Barkin, presenting the Towers petition for extension of permissive use without a public hearing, said, "The request revolves around time. The project is at a standstill, but the rent of money goes on on a daily basis."

The cost of the delay was variously estimated by aldermen at between $1000 and $3000 per day, for interest on loans.

(A spokesman for the John A. Volpe Construction Co., said this week the company has left the idle equipment on the site, and "we haven't put a dollar value on the expense. If we need the equipment we'll pull it off. If it goes another two weeks we'll have to start thinking about it.")

Most vociferously opposed to the waiver of public hearing was Alderman Richard McGrath, who said, "There is nothing to fear from a public hearing. It is better for the city and better for the developer. If this is to go through in forced fashion, without a hearing and proper advertising, people will think there's something wrong."

In the face of McGrath's and others' opposition to waiving the public hearing, Barkin proposed withdrawing that portion of the request and assigning the hearing for Oct. 1, the earliest date possible after the required advertising.

McGrath proposed Oct. 15, "to clear up the taint. I have the feeling that specific preference is being given to one developer."

A further consideration — the scheduling of the hearing on the "10 per cent rule" — was introduced by Alderman David Jackson, who pointed out that Oct. 1 had already been designated for that hearing.

(The public hearing will be held on a proposed ordinance to require developers to set aside 10 per cent of their housing units for the leased-housing program of the Newton Housing Authority.)

Several aldermen believe that renewal of the permissive use may be an occasion to require the Towers to provide some low-income housing either on or off the site.

Agreement was finally reached on holding hearings on both items the same night, Oct. 1. The vote to receive the Towers petition by suspension of the rules and to assign Oct. 1 as the hearing date for the Towers and the 10 per cent rule was 20-0, with Alderman Jason Sacks excused.

Absent from the meeting were Aldermen Louis Egelson, Robert Gaynor, and Matthew Jefferson.

Candidates

Michael Antonellis

Michael Antonellis

Alderman-at-Large Michael J. Antonellis of 49 Lawmarissa Rd., Newton, has announced his candidacy for re-election to his present position in the forthcoming Newton election.

Antonellis was first elected to the Board of Aldermen in a special city wide election held in 1970.

A lifetime Newton resident, Antonellis is married to the former Janette Train of Newton, and is the father of three children, Lauren, age 10, Suzette, age 8 and Michael Jr. age 6.

A graduate of Newton schools, Antonellis served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, in the Asiatic-Pacific area.

Daley Correction

In last week's Graphic story on the candidacy of Paul K. Daley for alderman, it was erroneously reported that the candidate was running in Ward 4.

Daley, 29, of 94 Prospect St., West Newton is a candidate for ward alderman in Ward 3.

A native of Newton, Daley attended the Our Lady Help of Christians Elementary and High Schools and East Coast Aero Tech in Bedford. While attending Our Lady's High, he organized a self-sustaining hockey team and was player-coach during the 1960, 1961 and 1962 season.

Daley, a West Newton businessman, is the proprietor of Carpetage, Inc., a floor covering business he has operated since 1966. He is also associated with Spencer P. Lookner in the real estate business.

Daley is a member of the Franco-American War Veterans Post No. 24, Nonantum Post 440, American Legion, Knights of Columbus Council No. 1611, the Kiwanis Club of Newton and the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce.

He is married to the former Pamela Jean Veilleux and the couple have a two-year-old daughter, Stacey Lynn.

School Board Okays Sticker Parking

At its first regular meeting of the new academic year, the Newton School Committee voted unanimously on Monday evening to support a move for on-street, sticker parking within 1200 feet of the new Newton North High School.

The move came after Ward 4 Alderman-at-Large David W. Jackson personally appeared before the school board and presented a petition which in part reads, "The School Committee, the Board of Aldermen and the Mayor should file a common petition (with the state legislature) for permission to control parking by stickers" in the afore mentioned area.

Citing the example of Cambridge which had successfully adopted such a plan with state approval, Jackson explained his sticker proposal was the result of a brainstorming session with Director of Public Works Richard Dudman and Planning Commissioner Charles Thomas.

We have all pulled the wool over our own eyes," Jackson said in regard to the conflicting interests of athletics and parking on the restricted high school site.

"The entire problem was recognized during site selection three years ago," he continued, "but was never resolved."

He then proceeded to unravel a many faceted proposal for solution of the entire parking problem in the area.

Jackson's plan would relocate all varsity sports to other fields in the city, and restrict only intramural and regular physical education classes on the site itself.

"The low popularity of bicycle commuting among the students results partly from the high incidence of theft," said Jackson, who then asked the committee to come up with a plan for protection of bicycles while their riders were in classrooms.

He suggested that continuously supervised bicycle racks with paid monitors be provided and this prompted Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink to state he had tried such a plan elsewhere and "it just doesn't work."

Other members of the school committee, including Mrs. Eleanor Rosenbloom of Ward 2 and Richard M. Douglas of Ward 3, expressed concern with the proposal for relocating several of the athletic functions from the site.

Douglas called the suggestion, "the one deficiency in Jackson's plan."

"We already have the tenth grade football team playing elsewhere, and the soccer teams have never played on the high school fields," Douglas told Jackson.

Mrs. Rosenbloom, while supporting the sticker and bicycle proposals, stated, "We can't do everything we want to do on this piece of land, but the school committee has already committed itself to seeing that enough land is allocated at least for physical education classes."

Jackson reiterated that his plan was conceived to provide for physical education and both on and off-street parking.

Donald Levitan, community development coordinator for Newton, also expressed dissatisfaction with a plan that would unnecessarily chew up any more land than necessary.

"That field is so small now they will be calling it the Fenway Park of high school baseball if any more is taken for parking," he said.

Levitan urged caution in developing any parking plan on what he termed a "temporary basis."

"You will just be creating a demand for more parking places," he told the school board and Jackson.

In the end the School Committee agreed to join with the mayor and Board of Aldermen in requesting the state legislature grant approval for on-street, sticker parking.

Such a move also raised the question of sticker eligibility and Jackson suggested that residents in the area would most probably be eligible.

The School Committee then decided to table such a discussion along with the bicycle and athletics versus off-street parking proposals for further study.

At the request of Director of Support Services John Gilleland, the school committee also voted permission for a raise in the cost of school lunches from 35 cents to 40 cents.

"As is the case with most communities in the surrounding area, Newton is finding it increasingly more difficult to feed its youngsters cheaply but qualitatively," said Gilleland.

The approval by the school board will now allow the school department to request permission from the state to raise its cafeteria prices.

It was not until the issue of raising the price of milk from 5 cents to 10 cents a carton in the school cafeterias arose that several committee members became agitated.

Douglas called the cutback in federal milk subsidies, the reason for the price raise, "wanton and scandalous, especially in the light of the $13 million we spend on one Trident submarine."

Douglas then softened somewhat, and said, "There really isn't too much we can do about it now."

The school committee did vote unanimously, however, to support a move by Rep. Paul Guzzi (D-Newton) for state absorption of the higher cost of providing milk to the school children of Massachusetts.

Dance

Marcia Baron will resume modern dance classes at the Newton YMCA for the second season Sept. 25.

Members Voted

The five Newton members of the new Newton-Waltham regional refuse-disposal planning district committee were approved at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen Monday night.

The Newton members are Mary Adelstein, Dr. Melvin First, Alderman David Jackson, Daniel MacLaren, and Public Works Director Richard Dudman.

The names of the appointees to the committee were "chartered" last week by Alderman Peter Harrington, postponing the vote and causing Mayor Theodore Mann to call a special meeting.

In anticipation of speedy approval of the committee, after a long, drawn-out battle to get aldermanic approval of the district through parliamentary delays, the semi-committee hired an executive director and then found itself unable to pay him.

Legislation On Lobbying Progressing

Legislation regulating lobbying activities on Beacon Hill has received a favorable report from the legislature's committee on State Administration, State Representative David J. Mofenson reported this week.

"The bill," he explained, "is protective in policy and aimed at restoring public confidence in our lawmakers and institutions."

The bill contains three sections setting forth lobbying requirements, one for lobbyists, a second for employers of lobbyists and a third for groups spending more than $25 per year but not hiring lobbyists.

The bill requires lobbyists file on or before the 15th of May and November a statement with the secretary of state of all expenditures in excess of $50 in any one day.

Employers of lobbyists would be required to file statements twice a year listing total expenditures and detailed expenditures in excess of $50.

The bill, Mofenson said, also includes provisions regulating contacts with the governor involving legislation.

"Unfortunately," he commented, "all other Executive Department lobbying has been left out of the bill.

Penalties have also been increased. Fines range from $100 to $5,000 instead of the current limit of $1,000. A lobbyist found in violation of the laws would be disqualified for three years.

Adult Education Registration Opens At New High School

Registration for classes in the Newton Public Schools, Division of Adult Education, will take place next week at the new Newton North High School, 360 Lowell Ave., Newtonville.

Newton residents may register on Sept. 17, 18, and 19, from 7 to 9 p.m. Non-residents may only register on Sept. 19, from 7 to 9 p.m.

According to Anthony N. Penta, director of the Division, fees for enrollment will be as follows:

Homemaking and crafts: $5 for the first term; $5 for the second term.

Business courses: $10 for the first term; $10 for the second term.

Trade extension: $5 for the first term; $5 for the second term.

Driver education: Behind the wheel instruction is $40. and classroom instruction is $19.

There is no fee for courses in civic education.

No registration fee will be refunded after the first meeting of each class.

Classes will not meet on legal holidays nor during day-time school vacations.

NORMAN MacNEIL of 45 Lansing Rd., has been named to the board of trustees of St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Boston. MacNeil is president, treasurer and director of Ark-Les Switch Corp. and a director of the Baystate Corp. and W. H. Nichols Co. He is a member of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital board of trustees and chairman of the board of the Perpetual Benevolent Fund and a member of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre of Jerusalem.

Senior citizens, residents of Newton, are invited to attend classes free of charge.

All classes will be held at either the new North High School or at Weeks Junior High School in Newton Centre.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Office of Continuing Education, 360 Lowell Ave., Newtonville, at 527-6810.

The general courses offered include; algebra, world political patterns, English language skills; contemporary literature; home landscaping; interior decorating; modern dance; enameling on copper; decoupage; oil painting; figure drawing; know your car; social dancing; yoga; physical fitness; and driver education.

Homemaking and craft courses include: clothing; tailoring; fashion design; decorated ware; draperies; furniture refinishing; introduction to foods, knitting, art metal and ornamental iron work; cake decorating; pottery; rug braiding; rug hooking; and crewel.

Civic education and English for the foreign born will also be provided in beginner, intermediate, and advanced stages.

Business courses will include: typewriting; shorthand; office machines; accounting, personal finance; fundamentals of investing; and law.

Apprentice training will also be provided in bricklaying, carpentry, electric code, painting and plumbing.

Guzzi Proposes State Fund School Milk Cost

Rep. Paul H. Guzzi (D-Newton) recently filed a bill which would provide for the Commonwealth to reimburse Massachusetts communities for the loss of general school milk funds from the Special Milk Program for Children.

The Congress is presently considering a reduction of the subsidy from $97 million in 1972 to $25 million as proposed in the Nixon Budget.

Rep. Guzzi pointed out that "this reduction would most affect lower to middle income children who take their lunch to school."

"These children will be faced with a milk cost increase of better than 50 percent at a time when most families are cutting back on food purchases because of spiraling costs," he said.

It is critical that the school milk program be continued for the nutritional well being of our children because, unfortunately, many of these youngsters are already drinking less milk and eating less protein because of the family budget squeeze," Guzzi stated.

Frederick J. Stare, M.D. professor of Nutrition and Chairman of the Department of Nutrition at Harvard Medical School and co-sponsor of the bill considers milk the single most important food especially with the emphasis on less meat in the diet and sees this reduction as tragic.

Rep. Guzzi further pointed out that "while it is not yet evident how adequate the federal subsidy will be it seems there will be some reduction and the Department of Education is already operating on this assumption."

"We must provide a mechanism to correct this urgent need and my bill will allow for it," he concluded.

This bill has been co-sponsored by a number of other representatives.

Candidates' Night Set

The League of Women Voters of Newton is planning a special Candidates' Night on Tuesday, Oct. 2, at the Pierce School, 170 Temple street, West Newton at 7:30 p.m.

The new Charter adopted by the city provides for a Preliminary Election to be held four weeks before the regular election if more than twice as many candidates as are to be elected to any office have filed petitions for nomination. This year, five positions are affected and there will be contests for the offices of mayor, alderman-at-large from Ward 7, and ward alderman in Wards 3 and 4.

The candidates are as follows: mayor - Elliott Berry, William Carmen, and Theodore D. Mann; alderman-at-large (Ward 7) - Melvin Norris, Henri D. Pelletier, Jason Sacks, Doninic J. Taglienti, Mark A. White, Alice D. Wilson; ward alderman (Ward 3) - Richard J. Bullwinkle, Paul K. Daley, Robert J. Keefe, Cynthia L. Lacey; ward alderman (Ward 4) - Leonard M. Frisoli, Jr., Alvin P. Huberman, Richard J. McGrath.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization supporting no party and promoting no candidate. By providing a platform, it hopes to encourage voter participation and stimulate public interest in the Preliminary Election.

At Candidates' Night, citizens will have the opportunity to listen to candidates' views and ask questions on pertinent issues facing the community.

New North High School Opens Its Doors

By LEN BATEMAN
Of The Graphic Staff

Summer died in Newton this past week and its expected, but all too sudden, passing did not even rate the proper obsequies at the new North High School.

For the majority of students, there was just not enough time for a few moments of somber thought on fleeting freedom.

They were more preoccupied with finding their way around and through the $13 million complex of unfamiliar corridors, offices and classrooms.

They were also more intent on renewing old friendships, meeting new faculty, and checking on the progress of June's romances.

A few of course looked back over their shoulders as they entered the new building, but they too were soon caught up in the rush for assignments, locker combinations and homerooms.

One young man, a Huckleberry Finn type, did not forget so easily. He carried that season's lost look in one door and right out another to the still uncompleted student mall.

It was there that Greg Fitzgerald found a proper niche for himself on opening day. The 16-year-old junior promptly fell asleep in Autumn's fading light, and declined to comment on the new school building.

Not so reticent was Senior Class Vice President Maryann Burns, 16.

"This building is terrific for meetings," she said, "although right now I'm still a bit confused.

"I can't believe we'll have real live grass to sit on," continued Maryann.

"This building is gorgeous," she exclaimed as she scurried off to join her generation in the joy of discovery.

Sophomore Patti Frascatore was a bit more conservative in her opinion.

"It's nice," was all she would say, but it was Patti's first day at high school as well as in the new building, and it was understandable.

Near by, Mike Fay, a senior, and Jean Dubois, another senior, were obviously enthralled. The problem is they were looking at each other and not the new building.

Mike did say he thought it "was different," but in the eyes of an 18-year-old, so isn't everything else.

Ed Gourdeau, 16, a sophomore, was encountered as he exited the exhibition gymnasium with a group of friends.

Ed just muttered, "I get lost a lot," and tried to continue on his way. Under more intense questioning, Ed admitted he had not been to his classrooms that day.

"I just haven't been able to find them," he said as he sauntered away like Don Quixote with five jibing Sancho Panzas at his heels.

Diane DuBois, 16, could find nothing but good in the

Sept. 19 Deadline For Preliminary

Unregistered voters must be registered by Sept. 19 at 10 p.m. in order to be able to vote in the Oct. 9 preliminary election, Alan Licarie, executive secretary of the Election Commission, advised this week.

Persons who will be traveling on Oct. 9, or out of the city where they cannot be reached by mail, may vote at City Hall before the election by absentee ballot.

Such persons, as well as those who will be away at school or elsewhere, should apply as soon as possible at the Election Commission office at City Hall for absentee ballots, which will be ready tomorrow (Sept. 14).

On Sept. 19, all 52,000 registered voters will be sent a card informing them of their ward and precinct numbers and polling place.

Some 10,000 voters will be going to different polling places this year because of the 1970 redistricting.

League Of Women Voters Plans Seminar About Newtor

What is the relationship between the Board of Aldermen and the School Committee?

Will the banks of the Charles River be saved for recreational purposes? What is being done to handle the traffic problems in Newton Corner?

For years the League of Women Voters of Newton has been studying the structure, function, plans, and performance of Newton city government and this year it is integrating past studies into a "Know Your Newton" series.

The first of this monthly series of seminars will be held Sept. 19 at the First Baptist Church, 848 Beacon street, Newton Centre at 8 p.m. League specialists will provide some basic background on the City of Newton.

The October meeting will focus on the coming city elections with a discussion of ofices to be filled and campaign issues. Future seminars will be supplemented by visits to governmental agencies and committees and "go see" tours of parts of the city.

The League of Women Voters of Newton invites any interested citizen to join its members at these seminars, participate in the discussion, ask questions and learn to "Know Your Newton." For further information contact Mrs. David Dwelley at 332-4543. For information about the League of Women Voters contact Mrs. Burton Lavine at 969-2953.

Bridges Fall

The famed London Bridge crossing the River Thames has fallen down more times through the centuries than most of us would guess. The original was wooden. It was replaced by a succession of stone structures, the last of which was removed to Arizona where it has become a tourist attraction.

Now the Mystic-Tobin Bridge is falling down. Without a doubt, commuters wish it were in Arizona, too. The bridge fell down when a single 10-ton truck struck a single abutment. Regretfully, the driver was killed instantly. Mystic-Tobin commuters should be so lucky. They die slowly, waiting.

The toll bridge is 23 years old. It's always been a money-maker. It's also been a bad seed. For years engineers puzzled over what to do to prevent part of it from sinking further into the Mystic River mud. For years commuters have suffered long waits behind accident bottle-necks, toll-booth bottle-necks, maintenance project bottle-necks, and, once across, Central Artery bottle-necks.

With the collapse of a section, the bridge will be useless for at least two weeks. Motorists will struggle into the city via alternative, difficult secondary routes.

The crisis only serves to re-emphasize a major problem confronting the Hub today. Its spokes are broken.

Commuters cannot move in and out of the city with ease. Nothing moves at 8 a.m. on the Southeast Expressway. Routes 93 and 95 were proclaimed obsolete the day they opened. Eight-lane Route 2 stops at Fresh Pond Circle's four-lane rotary.

Ancient Route 9 is a maze of traffic lights. Route 95 south was stopped at Route 128 to appease inner city residents. Only the Mass. Pike extension offers smooth sailing. Sumner Tunnel, enlarged a decade ago, is still woefully inadequate. MBTA service has been extended to Braintree but the system as a whole is inflexible and plagued with breakdowns.

In the meantime, Boston's renaissance in big business continues to attract more and more commuters as do its nationally-known educational and cultural institutions.

Unfortunately, most of Boston's bridges are falling down. Now's the time for more than makeshift repairs.

Rock Concert Echo

The lack of news generated by an area town's Labor Day rock concert is in itself news.

Prior to the event much concern was voiced in Dedham over the possible consequences of allowing the concert to be held. Residents of the town, particularly those whose homes bordering the site of the event, and some town officials, opposed the concert. They felt it would possibly lead to disturbances similar to those witnessed at other concerts held in other areas of the country.

In particular, the town's chief law enforcement officials were upset over the potential for major disturbances between rival factions of youth, and between the youths and the police. Last year a similar event was held in Dedham with the police being ordered to adopt a "hands-off" policy towards young people who were drinking, or smoking marijuana. This year, however, a new chief announced his men would not look the other way.

In addition, the advent of the 18-year old drinking law and its very visible, at least to the police, effect on the conduct of many young people, produced a negative reaction from many quarters.

But cooperation between the many varied groups involved, and their mutual understanding of respective interests, combined to make the concert what they all wanted it to be, a successful venture.

And that's what it was — a success. Even some of the concert's harshest critics had to agree on that point as no disturbances broke out, and no arrests or confrontations between youths and the police, or among the youths themselves, marred the evening.

Like any event there were problems, like gate crashers and beer and pot among the estimated crowd of 1200, but in general it was a rather non-happening heppening.

And that is what made it so newsworthy. It was an example of what can be done when diverse groups sit down to communicate, with each group willing to bend a little so that common ground can be reached.

Creation Of Black Senate District Probably Illegal

Beacon Hill observers are declaring that the outstanding accomplishment of the 1973 session of the State Legislature, now nearing an end, was the enactment of the senatorial redistricting law which created a district from which the first black State Senator in Massachusetts history will be elected next year.

Yet, experts on constitutional law tell us that if the redistricting act were challenged in court, it probably would be ruled unconstitutional.

That is not likely to happen because if the redistricting law were thrown out by the Supreme Court and no new law was enacted in time, all 40 State Senators would be elected from the Commonwealth at large next year in the same manner as is the Governor.

Nevertheless, the legal sharps insist that the senatorial redistricting law violates the one-man-one-vote principle decreed by the Supreme Court.

They also argue that it is illegal to Gerrymander districts or to create them in an unnatural manner so as to assure the election of a Democratic, Republican, Irish, Italian, Jewish or Black Senator.

All those rules apparently were violated by the members of the State Legislature when they carved out 40 new senatorial districts, placed 90 per cent of the black people of Boston in one of them, put two Jewish liberal Democratic Senators in the same district, and generally Gerrymandered other districts either to protect sitting Senators or to achieve other ethnic or political objectives.

This is one time when those who acted illegally and unconstitutionally were on the side of the angels. It is generally agreed that the creation of a black State Senate district was a sound, constructive action and a healthy, forward-looking step.

The senatorial redistricting law, of course, will stand on the books unless someone goes to the expense and trouble of challenging it in court, and that probably will not happen.

Two Reasons Why Relatives Can't Take Food To Inmates

One of the plots in the old-time movies which used to intrigue us was when a loving and devoted wife, who was also some kind of cook, smuggled a hacksaw hidden in a chocolate layer cake to her husband serving a life sentence for a murder of which he never should have been convicted.

Prison experts, who presumably tell their children at an early age that there is no Santa Claus, report that this happened much more often on movie screens than in penitentiaries and jails and that very few convicts ever sawed their way to freedom with a hacksaw received in a chocolate cake.

Since that is so, we wanted to know, why relatives and friends of men incarcerated at Walpole State Prison have been denied the right to provide food for inmates at the institution.

Prison food is notoriously poor. The average citizen believes that prisoners need only be fed "adequately," and "adequately" usually is not very good.

Claims are made that the prisoners and guards get the same food at the Walpole State Prison. That is denied by relatives of the inmates. Whether it is so or not, a guard obviously can eat some meals at home and can bring his lunch if he chooses to do so.

One of the problems with taking food to the inmates at Walpole State Prison is that a substantial number of the convicts there are on drugs and that foods and soups can be laced with narcotics.

Some relatives of Walpole prisoners say if that is the problem they should be allowed to take sealed cans of foodstuffs such as tunafish, shrimp, ham, sardines, soups, spaghetti and macaroni to their husbands, sons, brothers, fathers and uncles.

A can which is taken from a supermarket shelf and not opened can hardly contain marijuana or heroin, they point out.

One obvious objection to that is that some Walpole inmates don't always act like Sunday School pupils and sometimes engage in mischief such as slitting the throat of another prisoner with the sharp edge of a can if one is available to them.

However, Governor Sargent, a great advocate of prison reform, could practice what he preaches by ordering that more edible meals be served at Walpole State Prison. That might fo a long way toward restoring order at the all too often embattled institution.

Airport's King May Run For Governor If Quinn Does Not

Friends of Eddie King, the highly competent chief of the Massachusetts Port Authority and boss of the Logan Airport and what few seaport facilities we have, say that King may seek the Democratic nomination for Governor next year if Attorney General Robert Quinn should remain out of the gubernatorial contention.

That is not exactly earth-shaking news because there is every reason to assume Quinn will be the leading Democratic candidate for Governor, a political development which evidently would keep King on the sidelines.

But this apparently means that King will eventually get the axe if Sarge should defeat Quinn next year and win reelection. While Mr. Sargent's political stock has dropped since 1970, there is no assurance at this point that he will be toppled 14 months from now.

Governor Sargent is no dynamo when it comes to the day-to-day direction of state affairs. However, some of his cabinet members like to assume authority, whether they know what they're doing or not.

King has done fairly well in fighting off their interference although some of the Port Authority members who supported him in what they believed was the interest of good government, have lost their jobs as a result of their actions, and the alleged reformers, who sided with the likes of Miles Mahoney, haven't said a word.

Both Sargent and King are strong characters, and it is virtually inevitable that some differences would develop between them.

King would have a reasonably good chance of defeating former Representative Michael Dukakis of Brookline for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the unlikely event Attorney General Quinn remained out of the gubernatorial battle even though King is not as well known to the general public as some of his businessmen backers like to believe.

What chance King would have of upsetting Governor Sargent provides the subject for an intriguing bit of conjecture which presumably would depend on happenings in the next 14 months. Despite their ability, people in positions such as that held by King usually do not prove strong candidates for elective offices. One reason is they must be too abrasive in order to get their jobs done.

Whittier Denies Nomination Stolen From Him By Herter

During the debate earlier this year on the bill to repeal the convention system of endorsing candidates for state-wide offices, a young Republican legislator implied that former Governor Christian A. Herter stole the Republican nomination for Governor from Sumner G. Whittier at the unofficial 1952 GOP State Convention.

The statement was completely without foundation of fact although a demonstration was staged for Whittier on the convention floor, and former Senator Leverett Saltonstall felt he had to call the roll since Whittier's name had been placed in nomination.

But out of the past this week came a letter from Sumner Whittier who now works in Washington and lives in Endicott City, Maryland. He denied that the nomination was stolen from him or that Herter in any way treated him unfairly.

After a pleasant greeting, this is what Sumner Whittier, a voice from the past, had to say:

"A young Republican legislator implied that Christian Herter 'stole' the 1952 convention from me. That is not true.

"It is true that many of the newspapers of the State were supporting me for Governor, largely becuase of the vigorous efforts I had made in the State Senate challenging the Dever administration. Some influential party leaders did not look favorably upon my candidacy — I seemed too liberal, too independent, or too unrich, or too something. They went to Washington and waited upon Congressman Herter with their request that he run for Governor, and he did.

"At that moment my wife suggested that I make my own announcement because there would be considerable resentment at the Republican convention because of the manner of the choice. However, I had known Christian Herter and served with him when he was Speaker of the House. I believed he would be an outstanding Governor which he was. I immediately announced for Lieutenant Governot.

"The two announcements appeared simultaneously. It is true that there was a movement of young Turks to nominate me at the convention although from the platform I endorsed Mr. Herter.

"Senator Leverett Saltonstall said that he had to call the roll although I asked him not to. Otherwise, he said, the convention would feel that he had railroaded the Herter nomination.

"Prior to the convention, Republican candidates debated one another at eight regional meetings across the State. I had two lively opponents in Mr. Volpe and Mr. Cenadella. Herter had none, so much interest focused on the second place.

"One thing I do want to make very clear is that neither Governor Herter nor I in any of that period of time did anything that was unfair one to the other. Ultimately, we served together, and he expressed his warm appreciation for the support I gave him.

"He was a great Governor of Massachusetts. One of the pleasantest memories I have is that I had the privilege of serving him.

"One other point I want to make is that in all of the State Conventions in which I participated, there never was even a hint of dishonesty.

"To the best of my knowledge, and I was very close to all of it, never was there a group of people in political life more individually strong-minded, or more dedicated to integrity; and not one of them ever came to me or to any of my supporters, as far as I know, with the slightest suggestion that he be paid in any way.

"I think it was Paul Dever who called the conventions political acutions, but I know nothing of that.

"I was chairman of the committee on election laws that set up the convention system. The real reason we set it up was that at that time the Irish were winning all the Democratic nominations, and the Yankees were taking all the Republican nominations.

"It was our feeling that the Italians, the French, the Portuguese and other groups deserved a fair chance on that ticket.

"You may remember at that first convention we nominated a young fellow named Roy Papalia. The Democrats then chose Foster Furcolo to achieve balance.

"Now that I look back on it, I might have been wiser to have left well enough alone." (Furcolo defeated Whittier for the Governorship in 1956. That was Whittier's big bid for political fame and glory, but Furcolo stood in his way.

Nixon Failing To Do Job For Which He Was Elected

One of the most astute and seasoned observers of the political scene in Washington estimates that it will be about another three months before we will know whether we have a viable President or a political zombie sitting in the White House.

At the same time he declares that President Nixon seems unable to follow his own advice and "move on from Watergate to the business of the people."

As one example, he points out that in this fifth year of the Nixon Presidency more children are being bused to achieve racial balance than ever before and that this number keeps rising even though polls show that 80 per cent of the people are against such busing.

A second example cited was that Mr. Nixon campaigned effectively last year against quotas and attacked them a contrary to the American tradition, but his own Department of HEW has been enforcing a quota policy in hiring and higher education, and Nixon has done nothing to halt that action.

Surveys and polls have shown definitely that the people are much more concerned about inflation and the high and still rising cost of living than about Watergate. Yet, this is a problem which has not yet been handled effectively.

President Nixon won votes last year by offering himself as an advocate of a strong national defense and assailing some of the proposals by George McGovern which he claimed would weaken our defenses. From where we sit it appears that Richard Nixon has deliberately allowed our defenses to drop.

Richard Nixon obviously has been hurt by the Watergate mess, but he also has been hurt by his own failure to do the job he was elected to do and pledged to do. His problems will not be swept away by a trip to Europe. They will go away only if he faces up to them and does something about them.

Go Get 'Em Billie Jean

By CYNTHIA BLACK

Anyone who really believes next Thursday's tennis match between Billie Jean King and whatshisname has anything to do with women and their liberation is definitely deluded.

This whole thing is a set up; a gigantic gag; a put on.

Nevertheless, I wouldn't want to miss it if its actually played and I definitely want to see HIM lose. Of course, he has maneuvered so many of us into the position of wanting to see him lose that we ought to be smart enough to figure out he's probably smarter than we are.

Completely Black

Touted as super hustler, he certainly did go straight for the female juglar vein this time.

Witness the fact his caricature or picture graces magazine covers and newspaper sports pages. Note the fact it took "Time" magazine four pages to tell his story this week and while it devoted only a half a page to Billie Jean.

Harry Reasoner has fallen under his spell and so has Mike Wallace.

Yes, this man is the super hustler.

And, adding insult to injury, he has to go out and top this whole act by actually being a good tennis player!

Is there an angle left to cover?

I think there is. What would this man say if he loses next week? Have you asked yourself this question yet? He'd have an answer and I'd wager it would be just as galling as his repartee if he won.

Win or lose, he wins. Just watch. Because among all the many angles he's got covered is the one that leads directly to the malevolently fanciful minds of the media, a group that sincerely enjoys aggravation beyond endurance.

Here is a man that really knows how to get his name in print.

Or does he?

Grab The Money And Run

Editor, Newton Graphic:

Open letter to Newton Graphic and the "many seasoned, perhaps cynical observers" who attribute opposition to the establishment of the Newton-Waltham regional refuse-disposal district "to the politics of a municipal election year."

It is my opinion that the City of Newton is attempting (with collusion from Federal officials) to defraud the United States Government of $112,000. With exact deliberateness, the Newton Board of Aldermen passed an order, signed by the Mayor, which did not create a legitimate Regional Refuse-Disposal District as directed and expected by Massachusetts and Federal Law. After cross country telephone calls between the city and officials of the Nixon Administration, the Federal Government somehow determined that this questionable district should receive $112,000.

The intended purpose of the law, so conveniently by-passed by Mayor Mann and the Board of Aldermen, is as follows:

1. The cities and-or towns involved study the question of creation of a Regional Refuse-Disposal District and make a recommendation.

2. The cities and-or towns involved accept or reject the recommendation.

3. If the recommendation is accepted, a Federal grant of $112,000 is available to implement the establishment of the District.

In the City of Newton, our Mayor and Board of Aldermen, under the watchful eye of "many seasoned, perhaps cynical, observers" properly fulfilled the requirements of No. 1 by the creation of a Regional Refuse-Disposal Planning District. Then came the Questionable Practices when No. 2 and No. 3 were not fulfilled.

Under the chairmanship of Ald. David Jackson, the Planning District proposed to grab the Federal money and run. When the question of the morality and legality of this practice arose, the Board of Aldermen and the Mayor said "What the hell; it's Federal money; let's try and get away with it."

Having sworn to uphold the State and Federal Constitutions at least seven times, I had some difficulty reconciling this position with what I considered my public obligations. My failure to so reconcile my conscience caused me to be tagged as an obstructionist, political malcontent and publicity seeker.

I opposed the creation of a Newton-Waltham Regional Refuse-Disposal District. Further, I strongly objected when the mayor failed (as required in the agreement) to submit the names of the proposed Newton appointees. When he did so, I still opposed the appointments on the grounds that they only perpetuate an immoral and illegal act by the City of Newton.

If a vote were to be taken by the Newton Board of Aldermen on the sole question of Newton-Waltham establishing a Regional Refuse-Disposal District, the question would be resoundingly defeated.

The volume of Waltham's trash is about two-thirds of Newton's. Waltham's incinerator is on its last leg and they have no place to dispose of incinerator refuse or dump their solid waste.

The recently completed $35,000 Arthur D. Little Report on the Newton Incinerator clearly indicates that under present conditions, Newton and Waltham cannot both use our incinerator. I dispute that claim, but then I did not direct the study. I believe the incinerator, if properly used for seven days a week, 24 hours a day, could handle the trash. This is a personal, subjective opinion based on observation over five years.

The report also suggests that the City of Newton scrap its Two Million Dollar incinerator (we still have at 10 years to pay on the bond).

It goes on in over 128 pages of gobbledygook, to say nothing more than was known to the Board of Aldermen over a year ago. It does say it more expansively and cites many statistics and charts, but the net result is the same.

It concludes that Newton must repair its incinerator to conform to air pollution requirements (not recommended) or to put trash collection out to private bid.

It is this last thought which seriously concerns me. Clearly set forth in Robert F. Kennedy's "The Enemy Within" is a scenario of the problems which can be encountered by a suburban community when it enters into contracts for the private collection of trash. These potential expenses have been reiterated by a State official who described recent attempts by the underworld to engage in the business of garbage and trash collection.

It is considerations such as these which cause me to ask Newton officialdom to forsake the siren call of Federal Funds. $112,000 is less than 28 cents on the tax rate. If necessary, we should spend our own money and make a serious study of solid waste disposal. We have sufficient experts resident in the City of Newton to advise us.

Let us throw out the phony programs and establish a real solid waste program which includes, a composting program (not the make-believe program on Beacon st.) a real recycling program, a regular newspaper collection program (with no dumping of newspapers in the incinerator), and a serious attempt to induce four or more neighboring cities and towns to join us.

A high priority environmental problem is solid waste disposal. It will be solved by innovation and hard work, not election year propaganda about how wonderful we are for trying to do something.

State Representative
Peter F. Harrington
Vice-Pres. Newton Board of Aldermen

Solons Urge Privacy Protection

(Editor's note: This letter was sent to Governor Francis W. Sargent and a copy forwarded to the Newton Graphic):

Dear Governor Sargent:

To date, Massachusetts has been one of the leaders nationwide in efforts to protect individuals from unwarranted invasion of privacy by sophisticated computerized data systems. The efforts of your office in halting the Commonwealth's participation in such federal programs as the Client-Oriented Data Acquisition Process and the F.B.I.'s National Crime Information Center is highly commendable.

At this point in time, however, we think we ought to scrutinize our own house and where needed put that in order.

Specifically, we are concerned about the Multi-State Information System currently used by the Department of Mental Health. It is our understanding that this system, privately operated and used by several states, collects information on all in-patients in Mental Health facilities in the Commonwealth including age, sex, socio-economic background, education, diagnostic label, and treatment received. It is also our understanding that psychiatric patients have no knowledge about what information is stored on them or how that information will be used. The security of access to the information, with out-of-state data storage and private professional administration, seems to be — to our minds — inadequate.

In addition to the potential for misuse and invasion of privacy without the knowledge of the patient, this system is expensive for the state to maintain. Federal funds that were previously available were cut off on June 30, 1973 and the Department of Mental Health has suggested that the Commonwealth begin to pick up the costs. Further, it is our understanding that proposals have been made to extend the data system from only in-patients to both in-patients and out-patients.

Seeking and receiving psychiatric assistance is, for most persons, a personal and private matter, and we feel that in this instance the large-scale data collection system has the potential of serious misuse and of harming the privacy that must be part of receiving mental health assistance.

We hope you will look closely at the Multi-State Information System and follow the precedent you have already set in guaranteeing rights of privacy.

In advance, we thank you for your attention in this matter.

Educating The Deaf

Editor, Newton Graphic:

On Tuesday, July 17 the Newton School Committee voted unanimously to accept a model high school program for deaf children at Newton North High School.

The program, which opened this month, will be entirely funded through a private corporation and will cost the Newton taxpayer nothing.

Parents of deaf children across the Commonwealth will for the first time, be able to secure a high school education for their children without sending them out of state. Also for the first time, deaf children of high school age will be able to integrate into the mainstream. This is only the beginning.

It is important that all kids with special needs be brought into the mainstream whenever possible so that they may have the same opportunities to productively contribute to society as do our normal children.

As a Newton resident, I am particularly proud of our school committee, our school administrators and educators who have been enormously responsive to the needs of "special" children. Small wonder that Newton is looked upon across the Commonwealth as the leader in public school education.

Suggestions

Editor, Newton Graphic:

In reference to your recent column regarding giving Newton the newspaper it wants, the Newton Graphic is sadly lacking in presenting Newton news.

Last month, an all-day swimming event was held at the Gath Pool with representation from every city and town within approximately a 35 mile radius, Norwood, Natick, Needham, Framingham, Canton, etc. The entire field was covered with picnic tables, tents and various other equipment brought by our guests. No mention was made of this event in the Newton Graphic.

The Newton Swim Team competed in meets throughout the summer twice weekly and no word ever appeared in the Graphic.

Perhaps it would be newsworthy for you to contact the Newton Recreation Dept. for recreation news. News releases should be submitted by them to you informing the public for the proposed plans for public use of the Newton High School pool, as well as other proposals relating to recreational activities within Newton for people of all ages.

The adult education program for the 1973-74 academic year should be printed in the newspaper. Unless a resident has a child in the public school, information of this program is not made available to the public at large.

The voting record of Newton legislators should be a matter of public record appearing in the Newton newspaper if you purportedly are presenting Newton news.

Cramer Sells Retail Division

Cramer Electronics, Inc., (AMEX) of Newton and Teledyne, Inc. (NYS) have announced Teledyne's purchase of Cramer's retail operations for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Cramer is principally a national distributor of industrial electronic products. For the nine months ended June 30, 1973, Cramer's retail operations contributed less than 3 persent of Cramer's total nine months sales volume of $90.5 million.

T. X. Cronin, president of Cramer, commented at the closing that the growth of industrial electronics distribution requires the full attention of management and that the sale of the retail stores will enable a further investment in the expanding basic business of the company.

Overcome Blank Page Blues

Do you think you're the only woman in the world who's wondering what you're going to do when the kids leave the house? Going back to school seems like a good option, but it's been years since you last took notes, read a book for a deadline, took an exam. Work is another good option, but if you had to sit down and write a resume, you'd feel like you'd come up with a blank page.

Well, you're not along in feeling a little overwhelmed with the choices in front of you. "There are many ways of making a decision that is right for you," says Carla Ricci, assistant director of Open College, a continuing education program at Pine Manor Junior College, "and one way is to meet with other women who are considering making changes in their lives."

The Open College, now beginning its third year in Chestnut Hill, has found that often it is not the course material which is difficult for the adult woman, but the sheer mechanics of going to school which can be the most inhibiting factor.

Reading for a college course, taking good class notes, and writing a term paper are important skills that need refreshing.

To help Open College students get the most out of their classes, a special "Workshop on Study Skills" will be offered this fall along with the regular curriculum of 4 seminars and 120 liberal arts courses.

Once the mechanics are mastered, most students at Open College have turned out to be excellent students. "Once a women has discovered that she does in fact have a capable head on her shoulders, the next step is to see what lies beyond school — and frequently "the beyond" is at best hazy and seemingly full of pitfalls," continues Ms. Ricci.

A workshop called "Directions for Women" will also be meeting this fall to help women learn to evaluate their interests and skills, define realistic goals, and then learn how to go about writing a resume and going on a job interview. "Our experience at Open College," Ms. Ricci continues, "shows us that the adult woman's return to school is much more than just going to class. More often, it is a stepping stone to new interests; hence, it often raises more questions than it answers. We hope our workshops will help provide some of the answers."

Open College admits students to its workshops and courses regardless of previous academic experience. The program has attracted women who have a wide range of academic, job, and life experiences.

This fall, in addition to its workshops, Open College will be offering four special seminars: "Family in Primitive Culture," "Couples," "Art of Autobiography," and "Modern Russian Fiction."

The seminars are offered for full credit and meet once a week so that women can attend the college even if they have a busy home or work life.

"Only the individual can find the answer to what she should do with her life," says Ms. Ricci. "At Open College we try to provide the environment and services that can help a woman get started towards the answer that is best for her," she concluded.

Beaver Country Day Begins Another Year

Beaver Country Day School in Chestnut Hill began its fifty-second year Wednesday, Sept. 12, under its new headmaster Philip E. McCurdy.

McCurdy assumed his duties as fourth headmaster in August. At the time of his appointment he was headmaster of the Calhoun School in New York City. McCurdy is a native of Wellesley.

Over 360 boys and girls from 46 communities in the Boston area are attending Beaver this year. Now in its fourth year of coeducation the school will graduate boys for the first time in its history next spring.

Students attending from Newton are: Linda Berman, Nancy Freeman, John Halle, Mitzi Kaitz, Michael Necheles, Amy Simons and Carolyn Spector.

Students attending from Newton Highlands are: David Bordwin, Linda Tompkins, Lynne and Jane Waterman.

Susan Eckles is a student from Newton Lower Falls.

Students attending from Newtonville are: Robin Greenleaf and Daniel Wilson.

Students attending from Newton Centre are: Amy Bender, Paula Burg, Robert and Elizabeth Chen, David Chiel, Elizabeth and Cindy Cyker, Neal Foster, Marc Ehrlich, Janet Feinstein, Nina Garfield, Denise Glickman, Karen Isselbacher.

Also Peter Kaufman, Judith Kaye, Robert Kopelman, Lisa Lieberman, Nancy Lushan, Gail Mann, Rosanne Miller, Nancy Narva, Susan Neustadt, James Ralston, Amy Rittenburg.

Also Nancy Shaw, Amy Sherman, Jocelyn Sisson, David Soroff, David Stone, Michael Traister and Julia Wells.

Faith Michaels is a student from Auburndale.

Students attending from Waban are: Marcia Alevizos, Nancy Barron, Debra Fine, Catherine Givens, Jody Green, Benjamin and Nancy Green, Peter Hadley, Carl Hubel, Torsten Kaack, Nancy Lavine.

Also Barbara Lewis, Laura Ludwig, Heidi Righter, Michele Rosen, Richard Rosenberg, Caroline Rubin, Erica Stein, Thomas Vawter, Richard Winer and Curtis and Hope Wolfson.

Dieters Discuss Family Overweight Problems

The national director and founder of The Diet Workshop, Lois Lindauer, will be the featured speaker on Monday, Sept. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at a free open house which will mark the official opening of the new Diet Workshop Weigh-In Centre at 285 Centre St. Newton Corner (parking in the rear).

Lois Lindauer will be discussing the problems of overweight in families, in conjunction with her recently published paperback book "The Fast and Easy Teenage Diet," copies of which she will be autographing.

Her appearance will mark the official opening of this new centre. Each succeeding night at 7:30 p.m. during the week of Sept. 17 other outstanding guest speakers will be featured – Eidth Berman, the co-founder of The Diet Workshop and director of Research and Development, on Tuesday, Sept. 18; Don Ellis, who lost 65 lbs., the former Mr. Diet Workshop of 1972, on Wednesday, Sept. 19; and on Thursday, Sept. 20th, Joan Sorenson, the winner of the title "Mrs. Diet Workshop of 1973."

This new "Weigh-In Centre" will be available to the public from the hours of 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, for those people who find it inconvenient to attend a local class. The new morning classes will also be starting this same week, and men will like the convenience of the Saturday 9:30 a.m. class.

Lower Falls Nursery Opens Fall Session

Hills and Falls co-operative Nursery SChool will begin its 32nd year with the start of classes on Monday, Sept. 17.

Its location at St. Mary's Church, Concord Street, Newton Lower Falls, makes it very convenient for both Newton and Wellesley residents. Classes are held Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. for both three and four-year olds.

Director of the school and teacher of the four-year old group is Mrs. Betty Coates of Natick.

The three-year old group will be taught by Mrs. Roxanna Leeson who joins the staff this year. Mrs. Leeson has her B.S. from Wheelock College and is a highly experienced cooperative nursery teacher.

Before moving to this area, she was a master teacher for Southern Connecticut State College where she counseled student teachers in the philosophy and practical principles of teaching. She was also director of admissions and a teacher at a cooperative nursery affiliated with Southern Connecticut State.

Previously she taught in a Connecticut College Laboratory School.

The executive board for the 1973-74 season consists of: Mrs. Roger Meyer, president; Mrs. Robert Tracy, vice president; Mrs. James Page, secretary; Mrs. Richard Miller, treasurer, and board members Mrs. Louise St. Amant, Mrs. Alvin Becker, Mrs. Frank Austen, Mrs. Lester Sodickson and Rev. William Berndt.

Persons interested in registration for the 1974-1975 season should contact Mrs. Louis St. Amant, 237-1513, for further information.

D-Day Approaches For Lead Screening Project

Tuesday, Sept. 25, will be a D-Day for the launch of the Newton-Wellesley lead screening program, first such total suburban screening anywhere.

Lending impetus to the need was the report from the mid-summer Kinder-Kamp screening, the second such trial run here. As in last year's Headstart screening, 5 percent of the 68 children screened had lead levels which indicated the need for retest and one tested high enough to need treatment.

The first session of the community program on Sept. 25 will be held in Emerson School, Newton Upper Falls, from 9 a.m. till noon.

In October, screenings in Waban and Newton Lower Falls will complete testing Ward 5. Thereafter, two screening sessions per month are planned until all Newton children aged one to six have been screened. The program will then move on to Wellesley children in the risk age group.

Retired Senior Volunteer Program (R.S.V.P.) volunteers are doing the mammoth job of pinpointing parents of all children in the one to six age group and of contacting them by phone in advance of screenings to set up appointments.

Dr. John M. Cohen, chief of pediatrics and Mrs. Irene Lamb, pediatric nurse practitioner for the hospital's Comprehensive Child Care Service, are masterminding the effort. Technologists from the hospital's pathology lab will administer the finger prick test with blood samples processed in the state's lead poisoning lab.

Karate

The Academy of Newton Centre's Karate Club held its annual outdoor workout in Stoughton recently. Members participated in performing the basic stances, techniques and forms of Shotokan Karate.

Pool Opening Delayed Until October

Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney says that the opening of the pool and gymnasium for public recreation at the new Newton North High School will probably be delayed until mid-October.

He understands from School Department sources that there is still contract work to be completed and equipment to be installed. Once this is done the Recreation Department must wait for the School Department to accept and approve the work.

The Fourth Annual Newton Women's Twilight League Banquet will be held on Thursday, Sept. 20 at the Post 440 Building, beginning at 7 p.m. according to Recreation Supervisor Fran Towle.

An estimated one hundred league participants and their husbands along with invited guests are expected to attend. There will be music and dancing and an award ceremony.

Special invited guests include Mayor Theodore T. Mann, Recreation Commission Chairman Paul J. Burke and Commissioner John B. Penney.

The Jesters, coached and managed by Jean Cole won the championship by besting Tony's Villa two games to one in the three game series. After dropping the first game, 8 to 7, the Jesters won the final two, 7 to 3 and 26 to 11, in a slugfest.

A meeting of Newton residents interested in playing in the Girl's Street Hockey League will be held at Cabot Park, Sept. 18, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Those who attend will be given copies of the rules and regulations and be also given the opportunity to participate in a clinic featuring skills and techniques.

Those interested in attending should contact Fran Towle at 969-3171.

The Recreation Department furnishes the equipment and league play will continue through October.

Recreation Supervisor Robert E. Doherty reports that Crystal Lake which closed Sunday chalked up a record year. Over 5500 Newton residents purchased season passes while the number of day passes issued was over 2500.

The Gath Pool at the Albemarle Playground will continue in operation until the end of September.

Doherty also notes that the reserved tennis court program has been completed and that open tennis is now in effect at all the city's tennis facilities.

The lights for night tennis will be available at the Newton South High School courts through the Fall season.

During the height of the tennis season Newton offers more reserved courts than any other community in Greater Boston. This allows Newton residents to plan their games ahead.

According to Recreation Supervisor William J. Barry the Department's Tag Football League will open season's play on Tuesday, Sept. 18, with two games, one at 7:30 p.m. and the other at 8:30 p.m.

Teams in the league this season are Art Carroll, Rogan's Sporting Goods, Dewire Bros., Gaths, Troubadours, Capello Bros., Paulini Loam and Stumblebums.

Barry reports that the Tigers defeated the Wilcox Cleaners for the City Summer Basketball League Title.

Recreation Intern Austin Moore says that the Boys' Street Hockey League will begin play the last week in September. Rosters will be available at the Recreation Department office next week.

The League for boys 11 to 14 will play its games at Cabot Park Tuesday and Thursday afternoons between 4 and 5:30 p.m.

It is possible that the League, now in its second year, will be expanded this season.

For further information contact Austin Moore at 969-3171 any morning during the week.

Fran Towle announces that Square Dancing Classes will begin on Monday, Sept. 17 at Day Junior High School beginning at 8 p.m.

The Garden City Squares will offer a progressive lesson program for beginners and advanced dancers.

Registration will be held at the Day Junior High School on the evening of Sept. 17.

Historic District Committee Appointed

The recently authorized Historical District Study Committee has been appointed by Mayor Theodore Mann and should hold its first meeting shortly after approval of the names by the Board of Aldermen.

Appointees are Sheldon M. Drucker, lawyer, 25 Roosevelt rd.; Thelma Fleishman, 14 Kenwood ave.; Jean Husher, 677 Chestnut st.; Mrs. E. Graham Bates, 46 Central st.; Kenneth W. Newcomb, 24 Ohio ave.; William Roesner, 314 Newtonville ave.; and James E. Kennedy, 461 Wolcott st.

Drucker is a lawyer, Newcomb a historian, Roesner an architect and an associate member of the Newton Conservation Commission, and Kennedy a historian and former realtor.

Mrs. Fleishman is on the board of the Newton Conservators, Inc., and an active member of the League of Women Voters of Newton.

Mrs. Husher and Mrs. Bates are members of the Historical Committee of the Friends of Jackson Homestead, the city-owned historical museum.

The Homestead, under Mrs. Bates direction, has published several books on its research into Newton's old and historic homes.

The purpose of the Historic District Study Committee is, according to the state historic district act, is to make an investigation of buildings, structures, and sites of historical significance in the city.

The committee will submit a preliminary report on a proposed historical district, hold a public hearing on the district, and submit a final report to the Board of Aldermen for adoption of the district and establishment of a Historic District Commission to administer it.

Once selected and approved, houses or other buildings in a historic district will be governed by regulations to prevent unsuitable changes of their exteriors.

Parents Have 'Right To Know'

House Bill 6401, an act which would permit parents and guardians of public school students to be granted the right to inspect student records, was enacted by both the House and Senate and sent to the Governor for signature recently.

The bill which was passed by both the House and Senate at the recommendation of the Joint Committee on Education was introduced by Rep. Lois G. Pines (D-Newton). Leonard Bird and Sarah Noll, students at Newton North High School, were also sponsors of the legislation.

The new legislation will allow the parents and guardians of a student and-or students over 18 years of age to inspect their school records. Rep. Pines stated, "There is no valid reason for withholding a child's school records from his parents or from a student aged 18 or older and it would help to avoid classifications detrimental to the child and assure accuracy and fairness."

"This parental request for information is related to a general right-to-know interest which has found expression in certain areas of the law, especially as manifested in the first amendment of the United States Constitution," she added.

It is also related to freedom of the press which is the very foundation for all those freedoms that the first amendment of our Constitution was intended to guarantee," Rep. Pines stated.

Writer and educator John C. Holt, supporter of House Bill 6401 stated: "For the schools to compile, as they do, secret dossiers on students, often full of what could fairly be called malicious gossip, diagnoses, and labels to be circulated later to other schools, employers, and any government snooper who asks to see them, is educationally unnecessary and a gross and dangerous violation of the civil liberties of the student. The student and his parents have a fundamental right to see these documents for several reasons."

The first of these, according to Holt, is:

"What is written may gravely affect the student's entire life."

The second is: "They are surely entitled to see what everyone else may see."

The third: "Only if they see them can they defend themselves against the unjustified charges and misleading or mistaken information which these dossiers too often contain."

And finally: "The whole notion of such dossiers is repugnant in a free and democratic society."

"The schools ought not to have the right either to keep or to distribute such records, but if they do, they should at least be required to open them to those most concerned," Holt said. "And to claim that parents may not be 'qualified' to look at them, I would have to ask 'what qualifies the employer, policeman, or FBI agent?'" he concluded.

Oriental Martial Arts Suffers Setback With Bruce Lee's Death

cinema updated

by Marjory Adams

The newly popular Oriental martial arts, as displayed in so many motion pictures shown around New England during the past year or so, has suffered a severe setback with the death in Hong Kong of Bruce Lee, already a star of international proportions.

It is ironic that Lee should have died just as Warner Brothers released his biggest film, "Enter the Dragon." This is the production in which the much discussed "martial arts" comes to it peak, with exhibitions of his own highly developed self defense science called jeet kune do.

However, the slim 34-year old athlete displayed judo, karate, jiu-jitsu, aikido and kung-fu in "Enter the Dragon." Unhappily he also showed the use of the deadly nunchaku, or "noon-chucks" as the young hoods in Los Angeles have named the hard wood, hexagonal sticks connected with corn, chain or leather.

These instruments of death or turture are becoming so provalent in California that the Attorney General has forbidden their sale and rules that their manufacture, sale or possession is a felony . . . It is looked on as an Oriental form of the Caucasian blackjack.

In discussing the Chinese martial arts with some very interesting members of the local Lee family I learned that while Chinese pictures have only recently become popular in commercial theatres in town they have been shown in Chinatown for 20 years.

They look on Lee and his recent productions as a step-up in quality but not in subject matter. Most of the youngsters in Chinatown have been exposed to karate and all the other forms of what is euphemistically titled self defense.

A really determined effort has been made to raise Lee and his art to top boxoffice. Lee himself opened a series of karate schools and at the Lost Angeles one the students included Steve McQueen, James Coburn, Lee Marvin and James Garner.

Meanwhile Lee himself studied philosophy at the University of Washington and it was in Seattle that he met his future wife, Linda. There are two children, Bremdon, 8, and Shannon, 4, and the actor-athlete, at the time of his death, lived in a Hong Kong mansion of 11 rooms.

Actually Bruce was born in San Francisco in 1940 but raised in Hong Kong where his father was a star in the Chinese opera. As a child Bruce himself took small roles in Hong Kong made films.

He was only 24 when he appeared in a karate tournament in Long Beach, California and that led to his playing the role of Kato in the TV series of "The Green Hornet. Stardom wasn't even thought of until a film made by producer Raymond Chow, "Fists of Fury" broke the all time boxoffice record in Hong Kong. New records elsewhere were set by his later films, "The Big Boss" and "The Chinese Connection."

Oriental children have viewed Bruce Lee as an idol and even some boys grown to manhood in size, if not in intelligence, have followed him on the street challenging him to fight, any style. Probably he would have been just as bugeyed with adoration when he was young, had there been a Bruce Lee then in pictures.

He was an impulsive boy and often in trouble. His father sent him back to California "where all the kids are impossible" after they boy had been expelled from a couple of Hong Kong schools.

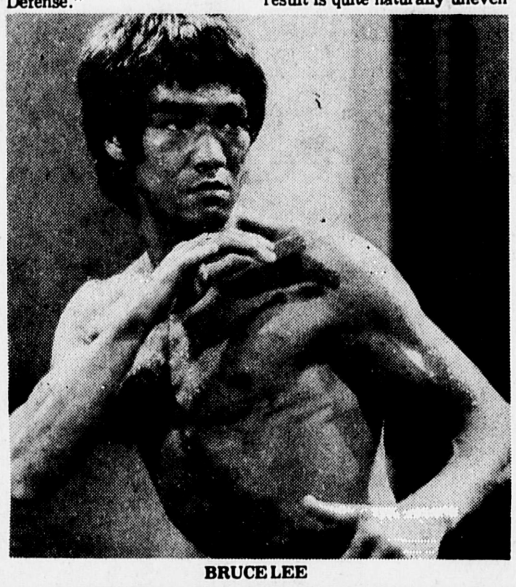
When Bruce was born in a San Francisco hospital he was named Jung-fan. As a teenager he changed his name to Bruce Lee - his father's name was Lee-Hoi-chuen. As a boy he was fascinated by the martial arts and when he was at the University of Washington he wrote his Master of Arts thesis on Kung-Fu. This was later published in paper back under the title, "Chinese Kung-Fu, the Philosophical Art of Self Defense."

In 1964 a superficial form of karate was used in a James Bond picture as a self defense to defeat the enemies of justice. But it was Lee as Kato in "The Green Hornet," in 1967, who first was the authentic practicioner of kung-fu on the screen.

During his career in films Lee, in one year, became the biggest boxoffice star in Hong Kong history. He was both a dramatic idol and a sex symbol.

His death was a tragedy to his fans. And what Chinese producers regret most is that in all his schools, where hundreds of youths and young men follow his precepts and hope to attain his expertise, there isn't a single man ready to take over.

In China Lee has been called "the fastest fist in the East" and whether any other Oriental actor will try to fit into this category of entertainment is yet to be seen. Certainly it will have to be a man talented in uttering weird noises, for Lee's scream of fury and murderous violence when he attacks a wicked opponent is better than any melodramatic gimmick in the James Bond films.



BRUCE LEE

Cinema Review: Visions Of Eight

"VISIONS OF EIGHT"— Eight top directors, famous in international cinema, chose different aspects of coverage in making "Visions of Eight" as a retrospect of the Olympic Games of 1972 in Munich. The result is quite naturally uneven but fascinating, exciting, beautiful in parts, tragic in others.

There is no one segment devoted wholly to the shocking massacre of athletes from Israel but interpolated scenes indicate that the horror shadowed the entire Games.

Some of the contestants admitted to cameramen that their jobs were to win and that no outside considerations would be allowed to interfere with this ambition. Others were obviously cast down after the event, even after they won.

It is particularly interesting to see what topics the directors chose and how different they handle them. For instance, it is a German man, Michael Pfeleghar, who emphasized the grace and beauty of the women athletes and it is surprising how cleverly he has delineated small facets of personality in even the smallest glimpses of these talented women.

There are many who are probably charmers in the drawing rooms of their native countries as well as hefty gals who could vie with truck drivers.

The strong men, huge creatures with oversized muscles and with one aim only, to lift tremendous weights above their heads before applauding crowds, are photographed by the only woman director, Swedish Mai Zetterling.

Arthur Penn, who has won Academy nominations for "The Miracle Worker" and "Bonnie and Clyde," has a segment titled "The Highest," and in this contribution men rise to superb heights of pole vaults with a combination of strength and artistry.

Japanese Kon Ichikawa, responsible for the Olympic film in Tokyo, combines life philosophy with a gruelling account of the 300 meter dash; Claude Lelouche titled his film, "The Losers," and the reactions can be either amusing or bitterly sad when hopes are dashed in the final confrontation; John Schlesinger spends most of his segment following the fortunes of a British marathon runner, who loses out by only a hair; Niles Forman of "Fireman's Ball" and "Loves of a Blonde" combines the brass bands of Munich's beer halls, Beethoven's Ninth Symphony" and Bavarian comedy to put over the complicated efforts of contestants in the decathlon.

There are numerous colorful vignattes by Juri Ozerov and a final announcement that in 1976 the Olympics will be held in Canada.

Citizenship Day Saturday At The Zoo

Sept. 16 will be "Citizenship Day" at the Children's Zoo in Franklin Park. All Naturalized citizens of the United States will be admitted free of charge as guests of the Metropolitan District Commission and the Boston Zoological Society.

The Children's Zoo features young animals from all over the world. Animals with which we share the earth are there to touch, feed and get to know. A baby animal nursery has new born animals from the Walter D. Stone Memorial Zoo, the Franklin Park Zoo and the Blue Hills Trailside Museum. There is a regular feeding schedule posted in the nursery announcing the various feeding times for the infant animals. The complete New England barn yard features pigs, goats, ducks, cows and a gigantic Clydesdale draft horse.

Regular admission is 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Senior Citizens pay only 40 cents and the parking is free. On Sept. 16 all naturalized citizens are going to be admitted free.

Follow the Jamaicaway to the Aborway to Franklin Park. By MBTA take the Orange Line to Egleston Station and then a Blue Hill Avenue bus to the front gate. The Children's Zoo is owned by the Metropolitan District Commission and operated by the Boston Zoological Society.

DANGEROUS CELEBRANT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Health Insurance Institute reports that one of the most dangerous persons in the nation today is the drunk driver.

About half of the estimated 56,000 persons who will be killed in traffic accidents this year will have been drinking themselves or will be the victims of an intoxicated driver. About two of every three alcohol-related deaths will be caused by a small fraction of America's drivers (about seven per cent) who habitually drive while drunk.

Free Banking!
Come and get it at Newton-Waltham Bank.

Finally, a bank giveaway you can really use!

We've taken the bank services you use the most and wrapped them up in one fantastic package. It's called Free Checking Plus. It's free of charges and minimums. And all you have to do to get it is open a savings account with your checking account at Newton-Waltham Bank.

All the checks you can write. Free!

With Free Checking Plus, you get absolutely free checking. No minimum balance required. No charges for regular activity.

Plus automatic transfers from checking to savings.

Having trouble saving? We'll do it for you automatically! Just tell us how much to transfer and how often... every week, every two weeks, or every month. It's the easiest way to save...and it's free!

Plus daily interest on savings.

Daily compounding gives you an annual effective yield of 5.13% on a regular 5% savings account...or 5.65% on a 5½% 90-Day Notice Account. Full interest on all savings accounts is paid monthly...not just quarterly.

Plus $500 to $5000 Cash Reserve. Free until you use it!

If you qualify, we'll give you from $500 to $5000 to use any time...simply by writing a regular check. Cash Reserve automatically covers checking overdrafts as long as they don't exceed your Cash Reserve limit. There's no charge for Cash Reserve until you use it... and when you do, you pay just 1% per month (12% ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE) on your outstanding Cash Reserve balance!

Plus one simple statement that covers everything.

All Free Checking Plus activity... savings, checking, automatic transfers and Cash Reserve...is shown on one simple statement you'll receive each month. So you can see the whole picture at a glance. Remember, all this can be yours free just for opening a savings account with a checking account at Newton-Waltham Bank. Come and get it today!

Plumber's Helper

NEW YORK (UPI) — To avoid big repair bills around the house, do the repair work yourself while it's still a minor job, says "Consumer Views."

The publication, from the First National City Bank, offers another tip. When calling a plumber, if possible group the work to save money. If you have called him to treat a sluggish drain, ask him to check faucets too and other plumbing jobs that may need attention.

SAE Sets Mark For Quality

BY AUTOMOTIVE INFORMATION COUNCIL

Have you ever looked at a can of motor oil or brake fluid and wondered what the initials SAE mean? They stand for Society of Automotive Engineers, a technical society formed in 1905 and now consisting of over 30,000 professional engineers from all branches of the industry.

They work independently, not representing their companies or affiliations to develop standards and specifications for automobile components and products like headlights, brake fluid, motor oil and brake linings.

These standards are voluntary, many of them goals for a manufacturer to work toward when making a particular component. The standards are reviewed each year and updated where the technology in a given area has advanced.

The SAE also assists the government, primarily the Department of Transportation, by providing technical expertise and advice.

A new activity undertaken by SAE within the past year is its Vehicle Research Institute. Under the Society's management, fundamental research projects are being conducted at universities and research centers. At present the emphasis is on highway safety, although research projects have been conducted in other areas and the program is expanding. One area is noise.

The Vehicle Research Institute provides a unique opportunity for industry and government to work together in funding basic studies. This eliminates duplication of effort and funding, while at the same time developing a better common understanding of engineering problems and solutions. This activity is in tune with President Nixons message on science and technology to the Congress on March 16, 1973, when he said: "... The progress we seek looks to a new partnership in science and technology—one which brings together the federal government and private enterprise."

As reflected in its meetings, publications and committees, the SAE and its members are concerned today with problems of energy shortage, vehicle emissions, highway safety, noise, conservation of natural resources and mass transportation, as well as the bread and butter problems of designing more efficient and more effective motor vehicle parts and components.

The consumer derives the ultimate benefit from this scientific research, because these efforts are aimed at providing a safer, more efficiently operating automobile.

"Disney On Parade" This Saturday At Children's Zoo

"Disney on Parade" will make a special visit to the Children's Zoo on Saturday, Sept. 15. Along with the Disney characters, many of the Boston popular children television personalities will also be at the zoo.

For this special day there will be special hours at the Children's Zoo. The zoo will open a half hour early at 9:30 in the morning. "Disney on Parade" will present a special show at 10:00 and will be around the zoo having fun with the kids and adults. This special day at the zoo will be held in cooperation with the Boston Ad Club and the United Way. Many of the agencies that are served by the United Way will be special guests at the zoo.

The Disney characters will join the regular events at the Children's Zoo that include special animal lectures, bottle feeding and the baby animal nursery. The Children's Zoo features hundreds of young and baby animals including a young African elephant, baby black leopards, a pair of lion cubs, dozens of colorful birds, along with alligators, snakes, turtles, raccoons and a complete New England Barnyard.

Regular admission to the Children's Zoo is only 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Parking is free. — The Children's Zoo in Franklin Park is owned by the Metropolitan District Commission and operated by the Boston Zoological Society, a private non-profit organization. For daily zoo information call the zoo-line at 442-0991.

KNOW-It's All For Women's Lib

By POHLA SMITH

WILKINSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Buried in a dimly lighted storefront in this town near Pittsburgh, eight feminists with no previous training in publishing are grinding out word of the women's liberation movement at the rate of $60,000 worth of publications yearly.

KNOW, Inc., founded in 1969 on the theory that "you can't have a revolution without a press," may be the largest women's press in the nation.

Equipped with only one small off-set press, it produces nearly 250 articles and pamphlets and two full-length books ranging in subject from poetry to sexism in children's literature to job discrimination to a list of "Reporters You Can Trust."

Selling articles for the price of five cents a printed page and receiving occasional donations, the non-profit corporation comes out "about even," according to the chief spokesman for the group, Anne Pride. Ms. Pride, a young married woman with another name, has adopted the last name of Pride as her "freedom name" since beginning to work for KNOW.

With equality its credo, KNOW operates as a collective where "everybody has an equal say, equal stake and equal salary," ($2 hourly), Ms. Pride explained. There are no bosses. The group meets once weekly to discuss its priorities; they all interview and vote on new employes.

Seem Casual

The women seem misleadingly casual about their business. Although each woman works 40 hours weekly, they come and go as they please, some taking their work home with them, others arranging their work schedules around their other duties as wives and mothers.

And though each woman has a specialty—bookkeeping, editing, layout or running the press—they are not tied to a particular job. One recent workday, Charlotte Warren, a tall lanky 23-year-old with a bad sunburn, did not feel up to running the press. Mary Jane Walters, a Fordham University dropout with a budding interest in graphics, took her place, while Ms. Warren did Ms. Walters' disbursements.

KNOW was founded as a volunteer group by one male and 15 female members of the local chapter of the National Organization of Women (NOW) who believe the movement needed a voice.

One woman donated a press, two others their garage, and all of them their time. They published reprints of feminist articles as well as news of the movement for free distribution at NOW meetings.

But as the feminist movement grew, so did KNOW.

The group, which had grown out of the garage and into its owners' basement, hird three employes and became a collective. It began selling its works at a price high enough to cover cost of supplies. And as orders increased, the collective expanded.

Then a young author wrote and asked KNOW if it could publish her full-length book. "This was a letter from Gabrielle Burton that changed our lives," KNOW wrote later after it had made its first successful venture into book publishing.

KNOW, Ms. Pride said, knows that it is reaching college campuses and individuals already involved in the movement.

"Now we want to get beyond that," she said, "to the woman bending over her kitchen sink and wondering what it's all about."

Country Fair At Lakeville Hospital Sat.

The renown Major Mudd will headline a number of features to be presented at the fourth annual Country Fair to be held on the grounds of Lakeville Hospital, Rte. 105, Lakeville, on Saturday, September 15, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., sponsored by the Lakeville Hospital Associates, Inc. The entire proceeds will be donated for patient activities.

At the "Fair," will be pony rides, games of chance, refreshments an cold drinks, baked goods, fresh produce, attic treasures and a white elephant table, jewelry, crafts, ceramics, preserves, hot dogs and hamburgers.

Tere will be a drawing to award "Dinners for Two" at many, many famous restaurants.

Also of unusual interest will be the "Next to New" clothes booth with prices and quality unbelievable!

An added attraction will be a "Flea Market."

Institute Offers Classes In Languages

Morning, afternoon and evening classes in English, French, German, Italian, Portuguse and Spanish begin Sept. 24 at the International Institute of Boston, a social service agency and member of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

Classes are taught by trained teachers or native speakers experienced in teaching. They are limited in size and usually meet twice weekly for 12 weeks.

English classes stress development of basic conversation skills for the new immigrant or foreign visitor who is here temporarily. Foreign language classes help Americans improve communication with people for whom English is a second language and are also valuable for people planning trips to other countries.

Registration is by mail or in person. For forms and additional information stop by the Institute at 287 Commonwealth Avenue in Boston or call 536-1081.

Citrus Crepes, a memorable feast.

Mention the word "crepes" and one thinks of expensive restaurants and showy headwaiters who dramatically flame Crepes Suzette along side your table.

Actually, anyone who can prepare pancakes is capable of making light-as-a-feather crepes for an exciting brunch, luncheon or dinner. Thin, delicate crepes were invented by the French and can be made, stacked and kept in the refrigerator a day or two or made weeks in advance and frozen in layers with squares of waxed paper separating them, then placed in a plastic bag and sealed tightly.

If you've never made a blintz or crepe, you'll quickly get the hang of it. We advise using a 6 or 7-inch slope-sided skillet heavy enough to retain heat and brushing the pan with light vegetable oil rather than butter because butter burns too easily. A light salad or vegetable oil leaves no taste behind.

Usually, the first crepe seldom comes out good, but don't let that discourage you. The pan must be pre-heated until a drop of water sizzles and bounces on its surface. A clean pan is a must or the crepes will stick. Two tablespoons of batter are generally sufficient — the finished crepe should be just thick enough to prevent sticking or tearing.

Directions: Pour batter into hot lightly oiled pan and tilt it to spread to thin pancakes. Let cook until bottom is delicately golden. Turn and brown other side the same way. Place on a plate while you cook remaining crepes. If your pan is properly heated, the crepe should cook for 1 minute, be turned and cooked for 30 seconds on the other side.

Following are two crepe recipes and many fillings. One crepe batter is the basic crepe and the other more of a dessert crepe. They are interchangeable.

BASIC CREPE BATTER

3 large eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup flour
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon vegetable oil (for greasing skillet)

Use a blender if possible, or use an electric mixer beating until batter is the consistency of heavy cream. Combine all ingredients except vegetable oil and blend (or beat) until mixture is smooth — refrigerate batter for an hour or two. Heat skillet and brush lightly with oil; pour about 2 tablespoons of batter for each crepe, tipping pan to distribute evenly . . . pour excess batter back into batter mixture. Cook about 1 minute or until bottom side is lightly browned; turn and cook other side for about 30 seconds. Yield: 12-14 crepes.

HAM 'N EGG CREPES

1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup cubed cooked ham (about ½ lb.)
4 eggs, hard-cooked and chopped
1 tablespoon chopped chives
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup milk
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
12 cooked crepes

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine ½ can of the soup with sour cream, ham, eggs, chives and mustard and set aside. Combine remaining ½ can of soup with milk and half of the Parmesan cheese and set aside. Place about 3 tablespoons of the ham and egg filling on each crepe; roll up and place in a greased baking dish. Pour sauce over top; sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese. Bake for 20 minutes until heated through. (Broil a few minutes to brown top, if desired.) Served 4 to 6.

SPINACH SOUFFLE CREPES

6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
6 eggs, separated
2½ cups chopped, cooked spinach
12 crepes, cooked

Melt butter in a saucepan; add salt and pepper, then blend in flour, stirring constantly. Gradually add milk and cook 5 to 8 minutes, stirring occasionally. Let cook for 10 minutes. Beat egg yolks and add to cream sauce slowly, beating steadily. Add drained spinach. In another bowl, beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites into spinach mixture carefully. Place about 2 tablespoons spinach mixture in center of each crepe and roll. Place rolled crepes in greased baking dish and bake at 375 degrees 10 to 15 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN CREPES

1½ cups diced cooked chicken
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ can undiluted cream of mushroom soup

Combine diced chicken, pepper, ½ can cream of mushroom soup. Fill each crepe with 2 tablespoons mixture; roll and place in greased baking dish. Place in 350 degree oven for 20 minutes until heated through. Serve with remaining soup thinned with milk and sprinkle crepes with grated cheese and garnish with parsley.

DESSERT CREPE BATTER (ORANGE CREPES)

3 eggs
2 egg yolks
½ cup milk
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 cup unsifted all purpose flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Beat eggs and egg yolks. Add remaining ingredients and beat until smooth. Let stand at room temperature for at least 1 hour. Lightly brush hot 7 or 8-inch skillet with salad oil. Add 2 tablespoons batter to skillet; turn and tip skillet so mixture covers bottom evenly. Batter will set immediately into thin lacey pancake. When it browns, in about 15 to 20 seconds, loosen with spatula and flip over. Brown other side, in just a few seconds, and turn crepe out onto foil or waxed paper. Repeat with remaining batter.

ORANGE SAUCE

½ cup soft butter or margarine
½ cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
3 tablespoons orange liqueur (Grand Marnier or Cointreau)
One-third cup orange juice
1 cup orange sections

Cream soft butter or margarine with confectioners' sugar and orange rind. Gradually blend in orange liqueur. Spread about ½ teaspoon of mixture over side of crepe that was browned second (this is the less attractive side). Roll up crepe with orange mixture inside. Place remaining mixture with orange juice in large skillet or chafing dish. Heat until bubbly. Add rolled crepes and heat, spooning sauce over. Add orange sections and heat just 2 or 3 minutes longer. Yield: 6 servings of 3 crepes each.

COTTAGE CHEESE FILLING

2 cups (1 lb.) small curd cottage cheese
½ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup confectioners' sugar

Combine all ingredients and beat until light and fluffy. Top with one of the following sauces or fruit toppings:

LEMON ORANGE SAUCE: Combine 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 cup water in a saucepan. Add ¼ cup lemon juice and two-thirds cup sugar. Cook, stirring, over medium heat until boiling and thickened. Beat 1 egg yolk. Stir about ¼ cup hot mixture into beaten yolk; blend, and combine with rest of hot mixture. Stir in 1 teaspoon butter (or margarine) 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

CHERRY TOPPING: Drain 1 can (16 oz.) bing cherries, reserving juice. Combine 2 tablespoons cherry juice with 2 tablespoons brandy and pour over cherries.

STRAWBERRY TOPPING: Wash and hull 1 pint ripe strawberries. Sprinkle with sugar and allow to stand for 1 hour.

APPLE TOPPING: Combine 2 cups applesauce with 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1½ tablespoons whiskey.

Put 2 tablespoons of cottage cheese filling on each crepe. Fold over and arrange on a platter. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and serve with your choice of sauce or fruit topping.

The Sky's The Limit? Not For Women Teachers

By NORA IRVINE

Are women in our public schools denied equal opportunity for advancement, are they discouraged from seeking the highly salaried administrative posts currently held almost exclusively by men?

In Massachusetts as a whole, 80 per cent of public school teachers are women but only 21 per cent of principals are women. At the top superintendent level, only one is a woman.

That ratio is reflected by school departments in nearby communities. Of five communities surveyed, Dedham is the only system with zero female administrators.

Teachers at the Dedham elementary schools number 110 women to only 13 men, but all nine of the elementary principal posts are held by men.

At the junior high and high school level, where there is essentially a 50-50 balance between men and women teachers, the principals and their assistants are men. So are the superintendents.

In Westwood, where there are 10 times as many women teachers as men in elementary schools, only one of the five principals is a woman. Joanne Hadalski assumed directorship of Martha Jones School a year ago.

The junior and senior high principals and their assistants are men, although the teachers ranks are evenly split between men and woman. The superintendents are also men.

Ms. Hadalski feels that being single is a determining factor in her aspiring to a principalship.

"A lot of married women aren't interested in the job. I don't think the higher salaries school administrators are getting now is a factor for women; they are more likely to consider a job on the basis of what's involved and how interesting it is."

"A man might go after the job on the basis of salary," she added.

"But more women are becoming enthused about this sort of thing. With the growth of women's liberation, people are starting to think of women as having administrative potential."

"More women can apply and at least be considered for the job. Whether or not they'll get it, I don't know. That depends on their background and experience."

"I don't think there's really any discrimination against women in school systems. I should say I'm hopeful that there's not."

Marrian Kronish of Dwight Elementary School in Needham is one of two women grade school principals among 10 schools. There are no women secondary principals or superintendents, although there are 115 more women than men teachers in Needham schools.

Ms. Krohish agrees that most women teachers do not aspire to administrative positions because they usually marry and become the secondary breadwinner in the family.

"If you judge from the number of applicants, I would almost say there is less interest among women than in the past. This year Needham had an opening for principal and most of the applicants were men."

"First of all, most elementary principals are former fifth and sixth grade teachers, and men are assuming those positions more and more. Everybody is getting interested in the teaching field now that our salaries are improved."

"I have a husband but we don't have children. If I had young children, I think I would have left and stayed home with them while they were infants. I don't know though. There are more and more career women with children who are finding competent people to take care of them while they continue to work."

"I don't feel discriminated against in my job. Even though there are only two women principals in Needham I think we have equal status as the men and they don't treat us as though we were less competent."

Wash 'n Wear Hair Styles For Fall

Fashions By Ruth Lenson

Hair once more looks like hair again and that means all that hair-bruising back-combing, stiffly lacquered behive shaping and untidy shag are gone.

New hair styles call for short, thick, shiny, cared for hair. The shortest haircuts since the boyish bob of the 20's are being shown this fall. How short is "short?" By "short" hair stylists are not referring to "shorn;" rather, the small, cap head is the rule.

Actually, new hair styles are a composite of lengths and all are based on a good professional hair cut. Hair is cut to growth patterns and head shape, and when hair is a bit longer than ear length, it takes on a blunt, chopped look instead of the uneven shag.

Medium length hair now introduces finger waving and a cut referred to as the Cuff, which literally does "cuff out" with a bouncy upturn from the face. This soft styling is very flattering for women 30 and older.

Again and again, famous hair stylists like Kenneth, Caruso and Sasson insist that cleanliness plays a big part in hair beauty. Diet also plays an important part in obtaining a head of thick, luxurious hair . . . the dream and hope of every woman. Good diet, plenty of rest and good general health are the basics of healthy hair.

A tip from a noted hair stylist: Women with fine hair should have their cut often by the best hairdresser available. This type of hair usually accumulates less oil and grime, and once a week shampooing is generally adequate. Also advised is a texturizing shampoo with protein — this product can be one recommended by your hairdresser. After the second lathering, allow suds to stand for four to five minutes before final rinsing.

Fine hair does not allow for vigorous brushing with a stiff-bristled brush. A medium-soft bristle is quite sufficient — with a light touch.

The following treatment does not guarantee that hair will grow thicker — just healthier: Lie down on a bed with head dangling. Gently massage scalp from hairline to nape of neck. This exercise will increase circulation and hopefully induce new hair growth.

Hair coloring presents the most serious problem for most women. Unfortunately, many women put hair color on over and over, which is similar to dyeing and re-dyeing a piece of fabric again and again, damaging the material and achieving an unacceptable muddy color.

Professional hairdressers put on color carefully, retouching the root areas only. Another pitfall for dyed hair is improper shampoo. Hair is composed of amino acids, the basis of all protein. Normally, hair has a slight acid reaction; therefore, it's a good idea that women with dyed hair use an acid-balanced shampoo, one that is not strongly alkaline.

Speaking of color, reds will be redder this fall particularly with the current trend toward the henna shades. Blondes will be blonder.

Waves that curl.

Brunettes who want to go blonde can, but not with just one application of a hair coloring product. It's a lot easier if you go a few shades lighter if your objective is to brighten a drab hair color or cover gray.

There are three basic types of coloring products — temporary, semi-permanent and permanent. The first two enhance the natural color and cover gray but do not change the natural hair coloring permanently.

Temporary hair color covers the cuticle (outer) layer of the hair only. It refreshes tinted hair between touchups and tones down "brassiness." It will also help remove yellow from gray hair and add shiny highlights. Removed by washing, the temporary hair color will last from washing to washing.

Semi-permanent color does not require peroxide nor does it alter natural color pigment. It blends gray hair into the natural color and enhances hair that is mostly gray. It can be expected to last through three to five shampoos.

Permanent coloring products are the ones that actually change the color of the hair, with the new color remaining until the hair grows out. The important thing being the degree of change which determines whether the new color can be achieved in a single or double process.

One-step coloring can add highlights and depth and darken natural color (most often, gray). Hair can also be made lighter, but only using several shades. The lightening action is not strong enough to change a dark brunette to a pale blonde.

Autumn and winter are traditionally time for party going and party giving, but sometimes it's not conventient to shampoo before the event. Tip: Instead of lathering up, powder up.

Sprinkle baby powder into your hair and toss your curls around for two or three minutes, giving the baby powder time to absorb all that extra oil and dirt. Then brush out till every trace of the baby powder disappears. Your hair will not only be ready to "go" in a few minutes, you'll smell fresh and clean.

If you're contemplating changing your hair style for the new shorter cuts, follow the advice of Mr. Kenneth: "Hair should fit the woman, her bone structure, her skin tones, but most of all, it must fit her life style."

Cynthia Ross Is Bride

At a recent morning ceremony aboard the S.S. Peter Stuyvesant, Anthony's Pier Four, Miss Cynthia Martha Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Ross of Waban, became the bride of Arthur William Dolan, son of Mrs. William Barr Dolan of 755 Great Plain avenue, Needham, and grandson of Mrs. Charles F. Jenks of Natick.

The Rev. Hvezdon Kafka officiated at the 11:30 o'clock ceremony, and a reception followed on the "Peter Stuyvesant."

Lucille J. Ross of Waban was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Marsha Perlmutter of Newton Centre and Diane Balavitch of Lawrence. Jennifer Cohen of Silver Spring, Md., was the flower girl.

James E. Dolan served as best man for his brother, and ushers included Lance P. Jackson of Needham and the bride's brother, Stephen L. Ross of Waban.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, who is assistant to the general manager of General Dynamics, Quincy Shipbuilding Division, Quincy.

Nova Scotia was the couple's honeymoon destination, and their future residence will be in Bronxville, New York.

The groom plans to teach science in Putnam Valley, New York. His bride will attend Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N.Y., in the human genetics graduate program. (Photo by Bradford Bachrach)

Miss Weinstein Weds Mr. Glass

Miss Janice Gail Weinstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Weinstein of Newton Highlands, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Carl Gass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gass of Malden on August 20.

The bride was graduated from Boston University and is a social worker with the Division of Family and Children's Services.

The groom is employed by Holt and Bugbee Co. of Tewksbury.

After a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mr. and Mrs. Gass will live in Malden.

In Norwood schools, there are 282 women teachers and 215 men. All eight of the elementary schools are directed by men, as are the two junior highs and the high school. The exception is Ruth Shea, director of Peabody School for Girls, a vocational facility.

Almost half of the elementary principals in Newton are women, 11 out of 23, but the five junior highs and two high schools are lead by men. Fifty-nine per cent of teachers in Newtons schools are women.

In both Norwood and Newton, there are several women "head teachers" at the elementary level who serve as assistants to the principals.

It seems, then, that if women in our school systems do have limited aspirations they date back to years before they were in a positions to consider administrative posts.

It is during those impressionable grade school and high school years when their ambitions are formed, when they are told in countless subtle ways that certain jobs are not for them, that the career of the man they will someday marry is more important than their own.

COVERAGE: One coat of Latex Sand Finish will cover most surfaces, including hair line cracks, fire cracks, and minor defective wall surfaces. If more than one coat is needed, allow 5 to 6 hours between coats.

CLEAN-UP: Clean equipment by washing with soapy water immediately after use.

LATEX SAND FINISH is a quick dry, easy brushing, ready for use paint made on a modern plastic base. It dries super-hard and free of brush marks.

USES: Latex Sand Finish is designed for interior use on new and previously painted surfaces such as sheetrock, plaster, drywall, brick, cinder block, cement, concrete block or rock lath.

SURFACE PREPARATION: Remove all loose scale, dirt, grease, and any water soluable material such as calcimine, or any coating which may be softened by water. Use steel wool or sandpaper to dull glossy finishes. Use metal primer over all bare metal. This material is self-priming and may therefore be used over porous surfaces.

APPLICATION: Nylon brush, mohair roller (Top quality), or spray.

THINNING: Neither required, nor necessary.

TEMPERATURE LIMITS: Avoid painting when temperature drops below 40 degrees F. If Latex Sand Finish freezes, restore to room temperature before using.

JUST BRUSH IT ON ... AND RELAX

MRS. MARK GRAUPEN

Wallins-Graupen Bridal Held At Green Manor

Residing in Waban are Mr. and Mrs. Mark Graupen, who recently were wed at Green Manor.

The bride, the former Deborah Wallins, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallins. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Graupen.

Maid of honor was Marian Wallins, twin sister of the bride. Mrs. Michael Zelman was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Marion Shapiro, cousin of the bride; Natalie White and Beth Weinberg.

Michael Zelman was best man for his brother. Ushers were Edward Temple, Robert Lindsay and Paul Wallins.

Rabbi Mark Cohen, cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Graupen was graduated from Newton High School and attended Newton Junior High School. Her husband is attending Boston University School of Communications. (Ciro's Photo)

DIANE BERNSTEIN

Diane Bernstein To Wed

Dr. and Mrs. Murray Bernstein of Newton Centre announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane Beth, to Dr. Marc Jared Homer of Boston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bently Homer, Brooklyn, N.Y.

A November 17 wedding is planned.

Miss Bernstein was graduated from Newton South High School and attended Jackson College of Tufts University. She served this year on the staff of Massachusetts General Hospital evaluating the Harvard Community Health Plan. She will attend Boston University School of Social Work in the fall.

Dr. Homer was graduated from Brooklyn College, cum laude, and New York University Medical School. He is a resident in radiology at Beth Israel Hospital. A junior member of the American College of Radiology, he is a resident representative to the New England Roentgenray society. (Bachrach Photo)

Loeb Theatre Announces New Series Of Programs

On September 20 the Loeb Drama Center will open the fall segment of its 1973 Special Presentation Series. The American Ballet Theater's Repertory Company, under the direction of Richard Englund, will give three performances on September 20, 21 and 22 at 8 p.m. The Repertory will include works choreographed by George Balanchine, Rudi Perez, William Dollar, Lucas Hoving and Richard Englund.

From "live" to "film" will be next in the Series, with three screenings of the B.B.C. film of Laurence Oliver's Chichester Festival production of Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya." In addition to Olivier, this star-studded cast also includes Joan Plowright, Sir Michael Redgrave, Dame Sybil Thorndike and Rosemary Harris. There will be two screenings on September 23 at 6 and 9 p.m., and one screening on September 24 at 8 p.m.

The Series' third event will open on September 26 at 8 p.m. The Cafe La Mama's Experimental Theater will present their Playhouse of the Ridiculous in a production called "The Magic Show of Dr. Ma-Gico" by Ken Bernard. This highly innovative troupe will perform on September 26, 27, 28 and 30 at 8 p.m. and on September 29 at 5 and 9 p.m.

Fourth in the Special Series' schedule will be the Harvard Summer School's Dance Center, a new company which has just completed its first summer in Cambridge. The ensemble will present its own works on the Loeb stage, works including an adaptation of John Updike's "Rabbit, Run" and "Hockey Seen, a Nightmare in Three Periods and Sudden Death." Dancer-choreographers will include Martha Armstrong Gray, Bill Evans, Dorothy Hershkowitz and Reuben James Edinger. Performances will be presented on October 4, 5, and 6 at 8 p.m.

Following these first four events in the Special Series, the Harvard Dramatic Club will present their three fall productions: "Dracula, "The Rogues' Trial," and "MacBeth," to be given between October 18 and December 8.

The Special Series will continue its presentation with the National Dance Ensemble of Pakistan in a program of folk and semi-classical dances to be performed December 11 at 5 and 8:30 p.m. and December 12 at 5 p.m.

The internationally renowned State Dancers of Yugoslavia, in their American debut, recreating the folk dances and music of Macedonia, Serbia and Croatia, will be presented December 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 at 8 p.m. and December 22 at 5 and 9 p.m.

Marking their fifth visit to the Loeb, the unique Oxford and Cambridge Shakespeare Company will return with a new production of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," beginning the Special Presentations Series in January for seven performances, January 8 through 12.

For a detailed brochure on the Special Presentation Series and Harvard Dramatic Club subscriptions, call or write the Loeb Drama Center, 64 Brattle Street, Cambridge 02138 — Tel. 495-2668. Mail orders are now being accepted for the entire Series. The box office will open September 10 on a daily basis, from noon to 6 p.m. — Tel. 864-2630.

LAND GRANT

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — More than 10 million documents, some of them dating back to 1745, are maintained in the records division of Texas' General Land Office.

Individual documents comprising basic title to 176,266,000 acres of land in the state are kept in a constant-temperature vault. The files include more than 4,200 land grants issued by the Spanish and Mexican governments over a period of two centuries, as well as headrights granted by the Republic of Texas after 1836.

Nancy Shifman Marries

Married recently were Nancy Ellen Shifman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shifman, Newton, and William Joseph Dignan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Dignan, Dorchester.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, where a garden reception followed. Cantor Alex Zimmer officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, Nancy wore a white organza gown trimmed with satin and venice lace with empire waist, A-line skirt and attached chapel train, with matching picture hat. She carried a white basket of orchids, roses, babies breath and ivy.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Edward Shifman Jr., of Baltimore, Md., and bridesmaids, Mrs. Steven Kesselman, Newtonville, and Mrs. Bruce Steinberg of Nashua, N.H.

Francis P. Dignan Jr. was best man for his brother. Ushers were Robert Dignan and Edward Shifman Jr.

Mynette Shifman, niece of the bride was flower girl.

The bride attended Dana Hall School and was graduated from Case Western Reserve University. Her husband, a Vietnan veteran, recently was discharged from the U.S. Marine Corps. He is a graduate of Hyde Park High School.

MRS. WILLIAM JOSEPH DIGNAN

MRS. RICHARD PHILIP BASILE

Miss Boynick, Mr. Basile Are United In Marriage

The marriage of Miss Ellen Judy Boynick of Newton Centre and Richard Philip Basile of Rochester, N. Y., was solemnized at a 7 o'clock ceremony performed recently at the Holiday Inn in Newton. Rabbi Samuel Umen officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Boynick of Newton Centre and the late Bernard Boynick. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Basile of Rochester, N. Y.

Given in marriage by her brother, Jerrold Boynick of Newton Centre, the bride wore a white cotton lace gown.

Miss Alexandra Banks of Newton was the maid of honor.

Serving as best man for his brother was Michael Basile of Tallahasee, Fla. Ushers included Jerrold Boynick of Newton and Charles Parshall of Rochester.

A reception followed at the Holiday Inn.

After a honeywoon trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple will reside on Long Island, N. Y.

The bride is a graduate of the State University of New York at Stony Brook, where her husband is a member of the senior class. (Photo by Picturesque Studio)

Volunteers Sought

The Massachusetts Association for Retarded Citizens (MARC) urgently needs a team of volunteers to work on its "Preventive Action Through Public Education" campaign.

Volunteers will assist MARC's Medical Research and Public Health Committee in its campaign to inform the general public of steps every parent can take to lessen the risk of giving birth to a mentally retarded child.

Those people interested in offering a few hours a month to help ensure the success of this important project should call the MARC office at 891-7710.

Bahai Faith Will Observe World Peace Day

Members of the Baha'i faith will observe World Peace Day Sunday (Sept. 16)

A public meeting sponsored by the Boston Baha'i Community will be held from 1 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday in the Boston University Sherman Union Conference Hall, Helen LaVey of Chestnut Hill announced this week.

Daniel Jordan, professor of education, and Dwight Allen, dean of the School of Education at UMass in Amherst, will speak on "World Peace–the First Priority."

Alexandra Banks Is Bride

Wed recently at the M.I.T. Chapel were Alexandra I. Banks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Banks, Newton and Peter Hart Guldberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Guldberg, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Cantor Alexander Zimmer performed the double ring ceremony. A reception followed aboard the S.S. Peter Stuyvesant, Pier 4, Boston. The couple spent their honeymoon in the Virgin Islands.

Given in marriage by her father, Alexandra wore a white cluny lace gown and white picture hat trimmed with Venise lace flowers. She carried a cascade of daisies.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ellen Basile of New York. James Guldberg of Ann Arbor, Mich., was his brother's best man.

The bride is a graduate of Boston University. Her husband, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will study for his master's degree at the University of Michigan. They will reside in Ann Arbor. (Ellis Field Photo)

Change To Help And Also To Have Fun Doing It

For anyone who has taken the time to travel the winding roads into the Charles River Workshop in Needham, to see the pride and happiness reflected on the faces of life's "unfortunates" as they proudly display their accomplishments, the nagging question of "How can I help" would not only prompt purchasing tickets for the benefit and on October 26, it would create enthusiasm to form a party group and insist on being counted in helping such a worthy cause, simply by having a good time.

To take a tour of the Workshop is an enlightening and rewarding experience. One can not but marvel at the patience of those who work tirelessly to give these human beings a sense of dignity, paying their way in life, with work that they are capable of doing. To be asked by sweet Dianne Petersen for an autograph, after noticing how she dogged your footsteps for ten minutes, makes you realize how precious and appreciated interest in them has become. To stop and talk with Richard Pierce, Mark Henrischon and Steven Mulchter, to watch their painstaking day-long work in clipping little diodes for an electric company, and have them proudly point to the piled high boxes of completed work for which they will be payed leaves you a sense of respect and new appreciation for your own capabilities.

Blind, retarded and handicapped people from pre-kindergarden to adult age are trained to reach their ultimate capacity of performance at this Workshop, largely due to the untiring efforts of Earle Mountain and his crew. The Government gave buildings, the state helps, a little comes from United Funds, but there is never enough, enough materials, enough staff or enough equipment to do all that is needed for some 90 daily workers. They come from all outlying towns, Weston, Wellesley, Newton, Natick and Dedham. Pre-schoolers will go on to public school, many came from institutions and are now useful and happy individuals earning a limited income. Much credit goes to the companies that give them work and sell the products from the fantastic craft shop that includes pretty towel sets, soaps and many useful gift items.

After a visit to the Workshop, it is only natural to assess your own life, to see what little part you could play. Understandably, few have the time, patience or skills to help, but now with the First Annual Dinner Dance on October 26 to be held at the newly redecorated Moseleys on the Charles, a gay evening is offered that will help raise badly needed funds.

The party will be on a Friday evening, a night when most can attend, from 8:30 to 12:30. Music will be provided by Dick Pillar's recording Orchestra. A Mini-buffet will be served by the generous cooperation of Roche Bros. Supermarkets. The $7 donation is miniscule, compared to the fun of an evening of fun, dancing and eating plus the elated knowledge that you gave moral and financial support to the magnificent effort carried on by so few, for so many.

Tickets may be obtained at the Opportunity Shop, 91 Chapel street in Needham (opp. Town Hall) any member of the Lions Club of Needham or by calling Rita Sanford, consumer hostess of Roche Bros., who has also offered to help in distribution of tickets. General Chairman of the dance, which it is hoped will be an Annual Fund Raising event, is Albert A. Pearson, Jr., a director of the Charles River Association for Retarded Children.

A few minutes spent visiting the Charles River Workshop would not only make you want to attend the dance, you would demand the opportunity to help.

Car Service-Wash Opening Next Week

In 1968 John Shalbey Jr., and Robert A. Piso opened a car wash (Whirley Car Wash) on Route 1, Norwood.

From this small beginning "John" and "Bob" are having a grand opening Thursday and Friday, September 20 and 21, of the largest car service-wash in the U.S.A. right next door to their old car-wash on Route 1, Norwood.

The success of this establishment stems from the fact that the owners, John and Bob, offered personalized service to each and every one of their customers. If there ever was a complaint, they made sure it was taken care of immediately; if a piece of machinery wasn't operating properly they were there to fix it. Before long everyone knew that if there ever was a problem, one of the owners of the Whirley Car Wash would be there to help. On this idea the car wash grew to what it is today, a clean, efficient and courteous public service to all.

Many years of planning took place before the final blue prints were drawn up for their new service wash and when customers come down to the New Whirley Car Care and Service Center they will fully understand this statement. Since it is the largest car service-wash in the U.S.A. and the only one of its type in New England, they spared no cost on the appearance, equipment and accessories. Those who have driven by the new facility have seen the beautiful landscaping that has been done. Landscaping is usually the last item of importance for a service wash, but this was not so for this particular service center. John and Bob wanted to be proud of their new service center but they also wanted the town of Norwood and all their patrons to feel the same and as a result the new Whirley Service Wash is one of a kind.

The brand new car service-wash which occupies a 5½ acre tract will be able to take care of all automotive needs. The building includes 30 Texaco gasoline pumps, so waiting in line for gas will be a thing of the past. There is a choice of two types of automatic washes, a) tunnel brush car wash (the most advanced model of its type) b) whirley pressure car wash which can handle cars, Econolines and pick up trucks; 6 self service maintenance bays that will fit trucks up to 11'9" for those who prefer to do it themselves; 3 car repair bays where expert mechanics keep cars in top mechanical condition; a large car accessory and refreshment area that will offer from upholstery cleaner to hot soup; Hertz car rental and Ryder Truck Rental plus an apartment rental office.

They are also happy to announce that they will carry a full line of Firestone tires so they may be able to serve you in every possible way.

Last but not least, the Whirley Service Wash has done and will continue to do their best so the world will be a better place for all to live; and they maintain this by using the latest scientific development in car wash history with a complete water reclaiming system of all soaps and chemicles that are used (liquid and powder) are biodegradeable and are approved by the state department of Ecology.

John and Bob, both residents of Norwood themselves, would like all their past present and future patrons to come and visit their new facility and enjoy the finest in service washing anywhere in the country.

Major Advance In Color TV Made By Zenith Corp.

Zenith Radio Corporation has come up with a major advance in color television that cuts down on the amount of electricity needed to operate sets, contributes to energy conservation, and at the same time helps the pocketbooks of television viewers.

The advance, called the Power Sentry, is a new system of magnetic voltage regulation. It is standard in the chassis of all 39 of Zenith's all-solid state sets in its 1974 color television line and "makes our color sets less costly to operate than our all-tube or our 'hybrid' (part tube and part solid state) chassis sets now on the market," the company says.

"The Power Sentry system is expected to bring significant economy to the operation of the set," Karl H. Horn, senior vice president-engineering and research, said.

"Where big screen all-tube color television sets of a few years ago required 350 to 400 watts of electrical power to operate, Zenith's 30,000 volt+ all-solid state chassis TV sets with the Power Sentry consume from 110 watts to a maximum of 180 watts, the exact amount depending on the brightness level of the picture tube," he said.

Horn said that this means — A TV set owner with about a five-year-old all-tube set who operates the receiver about five and one-half hours a day (about 2,000 hours per year) will pay about $24.00 per year, or $2.00 a month, to operate his big screen TV set. The exact amount depends on the local electric rate.

A big screen Zenith solid state TV set with the Power Sentry system, under the same conditions, using the maximum of 180 watts, would consume about $10.80 worth of electricity in a year or about 90 cents a month. Consumption of electricity would drop from around 700 or 800 kilowatt-hours to about 360 kilowatt-hours.

"This is not only a cash saving for TV set owners," Horn said, "but — with the consumption of electric power rising some seven percent a year — can become an important contribution in the area of energy conservation."

Noting additional advantages that mark the use of the first magnetic voltage regulating system built into color TV sets, Horn said that "the Power Sentry enables these sets to maintain a bright picture even when pictures on many other TV sets shrink, distort, roll, or lose their color and brightness because of low household voltage. It also provides longer life for the picture tube and other components by providing isolation from high voltage transients or surges."

"Projections of data from accelerated life tests we have conducted on solid state sets with the Power Sentry system indicate that these sets will be more trouble-free and require less servicing than any previous Zenith color TV set," Horn said.

"The reason for this improvement is that the Power Sentry system stabilizes voltage applied to TV set components over a wide range of voltage variations in the home. This means that the TV set components operate at optimum voltage levels. Under these conditions, all components — including color picture tubes — last longer, perform better, and are less likely to fail."

The Power Sentry system supplies a steady voltage to heat the picture tube cathode and so improves the life of the tube by permitting it to operate at its best temperature, regardless of variations in household voltage.

The Power Sentry, using a magnetic rather than electronic system of regulation, replaces the conventional power transformer and complex electronic voltage regulation circuitry in solid state color receivers. It converts unregulated AC line voltage to regulated AC voltage for use in the set, maintaining it at the specified operating level. Because it operates internally within the power transformer, which supplies all parts of the television receiver, every circuit and every component benefits from its regulating action.

The Power Sentry system has about 30 less parts, chiefly capacitors and resistors, than the conventional electronic regulating system. This simplifies the system, and so reduces the chance for failure.

Suburban Girl To Sponsor Career Centers

Announcement of a series of Career Centers to be sponsored by SUBURBAN GIRL, a Division of Reardon Associates of Dedham was recently made by Janet Peterson, Vice President of the company.

These Career Centers are designed to recruit candidates for specific firms in the suburban area. The Centers, which run one or two days each, are held in well known motor inns in the areas of Dedham, Attleboro, Braintree, Brockton, Quincy, Newton, Waltham, Bedford, Burlington, Lowell, and Framingham.

Professional and business women who are seeking professional advice regarding their careers will benefit from counseling at the Centers.

SUBURBAN GIRL handles both permanent and temporary applicants and has been selected by a great majority of the Route 128 companies to recruit their personnel. These clients assume all fees for this service. This widespread promotion should prove of great value to both client companies and business women in industry.

Refreshments are served at the Centers. They are open into the evening so that everyone will have a convenient time to come.

quality education for the minimum expense.

"During the past two years, as a member of the School Committee, I have, at times on my own initiative and at other times in cooperation with other members of the Committee, worked relative to these four areas of concern.

Mrs. Needleman has taught for the past 15 years, and is presently a full-time teacher of mathematics in the Wayland Junior High School. She served as curriculum-coordinator of the Wayland Schools, grades 1-12 for a period of ten years, taught at Northeastern and Boston University Schools of Education, and supervised interns in secondary schools in Newton and other communities. She has taken courses in statistics and computers.

"I believe that during the past two years I have been able in various ways to combine my background as teacher, coordinator, and lawyer in reaching decisions placed before the School Committee. I have served on the Design Review Ordinance Committee, as chairman of the joint Newton Teacher Association-School Department Committee relative to Indemnification Insurance, and have worked with the School Department in the preparation of a first draft of new Rules and Regulations for the School Committee. I am in the process of compiling court decisions relative to civil rights of teachers and students to make recommendations for specific policy guidelines to be explicitly stated as school policy."

Mrs. Needleman holds the degree of B.A. in Physics from Smith College, M.A. in Physics from Radcliffe College, M. Ed. from Northeastern University, and received a Doctorate in Secondary Education in Mathematics from Boston University in 1970. Since entering into service on the School Committee, she has become certified as a secondary school principal.

She is also a graduate cum laude of Boston University Law School, where she served as editor-in-chief of the Boston University Law Review. She is a member of the Massachusetts and Federal Bars, several honorary societies in education, and numerous professional associations.

Mrs. Needleman has expressed concern that in these critical times for education, when the entire structure of the educational system and its effectiveness are being questioned, policy making should be in the hands of those who are knowledgeable about the issues in education.

"Our students must be educated for freedom of choice and acceptance of meeting the consequences of these choices. The School Committee person of today must also be hardheaded about expenditures for education, recognizing that better education does not necessarily follow from greater expenditures.

"I have served the people of Newton, from all wards of the city, to the best of my ability. I have made every effort to attend immediately to any personal request addressed to me for information or action. I have investigated matters brought before me, attended school activities where possible, and stated my positions on each issue as it arose honestly and without equivocation. I have exerted my best efforts to the making of policy decisions leading to a reasonable balance between tradition and innovation. I have consistently considered the Newton taxpayer in the effort to balance school needs and community needs. I would like to continue as your representative on the School Committee."

Dr. Needleman is married to Robert Needleman, an attorney. They are the parents of Lucy Rines Needleman, presently in Madrid in a Doctorate Program in Spanish from Middlebury College, and their son, Barry, a graduate of University of Massachusetts. Both children formerly attended the Newton School system.

Open Space-

"Whether outsiders are a serious threat," said Penney, "is a matter of judgment. We do get complaints about nonresidents playing tennis at Newton South High School."

Jackson, who proposed the $1 million guideline for the Recreation Commission, asked Penney whether it is enough. Penney, who has had his budget decimated year after year by one mayor or another, replied, "It would take four or five times as much to bring all our land up to full development and improve everything, but it's a good starting program."

The City Planning Committee, with an unusually high attendance of six of its eight members, agreed unanimously that the $1 million for he next five years is a minimum for recreation.

Alderman Edward Richmond urged Penney and the rest of the commission "to be very firm and vocal and insistent" to Mayor Theodore Mann when submitting its budget.

The Conservation Commission answer to Jackson's request for land-acquisition proposals seemed to be a response to public concern over the disappearance of open space as articulated by residents in a Planning Department survey and voiced at an open-space action conference held this spring as part of Newton's Centennial observance.

Of 10,000 Planning Department questionnaires returned in 1972, 45.3 per cent showed "very serious" concern and 33.9 per cent "somewhat serious" concern with disappearance of open space.

The spring conference brought together citizen groups, city officials, and outside experts to discuss how to preserve the open space left in Newton.

According to Planning Department figures presented at the conference, there are 2,090 acres of so-called open space in the city, about 19 per cent of the total land area.

Of the 2,090 acres, only 818 acres are public land, giving Newton 9 acres per 1,000 population. U.S. government recommendations are for 15 acres per 1,000 population.

Of the privately owned open space, more than half is in golf courses, leaving about 630 acres available for purchase by the city.

One suggestion that met total agreement at the conference was to add a certain amount to the tax rate annually solely for the acquisition of land. The figure of $1 was mentioned.

The Conservation Commission proposal, based on a $2 million cost, would add 83 cents to the tax rate for a 10-year bonding period or 57 cents for a 20-year period.

The 14 lands proposed for ConCom acquisition in the report presented by ConCom secretary Helen Heyn, range from the 1.3-acre "Hunnewell Woods" to the 37-acre Kennard estate in Chestnut Hill.

The entire Chestnut Hill Golf Club is also under consideration by the Conservation Commission but recommended for acquisition only if it is threatened with development. Its estimated cost is $7 million.

The ConCom by statute is charged with "the promotion and development of natural resources" and the "protection of watershed resources" of the city.

In 1972, the ConCom adopted the goals of preserving publicly owned park, recreation, conservation, and historic land; formulating a plan to provide additional land for passive recreation, visual amenity, and study; and achieving public control of the uses of river and stream banks and wetlands.

In preparing its recommendation for the 1973-78 CIP, the Conservation Commission had some internal disagreement about whether the report should state that the purchase of the listed lands would mean attainment of these goals.

Activist Deborah Howard of the ConCom felt that the response to Jackson's request for ConCom desires for land acquisition was by no means a long-range, final plan.

Since the CIP is prepared every year, there is a flexibility for changing the proposal from time to time.

Ms. Howard repeated her position at the City Planning Committee, referring especially to the absence of proposals for the river banks. She mentioned a river-banks study being done in the Planning Department with a matching-fund Ford Foundation grant.

Sharon Francis of the Newton Conservators, Inc., presented that group's recommendations, explaining that the Conservators' primary activity in respect to open space is education of the public.

The Conservators recommended expansion of the swimming area at Crystal Lake, expansion of Allison Park, and permanent protection of the golf courses.

Rita Barron of the Charles River Watershed Association emphasized the CRWA goal of public access to the river along its entire length and supported the acquisition of the Staniford St. land and "Gilligan's Island," a river-bank tract, in Auburndale.

The City Planning Committee unanimously approved the Conservation Commission proposal for inclusion in the capital improvements program.

Rosenblum-

improve school building facilities during her past two terms, Mrs. Rosenblum sought and supported a study of the business management operations of the schools which has just been completed by the A. D. Little Company. She has worked for improved efficiency in business management.

"Savings from this source combined with economics made possible by a declining school enrollment will help offset rising costs in the provision of quality educational programs," Mrs. Rosenblum stated.

A major task facing schools in the next few years will be the formulation of suitable training and education programs for handicapped children as required by a new state law.

Mrs. Rosenblum pointed out that the Newton school system has always been a leader in providing for special needs of children.

"During the four years I have been on the committee," she said, "we have established bi-lingual classes, increased the learning disabilities program by 800 percent, expanded work-study and teen-age adjustment programs, and, beginning this fall, we will be housing a cooperative program for deaf children in the secondary schools."

"As a result, Newton has a good start toward implementing the new law," she said. "However, because suitable training will be required for handicapped persons starting at age three, some new programs seem inevitable.

"Mrs. Rosenblum advocates the establishment of regional programs in cooperation with nearby communities in those instances where only a few children with a particular kind of handicap are found in one community.

A crucial challenge for education in the 70's, according to Mrs. Rosenblum, will be the development of cooperative programs between urban and suburban systems. Mrs. Rosenblum supported Newton's participation in a planning effort between Boston and 55 suburban communities to devise mutually beneficial programs. The first federal grant under the Emergency School Aid Act, in the amount of $980,000, has been awarded to the Greater Metropolitan planning group (which includes Newton) by the U.S. Office of Education. Planning efforts will seek voluntary participation by the various communities for a wide variety of purposes such as easing racial isolation, enriching learning experiences, sharing resources, training staff, and remodeling buildings. While this kind of planning is now in its infancy, Mrs. Rosenblum sees voluntary metropolitan cooperation as necessary for achieving a needed equity while preserving high standards in education.

Long active in civic affairs in Newton, Mrs. Rosenblum has kept in close touch with the community during her two terms in office. She chaired the School Building Facilities Commission for two years during its comprehensive survey of school building needs and has worked to implement its recommendations for improved process in the maintenance and replacement of school facilities. She led discussion groups last winter with citizens and school staff interested in improving guidance services in the schools. She has encouraged programs which involve citizen participation in the schools and learning activities for students in the community.

Mrs. Rosenblum is a member of the Title I Advisory Committee at the Lincoln-Eliot School, and is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Newton Junior College and of Freeport, Inc. She recently served as a member of the Mayor's Committee to make recommendations for a new city Building Commissioner.

A graduate of the University of Cincinnati, magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa, Mrs. Rosenblum has a Master's Degree in Social Work from Smith College. Her professional experience includes several years as a staff member of the Judge Baker Guidance Center, a children's mental health clinic in Boston. She also worked for the Newton-Baker Project, a joint research effort of the Judge Baker Clinic and the Newton Schools, and was social work coordinator for the Metco Program in Newton until June, 1969.

Mrs. Rosenblum has held many offices in her local PTA organizations and in the PTA Council, including the presidency of Carr School PTA and membership on the PTA Council School Buildings Committee. Her many other volunteer activities have been in behalf of Temple Shalom of Newton, Newton Fair Housing, Cub Scouts, Newton-Wellesley-Weston Mental Health Area Board, and the State and National alumnae associations of Smith College School for Social Work.

A resident of Newton for 20 years, Mrs. Rosenblum is the wife of Dr. Gershen Rosenblum, a Regional Administrator for the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health. She has three children, Bruce, a Junior at Yale University; Steven, a senior at Newton High, Murray Road Annex; and Kathryn, in ninth grade at Day Junior High.

U. S. Popping 10% More Corks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Concern over rising food prices apparently hasn't cut into United States' wine consumption, which increased more than 10 per cent last year, and nearly 67 per cent over the past five years.

The Wine Marketing Handbook says the biggest growth was in sales and consumption of table wines—the varieties commonly served with meals.

Dan Hecht, associate editor of the annual trade publication, said he sees no slowing of the trend so far this year, despite price increases for both food and wine.

The reasons and the typical wine drinker are hard to pinpoint. But the handbook, which is published by Gavin-Jobson Assoc., a market research organization, quotes magazine surveys that profile the largest group of U.S. wine drinkers as 35 to 49 years old, with annual incomes ranging between $7,000 and $15,000.

It explains that 18 to 34-year-olds, who represent the second largest group of wine users, have turned to wine in rebellion against the life style of their parents and as a symbol of sophistication to a generation that is better educated and more traveled than the preceding one.

More people are serving wine with meals more often, both at home and in restaurants, the handbook said, adding that women are a much more important factor than had been supposed and, in some respects, are more wine-conscious than their husbands.

Women Uncertain

But eager as they are to use and serve wine, women are uncertain about choosing and serving. One study showed that 55 per cent of the wives questioned said they, not their husbands, usually shopped for wine, but that they had problems: pronouncing wine names, knowing how wines would taste, knowing what to buy and whether guests would like their choice. Many of the wives complained of high prices and lack of help from ads and clerks in wine and liquor stores.

In 32 states and the District of Columbia, wine also is sold in food stores—including many self-service ones. Until recent years, shoppers there had to know what they wanted when they reached the point of sale.

Supermarket magazines, like many other mass-market publications with family readership, carried no articles about wine or advertising for it.

All that has changed, and perhaps the biggest change of all is the publication of "The Family Circle Guide to Wine," which sells along side the regular monthly magazine at check-out counters.

The 128-page guide by Alexis Bespaloff has advice on buying, storing and serving wine. In language that is never pretentious or baffling, the author describes the colors, flavors and aromas, or bouquets, of wines and tells how to recognize these characteristics properly. A two-page pronouncing glossary covers a wide range of wines. The guide also has a brief recipe chapter.

The same author is responsible for "Alexis Bespaloff's Guide to Inexpensive Wines" (Simon and Schuster). To some extent, the information in this new book overlaps that of the magazine guide, but the book also lists by brand and variety more than 300 wines that the author considers good value. They range in price from about $3.50 a bottle to $3.50 a gallon.

In a helpful break with tradition, the book charts recommendations by price and taste—light-bodied or full-bodied, dry or semi-sweet—instead of by growing regions and varietal names. A pronunciation guide would have been useful, but the book is so good in other respects that this oversight can be overlooked.

Another new book, "Guide to California Wines" by John Melville (Dutton) actually is a new and revised fourth edition by Jefferson Morgan. It makes no attempt to describe wine flavors, colors and aromas in detail but it does include an up-to-date list, with addresses and telephone numbers of California wineries that are open to the public.

Workshop On Retarded September 15

Educators, volunteers, parents of retarded children are invited to attend an all-day workshop on religious instruction for retarded children. The workshop will be held Saturday, September 15, at Cardinal Cushing College in Brookline and is sponsored by the Office of Religious Education of the Archdiocese of Boston.

Registration may take place at the workshop at 9:15 a.m., but it is preferred if those planning to attend would pre-register by writing to: Sr. Rosemarie Kruse, OSF, Cardinal Cushing School, Hanover, Mass. 02339.

Among the speakers will be: Mrs. Nisso Aladjem, president of MARC and Rev. Peter Casey, Mr. Andrew Maguire, Mrs. Nancy Kearney, and Miss Carol Burgess.

All attending are asked to bring their own lunch as dining facilities are unavailable. The workshop is under the direction of Rev. Lawrence J. Cronin, special religious education consultant.

Modern Decorative Arts Exhibit At Art Museum

The Parsons table, the bentwood rocker, and other classic pieces of furniture compose the Boston Museum of Fine Arts' first exhibition of modern decorative art. On view now through October 2, the exhibition illustrates several major trends in design from 1880 to the present, including Art Nouveau, the Bauhaus, and the English Arts and Crafts movement. This exhibition is sponsored by Bloomingdale's.

Entitled "Classics in Modern Decorative Art 1880-1970, the exhibition is composed of replicas of original works by such outstanding designers as Mies Van der Rohe, Marcel Breuer and Charles Eames. There are lamps, chairs, sofas, tables, ceramics and other everyday objects that are some of the strongest artistic expressions of our time.

Although many designs, such as Thonet's 1851 bentwood rocker, were created in the 19th century, these contemporary editions are as popular today as when they first appeared.

The origin of the modern style can be traced to the English Arts and Crafts movement of the mid-19th century, led by William Morris. In reaction to machine-made adaptations of 18th century forms, Morris emphasized the importance of craftsmanship and of intelligent use of materials. He applied these principles for everything from wallpaper to furniture and book design. A butcher-block table, a Parsons table and other pieces on exhibition were not designed by artists in the Arts and Crafts movement of the 1860's, but they are inspired by them and manifest their continuing influence.

The Cesca Chair, after an original by Marcel Breuer, and the Barcelona Chair, originally designed by Mies van der Rohe, are among the works by designers from the Bauhaus, the center for design and architecture founded in the beginning of the 20th century by Walter Gropius in Germany. Bauhaus designers strived to integrate the fine arts with technology, and their influence on architecture, industrial design and the decorative arts is immeasurable. They rejected tradition by stressing that design should reveal more honestly the structure and function of an object or building.

Post World War II designs such as chairs and tables by contemporary American designer Charles Eames, are also on view. Some of the most recent concepts in the decorative arts can be seen in a mushroom shaped lamp, a variety of lightweight inexpensive plastic furniture, and other works from Italy, Scandinavia and France. These contemporary objects, designed in bright colors as well as black and white, reflect an ever-accelerating technology as well as the ever-accelerating society in which we live today.

Modern works on view will be offered to the Museum by Bloomingdale's to form the nucleus of a new collection of modern decorative arts.

BOSTON'S LARGEST FALL SQUARE DANCE, the Prudential Center Town and Country Square Dance Jubilee will take place rain or shine, Saturday, Sept. 15. Five hours of do-si-do will begin at 5 p.m. and continue until 10 p.m., led by six of New England's top callers. The dance will feature two learning sessions for the public and a demonstration of old-time fiddling. The Jubilee is free and the public is invited.

CHECK THE WHEEZE

CHICAGO (UPI) — A young child's wheeze may not be caused by asthma.

Dr. Arthur H. Rosenblum, a pediatric allergist, says the breathing difficulty could well be caused by something stuck in an airway. Dr. Rosenblum cautions his colleagues to examine more closely the next time they see a wheezing child. If a foreign body in the child's airway is neglected, the physician says, it "may result in very serious pulmonary complications including lung abscess and pneumonia." The doctor's caution was in a paper presented to a recent joint meeting of the Chicago Societies of Allergy and Pediatrics.

Coast Guard Class For Boaters

For most of us the Fall means autumn leaves and Monday night football.

Not so for a quarter million boat owners. For them, it's back to the classroom for some formal boating education. The Coat Guard Auxiliary—the regular Coast Guard's civilian volunteer arm—says Fall and Winter months are two of the most popular times to take a boating course.

For one thing, the hectic vacation season is over—the kids are back in school—and dad's number one distraction is cradled safely in the backyard. With some of those embarrassing landings at the dock still pretty fresh in mind many come to class more than willing to learn.

Coats Guard Auxiliary boating courses are offered in one, three, seven, and 12 lesson formats. The seven lesson course is an introduction to sailing. The courses meet one night a week—and the only cost is a nominal charge for materials. No one makes a profit.

A class will be held at Pierce Junior High School, Gile Road, Milton, beginning Tuesday, Sept. 18, at 7:30. There will be a series of 12 lessons.

Nature's Ways

By WAYNE HANLEY
(Mass. Audubon Society)

To report that New England's last large colony of ospreys did rather well this summer requires an explanation.

In some ways, the birds' success might be compared to an exhausted swimmer who still is swimming although a strong tide continues carrying him seaward.

The ospreys which nest along the Westport and Slocum Rivers of Massachusetts, near Narragansett Bay, were down to 14 pairs this year. They had astonishing success, however. The 14 pairs hatched 28 young ospreys and 27 of the young survived to leave the nest.

As a measure of how good that production was: Gil and Jo Fernandez of Dartmouth, who keep score on the osprey colony, report that in 1972, the 15 pairs of ospreys then present produced only 11 fledglings.

Once as many as 120 pairs of ospreys spent the summer in the general area of Westport. Around the end of World War II, the birds were down to about 60 pairs. Since then, they have continued to decline, with an occasional rally.

The present number of 14 pairs equals the record lows established in 1963 and 1964. After those two poor years, the birds gradually increased until they reached 23 pairs in 1968. Since then they have experienced another slow decline.

Ospreys are large fish hawks. Their general dark-and-white color causes many persons to mistake them for eagles. At the turn of the century, ospreys were common birds along the New England coast and many larger New England ponds supported at least one pair.

Oddly, the most successful ospreys now in southeast New England nest each summer on Martha's Vineyard. The two pairs on the Vineyard produced six young in 1971; seven young last year, and six young this year.

The decline of ospreys has been linked at least circumstantially with the use of hard pesticides. The general collapse of the population throughout the northeast came when the use of DDT was at its height. In recent years the use of hard pesticides has declined but many other chemicals in coastal waters have either increased or maintained a rather high level. Ospreys are expecially susceptible since they ear nothing but fish and fish are great concentrators of chemicals. In addition, a fish with a heavy chemical load tends to become disabled and easy prey for ospreys.

Each year we check out the osprey population on a small island in the east branch of the Westport River. The island is owned by the town. In late August this year there were seven young ospreys perched among the three nests and dead branches of trees on the island. In the brief time we watched, three young ospreys flew out, returned with a fish each and proceeded to eat their prey while perched.

Information Please by Ruth Lenzer

This is the reader's column. If you have a question or a recipe to share with other readers, please write to: Information, Please, Transcript Newspapers, 420 Washington Street, Dedham, Mass. 02026.

Question: This past weekend, after quite a bit of coaxing by my family, I attempted to make the puffy, delicious onion rings that can be purchased in places like 7E's and others, after quite a bit of bother, they were not very good rings at all. Can you help me? — Mrs. A., Norwood

Answer: To begin with, did you use Spanish onions? Though the batter is important, these onions give you easier rings to separate and the flavor is sweeter than yellow onions. Buttermilk is the secret ingredient in the batter. Spread fried onion rings out in a shallow baking pan and keep in a warm oven until serving.

PUFFY SPANISH ONION RINGS

2 large Spanish onions
2 eggs, separated
1¼ cups buttermilk
1½ tablespoons salad oil
1¼ cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ teaspoons baking powder

Remove skins and slice onions ¼-inch thick. Separate into rings. Beat egg yolks. Add buttermilk, oil and sifted dry ingredients. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into buttermilk mixture. Dip onion rings into batter. Fry, a few at a time, in deep fat heated to 375 degrees. Drain thoroughly on paper towels and sprinkle with salt. Keep warm in oven. Note: These onion rings may be frozen. When ready to serve, place frozen onion rings on a baking sheet and heat in 450 degree oven for 5 minutes.

What a pleasure it was to hear from a reader who prefers to be called "Patchwork." She has sent in her favorite brownie recipe which, she says, is super because of the peppermint patties that serve as a frosting. Many thanks, "Patchwork," please write again!

PEPPERMINT ICED "FUDGIES"

4 squares unsweetened chocolate
½ cup margarine
2 cups sugar
4 eggs, beaten
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
18 chocolate peppermint patties

Melt chocolate and margarine over hot water; cool slightly. Gradually add sugar to eggs, beating thoroughly after each addition. Blend in chocolate mixture, stir in flour; add vanilla and nuts. Spread in greased 9-inch square pan. Bake at 325 degrees about 40 minutes; remove from oven and top with patties. Return to oven about 3 minutes to soften patties and then spread them over top of brownies. Cool and cut. Makes about 2 dozen brownies.

Question: Would you please print a recipe for stuffed eggplant? Thanks. — S. I., Dedham

Answer: Plump, purple eggplants are plentiful now and this rice-stuffed eggplant bakes in just 35 minutes. Hope you enjoy:

RICE STUFFED EGGPLANT

1 cup raw rice
1 medium eggplant
¼ cup oil
½ tomato, diced
½ green pepper, diced
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon basil
2 tablespoons butter

Cook rice according to package directions. Cut eggplant in half lengthwise; scoop out center of each half, leaving a half-inch shell. Dice scooped-out eggplant meat. Place eggplant shells, cut side down, in a large skillet with about ½-inch boiling salted water. Cover and steam for 5 minutes. Drain and reserve. Heat oil and cook diced eggplant, tomato, green pepper, onion and garlic until tender. Add cooked rice and seasonings, and stir to combine. Stuff mixture into eggplant shells and dot with butter. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for about 35 minutes until eggplant shells are tender. Makes 2 main dish servings.

Question: Frankly, I've never cooked with lentils until recently and I am looking for interesting lentil recipes; please, not a soup recipe. — Mrs. W. P., Newton Centre

Answer: This Lentil Casserole is a hearty dish rich in proteins and a wonderful main dish.

LENTIL CASSEROLE

2 tablespoons oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 large onion, sliced
2 ribs celery, sliced
3 carrots, sliced
5 cups water
1 pound lentils
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf

Heat oil in a large casserole and cook garlic, onion, celery and carrots for 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Cover and reduce heat. Simmer about 35 minutes, stirring occasionally until lentils are tender and liquid is absorbed. Serves 4.

Question: I am planning a shower for a neighbor's daughter and would like to make something a bit different in a cookie. Can you suggest something? — Mrs. O. L., Sharon

Answer: This cookie is shaped like a tulip, delicately flavored with orange and sure to highlight a pastry tray. To prepare the tulip shape, cut circles of cookie dough with a 4-inch cutter, then use an edge of the cutter to cut petals from the circles. Arrange petals in a blossom on a cookie sheet and bake until golden. Icing the cookies adds your own creative touch.

TULIP COOKIES

¾ cup sugar
½ cup margarine
1 egg
1 egg yolk (reserve egg white)
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice
2¼ cups flour *
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
Glaze

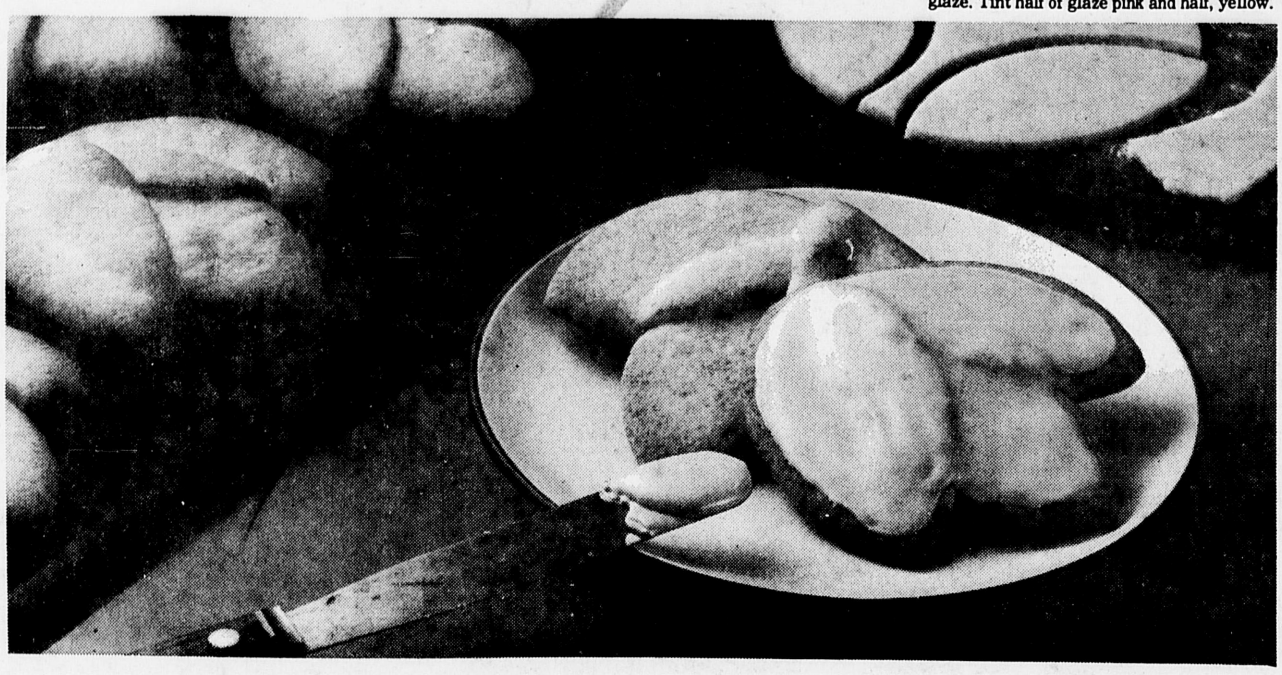
* Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

Cream sugar and margarine until light and fluffy. Blend in egg and yolk, orange rind and juice. Stir together dry ingredients. Gradually add to creamed mixture; blend thoroughly. Divide dough into 2 portions; chill for 1 hour in refrigerator or 15 minutes in freezer. Roll out on lightly floured surface to one-sixteenth inch thick. Cut circles with 4-inch round cutter. Cut 3 petals from each circle, using about one-third of edge of round cookie cutter. On lightly greased baking sheet arrange 3 petals in tulip shape for each cookie. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven 5 to 6 minutes, or until just golden at edges. Cool on racks. Spread with Glaze.

GLAZE

1 egg white
1½ cups confectioners' sugar
1½ tablespoons orange juice
Red and yellow food coloring

Beat egg white until foamy. Blend in sugar and orange juice. Add additional orange juice, if necessary, to make a thin glaze. Tint half of glaze pink and half, yellow.



Tulip cookies bloom.

GO ASK ALICE ANONYMOUS
AVON — 95 Cents
By MICHAEL ALLISON

As it says on the back cover, you can't ask Alice anything anymore. But you wouldn't have to anyway — everything Alice would have told you is here, in her diary.

"Go Ask Alice" will bring it all very near — it strikes close to home. Becuase Alice was normal — she came from a happy, loving family. Her great mistake was that she was so lonely, that to become popular she was ready to do anything.

It started when her family moved. Alice was at a sensitive age and it was difficult for her to make friends. She suffered until summer in the new school where no one spoke to her, then she went back home to spend the summer with her grandparents.

She renewed some old acquaintances and made some new friends. It was at an autograph party that Alice was started on drugs. She didn't say no because she didn't want to be laughed at. It was a good trip, and Alice felt so wonderful she didn't see anything wrong with going on.

When she went home, she tried to stay off. But then when she became friends with Chris, she started on uppers and marijuana. To get money for drugs, Alice had to push a little.

When Alice and Chris ran away to San Francisco, both of them tried to stay off drugs, but Chris's boss Sheila invited them to a party and it all began again. Chris and Alice opened their own successful boutique, but decided after awhile that they wanted to go home and stay off everything forever.

No one would believe that Alice meant to stay off. When she stuck with her resolution, the suppliers got nasty and her life was miserable. Someone put LSD in some candy that Alice ate and it was a bad trip; after she got out of the hospital, Alice was confined to a mental home for a few months.

Alice tried hard to stay clean. It was easier when Joel Reems became her special friend, and her family was helping. She was making new friends, and she was happy about her relationship with Joel. Then one night her parents found her dead of an overdose.

Alice's diary says it all much better. You can't ask her, but you can read "Go Ask Alice."

side

As per an agreement worked out between Outreach and the police prior to the concert, no police were in the immediate concert area, but their presence was noted at road blocks set up at both ends of Eastern Avenue and in several parking lots located on the edge of the field.

According to police chief William C. Kardas, who was originally opposed to the concert, a total of about 65 different law enforcement people, plus four police dogs, were ready should any type of disturbance break out.

Accordingly to Kardas, only one kid was arrested by the department and he was released immediately. Several youths were arrested on charges of public intoxication but no arrests were made because of the nature of the state's laws pertaining to alcohol consumption.

Inside the enclosed concert area which covered an area from the southeastern corner of the softball field to the service road and the Little League field at the north end of the park, various "marshalls" with orange colored arm bands patrolled the concert area.

According to organizers of the event, approximately 50 people were employed in this capacity and some of them spent the night chasing gate crashers, while others discreetly asked youths smoking marijuana or drinking alcoholic beverages if they would please dispose of the illegal materials, both of which were illegal inside the park.

Probably the biggest problem of the evening was the scarcity of paying customers. Approximately 300 to 350 youths decided not to pay the $2 admission charge and instead opted for places on the sidewalks bordering one side of the concert area on the Eastern Avenue side. Several hundred more, range of the concert, the several hundred non-paying customers, because they were not in a position to hear the concert, caused the concert organizers some concern.

That concern, however, was not heightened as despite their attacks on sections of the store fence which in places was reduced to kindling, the group presented no additional problems.

Headlining the concert was Mad Angel, a polished quartet of rock artists from Worcester, Mass. with a light show and sound system of their own, both of which were not really suited for the outdoor atmosphere of Barnes Memorial Park. Mad Angel had the crowd yelling for more as they finished a shortened half hour set at 10 p.m.

Because the concert organizers had agreed to the 10 p.m. curfew, Mad Angel, despite the wishes of the majority of the crowd which had gathered at the edge of a flatbed truck converted into a stage, packed their gear and left.

Opening the show and performing instrumentally well was Red Axes, a Dedham based trio. They were followed by Meadowbrook, a "Chicago" sound nine-piece band which had problems getting their sound coordinated.

UNITED WAY—

Elected Officials Barred From TM?

By RICHARD D. HULL

The Dedham Charter Commission voted at its meeting this week to bar all elected town officers and finance committee members from becoming town representatives while holding office.

The purpose of this decision, noted as a consensus of opinion to be written into the board's preliminary report this fall, is to distinguish the duties drawn between legislative and administrative or executive type bodies, according to Chairman Edward H. Larkin.

"It does serves to broaden the base of citizen participation in government," Larkin declared in explaining the commission's thoughts.

Dedham finance committee members are presently appointed and already barred from holding town meeting member positions. A consensus of opinion reached last week by the Charter Commission was to change the name of "members" to "town representatives" as Little Wes "members" is misleading, not only the finances com-suest for a mittee members but all elected officials from the rest of role most always.

Also reached at the Tuesday night meeting was a consensus of opinion to enact a ruling calling for a total of 170 town representatives for a total of 170 town meeting.

The board had earlier elected to recommend a maximum of 200 town representatives, a number which would remain unchanged in the total includes 10 from each of the nine districts which will form in accordance with the state's revamping mandate.

This quorum of 170 is a higher percentage than now required, stated Larkin, but the commission feels confident that town meeting members will continue their active and responsible study in the future.

In conjunction with this consensus, Larkin, Gerry was a good deal of sentiment" expressed at Tuesday's meeting by commission members for a stringent publication of attendance records of all town representatives.

The charter board also discussed the listing of candidates on the election ballot.

The commission at one point reached a 3-3 impasse on the issue of listing randomly on the ballot all town office candidates drawn by Member Jack Stanton, commenting on that the vote stated that he was both surprised and disappointed because no one from the mission had spoken to us before any disagreement with this procedure.

School Lunch Costs

By RICHARD J. SINNOTT
Transcript Staff Writer

Brace yourself Dedham mothers, the cost of school lunches is also about to increase.

The Dedham School Committee received the bad news at its Monday meeting from Thomas C. Kenney, director of school lunch programs.

Lunches last year cost 30 cents. The bill of fare included a hot entree with vegetable, fruit, dessert and milk.

Come September lunch could cost up to 40 cents although School Chairman William A. Podolski said the Board would like to hold the increase down to a nickel.

Committeeman Russell W. Shannon suggested and the committee approved his motion that Dedham seek approval from the state of a 40 cent lunch, but that the price of lunches be 35 cents when the school year commences.

The cost of a half pint container of milk is already up three cents from last year, Mr. Kenney told the committee.

One year ago milk was five cents. It went to seven cents near the end of the school year. Next month it will be a dime.

Why are lunches going to cost more?

For the very same reason the housewife is paying more at the market:

Food shortages, rising prices and Phase Four. And of course, off in the future, the price of beef is expected to soar when controls come off September 12.

Also having a decided impact on the cost of Dedham school lunches is the government's failure to furnish free commodities to the system.

In years past the federal administration would provide Dedham with surplus beef, chicken, turkey, pork, butter, oil, canned fruit and canned vegetables.

But not any more.

Once upon a distant time the feds would provide the town with items such as shortening, also. Last year, however, ... tening. It paid $11 for a 50-pound cube. That s

Charter Group Forms Chang...

By RICHARD D. HULL

Dedham's Charter Commission reached a consensus of opinion on three major items pertaining to the town's government at their meeting Monday night, including the creation of a brand new board of commissioners to oversee trust funds.

The commission's "consensus of opinion" is not to be construed as an official vote by that body to incorporate an idea into Dedham's proposed new charter.

However, there is a "strong possibility that consensus agreements will be included in the preliminary draft of the charter," according to Charter Commission Chairman Edward H. Larkin.

Larkin stated that "formal votes" on all of the items considered by the commission will be taken probably in late September or early October, and that these votes will provide the articles to be included in the preliminary report.

The charter commission, according to Larkin, was of the opinion that the Dedham board of library trustees should be cut in size from nine to five members, a feeling expressed earlier this summer by some of the present trustees themselves.

A number of citizens had also expressed opinions that the library trustee board was too large, and the commission generally concurred that membership should be trimmed.

Also agreed upon by the board was the extension of the term of town moderator from one to three years. Under the present system, the moderator is elected every year during town elections in February.

The charter commission feels that the town moderator should not only be elected to a three-year term of office, but should also be limited to three consecutive terms.

This means that a person elected in a given year as town moderator could serve three years and be reelected twice, but would have to step down at the end of nine years. However, he could wait another three years and be placed on the ballot again.

It was a unanimous consensus of opinion, Larkin stated, of the charter commission to establish a five-member board of commissioners of trust funds, an agency which does not even exist now.

The unpaid board would be charged with administering and overseeing the various trust funds set up to provide benefits to Dedham, and would report once a year to the town treasurer.

Article 64 of the Town Warrant, approved by Town meeting members, calls for the retention of "the services of a consultant, knowledgeable in the field of law enforcement and police administration, to study the operation of the Dedham Police Department."

The Board of Selectmen interviewed four firms in late July and unanimously selected the Municipal Police Science Institute, Inc. of Wellesley for the study.

According to George A. Coles, chairman of the selectmen, the institute was chosen because Howland's personal presentation was persuasive enough to "swing the vote to that firm."

Howland will act as the project director for the study. He is also the director for Babson's New England Institute of Law Enforcement Management.

Provision for the study was voted by the March Town Meeting after very little discussion.

Boston College Notebook

Will this be the year of the Eagle?

Maybe.

So much for pre-season predictions. The Eagles look tough and have a well-balanced offense. The punch is there. There are nine returnees of 11 starters and 16 on the first two teams. The line is solid and could make the Eagles a high-flying unit this fall.

Defense is the question mark in Boston College's fortunes. The big D was more like the little d last year, but coach Joe Yukica is banking more on that crew to help out this season. Fifteen of the top 22 are back and that is a plus. They gained experience and took their proverbial and not so proverbial lumps last season. If they're not ready now, they never will be and that's what should be discovered in the season's first three games, which have Temple (scorer of 49 points in its first game.) Tulane, and Texas A&M listed. With no defense the season could be over before it starts.

This is also BC's first 11-game season since the NCAA stretched the schedule in its annual meeting, and it's not an easy one. In addition to the first three, BC must face Navy, Miami, Pittsburgh, Villanova, West Virginia, Syracuse, UMass, and Holy Cross, some of the classier Eastern independents. Penn State is missing this season, which is certainly nothing to cry over.

The man who will direct the Eagle offense is Gary Marangi, a disappointment to many last year because he was heralded as the second coming of Sammy Baugh. Marangi will be the first to admit he's not in the same class as the former Redskin slinger, but that didn't save him from some disconcerting vilification. Baugh or no Baugh he is an adequate college quarterback and had his moments last season, in throwing 11 TD passes.

Marangi's chief target will be Mel Briggs, a 5-9, 175-pound flash who caught 42 passes last season and is also the team's primary kick-return weapon.

That's the passing game. The running game is named Mike Esposito, who as a sophomore crashed his way for 930 yards for a 5.1 average and seven touchdowns. He is touted as a potential All-America. A 6-1, 190-pound bulldog. Esposito is Massachusetts' all-time schoolboy scoring champion and appears on his way to notching a few BC records too.

The beefy line is anchored by Tom Condon, Greg Brand, and Al Krevis.

If the Miami Dolphins were the original No-Name defense, this year's Eagle 11 will have to be called Child of the No-Name, or something equally appropriate. There are no stars on the untried unit, and if it succeeds it will be because of balance.

Defensive captain Jim Combs, Joe Sullivan, Pat Bentzel, Bob Howatt, Dennis McCleary, Burt Stevens, and Ned Guillet are the seniors who will try to establish the squad.

The potential for a reversal of last year's 4-7 record is there, but the schedule is a toughie. The team has to jell fast if it wants to be a 70 percent winner this fall.

Rebuilding Year For Newton Eleven

By VIN LEMBO

Tradition was the word Coach Norm Walker used in describing the 1973 Newton High football team. After a third place finish in the Suburban League last year with a 7 and 2 record. Newton reached the "Super Bowl" only to lose to Brockton 16 to 14. But the tradition of Newton supremacy in Massachusetts schoolboy football is one which Walker is bent on maintaining.

Coach Norm Walker, in his first year as Head Coach at Newton High, comes to the job with five years experience as both assistant coach on offense and defense with the Newton squad. He faces a tough job in rebuilding a team which reached great heights over the past five seasons, but he is optimistic about success.

Walker greeted one hundred and ten candidates for football in August, but only four of those candidates were returning from last year's varsity squad. His primary job this week is to reach decisions on who will fill the shoes of last year's starting team. Newton opens with Everett at home on Saturday, September 22.

Captains Elected

The Co-captains for this year's varsity squad are running back Jerry Keleher and tackle Gardner Oleson. They will be the mainstays of an offensive team which will see seven new faces from last season. With the exception of Oleson and returning tackle Jay Murphy, Walker has not as yet finalized his plans for the starting offensive interior line. At split end will be John Connolly, who, as Walker says, "catches anything he touches."

Jerry Keleher will be joined in the backfield by quarterback Cal Moffie and wingback Dana Foley. Foley is taking the place of the injured Pete Waxman who will probably be returning this week from an ankle injury. At fullback Gary Breton is being challenged by sophomore Steve Cononico who has impressed the coaching staff during the three scrimmages held by the squad.

DEFENSE STRESSED

Coach Walker has maintained the stress on a good solid defense this year and has worked hard to mold a working unit from last year's Junior Varsity squad and some newcomers. Right now it looks as if Don Keefe will open at middle guard with Gary Breton and Marshall Frechette at the linebacker spots. Gardner Oleson will be one defensive tackle, but the other position remains open. Mark Riley will see action at defensive end, but his counterpart on the other side of the defensive line is also in doubt at this time.

In the defensive secondary will be cornerback Joe Rondina and safety Bob Meek. The other cornerback spot will depend on the ability of Bob Keefe to come back from an injury. Right now Coach Walker is depending on Gary Tutunjian to fill the position, and he could very well be a starter. The other safety position is vacant right now.

The club has been hurt by injuries during the preseason which have held back progress to some degree. Wingback Pete Waxman is expected back this week after his ankle injury but tackle Mark Frechette is doubtful due to shoulder trouble.

Newton has held three scrimmages thus far and have a couple more on tap before the Everett opener. Walker thought the boys did a "pretty good job" against Milton in the first scrimmage over Labor Day weekend, particularly for their first time out as a unit. Newton outscored a big, tough B.C. High team two touchdowns to none last week, and Walker thought that the effort "did a lot for the team. It gave them confidence that they were a good football team." Last Saturday, however, Newton bowed to Natick two touchdowns to one, but Walker thought his charges were not as good as the score would indicate. "We didn't play well," Walker admitted, "but it was good for us because it showed us that we needed more work and made the boys willing to work harder."

WALTHAM, BROCKTON TOUGH

Walker sees the teams to beat in the Suburban League this year as Waltham and Brockton. He called Waltham a "super team" and pointed out that Brockton has its Super Bowl team coming back with some notable improvements. So far as Newton High is concerned, Walker stated, "We'll take each game as it comes. We're a young team and we'll grow from day to day and game to game. There is an element of suspense in this team because we're an unknown quantity, nothing is set. It's important that everyone's had a chance to make the team."

Walker sees a bright future ahead for the Newton eleven. "We have a lot of work to do. This season is a challenge to both the boys and the coaching staff. But we have a great tradition to uphold and I think this factor will be the key element for us this season. Everyone connected with the team knows how important our tradition is and how important it is to keep it alive.

N.A.A. Lions Streak By Maynard 48-0 In Opener

The Newton Athletic Association Lions made their 1973 Suburban Pop Warner Football League debut an impressive one by thrashing the Maynard Tigers 48-0.

It only took the Lions opening kickoff to score as Rich Proia scampered 64 yards with the pigskin. Paul Butters and Barry Gale threw immense blocks. A penalty nullified the conversion and halfback Steve Fleming was stopped just short of the goal line on a try from the seven. The Lions scored again on the next series as Proia went 12 yards around end. Excellent blocks were thrown by Mike Hernandez, Steve Fleming, Shawn Daley, Sean Foley and Brian Kinsella.

On the Third offensive series, Steve Fleming behind the blocks of guard Andy Toyias and Joe Donoghue went 12 yards for the score breaking several tackles along the way. Quarterback Brian Kinsella rushed the conversion on a keeper. At the end of one period the Lions led 20-0.

In the second period, Proia intercepted a pass and ran it back 25 yards. Fullback Rich Filler rushed the conversion behind the blocks of Toyias and Hernandez.

The final Lion score was set up by a Kinsella to Forti pass which covered 26 yards on a key third down situation. The drive culminated when Paul Butters aided by a Rick Filler block scored from the one.

At the end of the half the Lions led 34-0. Neither team scored in the third period, but in the fourth period Brian Kinsella returned a punt 50 yards for a T.D. The conversion failed. The last score came on Quarterback Charlie Slack swept end and Quarterback Rick King swept the other for the final conversion points.

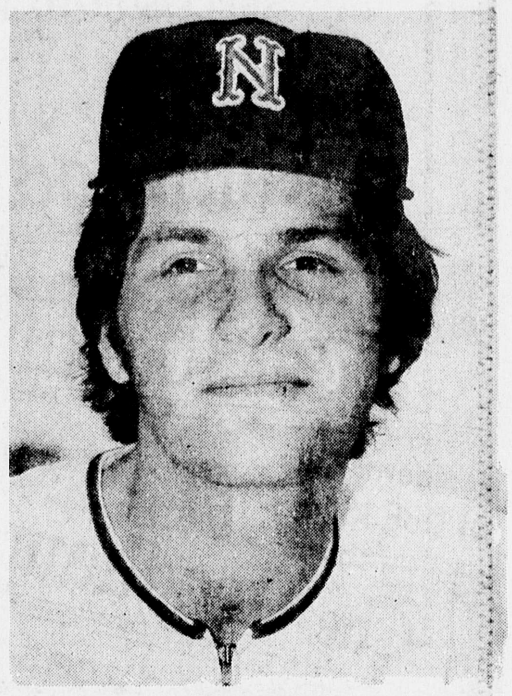
The starting offensive line which generated three touchdowns included center John Kane; guards Andy Toyias and Sean Foley; tackles, Joe Donoghue and Mike Hernandez; and ends, Shawn Daley and Jim Quinn and Scott Seidman who carries in the plays.

Although scoring 48 points, the Big Blue defense did not yield a first down, and in two starts, the first unit has not yielded a score. The defensive unit includes Joe Donoghue, Mike Hernandez, Pete Boisvert, John Forti and Glenn Errickson; linebackers, Barry Gale and Steve Fleming; roverback Rich Proia and a secondary of Jim Quinn, Paul Butters and Shawn Daley.

The Lions electri tri-captains for the 1973 season and they are: Joe Donoghue, Barry Gale and Rich Proia.

In the Jr. Midget game, the N.A.A. Tigers posted a 38-0 win over Maynard.

Next week the Lions should be tested and tested well as they travel to Brookline. The Lions have never beaten Brookline and hope that this year will be the first.



MARK KRENTZMAN

Krentzman Awarded Letter In Baseball At Northeastern

Mark Krentzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Krentzman of 39 Old Colony road, Newton, has just completed his first season of varsity baseball at Northeastern University, and was awarded his first letter.

The 1973 season was highlighted by the College World Series played at Fenway Park. The Huskies defeated Providence in game one but lost to Harvard and Providence in games two and three, and finished third in the tournament. Northeastern finished with a regular season mark of 15-8-1 and a 7-1 record in the Greater Boston League, losing only once to the champions, Harvard.

Mark was one of the key pitchers on the pitching staff this year. He threw 40 innings and had a 4.10 earned run average. He won three and lost none while striking out 23 batters. In Greater Boston League action he had a fine E.R.A. of 2.00.

Krentzman is a graduate of Brown and Nichols school where he starred in baseball, basketball, and football. In his senior year he captained the baseball and basketball squads, was All-League in baseball for three years, and All-League in basketball in his final year.

The Track Scene

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

It's no coincidence—the dominating clubs on the US track scene are the Pacific Coast Club, the Southern California Striders, and the Florida Track Club. What they have going for them besides fresh oranges is a year-round temperature of 70-to-80 degrees, something which has a stronger allure for a post-graduate trackman than the gold rush did for the 49'ers.

Boston, and New England for that matter, produce few world class track athletes, and there's no question the local infamous weather is an inhibiting factor.

Development is hindered at basic levels and by the time a Boston collegiate finishes his eligibility he's either ready to retire or ready for a move to the mountains of New Mexico, a la Frank Shorter.

For the local athlete who wishes to continue competing there are few choices. If he is good enough he can depart for a warmer climate and join up with one of the powerhouses, or if he wishes to stay in Boston he can hook up with the Boston Athletic Association (BAA) or the Cambridge Sports Union (CSU).

For a 22- or 23-year old at the peak of his running prowess, there are drawbacks to both. The BAA caters mostly to long distance runners and while CSU attempts to provide competition on all fronts it succeeds mostly in providing quality action for youngsters, women, and men over 40, those who have rare opportunities anywhere else.

Jack McDonald has been aware of this problem for a long time, but he's been occupied, first as a standout at Archbishop Williams, and more recently as a 4:07 miler at Boston College.

McDonald graduated from the Heights last May and after a quick examination of the alternatives open to him besides retirement, he went to work, both as a salesman in the Eagle ticket office and in building his own club.

The lanky, blond-haired harrier virtually developed a cauliflower ear from his affair with the telephone, but after hundreds of hours of recruiting work he had himself a track team to represent–the Greater Boston Track Club.

"It started back in the spring really," said an exuberant McDonald, whose brainchild makes its debut in cross-country Saturday morning in the annual Northeastern Invitational at Franklin Park.

"When the Oxford-Cambridge team was here we organized an informal meet after the Harvard-Yale meet. John Cherry (of Boston University) and I did that in two days, and I figured, 'Heck, if I can do this in two days, what can I do if I spend some time at it?'"

It didn't take long to find out. McDonald discovered the area was loaded with potential energy waiting for a shove. He came up with a roster of 35 names, with more signing up daily, which resembles a Who's Who of recent Greater Boston track.

"I was amazed," he said. "It seems everybody wanted to run. There was just no organization."

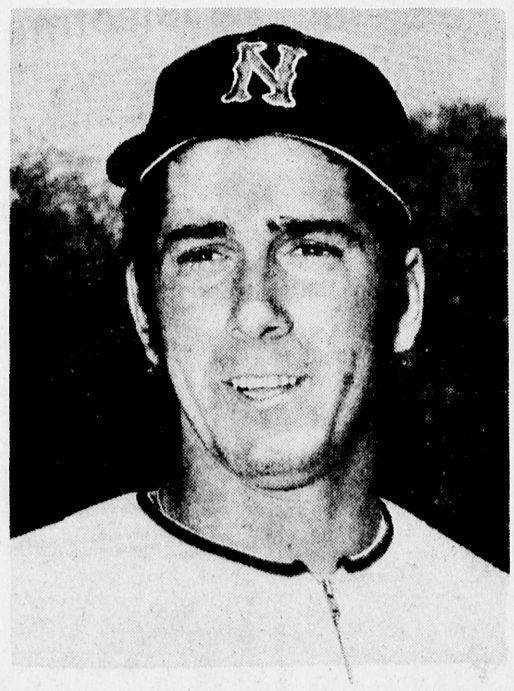
Former Eagle teammates comprised McDonald's first stop and he quickly signed up familiar names like miler Charlie Diehl, long-jumper Dan Burke and distance man Dick Mahoney.

A few more phone calls produced stars like former national freshman 1000-yard record-holder Dave Elliot of Braintree, who has been idle since leaving Harvard two years ago; ex-BU middle-distance runner Tom Beatty (of West Roxbury and Catholic Memorial fame as well), who chose to leave the Florida Track Club to return to Boston; former New England quarter-mile champ Paul Horrigan of Weymouth and Northeastern; Greater Boston 880 titlist Ralph Bowman, also of NU, Rick Comeau, the 600-yard star from Melrose and Holy Cross, and Doug Hardin, an ex-Harvard 8:45 two-miler who used to beat Frank Shorter regularly in Ivy League meets. Cherry, who ran a 1:49 800 meters at home in Scotland last week, will join up after the fall semester when he graduates.

Besides the opening meet, the tracksters have a full schedule of cross-country meets with local schools listed for the fall, are working on an indoor schedule now, and have a possible all-star competition involving all the area schools in the works for the spring.

"The area coaches have all been fantastic," McDonald said. "All of them are helping us out in some manner." And also contributing his assistance is Mr. Track, Ralph Colson.

"We're looking for enthusiasm, not necessarily talent in people who want to join," noted McDonald. "We want the club to be a social organization, too. We want everybody helping each other realize their goals, whatever that goal is, a four-minute mile, or a 10-minute two-mile."



TOM REZZUTI

More Honors For Rezzuti

Thomas Rezzuti of 28 Beecher Place, Newton has just completed his third season of varsity baseball at Northeastern University, and was awarded his third letter.

The 1973 season was highlighted by the College World Series played at Fenway Park. The Huskies defeated Providence in game one but lost to Harvard and Providence in games two and three, and finished third in the tournament. Northeastern finished with a regular season mark of 15-8-1 and a 7-1 record in the Greater Boston League, losing only once to the champions, Harvard.

Rezzuti was this year's captain and hit .308 during the regular season and .308 during Greater Boston League play. Tom smacked three doubles, three triples, three home runs and drove in 16 runs.

Rezzuti closed out a brilliant career as both an outstanding baseball player and football star in which he led the nation in pass interceptions in 1971.

A 1969 graduate of Newton South High School, he was a three time letterman in football, hockey, and baseball and captained all three squads in his senior year.

Rezzuti is a Physical Education major at N.U.

Eagles Face Temple In Opener

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

How good is Temple? How good is Boston College?

This weekend the two questions will not be unrelated. The Eagles open their 1973 season Saturday at Alumni Stadium glittering with optimistic pre-season reports. The same was true last year and BC came up with a 4-7 record, a strange mixture of agonies and ecstacies, which all told was not what people had been hoping for.

The questions are reasonable ones and about 25,000 fans, including a healthy contingent from the Garden City, will be asking them on Newton Night (Touchoff 7:30 p.m.).

It is the first glimpse of the 1973 Eagles, and the last for awhile, since they immediately depart for a southern swing to Tulane and Texas A&M, and don't return till October.

This is the time to make rash predictions, to bet your house on the gold and maroon, because when they play at the Heights again you may not want to. The luster may be gone and your channel may be permanently tuned to the Boys of Autumn in Foxboro.

Temple was 5-4 last season and returns 32 lettermen. The Owls have old Navy favorite Wayne Hardin as coach, lost to the Eagles, 49-27 last year, and used to have Nick Mike-Mayer and his splendid toe available for kicking the pigskin at any angle requested. He has since moved up in the world–to the pros.

All of those are nice things to know, but not particularly helpful for game preparation. What is important is that Temple mashed Xavier, 49-7, last Saturday, in its opening game, to show that those 32 lettermen have learned something.

The Owls scored in the most frightening manner, fast and still faster. They erupted for 28 points in the second stanza and bombed away for 21 more after the half-time break. Then, like a calming volcano, they went through the fourth period scoreless.

Marty Ginestra seems to be the man to fear. He hurled three touchdown passes, including two within 15 seconds.

Xavier is not Nebraska, but neither is BC, those results should have given coach Joe Yukica pause over his Sunday morning lox and bagels.

Indications on the chances of the Eagles pulling a disappointing instant replay of 1972 will be quickly forthcoming. Temple is no patsy. But if the Eagles are ready they can win. It's too early in the season to write obituaries, so they better.

Newton Night at the Heights is "A Salute to the City of Newton on its Centennial" and is a good deal in more than one way.

Newton residents on hand may purchase their tickets up to $2 cheaper and 50 cents from each sale will also be turned over to the purchaser's choice charity.

Also at stake during the halftime ceremonies is a trip for two to Hawaii. The drawing will be conducted by Mayor Ted Mann–and that should help your decision of whether to vote for him for re-election.

Other halftime festivities include a salute to the four high school football teams in the city and a tribute to former Newton High coach Jim Ronayne.

Campus Notes

The following Newton residents will be entering the Massachusetts Institute of Technology this fall as freshmen comprising the class of 1977:

South Gridders Have 8 Vets

By VIN LEMBO

The Newton South football squad opens their 1973 season on Saturday, September 22 at Weston. Head coach George Winkler expects his charges to be ready for the contest despite a number of problems which have hampered the team thus far.

South has scrimmaged twice so far, against Stoneham and Belmont. Winkler said the team was inconsistent in the Stoneham scrimmage, particularly in their timing, but looked good against Belmont last Saturday.

"We're coming along defensively," Winkler stated. "On offense our running backs are good but the running game hasn't quite jelled yet." Winkler cited injuries to key players and a lack of depth as his two main problems.

Looks to Improve

Newton South is coming off a mediocre season in the Dual County League which saw them finish with a 3 and 4 record in the League last year and a 3 and 6 record overall. The team was composed of quite a few sophomores, all of whom have returned this year with a great deal of experience. The biggest difference from last year's squad is the loss through graduation of Ned Moan, who Winkler believes, "will be tough to replace."

Newton South has seven starters on offense returning from last year's team and a set of experience players in the defensive secondary. Many of the gaps will be filled by boys who saw action last year on a limited basis.

Tri-captains for this year's team are center Dennis Anastasia, quarterback Tony Lombardo and halfback Arthur Murphy. These boys will head up a young squad with only nine seniors playing on the varsity.

Good Starting Unit

Coach Winkler expects to have a good starting unit for the opener against Weston. Battling for the quarterback spot are Tony Lombardo and Jeff Lawson. Winkler feels both boys can do the job and will take more time before reaching a final decision.

The squad is deep in running backs as four boys have been quite impressive. Pete Nathanson and Kevin Hogan look to be the starting halfbacks while Joe Donlan is pressing Pete Maples for the fullback job.

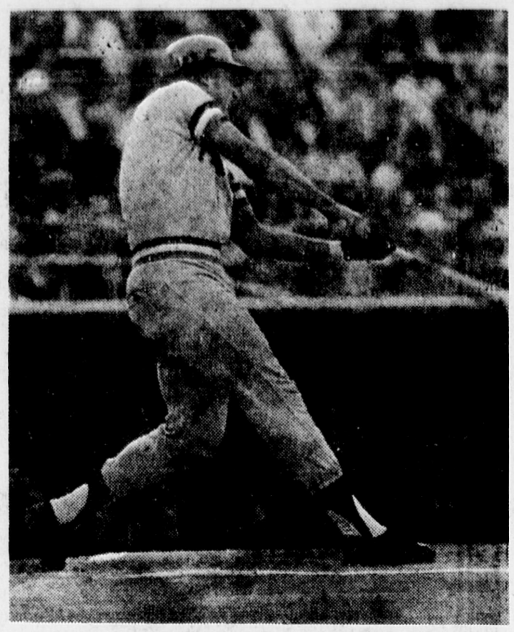
Winkler has a strong offensive line headed by tackles Rick Taranto and Haskell Kingston, guards Greg Moan and Aaron Moynahan, and ends Hal Bennett and Bob Taglienti. Most of these boys will also see action defensively, with Moan and Moynahan playing linebackers. Winkler expects to have the majority of his boys playing both ways this year. Among the back-up linemen who will see action are tackle Paul Tormey and end George Brockman.

The key to the offensive line will be the play of center Dennis Anastasia. He may also shift to defensive tackle when Newton turns over the ball.

Weston and Wayland Tough

Coach Winkler believes Weston and Wayland will be the powerhouses in the League this season. "Weston is a good, experienced football team." Winkler said. "Wayland is always tough." Winkler sees Acton as the darkhorse in the League and warns that Maynard and Concord, both in their first year in the League, could be surprises.

Winkler expects to have a successful season this year, hoping that the experience gained by his young team last year will pay off. "Not many boys came out for football this year," Winkler said, "but not one of them has quit. I couldn't possibly ask for more hustle or desire from the squad than they have been giving. This is the key to a good football team."



Hebner Swings

Former Norwood High great, Richie Hebner, displays home run swing at Pittsburgh last week Hebner and Pirates are making a big run at the National League East title.

YMCA Renews Old Ties

Two new classes and a popular year-old course in fly tying head a list of 23 recreational and educational programs being offered to adults at the Newton YMCA this fall.

Registration is now taking place for the late-September start of most classes.

Judith Walk, formerly a Chelsea teacher and now instructing in the Watertown adult education program, brings the outdoors indoors with her new home gardening class. Mrs. Walk will teach the use of soils, fertilizers, pruning, lighting and other facets of indoor gardening. Also, a segment of each class will be devoted to solving individual plant problems.

The other "new" offering is Mary Bonica's course in furs, a class which returns to the Newton "Y" after a few years' absence. Mrs. Bonica, who taught the course previously and also has a dressmaking class scheduled, will show the novice how to remodel and repair old furs using simple hand-sewing.

After a highly successful debut last spring, the fly tying course with Robert Kopacz returns. Virtually every fly imaginable will be tied for use in the the New England area and other sections. The course covers the use of tools and materials for the construction of streamers, wet flies, nymphs and dry flies.

Once again the men's physical fitness program, based on the respected T. K. Cureton system, will be offered to those looking for a means to improve their cardiovascular health and overall vitality. The 24-week class, which emphasizes jogging and calisthenics, can be taken at either 7:15 a.m. or 5:30 p.m.

Two black belt-holders, Scott Connelly and John Hogan, return to teach their classes in Karate and judo, respectively. Connelly emphasizes body development in his Tae Kwon Do-style Karate class, while body development is also focused upon in Hogan's Juijitsu (sport form) judo course. Both programs are coed and offer individual attention.

Those preparing for winter socializing will be interested in two long established "Y" courses, bridge and ballroom dancing. Joseph Vass, who has taught all over Greater Boston, has beginning and review bridge classes scheduled.

The Goren system is stressed for beginners, while the more advanced learn tricks and techniques such as ruffing, finessing, and establishing long cards in a suit.

Bill Riley, a long-time "Y" instructor, teaches three ballroom dance classes: foxtrot and waltz, cha cha and tango, and an advanced club session.

"Beyond the Ordinary" for novices – and "A New World of Cooking" – for those with some experience are offerings designed to make a gourmet cook out of anyone.

Marilyn Finger, the home economist winner of the Boston Globe Easy Elegance Contest, teaches the beginner to make such delicacies as Quiche Lorraine, omelettes, crepes and souffles. For those who have mastered these dishes, the advanced course delves into foods of the Orient, France, Switzerland and other nations.

After the cakes are made in Mrs. Finger's course, Jean Penton can again teach students how to decorate them. Her class in sugar cake decorations teaches the beginner how to use piping, scalloping, writing and frosting flowers on everything from cookies to petit fours.

Other offerings this fall include a special ski fitness program, volleyball teams for men and women, lifesaving, women's exercise classes, adult swimming instruction, investment, guitar, sewing, stitchery, driver education, yoga, modern dance, and flower arranging. Most courses are open to both members and non-members.

"My experience in business and in dealing with people and my close contact in civic affairs I feel will be a great asset to me as an alderman," she said. "I am not making great promises to get myself elected with the intention of deserting the people."

"I want people to know that I will be concerned with the problems within the city," Mrs. Wilson went on to say. "I am concerned with high taxes and will do my utmost to provide relief."

People in Newton, Mrs. Wilson added, "are being deprived of decent public transportation for which they are paying high tax dollars."

"Thompsonville has been overburdened with traffic for years and now has more," she said. "Newton Corner, as any resident who has to take his life in his hands to cross Centre Avenu or Washington Street knows, has waited too long for a safety overhead walk."

"If elected," she concluded, "I can aszure you my full time job will be making Newton a better and cheaper city to live in."

Spitz-

predicated upon the following beliefs, strongly held:

"I believe in quality education but not at the cost of confiscatory taxation, taxes which make home ownership difficult and even marginal. At a time when student enrollment is decreasing, per pupil cost continues to outstrip simple inflation so that today, the taxpayers of Newton see 52 percent of their tax dollars absorbed by an educational system almost out of control.

Cost can be stabilized only by the exhaustive exploration of alternatives examined both for educational viability and ability to pay. Such an analysis conducted by qualified people such as myself will lead to the maximization of resources.

"I believe in imaginative and innovative educational programs but not at the expense of well structured curricula which recognizes the importance of core subject matter and the limited capacity of children to make choices possibly forever determining their destiny. The concept that learning need be fun is sheer nonsense when carried to extremes. Learning can be hard work entailing severe discipline with the rewards only evident upon maturation.

"I believe in allowing individual expression and ever increasing independance for young people but not unrestrained permissiveness for the over-all student population. The key is gradualism and identification of those within the population whose interests are best served by relaxing traditional constraints. It is axiomatic that maturity only grossly correlates with chronological age. Consequently permissiveness for all is as much a disservice as permissiveness for none.

"I believe in teacher professionalism but I know that neither the educational community at large nor the Newton contingent have achieved this goal. True professionalism demands more than part time employment. Compensation must be considered within the context of a twelve month employment period and a length of day comparable to other professions. Motivation must be dealt with by a system allowing for research, outside study, recognition of individual performance and advanced techniques utilized by enlightened industrial and institutional environments."

building especially as far as contributing to a sense of community was concerned.

"Last year we were all in different buildings and there were a lot of cliques," she said.

"Now things should be more personal, and therefore better," she explained, although she did admit she found the new complex "immense."

Two new teachers were also sought out for their opinions. Mike Bower and Brenda Yanofsky were both found in the cafeteria, lingering as teachers' prerogative would have it.

Both are guidance counselors in Palmer House and both thought the building was "magnificent."

"It certainly has a lot of potential," said Brenda as she and Mike enjoyed the few last moments of calm before they headed back to their offices.

Nearby, school custodians were surveying the wreckage of lunch period, and one just muttered something about a "rest home."

Hebner Still Has Humility

By FRANK WALL

It was Labor Day afternoon in Pittsburgh and the Pirates were in the 13th inning of the first game of a doubleheader of a game that had started at 10:30 a.m. in the morning. The Cards were the opponents and it was a clutch game, as are all the games in the Natiinal League East.

Ritchie Hebner led off the bottom of the 13th inning with the score deadlocked at 4-4. He hit the first pitch off EddieFisher deep to right field and the ball looked like it was going over the fence for a game winning home run, but it hit the top of the fence some 385 feet away.

Hebner didn't stop running until he came across the plate with the game winning run and the first inside-the-park home run ever to be hit at Three Rivers Stadium.

"Sure it was a big homer," said Richie, "but it meant a little more to me." Hebner wouldn't go beyond that but his roommate Bob Bobertson told the story as Richie was the center of attraction before the Pittsburgh Press.

"We were at a banquet just Thursday night in Saxonville, Pennsylvania and we were answering questions from the crowd and Richie spotted a man of about 24 in a wheelchair. He was a victim of multiple sclerosis. He could barely move and could hardly talk, but he admired Richie. Richie told him he'd try to hit one for him in the Cardinal Series."

"Don't mention to Richie I told you this," Robbie said. There was nothing in the Pittsburgh media about the home run for it wasn't told to the writers who sometimes just seem to write the sensational story. That was the little extra it meant to Hebner and to the gentleman who may never walk again.

It was the same Hebner who had been blasted by the writers all over the country for his words with Pirate (former) Manager Bill Virdon.

George Detour is a former Major League ball player with the Indians. "You might say I had a cup of coffee in the majors", said Detour.

He managed Richie in his first year in major league baseball at Salem, Virginia in the Carolina League.

"He led the league in hitting with a .359 average that year and I knew then that he would make it," said Detour.

"The kid is still a great kid and someday I expect him to lead the major leagues in batting."

We asked him about the trouble that Hebner was supposed to have had with Manager Bill Virdon.

"Those writers build a lot of that stuff up. Why, I remember years ago when I played there used to be fist fights in the dugouts and scrapes on the field and nothing was said about them. Now they just blow every thing up.

"I have to kind of stick up for Richie a little more in this argument. Maybe he was wrong in talking that way to the manager, but remember one thing, he was mad because he was taken out of the lineup and not because he was in there," DeTour said. "Many of the players these days are just looking for excuses to get out of the lineup, but not Richie," Detour concluded.

Another incident happened last Friday night at Pittsburgh in the game that saw the Pirates beat the Cubs 5-2. Hebner hit a long home run in the fifth inning that proved to be the winning blow after the game we were sitting in the dressing room sipping on a coke and the guard at the door came and said that someone was out in the corridor and wanted to see Hebner.

Hebner went out and it was a young boy and his father was holding a towel over the youngsters' forehead and the kid had a ball clutched in one hand. It was the home run ball which hit the youngster on the head some three rows deep in right centerfield. Hebner signed the ball for the youngsters and his dad couldn't thank him enough. . .

When one goes to the ball field about three hours early their are always the groundskeepers around and they know the game of baseball.

Fritz Campbell of Overbrook, Penn., and Dutch Koch of White Hall, Pennsylvania have been with the Pirates for some 30 years.

"They can say what they want upstairs about Richie but we can vouch for the groundskeepers. He always has time for us and always talks to us and knows us by name," commented Mr. Campbell. "He always has time for the kids too, and I always see him signing autographs", chipped in Mr. Koch. We all think a lot of the kid and could care less what anyone says, " they both agreed.

Hebner goes to third base and a ball is hit three feet to his left by Lou Brock. On the artificial turf the ball really skips.

A few boos are heard and the old hoot owls are at it. "That's part of the game and we have to live with it," commented Hebner.

Most good ball players get booed sooner or later in their careers and Hebner is no exception, but always the cheers drowned them out.

In Three Rivers stadium in Pittsburgh there are many signs hanging in front of the outfield stands. On last Monday we counted seven for Hebner.

The stands in Pittsburgh are made of three decks and the upper deck is right smack in the sun. On Labor Day it was a cool 103 at Three Rivers and some 300 fans were taken to the first aid room for heat exhaustion.

Seems when you visit a foreign ball park there are always some people you have admired in baseball over the years present.

At Pittsburgh last week during the Cardinal series was the Hall of Famer, Stan Musial, and he certainly is a real gentleman. Mike Nagy pitched one of the games for the Cards and his comment about the Red Sox was simple. "They have trouble there every day of the week."

MALZONE SCOUTING

Another pretty fair ball player on hand scouting the National League was the ex-Red Sox great Frank Malzone who hails from Needham and is doing some scouting for the Bosox and is working with youngsters in the organization.

On Hebner, Frank says: "He's not hitting for that high average this year but he has more power and is more of a home run threat and a more feared batter. I've seen him plenty this year and he's a solid major league ball player."

Malzone didn't like the designated hitter rule when it started but now with the progress of the season thinks that it really helps baseball.

On the Red Sox he thinks they may have started a little late to catch the Orioles and it will take a big winning streak to take the title. He feels that Yaz had a couple of so-so years after his 1967 season but agrees that now his is playing team baseball and is a leader on the Red Sox.

We asked Frank to pick us an all star team in the years he played. For those who haven't heard that much about Frank Malzone, he was a Red Sox third baseman from 1957 through 1966 and was an American League all star for seven years.

WILLIAMS THE BEST

"Before we start, I want to make one thing clear," said Frank. "Ted Williams is the best hitter I have ever seen or hope to see. I wasn't playing when he hit .406 but when he hit .383 I was with the Sox and he is amazing. There will never be another hitter like him."

MALZONE ALL-TIME TEAM

In Frank's years, he selects Yogi Berra of the Yankees behind the plate. The pitcher, let's see, you think that over for awhile. We'll bet you will never get the name. The years were 1957 through 1966 in the American League.

At first base the selection is a tossup between Moose Skoworan of the Yankees and Roy Seivers.

At second base Frank selects Nellie Fox of the White Sox with Luis Apericio at shortstop.

The third sacker is Brooks Robinson of the Orioles. Frank has to put Ted in left along with Yaz for the latter part of his years.

The next two are simple. In center it has to be Mickey Mantle and in right, don't say Roger Maris, for the choice was Al Kaline and we agree.

The pitcher is Jim Bunning, who pitched a no-hitter or two in his day in both the American and National League.

POPPING QUESTIONS

It's only natural that when you're interviewing a ball player that you ask questions. Here are some of the ones we asked Hebner.

Q. How about the season so far, are you happy with it?

A. Well, if we win this Eastern race, I'll be happy and I would have to say if I hit 25 home runs this year it will be a good year. Number one is winning the title though.

Q. Has getting rid of the Marine duty helped you?

A. It's got me to play and bat a lot more so I would have to say that it has to have helped me.

Q. How about the Pirates winning the pennant?

A. It's simple. We have to get the pitching.

Q. How about the trade rumors?

A. No way, I'll be here for a long time.

Q. If you get in the series who would you like to play against?

A. Naturally, I would like to play in front of all my friends in the Boston area, but truthfully as long as we win I could care less who wins on the other side.

Q. What do you think about the Red Sox?

A. They sure do have good pitching.

Q. Who is the toughest pitcher you faced?

A. I think that Tom Seaver is the best pitcher in baseball.

Q. What is the best ball park for you to hit in?

A. That's easy, Chicago by a mile.

Q. How about the success of Joe Morgan of Walpole with the Charlestown club this year.

A. Joe has done an outstanding job and it couldn't happen to a better guy. He'll be in baseball someplace next year. I hope that the Pirates don't lose him for men with his knowledge don't come around that often.

Q. Does the club miss Clemente this year?

A. We miss the best baseball player in the game and also Steve Blass having an off year has affected the club.

Q. Who do you think the best all-around ball player in the National league is.

A. That's easy. Boby Bonds of the Giants.

Q. What do you plan to do in the Winter?

A. I'll do some skating down here with the Penguins and also back home. By the way, say hello to all my friends back home, not only in Norwood but all over the Bay State area. It sure would be great to have support from back home. No matter where I go or where I play ball I always bump into some people from back home and it's great.

Amy Cohen Marries Dr. Gerson

Miss Amy Ruth Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Arthur Cohen, Waban, was married September 1 to Dr. Stephen Norman Gerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gerson, Sharon, Pa.

Rabbi Leon Shubow performed the ceremony at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston, where a reception followed in the Oval Room. The couple left for a wedding trip to Yugoslavia, Greece, and the Greek Islands.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory silk faille gown trimmed with Alencon lace featuring an A-line skirt and chapel length train. Her mantilla style veil was trimmed with matching lace appliques and she carried a bouquet of philanosis with baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Helene Canning of Babylon, N.Y., and matron of honor, Mrs. Nigel Newman of Warren, Ohio. Bridesmaids included Miss Harriet Krivan of Brighton and Mrs. Keborah Kuxanjian of Waketown.

Dr. Nigel K. Newman of Warren, Ohio, served as best man. Ushers were Dr. Edmond Petrelli of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Dr. Robert Marks, Brookline; Martin Cohen, Waban; Neal Berson, Brooklyn Heights, N.Y.; and Dr. Sheldon Herman, San Francisco, Calif.

The bride was graduated from Boston University with a bachelor of science degree in nursing and a master of science in child psychiatric nursing.

Dr. Gerson attended Northwestern University and the University of Pittsburgh Medical School. He interned at the Boston VA Hospital. He presently is a clinical fellow in psychiatry at McLean Hospital and the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. and Mrs. Gerson will reside in Watertown. (Bachrach Photo)

Miss Howard Speaker For Embroiderers

The Bay Colony Society of Embroiderers will hold its first Fall meeting on Wednesday, September 19 at 10 a.m. at the Church of the Redeemer, Hammond St., Chestnut Hill. The guest speaker will be Miss Constance Howard.

Miss Howard is the Author of "Design for Embroidery from Traditional English Sources" and "Inspiration for Embroidery" and is at present the director of the Textile Arts Department of Goldsmith College, England. The public is invited; the admission fee for non-members of the Society is $1.00.

Julie Sylvia Marries James Michael Devoy

Miss Julie Anne Sylvia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon E. Sylvia, West Roxbury was married recently to James M. Devoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Devoy, West Newton.

The Rev. Henry P. Boivin celebrated the nuptial mass at St. Theresa's Church, West Roxbury. A reception followed at the Knights of Columbus, Roslindale. The couple spent their honeymoon in Canada.

The bride wore a gown of white sati-soi with bodice of Alencon lace and pleated silk organza front panel. A flowered crown held her finger tip veil and she carried her mother's prayerbook topped with white lace and flowers.

Marie T. Sylvia was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Nancy Heffernan and Mary Lou Brennan.

Best man was Michael Hansberry. Joseph Albano and Robert Valente ushered.

Civitan Club Hosts International Members

The Boston Civitan Club will host the New England District Council meeting of Civitan International at the Marriott Motel in Newton on Sept. 16.

In addition to business and discussion sessions, a guided tour of the greater Boston area historic sites will be conducted for families of the attending members.

Civitan Clubs are dedicated to providing effective services to the local community and public affairs. The Boston club supports Childrens Hospital and club members devote their time conducting recreational activities for the young patients.

Young-Rafter Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Young of Newton announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Eugene P. Rafter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene P. Rafter of Sea Girt, N.J.

Miss Young received her bachelor of science in nursing at Barry College, Miami, Fla. and is employed at the Boston Hospital for Women, Lying In Division. She is also a graduate of Our Lady of the Presentation Academy, Newton.

Mr. Rafter, employed by the Royal-Globe Insurance Company, Boston, is a graduate of Biscayne College, Miami, Fla.

Janet Lockwood Is Engaged

Mrs. Charlotte Lockwood of Newtonville, announces the engagement of her daughter, Janet Lee Lockwood, to Thomsen J. Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Hansen of Hastings, Nebr.

The bride-to-be, a graduate of Newton High School, also was graduated from Lasell Junior College this past May. She is working at the Tufts' New England Medical Center Hospital in Boston.

Her fiancee, a 1970 graduate of Hastings High School, is a member of the class of 1974 at M.I.T. where he is a chemistry major. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

Ballroom Dancing's Back In Step

By Frances Shuping

Moseley's on the Charles, host to the big bands of the 1930's and 40's, again is becoming a mecca for ballroom dancers. And, according to regulars there, big bands will return too.

Located at 50 Bridge street, Dedham, Moseley's is open for dancing three nights weekly, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday from eight until 12 midnight. Ballroom enthusiasts, couples and singles, come regularly from New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Maine, as well as from all over Massachusetts.

Featured on Thursdays is an hour of dance lessons, included in the admission charge, and taught by Barrett and Barbara, professionals from Brookline.

There are no tables on the 6,000 square foot ballroom. A bar is set up to serve coffee, tea, and soft drinks, but no liquor. Decorative blue curtains screen the edge of the dance floor. Mirror panels decorate either side of the bandstand. Sofas line the outskirts of the room. Controlled lighting simulates chandeliers.

People arrive as early as 7:30. The band starts promptly at eight, usually with a fox trot. The floor fills. It is instantly clear these people are serious about their dancing. They flow counter-clockwise with steps that are smooth, polished, and precise. The picture is the same with the swing, waltz, latin numbers and even the polka.

Men wear coats and ties, a requirement. Ladies appear equally fashionable in long dresses, pant suits, cocktail dresses, and mini-skirts. Among them are doctors, farmers, lawyers, writers, teachers, students, government employees, and even dance instructors. There are young couples, senior citizens, and many in the 35-50 age group.

They eagerly talk about their dancing. All agree ballroom suffered a decline in popularity during the 1960's which they attribute to the influx of rock music, the protest movement, or need for a change.

Al Grosser, a salesman from West Roxbury who remembers dancing to the bands of the Dorsey brothers and Artie Shaw, believes the trend to ballroom dancing is returning. "Youngsters today want to get into touch dancing. People from their teens to 70's want to really dance."

Nicolas Falina, 55, travels from Providence, R. I. twice a week on Wednesdays and Saturdays. He has noted a definite pickup in the number of dancers at Moseley's during the past year. "Dancing had its heyday when things were tight," he recalled. "The protest of the younger generation may have influenced the decline in dancing. Today people are looking for something new. They want a new style of dancing with better taste."

Rose Lewis, a secretary from Hyde Park, and John Tudor, a painter and apprentice instructor from Newton, have been frequenting Moseley's longer than each "cares to remember."

"Dancing here is improving every night," enthused Rose. "We have good dancers, free parking, police protection, and the people are friendly. Crowds are coming. Why do you know, it wasn't too long ago, about a year, that a Boston paper called us 'the old smoothies'! It was like an obituary. That reporter thought we were going out of style."

"This is a good place for good, clean fun," John added. "No liquor is served. That is why there is no trouble. Kids today are tired of rock and roll. I have read dance bands are performing in clubs around the country."

Arlene Schultz, 20, an attractive brunette who sells real estate, has been coming to Moseley's for one and one-half years. "The new generation is getting back to doing what appeals to them instead of to the group," she stated. "Today more swing numbers are appearing in rock music. I think the younger kids lack exposure to ballroom, but they are becoming interested. It'll be a shame if they don't."

Suzette Schinasi, 26, a secretary from Roslindale, recently came to this country from France. This was her first visit to Moseley's. "Ballroom dancing is popular in Europe," she said. "Discotheques are not as popular there as they are here." Her date, Edward D'Aleisandaro, 33, and an airline agent, feels the younger generation has a new attitude toward ballroom. "They no longer consider it old-fashioned."

Built in 1905 by Elijah Moseley, canoeing and dancing were featured with a canoe club underneath the dance hall. Old timers remember listening to dance bands while sitting in canoes.

Israel and David Weinstein and Fred Hart purchased the building in 1946, owning it for 27 years. Crowds came by streetcar for dancing five nights a week until hurricane Carol ripped off the back of the building in 1954. Repairs were made, but the large crowds gradually faded. The hall mainly was used for local functions and political meetings. St. Susanna's parish held Sunday morning mass there for over a year.

SAM GREENMAN AND CLAIRE GEARY
. . . they've been going there for years

Larry Mitchell of Dedham, who has frequented Moseley's for nearly 25 years, recalls the building in general deteriorated during the 1960's due to lack of physical improvements.

The present owners, Joseph and Edith Castignetti and Louis and Marge Melchionna purchased Moseley's in October, 1972. They had no previous experience with dance halls. Joe is in the clothing business, and Louis real estate.

Their first project was one of renovation. They replaced overhead fans with air-conditioning, enlarged the parking area, and re-decorated the interior.

Do they think ballroom dancing is becoming more popular? Definitely. They cite the fact that their attendance is up 30 percent from the past year. Dancers come in numbers of approximately 400-600 Wednesdays, 200 on Thursdays and 600-800 on Saturdays.

They hope to introduce big bands to their itinerary. "Big bands are playing heavily in summer resorts right now," Joe pointed out. "We are working to engage one or two big bands by next fall."

"Why even Mickey Rooney has formed a 22 piece band in Florida and is touring the country promoting ballroom dancing," said Edith. "People want a change."

Moseley's features a nine piece orchestra directed since 1955 by John Shea who is also director of the 26th Division Army National Guard Band.

John substantiates the 30 percent increase in attendance at Moseley's during the past year. "People here are serious with their dancing. They want respectable ballroom. Too, it's a physical fitness thing. We give you things to make you move. The average dancers here are between 35 and 50 years old. However, I have seen an increase in the number of young people and we have a large group of senior citizens. Ninety percent of the people come to dance. A few come regularly just to watch."

When there are no dances at Moseley's, it is used for weddings, private parties and group functions. Marge keeps in her desk a packet of snapshots taken last Christmas when they donated the hall for a party held in honor of Dedham Senior Citizens.

Policeman Edward Florek, a guard at Moseley's for seven years, notes many of the customers return steadily. He has observed a majority of them maintain slim figures due to the exercise in dancing. "Legs on the older women look the same as the teenagers," he said. In the line of duty, he added, "The crowds are getting bigger, but we have little trouble. People come here just to have fun."

If a prize were given to the most attractive couple on the dance floor, it might well go to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carr of Dedham, regulars on Wednesday nights. The Carrs are senior citizens, retired, and newlyweds, married one year. She looks elegant in a long blue polyester gown and he in a pale blue coat and tie. They recall the popular big band era ended with World War II. They think the popularity of dancing on curise ships is making a few more aware of ballroom techniques.

Sheila, 30, from Newton, never really liked "those fast dances." Lucille, a widow, comes for the exercise and because it keeps her feeling young. She wouldn't reveal her age. Charlie, 25, dates girls who like to come there. Benjamin Lomaso, 56, a printer in Framingham, has been a regular for three years. He discovered what he had missed earlier.

The general attitude may be summed up by Michael Burns, 59, a state employee, who stated, "If the young people don't try ballroom, they won't know what they're missing." Mr. Burns, a widower, has been a regular customer for 10 years.

One thing is clear. These people are not "old smoothies."

WBZ's COMMUTER COMPUTER CLUBCAR

You remember the Clubcar. That special place for friends to gather on the long ride to work in the morning. A place for sharing stories and stretching legs. Part of a forgotten era. Now WBZ Radio brings it back. The WBZ Commuter Computer Clubcar.

IT'S A WHOLE NEW WAY TO GET TO WORK.

*Faster. More efficient. Economical too. It's you and a few neighbors going it together, like a carpool. Less pollution and less traffic. That cuts time and that cuts cost. A recent study showed the average cost for one person driving alone (ten miles each way) to be $2.64 per day. Four people in a Clubcar would bring that down to 66 cents, a saving of close to $500 per year, each.

It works like this. First, you fill out the questionnaire on the facing page. Next, the ALA Auto and Travel Club Computer examines your transportation needs. It matches you with people who live near you and work near you, quite possibly in the same building. Then it's up to you.

In about three weeks, you'll receive a Commuter Computer printout, listing the names and telephone numbers of people with similar schedules and destinations. Some of them may contact you, or you may contact them. Remember, they're your neighbors.

MORE FUN THAN A CARPOOL. WE'LL SEE TO THAT.

Once your Clubcar is rolling, we'll do our best to get you over the bumps and past the rough spots. Joe Green will point the way from the WBZ Traffic Helicopter and the rest of us will be riding right there with you. We'll have games and contests and good ideas for other ways to save time and money. And for members only, we even have a special discount and preferred route program in the works. Do it now. Turn your automobile into a WBZ Commuter Computer Clubcar. Take a few neighbors to work. You'll all discover that:

THE BEST WAY TO KEEP UP WITH THE JONESES IS TO RIDE IN THE SAME CAR.

*Cost estimates include normal operating expenses, car payments, parking and road maintenance

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Buy land. They ain't making any more of the stuff," said Will Rogers.

In recent years folks have been taking the advice to heart —most for weekend, holiday and vacation use; some for investment.

What Will Rogers didn't say, Janes M. Reed, president of The Branigar Organization, does: "For whatever reason you want that 'little place in the country,' there are things to know—and pitfalls to sidestep—in buying land."

Reed, whose company has been in land-development for more than 50 years, notes that vacation and second homes now comprise one of the fastest-growing segments of the housing market. There now are about two million second homes in the United States, and the number may increase by more than a million during the 1970s, he said.

For those thinking of buying, whatever the reason, Reed has some suggestions:

Above all, he says, know what it is your family really wants—seclusion, a place to camp, or to be part of a full-scale recreational community. Define your needs and determine how much you can afford to pay.

After you know what you want, and your financial limits, make a list of properties to visit. Then do some careful comparison shopping. Do not allow yourself to be pressured into anything. Don't make a decision on the spot. Always think it over away from the actual scene before signing anything.

See the Land

No matter how interesting property may seem in a brochure, never, absolutely never, buy land sight-unseen, Reed emphasized. Always visit the actual site you plan to buy. Never buy over the telephone. "If you think this is impossible," Reed said, "you're wrong. A fantastic amount of land is sold this way. Don't fall for it."

In visiting a particular site with a salesman, study the plat map. Walk all boundaries and check stakes to make sure they are properly numbered. Make a checklist and take notes so you can compare it with lots in other developments.

Reed emphasizes the importance of knowing your developer. "Find out how long he has been in business, what other projects he has developed, how successful they are. A new developer may do a good job but usually it is easier, and safer, to deal with an established, reputable firm," he said.

"Check his financial stability, his reputation. In a development where recreational facilities are provided, make sure the developer has a plan for operating and maintaining the amenities-swimming pool, tennis courts, clubhouse, etc.—and to provide for management after he leaves the development."

Reed notes a salesman's approach often is a clue to the treatment you can expect as a property owner. He suggests some things to watch:

What To Watch For

Is he licensed to sell real estate? Does he live in the development or nearby? If so, Reed notes, he has a reputation to uphold in the community. Is he courteous? What seems to be his primary motivation—serving your needs or earning an easy commission check? Most land salesmen, Reed says, work on a straight commission basis.

If you hesitate in making a decision, does he become abrupt or abusive?

Reed warns of the "switch". You came to see a low-priced tract that was advertised, find it has been sold, but more expensive land is available. Another danger signal, he warns, is a price that drops sharply as you dicker.

Any developer selling subdivisions of 50 or more lots through interstate commerce must register with the HUD (Housing and Urban Development) Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration. Obtain a copy of this registration, or if the land you are interested in need not be registered, check the following points on your own:

Name of developer, subdivision, number of lots offered. Zoning and tax informtion. Number, type and size of proposed amenities, with expected completion date. Location and proximity of schools, shopping centers, churches, hospitals and public transportation. Municipal services such as police and fire protection. Information about roads and public access, and information pertaining to the property, such as land use, building restrictions.

Do not sign a contract, Reed emphasizes, that does not spell out in writing everything the salesman told you. Have your lawyer check the contract before signing.

Be sure you understand every paper pertaining to the sale. If you don't understand, keep asking questions until each and every item is covered to your satisfaction. Be sure you understand the interest provisions, and check on assessment fees. These fees cover property owners' services, such as water and sewage disposal, and may or may not be part of the contract. If not, get an estimate in writing of how much they will be.

Make sure the property not only is something you can afford, but that it satisfies your needs.

GOUT GRABS ALL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gout is not the special property of the affluent.

It affects the poor, teen-agers as well as adults, women as well as children, although not as frequently in the latter case.

So reported Dr. Raymond K. Locke, podiatrst of Englewood, N.J.. to a meeting of the American Podiatry Association. Gout, he said. is a metabolic disease "brought on by the inability of the kidneys to rid the body of excess uric acid."

Women in Political & Governmental Careers

A year-long, self-contained study-internship program specifically directed toward placement in a government job. This is an opportunity for intelligent, energetic women to participate in a program which will give them the necessary education and skills to seek elective or appointive office at the local, state and national levels, and in all three branches of government.

The program begins September 26th. Tuition for the year is $560.

Mass. Bar Assn. Announces Panel To Check Complaints

The Massachusetts Bar Association has formed a panel to cooperate with the Committee on Complaints established by the Supreme Judicial Court, to investigate complaints against judges and other court officials, and where appropriate to bring the matter to the attention of the Supreme Judicial Court for such action as it deems appropriate.

The association's new Committee on Judicial Complaints will be composed of both judges and lawyers.

MBA President Frederick G. Fisher, Jr., said that the profession recognizes the responsibility to provide "a simple, clearly-defined process by which citizens may complain about the performance of a judge and expect such complaint to be acted upon promptly and effectively."

The Boston attorney said the bar will provide a mechanism, both visible and accessible to the public, to investigate and process such complaints.

Committee members will review the present fragmented procedures for handling charges of judical misconduct with an eye toward propsosing either legislation or a court rule establishing an independent commission to perform this function. In the meantime, the committee will receive and investigate complaints against judges or other court officials.

"Our initiative in this area is designed to provide an interim procedure for supervising the performance of the judiciary pending the establishment of new procedures designed for that purpose," Mr. Fisher said.

Complaints will be investigated to screen out those that appear to be without merit. More serious complaints, after investigation, would be the subject of a confidential hearing before the committee at which a judge would be given full opportunity to answer charges.

After a hearing the committee would (1) dismiss the complaint as unfounded, (2) recommend to the Supreme Judical Court that the judge be retired for disability that seriously interferes with the performance of his duties and is or is likely to become permanent, or (3) recommend that the Supreme Judicial Court censure, disbar, or take other appropriate action against a judge for behavior that constitutes wilful misconduct in office, wilful and persistent failure to perform his duties, or conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute.

Fisher said since 1965 twenty-eight states have adopted plans that utilize an independent commission to receive and investigate complaints against judges.

The American Bar Association Commission on Standards of Judicial Administration has also recommended the establishment of boards of judicial inquiry to receive and investigate complaints concerning judges. If the board determines that affirmative action is appropriate, it makes findings and recommendations and submits them to the state's highest court, the MBA president explained.

Complaints may be made to the Massachusetts Bar Association, One Center Plaza, Boston, Mass. 02108.

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by MANDEL E. COHEN and WINIFRED H. COHEN, husband and wife, as tenants by the entirety, to LINCOLN TRUST COMPANY dated December 30, 1970, and registered with the Middlesex South Registry District of the Land Court as Document No. 481900, noted on Certificate of Title No. 95736 in Land Registration Book 608, Page 186, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction at 10 o'clock A.M. on Friday, the 5th day of October A.D. 1973, on the premises described in said mortgage, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage, commonly referred to as 134 Chestnut Hill Road, Newton, Massachusetts, to wit:

A certain parcel of land situated in Newton, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, bounded and described as follows:

Southeasterly, Southerly and Southwesterly by Hayward Road, Three Hundred fifty-five and 60-100 feet;

Northwesterly by land now or formerly of Ben Ames Williams, et al, two hundred two and 67-100 feet; and Northeasterly by land now or formerly of Lucille F. O'Malley, two Hundred ten and 30-100 feet.

All of said boundaries are determined by the Court to be located as shown on a plan, as modified and approved by the Court, filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of a portion of which is filed in the Registry of Deeds for the South Registry District of Middlesex County in Registration Book 115, Page 489, with Certificate No. 18648.

Subject to any restrictions of record in so far as the same may be in force and applicable.

Together with all buildings, structures, apparatus, fixtures, and articles of personal property now or hereafter erected or placed in or upon said real estate or now or hereafter attached to or used in connection therewith, including, without being limited to, all elevators, screens, doors, awnings, blinds, shades, floor coverings, lobby furnishings, gas, and electric fixtures, all heating, lighting, cooking, refrigerators, refrigeration equipment, laundering, plumbing, ventilating, air conditioning, sprinkling, incinerating, swimming pool and recreational equipment of whatsoever kind and nature, all of which fixtures, and articles of personal property are hereby declared and shall be deemed to be fixtures and accessory to the freehold and a part of the realty as between the parties hereto, their successors and assigns, and all persons claiming by, through or under them and shall be deemed to be a part of the security for the indebtedness herein mentioned and to be subject to the lien of the mortgage.

Together with all and singular the tenements, easements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging and also the rents, income and profits thereof; and also all the estate, right title and interest of the mortgagor, of, in and to the aforementioned properties and every part and parcel thereof.

Said premises to be sold and conveyed subject to and with the benefit of all restrictions, easements, improvements, outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, liens or claims in the nature of liens, and existing encumbrances of record created prior to the mortgage, if there be any.

TERMS OF SALE: Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars to be paid in cash, or certified check, or Treasurer's or Cashier's checks, by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, balance within ten (10) days after approval of the sale by the Land Court at the office of JOSEPH F. O'NEIL, 100 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts, attorney for the mortgagee.

Other terms to be announced at the time and place of sale.

voice on the Board of Aldermen. While he is well aware of his responsibility to consider aldermanic legislation in a city-wide context, he feels it is important that best interests of West Newton and its people be given top priority in an deliberations.

The prospect of traffic disruption by either a State or Massachusetts Turnpike Authority project should not be ignored by representatives of the people of the area. Daley feels it is very important for the Ward Alderman, particularly, to be aware of any plans posing a threat to the West Newton Community.

In view of the increasing use of bicycles, Daley indicates some action should be taken to institute safety measures and prevent bicycle thefts. He pointed to the hazards of carelessly parked bicycles in front of stores, yards and playgrounds and that the loss of a bicycle today is very expensive.

Daley feels these two problems could be alleviated considerably by the installation of some type of bike locker or rack with a lock. They would be located at appropriate spots throughout the city. He notes that such installations are now being distributed commercially.

Antonellis-

Later, he attended Boston University and Boston University School of Law, graduating as Juris Doctor.

Ald. Antonellis has been a practicing attorney for 20 years, and maintains a law office in Newton Centre. He is a former special assistant United States attorney, a former trail attorney with the Criminal Division, United States Dept. of Justice, and a former assistant city solicitor for the City of Newton.

He is admitted to practice before the Massachusetts and Federal Bar and is a member of the Mass. Bar Association, Federal Bar Association, Mass. Trial Lawyers Association, Boston University Law School Alumni Association and the Justinian Law Society.

Antonellis served as Newton Community chairman, United Fund, 1971-1972, and Newton Professional chairman United Fund, 1972-1973. He is a director of the Newton Boys Club, a trustee of the Garden City Activity Center, and a member of the National Alumni Council of Boston University. He is a member of the Newton YMCA, American Legion, Post 440, Order of Sons of Italy, Lodge 1069, and the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce.

In declaring his candidacy for re-election Antonellis stated that in his capacity as alderman he has at all times endeavored to apply a "common sense approach" to the problems and issues of government, with a view towards a person to person relationship with the people, striving for understanding and fairness, and cognizant of and considerate of the voice of the people.

He views as the principal objective ahead continued perseverance towards relief of the property tax burden, and notes that while in office he has endeavored to support positions of the Newton Taxpayers Association and others concerned with property tax relief.

In this regard he cites his participation as a member of the Board of Aldermen in contributing to this year's reduction in the tax rate, and states that during the forthcoming term he will continue in this endeavor.

prepared him to meet the challenge of the problems that confront an alderman in this city, he said.

"I am particularly interested in expanding recreational programs for elderly citizens and for the youth of the community. I feel that more can be done for all and that additional facilities can be made available to the females wanting to participate in Physical Fitness programs," he said.

"An important and determining factor in my seeking the responsibilities of this office has been my contact with residents, neighbors and many of the city officials, who have made me aware of the fact that the present incumbent who is completing his first term, has constantly opposed and, in many cases, voted against important issues that appear to me to be for the betterment of the majority of our citizens. He has refuted, fought and attempted to block the passing of legislation that the majority of the city officials have been in favor of for the advancement of the people and the City of Newton."

"I have been so impressed with the opinion and desire of so many to have a change in Ward 4 that I am accepting the challenge to replace him. I am ready, willing and able to fill the obligation of that office and know that given the opportunity I can do more for Ward 4."

"If any citizen wishes to contact me with any question he or she may have or to volunteer, I can be reached between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. at 244-1115," he said.

Dietz-

budget of the Building Department. He is a member of the Franchises and Licenses Committee and City Planning Committee of the Board of Aldermen as well.

A graduate of Newton High School, Dietz has lived continuously in the Newton Centre area and has been a "self-appointed watchdog" in preserving the residential character of the city.

The recent attempt by a real estate developer to gain approval for developing the Newton Centre parking lot was thwarted mainly by the efforts of Alderman Dietz in organizing neighborhood and aldermanic opposition before the proposal gained serious headway.

Dietz has battled over the years to prove that with good city planning there is no need to disrupt established residential neighborhoods in order to broaden the tax base or improve property values. A few months ago, he successfully voiced the strong objection of his constituents to a repeated attempt to extend business use into the residential areas of Beacon St. east of Newton Centre Square.

Dietz likes to recall his first introduction to Newton city government, when as president of the Mason-Rice Elementary School P.T.A., he was called upon to rally support at city hall for the new school constructed on Pleasant St.

Success with this important venture was the "bug that bit me" he says. "I have been knocking on doors ever since for causes I believe will benefit my neighbors and the city."

Dietz is quick to point out that all alderman serve the entire city regardless of election as ward alderman or alderman-at-large. But the ward aldermen "like to think they know their individual wards best."

Alderman Dietz and his wife, Jean (a well-known journalist) are parents of two daughters and two sons, all graduates of Newton schools. Dietz is a graduate of the University of Michigan, holds a master's degree from Boston University and did further graduate work at Harvard. He is a trustee of Temple Emanuel and active in philanthropic organizations.

Tennant-

particularly valuable in things like Urban Renewal and Real Estate Tax matters. As a father of seven school-age children, Tennant is extremely interested in the advancement of the local and state school systems and as an alderman he has tried to exercise controls to get the most educational benefits for Newton's children, however at the same time, controlling the tax dollar.

As a lifelong citizen of Newton, Tennant attended the Newton schools and earned his B.A. degree at Staley College. Tennant is also a veteran of the U.S. Air Force, having spent two and one half years in the Southwest Pacific during WW II.

Active in civic work, Tennant is a past commander of the Burns Kerr American Legion No. 333 and Newton American Legion Post 48. He has served as a member of the mayor's advisory board under Mayors Lockwood, Gibbs, Basbas and presently under Mayor Mann. Tennant has also served as Treasurer of the Claflin School PTA in Newtonville and as President of the Pierce School PTA in West Newton. He has been advanced gifts chairman of the United Fund and director and vice chairman of the Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Tennant has been president and secretary of the Newton Kiwanis Club and a member of the Newton Lodge of Elks, serving on the Scholarship and United Nations Day committees.

For many years he has been involved in the Newton Central Little League, serving in the capacity of treasurer. Presently, Alderman Tennant is a member of the Civil Defense Board of the City, senior vice president of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce and on the board of directors of the Newton Boys Club and the Kiwanis Club of Newton. Tennant is a Thirty Second Degree Mason and past Master of Norumbega Lodge A.F. & A.M. He is trustee of the First Methodist Church of Newton and President of the Insurance Agents Association of Newton.

In his capacity at City Hall, Tennant has represented the citizens of Newton by having served on the Franchise & Licenses Committee, Street Traffic Committee, and is presently serving as a member of the City Planning and Public Buildings Committee, serving also for a number of years on the Finance Committee.

The alderman is married to the former Margaret A. McAfee of Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Tennant live with their seven children at 189 Mt. Vernon St. West Newton.

Tennant stated that in his wish to be reelected alderman-at-large that there is a great challenge with the problems that already exist and the ones that will appear in the years to come. His concerns not only apply to holding the tax rate down but also to drugs, the elderly, crime, housing and youth of the City of Newton. He feels that the City is at a crossroads and great caution should be exercised now and in the future to protect the interests of the citizen against spiraling inflation costs. He also feels that the efforts and the Board must coinside with the administration for smoother continuity and greater cooperation between the two branches of government. The results of compromise is the only way good government can prosper.

The future holds many problems which will need the concentrated effort of every citizen. His statement also shows concern with the apathy of the voter and a strong need for the most qualified elected officials. Many long hours of dedicated work are being put forth by the Board and should be backed up by the strong interest needed by those that live in our city to keep it the proud city that it is now and will continue to be in the future.

Delicata-

School Committee. As an accountant, Delicata takes a "conservative approach" to the spending and allocating of money. He knows education is expensive but, he said, he "wants to make sure we get our money's worth."

Delicata also believes that School Committee meetings should be more open. He says that "these meetings should encourage ideas and suggestions between the committee and the taxpayer." This may be the first time someone from the Lake area represents ward 1 on the school committee.

Born and educated in Newton, Henry went on to Bentley College where he received the Bachelor of Science degree with major in accounting. He is presently employed by the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston in the investment accounting department.

Recently married Delicata, 22, and his wife Denise live at 360 Nevada St. in Newton.

Silton-

His five children all attend Newton schools: Michael, Jeffery and Richard at Newton North High; Peter and Jonathan at the Angier Elementary School. He cited "these five reasons" along with his taxpayer's concern for fiscal responsibility as exciting his interest in running, which he terms "personal, real and current." He said he feels that "citizens with such current and personal interest" are best qualified to judge what schools are for and what we want them to accomplish.

Having been close to the Newton school scene the past 10 years and having been a regular observer at School Committee meetings for several months, the candidate said he sees certain areas demand special scrutiny.

For example, he said, in the last few years there has been an apparent erosion of regard for the basics of an education–spelling, grammar and history.

"Preoccupation with learning being a "pleasurable" experience does not allow for recognizing the fact that some learning requires application, repetition and plain hard work. Little wonder that so many of our youth find it so difficult to adjust to life situations which are not "pleasurable," he said.

A careful examination of the "open campus" policy also seems to be in order, Selton said. "At first blush, the concept with its emphasis on students being able to select from a variety of available mini courses would suggest great possibilities for a student. However, we must determine what percentage of students really utilize this free time to avail themselves of these electives as opposed to those who opt to squander time in non-productive fashion. In other words, in freedom of educational choice do children take the best or the easiest way?"

"The School Committee, as the elected representatives of all the city's taxpayers must be sincerely fiscally responsible," he added.

In order to retain the fiscal autonomy which he regards as vital to our system of education, Selton said Newton must be sensitive to such facts as only one-third of the taxpayers having children in our public schools, the prospect of declining enrollments and the doubling of education staff along with almost a quadrupling of school expenditures in the last 15 years wherein the student population has not changed.

"Notwithstanding our history of largely effective and dedicated teachers, concerned parents and willingness to pay for good education, we must be certain that our high cost of schooling is worth the price being paid by the taxpayer who more and more seems to be approaching the threshold of fiscal revolt," he observed.

"In our current nationwide climate of political disaffection and social malaise I feel it essential to the vitality of our democratic system that lay people not "cop-out" but rise to positions of responsibility in the political arena. I, for one, am willing to devote my ability, energy, and time in an effort to better our system of public education, the bedrock on which our free society is built."

Regal-

year term on the School Committee. As a member of the School Committee since 1969, he has shown particular concern for increasing community involvement in the Newton public schools. He has consistently voted to expand the community schools program, he said.

Regal was instrumental in the School Committee's adoption in 1972 of a forthright policy concerning proper social and political activities in the Newton schools. This policy clearly sets forth both the rights and the responsibilities of students and teachers.

For the past three years Regal has served as chairman of the School Committee's subcommittee conducting negotiations with the Newton Teachers Association. His sub-committee has successfully concluded three contracts with the Newton teachers.

Regal earned his A.B. at Harvard in 1948 after serving two and one-half years in the United States Navy.

He is now president of John S. Regal & Son, Inc., a Boston based hardware distributing company. He is also a director of the Mount Vernon Cooperative Bank of Boston. In 1962 and 1964, Regal was Newton campaign coordinator for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. From 1964-1968, he was chairman of the Newton Democratic City Committee. He served in 1967-68 on the Newton Mayor's Committee to Study the Newton Junior College, and in 1968-69 on the Mayor's Committee to Analyze the City's Fiscal Trends. He served from 1962-1964 as Treasurer of Newton Citizens for Dental Health. In 1968-69 Regal was President of the Newton PTA Council. He is a member of Temple Shalom of Newton.

Reichard-

children, while also considering the taxpayers who bear the financial burden. Careful examination of the value and cost of all our programs is a major on-going responsibility of all School Committee members. I have, and will continue to devote myself full-time to study, discussion and decision-making in all areas related to the education of our children." children."

Mrs. Reichard, who is completing her first term in office, has been a member of the sub-committee on collective bargaining which negotiates salaries of school personnel. She has served with teachers, administrators and parents on the Early Childhood Education Committee.

"The strengthening of the kindergarten and primary grade programs is of great concern to me; we have begun to extend kindergarten hours, and to introduce multi-age groupings into the K, 1-2-3 grades, to meet the needs of more children. As a second-term School Committee member, I will continue to work for the development of alternative programs for the young child; options of various programs should be available to parents and teachers as they plan for the education of young children."

In 1972 Mrs. Reichard brought together administrators from the Newton School Department and Newton College to establish the Career Internship Program. Twenty five Newton women have already been given the opportunity to work in the Newton Schools while at the same time taking courses at Newton College in the area of their volunteer work. Scholarship money for this program has been provided for each student by Newton College. "We must focus on the development of more programs such as this one, bringing to our students the resources of our community at little or no cost to the taxpayers."

Another program initiated under Mrs. Reichard's leadership brought together members of the community, School Department and School Committee to discuss such topics as guidance, educational philosophy, language arts and teacher-parent communications.

"I will continue to encourage this kind of dialogue between the School Department and the community. I have always felt a great need for free, open exchange of ideas and feel we must do whatever is necessary to find out what people are thinking about education in our community."

Mrs. Reichard projects that the years ahead will place greater responsibility on educators and school committees. "By September, 1974, local school districts will be required by the new State Law, Chapter 766, to take direct responsibility for educating all children with special needs. We must begin to plan for the implementation of these special education programs by considering the opportunity of regional collaboration to providing services that would be more expensive if local school systems worked separately."

Mrs. Reichard, who formerly taught emotionally disturbed and retarded children, strongly supported the newly established regional secondary school program for the deaf in the Newton Public Schools.

In conclusion, Mrs. Reichard, adeed, "I have been available to discuss matters and answer questions with everyone who has contacted me. I shall continue to give a fair and realistic appraisal to such issues as the budget, evaluation of programs, the decline in enrollment, the introduction of Chapter 766 into our schools, and other new issues as they arise."

Mrs. Reichard, who resides at 63 Monadnock Rd., Chestnut Hill, with her husband, John, Psychiatrist-in-chief at Faulkner Hospital and their five children, all of whom have attended the Newton Public Schools, is a graduate of Simmons College and did advanced work in the field of child development at the Merrill-Palmer School and Vassar College. She was President of the Ward School, Weeks Junior High School and the All Newton Music School PTAs, Vice President of the Newton Mental Health Association, member of the Governor's Advisory Council on Mental Health and Retardation, and active in many other community organizations.

Teachers Attend Summer Session

Four officials of the Newton Teachers Association recently attended the second annual summer leadership conference sponsored by the Massachusetts Teachers Association.

While on the campus of Williams College in Williamstown, Mass., Michael Davies, Melvin Levenson, Robert Provencher and Joan Warner spent five days participating in simulation exercises and seminars.

The simulation exercises afforded participaants an opportunity to form a community and sharpen tactics connected with teacher activism. Seminar topics ranged from "Policing theContract,"to "Congressional Contact Team Organization."

Obituaries

Peter F. Cully

A pro-burial mass was said Saturday (Sept. 8) for Peter F. Cully in Our Lady of the Presentation Church in Brighton.

Mr. Cully, 22, of 294 Kenrick St., Newton, was killed in the private plane crash of Scituate, Aug. 30.

A native of Cambridge, Mr. Cully graduated from Newton High School in 1968. He was a student at Newton Junior College and a referee with the Middlesex Youth Hockey League.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Freda Cully of Newton; a brother Edmond J. Cully Jr. of Needham; a sister, Mrs. Vivian Kimball of Newton; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried Henschel of Newton.

WILLIAM F. QUINN
CHIEF OF POLICE

Back to school must mean extreme caution and concern on everybody's part if this is to be a safe and satisfactory school year for all children in our community.

Motorists must be especially watchful. Remember when a school bus flashes its red lights the law demands vehicles come to a full stop.

Bicycle riders too have to abide by the rules of the road as they go to and from school. Riding single file on the right with the flow of traffic is the proper procedure.

And school bus riders also have responsibilities. Good conduct of all passengers is expected and required or bus privileges may be withdrawn.

Everyone's help is needed to make this the safest year for all our children.

Cordially,
William F. Quinn

Offer Seminars For Women

Newton College in Newton has announced a group of four new special weekly seminars for women to its Center for Continuing Studies programs.

The seminars are titled "Subject to Change Without Notice;" "For a Change--Making Fiction Less Strange than Fact;" "Women Need to Know the ABC's of Family Economics;" and "A Career? The Art of Choosing."

The seminar "Subject to Change Without Notice" will explore change in the society and how its implications alter the texture of existence, hammer our lives and psyches into new and unfamiliar shapes. How do we identify real change, understand it, and most important, cope with it?

The seminar will be held on eight Wednesday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon beginning Oct. 3. It will be directed by leaders in the fields of psychiatry, psychology, education, religion and science.

The seminar on "For a Change--Making Fiction Less Strange than Fact" will be led by Dr. C.E. Maguire, R.S.C.J., professor of English at Newton College. The group will meet on six Thursday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon beginning Oct. 4.

The seminar titled "Women Need to Know the ABC's of Family Economics" is designed for those who have the feeling that they don't know enough about family finances.

The sessions, to be conducted by experienced business women and economists, will examine basic information about income distribution, savings, taxes, insurance, investments, retirement, rights, and benefits. The seminar will meet on five Monday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon beginning Oct. 1.

The seminar "A Career? The Art of Choosing" will identify career goals and the realistic prospects of achieving them. The program, which will cover the spectrum from Why Work at All? to Writing a Resume, will include group discussion, life planning sessions, testing and identification of specific local opportunities.

The seminar, to be led by Bonnie M. Orlin and Judith F. Kugel, directors of Boston Project for Careers, will meet on six Tuesday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon beginning on Oct. 2.

Further information on the new seminars may be obtained by calling or writing to Mrs. Margaret Dever, director of the Center for Continuing Studies, Newton College, 885 Centre street, Newton, Mass. 02159. Tel. 332-6700 Ext. 285.

Careers Center Opens

Family Counseling Service (Region West) announces the fall opening of The Careers Center, a vocational testing and counseling program.

This new component of the agency's counseling services was begun last year to meet the needs of those in the community faced with educational or vocational decisions. In particular this has included high school and college students, school "dropouts", working people considering career changes, and family women seeking personal career development.

The Careers Center offers an individualized battery of tests chosen to meet the vocational needs of each client. Tests are interpreted with the client as part of a process leading to increased awareness of personal strengths as well as of deficiencies requiring remedial efforts. Emphasis is on movement toward development of short and long range goals.

Vocational counseling is also available without the use of tests, and groups with a vocational focus will be organized later in the fall.

The Careers Center is open to individuals living, working or attending school in any one of the nine towns served by Region West (Brookline, Natick, Newton, Sherborn, Sudbury, Waltham, Wayland, Wellesley and Weston) and is located at the Newton office, 74 Walnut Park. The telephone number for more information is 527-7680.

The 11-state Southern Region of the U.S. Postal Service used 21 million gallons of gasoline to propel 24,665 vehicles in 1972.

Sale To Benefit Hospital

A Rummage and Bake sale will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday (Sept. 19) in the courtyard in front of the Middlesex County Hospital, 775 Trapelo Rd., Waltham.

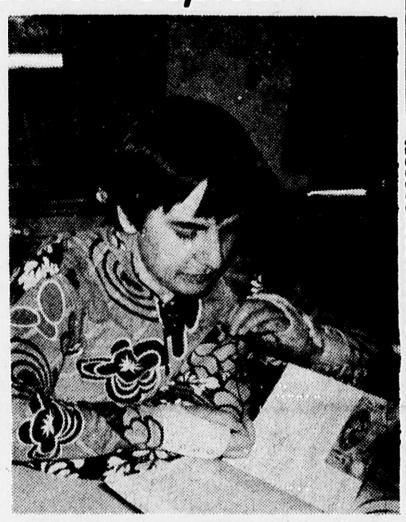
The sale, sponsored by the Waltham Jaycee-ettes, will raise money for a special needs fund for the hospital's patients.

The sale will include men's and women's clothing, a white elephant table, and a bake sale. For the bake sale, patrons are urged to "bring a cake as well as buy a cake", said Ms. Linda Santoro, Jaycee-ette coordinator.

Money raised is used to buy items for the hospital's gift cart which allows patients to buy personal items such as toothpaste, or gifts for their grandchildren at reduced rates. It also goes for larger personal needs for patients who do not have the financial resources.

In case of rain, the sale will be held in the hospital's Old Coffee Shop.

Acting as hospital liaison for the sale are Ms. Jacqueline Davison, volunteer director, Ms. Marsha Gray, R.N., and Ms. dolly Rice, patient.



Mrs. Dolly Rice, patient-coordinator of the Middlesex County Hospital Rummage and Bake Sale, is relearning how to turn pages in a book.

Community Service Centers Prepare For Fall Activities

Registrations for all fall activities are now underway according to Mr. Anthony J. Bibbo, executive director of the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc.

In commenting on the activities for the new program year, Bibbo stated that many of the activities which have become popular traditions of the Centers will be continued, while a large number of new offerings will be provided based upon a wide community demand.

Generally, the Centers' staff has put together a varied activity list. A sampling of some of these activities include, within the children's fall program, a nursery school, a day care center, a Headstart program; classes in sewing, cooking, arts and crafts, drama, baton and dance. New to the children's program this year are an after school day care center and a beginners tap class. Returning to the program this year is the oil painting with acrylics class. The Center's adult program includes teen classes in sewing, crafts, knitting and crocheting, dance, baton, etc. The Center's Job Bank provides teens with constructive and profitable work experience throughout the year. The adult program this year includes a number of workshops: golf, crafts, weight watchers, sewing, cake decorating, yoga, physical fitness and many more. New to the adult program this year are the Adult Multi-Media experience, a course in which silk screening, basic design, mosaics and weaving are studied and a jazz dance workshop for young teens through adults. Finally, the Center sponsors a retired Senior volunteer program (RSVP) which provides significant volunteer work opportunities for persons over 60 years of age. New to this aspect of the program is the Newton RSVP Senior Exchange Program which utilizes senior citizens with talents such as chess, bridge, etc. to share their skills with one another.

For additional information or to register, phone or visit the Center's office at 429 Cherry Street in West Newton. Phone 969-5906 Monday-Friday 9-12 or 1-4:30 p.m.

Anything Goes' At Temple Beth Avodah

Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton, is planning a fall "Get Away Cruise."

Actually, the "Get Away" takes place in dry dock, at the Chateau de Ville in Framingham. But it will be entertainment galor with the fantastic Betty Hutton in Cole Porter's nostalgic musical about shipboard romance, "Anything Goes."

The temple's first social event of the new season will feature dinner and theatre on Sunday, Sept. 23, at 6 p.m. Captaining the evening is Mr. Sheldon Casler, with his able co-captain, Mrs. Nathan Fleishman.

The tables are well located for easy viewing, and a relaxed friendly evening of enjoyable entertainment.

The event is open to anyone, so if you are interested in further information about tickets or reservations, please call the temple office, 527-0045. Come step out on this musical cruise with Temple Beth Avodah.

Ministers Wives Meet

The Ministers Wives Fellowship of American Baptist clergy in the Bay State will hold their annual fellowship retreat on Monday, September 24, at the Baptist conference grounds at "Grotonwood" in Groton, Mass.

Announcement of the all-day reunion was made by Mrs. John Bartos of Haverhill, whose husband is pastor of the First Baptist Church in that city.

Opening at 9:30 a.m. with a coffee hour and registration, the program for the day will include a business meeting and election of officers, inspirational sessions, various interest groups of arts and crafts and music, and concluding with a service of holy communion.

The communion service will be led by the Rev. Miss Veronica Lanier of Auburndale, member of the state staff of the American Baptist Churches of Massachusetts.

Among those participating during the day will be Mrs. Donald Boone of West Somerville, immediate past president; Mrs. Richard Harris of North Oxford, secretary; Mrs. William Burritt of Woodville, program chairman, and Mrs. Arthur Whitaker of Arlington.

Episcopalians Hear Haitian Orchestra

At the 10:30 a.m. service on Sunday, Sept. 16, Grace Church (Episcopal) in Newton Corner will be host to the Holy Trinity Philharmonic Orchestra from Port-au-Prince, Haiti.

The group is performing in the United States during September and October and will culminate its tour by playing for the General Convention of the Episcopal Church which will be meeting in Louisville, Ky., in October.

The orchestra, formed in 1968, grew out of music classes taught in the Holy Trinity School, and is now composed of 45 students and teachers from the school.

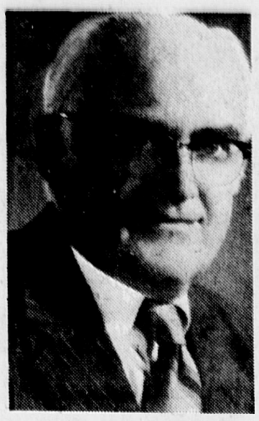
Part of each performance features the Handbell Choir of St. Vincent's School for the Handicapped, a sister school to Holy Trinity.

St. Paul's Plans Spaghetti Supper

St. Paul's Church, Newton Highlands, will open its fall festivities with the serving of a spaghetti supper in the Parish Crypt on Saturday, Sept. 22 at 6:30 p.m.

A special price for children will be offered and tickets may be obtained at the church office, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Mrs. Helen Donovan and Mr. John MacAskill are in charge of this event which is sponsored by the ways and means committee of the parish.



Lewis M. Foster of Newton Highlands, president of the Massachusetts Bible Society, will preside at the 164th annual luncheon program of the society, on Monday, Sept. 24, at historic Bible House, Bromfield St., Boston, at 12:30 p.m.

Privacy Topic Of A Lecture

The Kehillath Jacob Institute of Religious and Social Studies opens its season's forum on science, philosophy, ethics and religion focusing on two basic broad themes, law, society, and the individual and man and his environment.

The first in a series of four lectures on law, society and the individual deal with privacy and will feature the leading law scholar in that field Professor Arthur Miller of Harvard Law School.

Wednesday, Sept. 19, he will speak at the Institute at 858 Walnut Street, Newton. Professor Miller is an internationally known expert in human rights and privacy. He has given Senate testimony relating to privacy information and computer technology.

His public and professional activities incude chairman, Mass. Security and Privacy Council; member, Special Committee on Automated Personal Data Systems, Department of Health, Education and Welfare; director, American Association of Law Schools Projects on Computer-Assisted Instruction.

He is a member of a special advisory group to the chief justice of the United States Supreme Court on federal civil litigation and a member of the American Bar Association Special Committee on Complex and Multidistrict Litigation.

Amos Women Host Members

B'nai B'rith Women, Amos Chapter No. 25, will hold its September Meeting and Supper for paid up members on Monday, Sept. 17, at 7 p.m. at the Newton Highlands Women's Club, 72 Columbus St., Newton Highlands.

Mrs. Milton Kassner, president will preside at the meeting. The chairmen for the evening are Mrs. Louis Israelson of Newton, and Miss Ethel Tzizik, who will be assisted by a most able committee.

After the meeting and supper, a musical program will be presented by Debbie Martin, an accomplished soprano of the New England Conservatory.

Christian Scientists Hear Noted Lecturer

Nothing less than individual and universal salvation is the goal of Christian healing, James Spencer, C.S., of Detroit, told a large audience here Monday evening, Sept. 17.

A former marine who is now a Christian Science lecturer, Spencer brought out that the word "healing" has a broad meaning for those interested in the relevance of Christianity to the needs of people today.

"It extends to every part of our lives, not just to the healing of sickness. It includes our families and surroundings, our whole view of man and the universe," he declared.

Spencer spoke under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist in the church auditorium, 391 Walnut St., Newtonville.

There is a divine basis for being saved and healed — healed of fear, wrongdoing, ignorance, all that would separate or alienate one from God, the lecturer maintained.

Referring to Christ Jesus as "the most radically spiritual healer the world has ever known," Spencer said: "He healed mental illness, blood disorders, blindness and deafness, paralysis, congenital lameness, and the dread leprosy."

Spencer challenged the view that physical healing through wholly spiritual means is mere faith healing.

"Spiritually scientific prayer," he said, "advances beyond blind faith. It demonstrates the spiritually scientific understanding Jesus taught and exemplified. This understanding is the cultivated ability to see beyond the superficial, to look through outward appearances to reality."

Spencer shared with his audience accounts of the healing of a wide variety of physical conditions, including leukemia and rheumatoid arthiritis through what he called spiritual means alone.

"Disease is an image of thought externalized," he said, quoting from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science.

Emphasizing the relationship between salvation and healing, the lecturer said: "Every time disease is rooted out at its source, the one healed moves nearer the full appearing of himself as the perfect son of God. He moves nearer the full appearing of himself as the complete idea of infinite intelligence."

Spencer served as a lieutenant in the Marine Corps and later as a Chaplain in the United States Army. He became a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship in 1967. "The Healing Method of Christian Science" was the subject of his local lecture.

Registration Set For Children's Activities

Registration for children's activities for 1973-1974 will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 12, 2-5 p.m.; Thursday, Sept. 13, 2-5 and 7-9 p.m. and Friday, Sept. 14, 2-4 p.m. at the Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center, 50 Sutherland Rd., Brookline.

A new feature this year will be an early afternoon program on Tuesdays and Thursdays designed for children who are not in school on those afternoons. The program is open to children in kindergarten through sixth grade.

Transportation will be provided from Newton elementary schools directly to the Center. Children will bring a bag lunch, eat together, and then take part in children's club activities. These include crafts, singing and dancing, gym, holiday celebrations, occasional trips, in an informal Jewish atmosphere.

The Children's Department has many different groups meeting at the Center Monday through Friday - Israeli folk dancing, cooking, campcraft and nature, arts and crafts, ice skating, gymnastics, puppetry, woodworking, photography, guitar class, needlecraft, ceramics, music making - plus children's clubs which incorporate some of these different activities into their program every week.

Special Shabbat and holiday programs will be held at the Center - many of these will be for the whole family.

For further information, call Mrs. Sue Roberts, director, Children's Department, at 734-0800.

Pastor Johnson Speaks On Faith

On Sunday, Sept. 16, at the 11 a.m. service, Pastor Boyd M. Johnson of The Union Church in Waban will speak on the theme, "A Faith Which Lasts!"

The Adult Choir will sing, "Laudate Nomen Domine" by Tye and "Turn Back, O Man" by Holst. The Offertory Anthem will be "Lord, To Thee My Heart I Proffer" from the "Passion According to St. Matthew" by Bach.

Jack Fisher, choirmaster and organist, will direct the choir. Greeters at the door will be Mr. and Mrs. Alex R. Miller. Richard T. Jolly, assistant minister, will share in the service.

The Young People's Fellowship will hold their first meeting on Sunday evening at 7 p.m. under the direction of Mr. Jolly. The officers of the fellowship are President Dan Jones, Vice President Neil Husher, Secretary Emily Wiggin and Treasurer Suni McLeod.

The Women's Association is sponsoring a Faith Exploration Workshop on Sept. 19 at the Framingham Conference Center. Women of the Church are invited to attend.

Mrs. Phyllis Baldwin will be the leader for the exploration beginning at 10:45 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m. Transportation will be provided for those who need it.

Dr. Lynda Blake, president of the association, is the coordinator for this interesting program.

Regular church school classes will begin on Sunday, Sept. 16. Grades five through eight will meet at 9:30 a.m. Nursery through grade four will meet at 11 a.m. Child care for infants and toddlers during the 11 a.m. worship service is available throughout the year.

Special seminars are also planned for grades nine through 12.

Jewish Women Hold First Fall Luncheon

Mrs. Louis Meisner, president of the Metropolitan Region, New England Women's Division, American Jewish Congress, announces the first luncheon meeting of the program year to be held Wednesday, Sept. 19, at 12 noon, at Longwood Towers, Brookline.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Carl Spector, who will speak on "Present Directions in Israel." Mrs. Spector, a frequent visitor to Israel, has followed the development of the country, its institutions and its people since the founding of the state. She currently serves as National Vice-chairman of the Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal.

The Metropolitan Women's Division embraces the Brookline-Brighton Chapter and Newton-Chestnut Hill Chapter of American Jewish Congress.

Serving as officers with Mrs. Meisner for 1973-74 are: Vice-presidents Mmes. Ann Altshuler, Bessie Brown, Ethel Calish, Esther Prager, Rose Rosenzweig and Gertrude Trieger; Mrs. Rose Fine, treasurer; Belle Friederman, recording secretary; Esther Kisloff, corresponding secretary.

is sunday school OUT-OF-DATE?
It's never out-of-date to understand God, and man, and the true nature of the universe.
This understanding is what young people up to the age of 20 gain in our Sunday School.
They're taught a warm and practical Christianity, and how to apply it to everyday problems.
And as they study the Bible, together with Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, they're preparing to help solve the world's problems in the most forward-looking, fresh, and effective way.
Wouldn't you like your children to visit soon?

V. A. Newsletter

Nationwide opportunities for licensed practical nurses in the Veterans Administration are outlined in a new employment pamphlet announced by VA nursing officials today. The nine-page booklet is designed to highlight the often unsung but vitally important contribution of the licensed practical nurse as a member of the VA's health care team. In addition to good paying jobs, VA offers extensive inservice training programs to assure the use of the most up-to-date nursing techniques and optimum in employee development.

As the nation's largest health care system, the VA employs 5,700 licensed practical nurses of whom, 1,250 join the agency each year.

VA's large nursing team also includes some 20,000 registered nurses and 26,000 nursing assistants.

These positions are in the career Federal Service, and no written test is required for civil service eligibility. Details are available from the nearest U. S. Federal Job Information Center. Addresses are listed in the telephone directory under U. S. Government.

For those considering a career as a licensed practical nurse, a list of approved schools is available upon request to the National League for Nursing, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, N. Y. 10019.

Designed for students, exoerienced licensed practical nurses, and educators, the pamphlet is available from Forms and Publications Depot (036B), Veterans Administration, 2625 Shirlington Road, Arlington, Va. 22206. As for VA Pamphlet 10-52 "Practical Nurses in the VA."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q.—As an eligible veteran, I'd like to get a GI home loan, but my salary is not large enough for the house we need. Will the Veterans Administration include my wife's earnings in addition to mine in considering our eligibility for a loan?

A.—Yes. Since July 18, VA has been giving full consideration to income of the veteran's spouse in processing GI home loans.

Q.—My daughter attends college under the Veterans Administration dependents' educational assistance program. If she marries, will VA continue to provide this benefit?

A.—Yes, VA will continue to pay this assistance. However, the agency is not permitted to pay additional allowances for your daughter's dependents.

Q.—As a widow of a veteran who died of a service connected disability, am I entitled to commissary privileges?

A.—Yes, provided your husband was retired, or was rated as having a 100 percent service connected disability at the time of his death. Application forms may be obtined from any Veterans Administration regional office or the appropriate military base.

The great majority of the people of Afghanistan are Moslems, 90 per cent of them of the Sumi sect. Hindus, Sikhs and Jews form small minorities.

California farmers planted 333,000 acres of rice in 1972, bringing in a crop valued at $120 million.

The fisher is the fastest tree-traveling mammal. It can overtake a red squirrel or a marten and can even outrun a snowshoe hare on the ground.

Ulysses S. Grant was the 18th President of the United States and the first president from Ohio. He was elected in 1868 and served two terms.

Bancroft Hall at the U.S. Naval Academy is the world's largest dormitory, with more than five miles of corridors in eight connected wings.

The first outdoor electric sign in the United States was erected in New York City in 1891. It advertised Spencerian Pens.

COMMUNITIES ACT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Various community action programs are being organized around the nation to nab the drunk driver.

In New Orleans, for instance, a van offers imbibers a chance to take a breath test to determine their blood alcohol level, reports the Health Insurance Institute. If the level is .10 per cent (the level a person is presumed drunk in most states), they're offered a ride home.

The van is located on Bourbon Street.

Algerians call foreigners "roumi," an old word for Roman, according to the National Geographic. It goes back to the days when Rome ruled North Africa.

The area of the United States known as the Mountain States Region includes Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada.

Bolivia has two capital cities, Sucre, the legal capital, and La Paz, the seat of government.

San Francisco and New York City were joined by telephone in 1915.

Sales—New & Used Vehicles

WE WANT A

VOLKSWAGEN SALES PERSON

WHO CAN SELL FORDS, PLYMOUTHS, CHEVYS.

AND VOLKSWAGENS.

If you're the person we're looking for, you'll handle new Volkswagens and used imports and domestics. But you'll sell them all the Volkswagen way. With straight talk and honest salesmanship.

And you'll make a lot of money doing it.

You're the type who likes to give the customers a fair shake. And you expect the same treatment from management.

You'll get a kick out of selling honestly built Volkswagens. And clean trade-ins backed with honest 100% guarantees.

We expect you to be familiar with most makes of cars. And ready to sink your teeth into VW selling. We'll give you a training program that works. Seminars to sharpen your selling skills. Advertising and promotion materials you can really use.

We'll help you build a solid career. In clean and pleasant surroundings.

The person we want is stable, personable, energetic. Expecting a substantial income for these abilities. And getting it.

If you fit the description, please get in touch.

Vegetable Oil Helped Save Premature Baby

BLAINE, Ohio (UPI) — Five years ago, Misty would have died. But a unique intravenous feeding technique and vegetable oil are credited with saving her life.

Misty, now seven months old, was born six weeks prematurely. Operated on when she was two days old for intestinal problems, her first four months were spent in the intensive care unit of Pittsburgh Children's Hospital.

The daughter of Paula and John Unrick, Misty was born at Wheeling Hospital but was immediately transferred to Children's after x-rays confirmed she suffered from an obstruction in her intestine and that a part of the intestine eight inches beyond the stomach had failed to develop.

Surgery was the only answer. And feeding through her tiny veins became a necessity.

The obstruction was removed, but one end of the intestine had stretched from the pressure, and the underdeveloped section had shrunk.

The operation was like "trying to sew the end of a straw to a piece of hose two inches in diamater," said Dr. William Seiber.

Shortly after the operation, adhesions began to develop on her intestine, and the tiny veins in her head kept collapsing because of the feedings.

"The doctors just simply ran out of veins," Unrick said.

New Feeding Technique

So when surgery was performed a second time, a new technique of intravenous feeding was used.

Dr. Seiber described the technique, hypo-alimentation, when a vein behind the ear is cut and a long plastic feeding tube inserted through the vein into the heart.

Misty began to gain weight after the second operation, reaching 20 pounds, but Dr. Seiber was concerned that fats essential to body metabolism could not be given through intravenous feeding.

He first decided to use plasma transfusions—but then turned to a bottle of Mazola oil.

"Mazola oil contains all the essential fats needed by the body," Seiber said. He fed one teaspoon of the oil each day to replenish her body with the required fats.

"Some sort of god," is how Misty's father describes Seiber. "Putting children back together the way they were supposed to be."

During Misty's four-month stay in the hospital, she had to be strapped down to avoid damaging the delicate tubes feeding her.

But now, she's home with her parents, squirming all she wants and getting spoiled.

Seiber told the Unricks that after Misty has a tube extending from her stomach removed shortly she will be a "pretty normal baby."

"Five years ago," he added. "She would have died."

Boating News

NEW YORK (UPI) — From the ditty bag:

—Four huge in-the-water boat shows are in the offing for pleasure boaters along the Atlantic Coast between now and December. The second annual North Atlantic Boat Show will be held at Yacht Haven Marina in Stamford, Conn., Sept. 27-30, to be followed Oct. 4-8 by the fourth annual United States Sailboat Show at City Dock in Annapolis, Md., and the second annual United States Powerboat Show at the same site Oct. 11-14. The fourth exhibit will be the inaugural Southern Sailboat Show to be held in Marine Stadium, Miami, Fla., Dec. 6-9.

—A new electronic instrument that both transmits and receives ultrasound frequencies, the BoatLife Sonic Leak Locator, will be demonstrated at the nation's boat shows this fall. The transmitter, or tone generator, is placed inside the hull or boat compartment and the leak locator wand, an unmodulated microphone, passed over the exterior. The operator picks up the ultrasound emissions through even the tiniest apertures via his earphones, according to the manufacturer.

—A recommended repair kit to be carried aboard by fiberglass hull owners includes fiberglass cloth (several square yards); fiberglass tape (6-inch width, 10 yards; polyester resin (at least a quart in pint cans); fiberglass mat (one square yard); epoxy cement (several tubes). Cloth and mat can be used to repair a fracture or hole. The tape is handy for repairing a fractured spar or temporarily stopping a leak in a pipe or in the cold end of the exhaust tube. Polyester resin wets the glass rapidly and cures quickly, allowing for fast temporary repairs. The epoxy cement serves as a "superglue" or solder and almost always fits into emergency repairs.

—One of the most enthusiastic members of the sailing fraternity is Dan Rowan, the straight man in the team of Rowan and Martin, who owns two sailboats and two years ago sailed one of them from Santa Monica, Calif., to Hawaii. Rowan, whose new RCA special, "Opening Night, Staring Rowan and Martin," will be telecast over NBC on Sept. 13, told an interviewer recently that "if I could afford it" he'd chuck show business and "take a long, long trip on a boat before I get too old to do it."

ATHLETES

AURORA, Neb. (UPI) — Parents who expect too much of their children as young athletes may be endangering their future prospects in sports, according to the chairman of the Nebraska Medical Association's subcommittee on athletic injuries.

The 39-year-old doctor, teao physician for jhamilton County (Neb.) schools for nine years, said a conditioning program includes the maintenance of good muscle tone, steady weight with allowances for growth, endurance capability, and strength development.

"Parents should recognize that some children will never be competitive at athletics," Murphy warned. "But even those youngsters can learn to enjoy athletics in other ways—as spectators, team assistants, trainers, and by participating in non-competitive athletics."

Murphy said those who obviously do not have 5he ability should not be pushed. He noted that many youngsters are "late bloomers" as athletes and that competition too early may ruin their possibilities for later accomplishment.

The physician said both psychological and physical damage can result from over-competition too early. As an example, he said a child of eight who is continually mastered at a sport by a child of 12 may never respond to more fair competition.

Or, he said, a child who is small for his age may be injured or lose all faith in his ability if continually thrown into competition against youngsters who are bigger and stronger.

"Many youngsters can compete successfully in high school or junior high athletics yet never be able to compete in college or university athletics."

Green Thumb

LEAF SCORCH: We're getting letters asking us what causes leaves on shade trees to turn brown and drop. This problem is lumped together into one term — leaf scorch. It's worse on newly planted trees and in dry areas. In many areas rainfall has been scarce and trees not taking up sufficient water develop leaf scorch.

Scorch develops when water is lost from the leaves faster than it can be replaced. As a result, the cells die and the leaves partially or completely dry up.

Weather plays an important part in leaf scorch. In some areas where they has been lots of rain, you are apt to get late summer leaf scorch. The reason: Roots could not develop because of the excessive moisture in the soil, or existing roots were killed.

As a result some plants were not equipped to face hot, dry weather. Their first response to it is leaf scorch.

Most often, scorch is a result of drought conditions, but overwatering can also bring about the same symptoms. Girdling roots may also cause scorch. These are roots that lie at the base of the trunk, and as both the root and trunk increase in size, they press against each other until the root cuts off the flow of sap up the trunk.

The girdling roots act like a boa constrictor, choking the tree. If you see girdling roots at the base, take a chisel and cut them.

Best way to help a tree overcome scorch and other problems is to feed and water the tree to build up vigor. If water is scarce, don't hesitate to use laundry or bath water around your ornamentals. In September, if there is little rain and temperatures are quite high, you will need all the water you can get for your trees and shrubs.

Fall feeding improves plant vigor for better growth for next season.

SALT FOR ASPARAGUS: Is salt helpful in keeping down weeds in the asparagus bed? Many oldtimers still use salt in the asparagus bed, but we doubt if it does any good. Tests show that this old idea has been pretty much discredited. I hope some of our readers will write and tell us if they use salt to kill weeds.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "We have lots of white fly on our house plants and garden vegetables. Is there a control?"

Ans: Not an easy one. There's a parasite known as Encarsia which is effective and you can purchase it from certain firms which rear it. In some areas there's a natural infestation of the parasite, and the "black" white fly you may see on leaves are parasitized.

Address all inquiries to George Abraham, Naples, N. Y. 14512.

Health for All

SEASON FOR SNEEZES

Ragweed pollen is in the air. It's hay fever season for millions of sneezing people.

Pollens that are light enough to be carried by the wind are ths chief culprits in most hay fever suffering. Trees, grasses, and weeds all have windborne pollen. However, the overwhelming majority of people with ahy fever are sensitive to one special pollen–ragweed–which flourishes in most parts of the country from midsummer to late fall.

But any person may react to more than one pollen. An individual's sneezing season may start in early spring, when tree pollen float into the air, and stretch until fall when the first frost arrives to kill all the pollens. In fact, someone sensitive ot dust or animal dander or other airborne material may suffer all year long.

The symptoms of so-called hay fever are repeated and prolonged sneezing spells accompanied by a stuffy nose and itching eyes. Tough the symptoms are annoying and cause discomfort, the disease itself is not dangerous.

And once the offending substance is pin-pointed– by skin tests with suspected substances–the doctor can give specific desensitizing injections that can control the allergic reaction.

If hay fever is untreated, the repercussions from repeated attacks year after year can be serious. Chronic sinusitis--inflammation of the sinus cavities –can result. Growths in the nose, nasal polyps, may occur. In addition, about 30 percent of people with hay fever develop asthma, a widespread narrowing of the smaller breathing passages.

Most lung diseases are triggered by offending substances in the air we breathe. To find out more about ways to prevent and treat lung diseases of all kinds; contact the American Lung Association of Boston. It's a matter of life and breath.

On Jan. 1, 1863, Confederate forces under Gen. John B. Magruder captured Galveston, attacking by land and sea, and held the island city until the end of the Civil War.

German Students Visiting Here

By PAULA BARRY
North High School
Correspondent

Mayor Theodore D. Mann greeted 30 German and American exchange students at a reception Sept. 5.

The students are participants in an exchange with Aachen Germany under the direction of Richard A. Clark, a Newton High German teacher.

Aachen was chosen because of its size and interesting background. The city is big enough so that foreigners aren't an oddity yet small enough so that foreigners can easily find their way around. Aachen is the location of the hottest curative springs in Western Europe, so it's not surprising that the Romans built baths here. Around the year 800, Charlemagne chose Aachen to be the seat of his Empire and built a Cathedral which is completely intact 1173 years later.

Sixteen students from Newton, Belmont, Lincoln-Sudbury and Winchester went to Aachen in August to live with families. While they were there, they attended the schools of their foster brothers and sisters for only a few hours each day to give them the opportunity of getting to know the city.

The Americans returned with their German foster brothers and sisters on August 28. When school starts; the Germans will follow the same schedule that the Americans did in Germany so that they can become familiar with the Greater Boston Area.

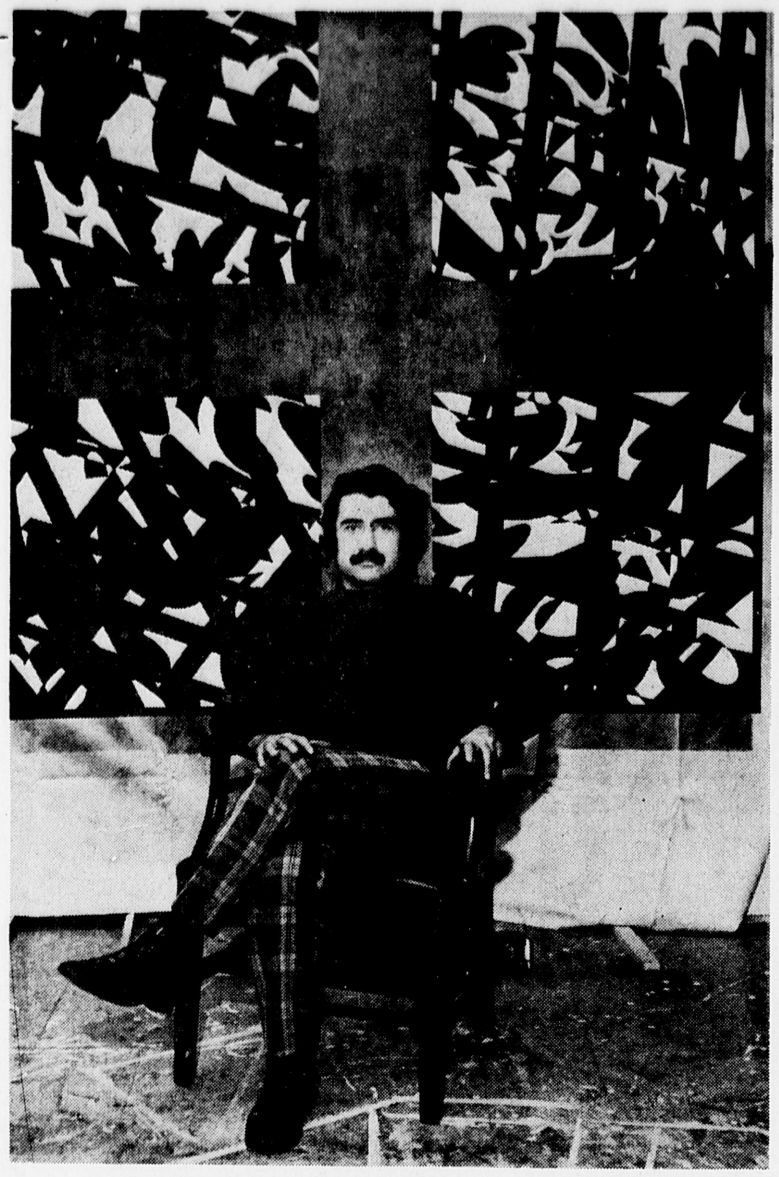
Mayor Mann sent a gift to Aachen's Mayor and the German students presented their Mayor's gift to Mann last Wednesday.

He told the students about the early history of Newton and hoped that this would not be the last exchange program that he was associated with.

The students also visited the Chamber of the Board of Aldermen where Ed English, Clerk of the Board, acquainted them with the history and structure of Newton government.

After the visit to City Hall, the group toured the historic towns of Concord and Sudbury in a bus supplied by the city.

The City Hall visit was only the first of many events which will occupy the Germans until their return home on Sept. 24.



John Avakian

Newton Educator Displays Paintings At Cary Library

Newton educator John Avakian is displaying his paintings during September in the Piper Gallery of Cary Memorial Library, Lexington, Massachusetts.

Now director of art at Mount Ida Junior College, Avakian paints in a bold abstract style.

Avakian paints square canvases — some of them small (2' by 2') and some large (6' by 6'). He begins with letter shapes which are fragmented and transformed so that individual letters are no longer recognizable. The white fragments are painted on a black background in various configurations and rhythmic patterns. Most of the paintings are either bisected by a colored minus stripe or divided into squares by a colored plus mark. All of the paintings are meticulously executed in bold style with clean sharp lines.

Avakian had one-man shows at the Nexus Art Gallery, Boston; the Lenore Grey Gallery, Providence, R.I., and the Worcester Art Museum. His paintings and prints have appeared in many national group shows.

A graduate of Yale University's School of Art and Architecture with both BFA and MFA, he also received a diploma with honors from the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts. In addition, the school awarded him the Clarissa Bartlett Alumni Traveling Scholarship. He is listed in Who's Who in American Art.

Sculpture Emits Softness

Capricious soft sculptures are on display at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner, now through September.

Animals and costumed dolls of synthetic fibres and yarns stuffed with soft fiberfill are the creations of Pauline Rosebury of Natick who is a graduate of Cooper Union Art School and has studied sculpture with George Aarons.

Quaint and colorful Polynesian, Black, Scandinavian and French dolls with the distinct air of their national origin and unusual animals from an African monkey to an Australian kangaroo will be on display against the vivid background of Mrs. Rosebury's handmade afghans.

Born in New York City, Mrs. Rosebury worked as investment counselor and portfolio manager for several years on Wall Street and more recently with one of the top advisory firms in this area.

Mrs. Rosebury's husband retired recently after 28 years on the staff at M.I.T., and her two grown children are Michael, plant physiologist and artist, and Ruth who has her master's degree in fine arts.

Pauline Rosebury has had exhibits of her work at Columbia University, at the Independent Artists Show at Grand Central Palace in New York and at the Middlesex County Fair where she won Grand Prize for one of her paintings.

The exhibit will be on view in the glass cases through September at the Main Library, 414 Centre Street, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday, until Oct. 1 when Saturday and Sunday hours will be added to the schedule.

Masons To Meet

The next afternoon meeting of the Newton Masonic Club will be on Wednesday, Sept. 19. Snack Bar at 1:30 p.m. Meeting to be at 2 p.m.

Walter C. Woodman from the Watertown Historical Society will be the program speaker. He will give a slide illustrated talk about the famous Stanley Steamer and the Stanley Brothers. Also a tape recording of an interview with Fred Mariott, chief mechanic for Stanley.

All Masons, Newton and vicinity are cordially invited.

Get Away From It All!

"Getting Away From It All - Hiking with the Camera from Nantucket to Great Britain and Lisbon," will be shown in slides from the travels of Elizabeth A. Burnham at the Waban Branch of the Newton Free Library, 1608 Beacon St. on Sept. 20, coffee at 10 a.m. program at 10:30 a.m.

Miss Burnham will present slides from a 25 year accumulation with an informal, anecdotal commentary. Arlene Lynde, branch librarian, cordially invites the public to this free program.

Chinese School Opens

The Chinese Language School, sponsored by the Greater Boston Cultural Association, a nonprofit organization, has announced that the adult and five primary grade classes will commence on Sept. 15, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon for 17 Saturday mornings at the Meadowbrook Junior High School, Newton Centre.

More information may be obtained by calling Frank F. Chin at 235-7857.

Library Director Delivers Noted Conference Lecture

Virginia A. Tashjian, director of the Newton Free Library, has been invited to give the prestigious Jordan-Miller Lecture on Monday, Sept. 24, at the New England Library Association's Fall Conference to be held at Wentworth-by-the-Sea, Portsmouth, N.H. from Sept. 24-26.

In her lecture, Mrs. Tashjian, who is the newly elected President of the Massachusetts Library Association, will discuss "Storytelling: The Story Itself."

Mrs. Tashjian achieved national prominence with the publication of her first book for children, "Once There Was and Was Not," (Little Brown) in 1966.

Since then she has written "Juba This and Juba That" (Litile Brown); "Three Apples Fell From Heaven" (Little Brown); "Miller King" a play (Ginn); and most recently, "With A Deep Sea Smile" (Little Brown).

The Jordan-Miller Lectureship is endowed by a bequest left by Mrs. Bertha Mahoney Miller in memory of Alice Hordan, a supervisor of children's services at the Boston Public Library.

Mrs. Miller who founded the Horn Book Magazine in 1924 and Miss Jordan were both fine story-tellers and were ardently interested in oral literature and the folklore tradition.

The first Jordan-Miller lecture, delivered in 1972, was given by Mrs. Beryl Robinson, a Newton resident who worked for many years at the Boston Public Library as a specialist in children's literature. She discussed the "Development of Storytelling in America."

Today, the Horn Book's current editor is also a Newton resident, Paul Heins.

Mrs. Tashjian returns to the Main Library on Sept. 25 to share her conference experiences with other staff members.

City Orchestra Sets Auditions

Auditions for the Newton Symphony Orchestra, directed by Michel Sasson, will be held on Sunday, Sept. 16, at 4 p.m. at the Meadowbrook Junior High School Auditorium in Newton.

Interested musicians should contact Mark Budd, 244-7560 or Jeanne Stolbach, 244-8506, for further information.

Sasson is particularly looking for string, flute, oboe, and bassoon players. However, all are encouraged to audition.

For its eighth concert season, the Newton Symphony will perform works of Brahms, Dvorak, Schoenberg, and Mahler. Outstanding soloists include pianist Tedd Joselson performing the Prokofiev Piano Concerto No. 2, and violinist Max Hobart in Busoni's Concerto for Violin and Orchestra.

Organ Society Meets

The Boston Organ Society will have its first meeting of the 1973-1974 season on Monday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m. in the Boston Organ and Piano Studios on Route 9, Natick.

The guest artist at the meeting will be Don Sansom.

applied to the Jenney station at 1087 Beacon St.

A proposal from the Society Atina de San Marco for 23 units of garden apartments on Rustic Street in Nonantum has been held by the Land Use Committee due to the fact the Recreation Department has recommended Alison Park facilities to expand at this location and the effect on the San Marco site had not been determined.

Discussion of a plan for 54 units of apartments at 2326 Commonwealth Ave. in Auburndale may also come up at the Sept. 24 board meeting.

The Land Use Committee has asked the developer to designate three two-bedroom and two one-bedroom units for the Newton Housing Authority and it has been reported the developer has rejected this plan and offered five one-bedroom units.

At a public hearing Monday night the Land Use Committee also heard a proposal from Ward 4 alderman Louis Egelson requiring "all educational and charitable or non-profit institutions" to submit site plans to the city when they plan new construction.

According to Egelson, the city could not reject a private institution's plan but could, under law, "place reasonable conditions and restrictions" upon the developer.

Auburndale residents currently embroiled in a dispute with Lasell College over its planned expansion all appeared in support of the Egelson proposal.

Children's Theatre Offers Classes

This fall the Boston Children's Theatre is again offering creative drama classes for children and teen-agers from eight to 16 years of age.

Registration will be held Sept. 10 through the 14 from 3 to 5 p.m. Classes begin the week of Sept. 17 and continue for 10 consecutive weeks. Classes are held at 3:30 and 4:30 afternoons, Monday through Friday, and Saturday mornings.

The goal of creative drama is to aid children in their development as happy, well-adjusted and independent human beings. Through creative drama a child learns to widen his potential to express his ideas through movement and sound.

He also develops awareness of and appreciation for his five basic senses, which enriches his perception and appreciation of the physical world around him. Teaching the classes are Miss Ruth Shor and Mrs. Ruth Baker.

Further information may be obtained by writing or calling the Boston Children's Theatre, 263 Commonwealth Ave., Boston—536-3324.

Ballet School Reopening

Madame Nora Irinova is reopening her ballet school this month and will take registrations from Wednesday Sept. 19 through Saturday, Sept. 22 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 6 Hartford street, Newton Highlands.

Classes begin Monday, Sept. 24.

For further information call 969-3469.

Madame Irinova has teaching experience with the Royal Academy of Performing Arts in New York City, the Philadelphia Ballet Co., the International Ballet School in Albany, N.Y. and with Ballet Des Jeunes, Cherry Hill, N.J.

She has done performing and choreography for several theaters in Buenos Aires, Covent Garden in London, and was ballet mistress at LaScala in Milan.

Attends Conference

Former Newton assessor J. Philip Berquist of Auburndale will attend the annual session of the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Freemasonry in Detroit, Mich., this month.

Painting Exhibit At Hebrew Home

An exhibit of original oil paintings by Elinore Schertzer of Newton is presently being held at the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center, 1200 Centre St., Roslindale.

Mrs. Schertzer applies her own interpretation of the Impressionistic style of painting of vivid color and bold strokes results in a display of unique works.

She has had several exhibitions in the Boston area and is currently studying under the guidance of artist Mo Com of Brookline.

The exhibit at the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center will continue through Sept. 30 and is open to the public.

WHY BUY A CONDOMINIUM THAT'S AN APARTMENT? BUY A TOWNHOUSE THAT'S A CONDOMINIUM.
Until now, if you bought a condominium anywhere around Brookline, what you were buying was an apartment.
Just as much noise as any other apartment. And just as little privacy.
But now you can buy a townhouse that's a condominium. With your own second floor over you. Your own basement under you. And your own free parking space inside our courtyard.
All in a quiet, out-of-the-way spot that's just a three-minute walk from Coolidge Corner.
Our townhouses start at $29,995. If you'll call Dave Scherer weekdays at 969-6400, he'll be glad to answer your questions and show you around.

Secret Meeting Approves $1M In Raises

The Newton School Committee met in secret this week to approve wage increases with school employees and also voted raises for School Department administrators.

Action was taken in what amounts to an illegal executive session Monday night.

The administrative salaries, will be part of a package supplementary budget request needed to cover negotiated salary increases with teachers and other non-union personnel.

The total request is expected to amount to $1 million and will need the approval of the Board of Aldermen.

Supt. of Schools Aaron Fink, questioned on the legality of the executive session, said Wednesday the School Department was not aware that notice of closed meetings must, under state law, be posted in the same manner applied to open sessions.

State law requires that notice of a meeting must be filed with the city clerk 24 hours prior to the session. Fink acknowledged that no such notice was made for Monday's session and said the School Department would correct their error in future executive sessions.

He said that administrative pay increases will be among items sought in the supplementary budget and said the exact figure of the school's request to the Board of Aldermen had not yet been computed.

One source close to the School Committee estimated administrative increases would range from $1,000 to $2,000 apiece.

Mayor Theodore D. Mann, an ex officio member of the School Committee said Tuesday that he did not attend Monday's meeting, but did transmit his disapproval of administrative salary increaces to School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith.

If the Board of Aldermen does approve a School Committee request in full for additional salary funds, the superintendent, school principals and other administrative staffers will find themselves with as much as 5.27 per cent more money during the current academic year.

That particular percentage figure was used as a guideline, according to one source close to the School Committee, because it had already been established as the norm for cost of living increases in negotiations with teachers and custodians.

It is not expected that all administrators will gain as much as the quoted percentage figure over present salaries. The same source stated, "the raises ranged from that figure on down."

According to another school department spokesman, "this year's budget was approved by the Board of Aldermen exclusive of salary negotiations."

The school department thus appears to be banking on the cooperation of the Board of Aldermen for eventual implementation of its desired salary schedule.

According to Arthur Marr, Newton Comptroller, the Board of Aldermen does not have the funds for any pay increases.

"The tax rate has already been set," Marr said Tuesday, "and there is no provision in state law for borrowing funds to pay salaries."

"I think the School Committee has placed itself in a box," he continued, "because it told the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen during budget hearings earlier in the year that it had the funds to cover any potential salary hikes."

"The 18-month budget provides for borrowing next July and August, but I don't know what they are going to do between now and then," he concluded.

The manner in which the salary hikes were negotiated and approved also raised questions in some municipal quarters as to the "propriety" of an unannounced executive session.

According to Carter Lee of state Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's office, state law requires that all meetings be announced at least 24 hours before they are scheduled to begin.

"Properly speaking," said Lee, "notices of all meetings should be posted."

A school department employee stated, however, "We never post announcements of executive sessions."

"We don't have too," continued the same spokesman, "because they are closed to the public."

"Except in an emergency," states Massachusetts General Law, chapter 39, section 16, "a notice of each board meeting shall be filed with the clerk of the municipality in which the board acts at least twenty-four hours, including Saturdays but not Sundays and legal holidays, prior to such meeting."

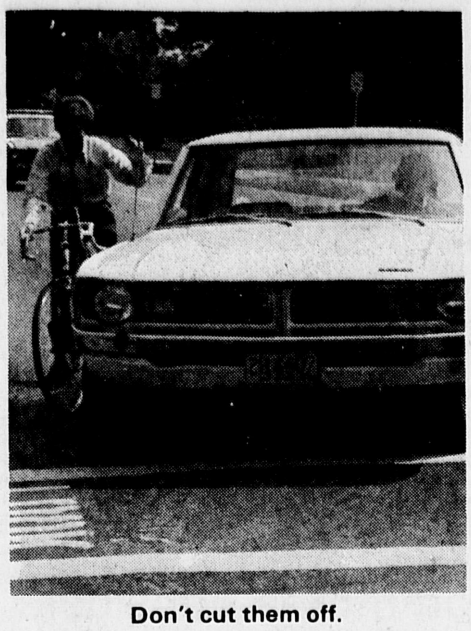
The law continues to require that the notice be "publicly posted in the office of such clerk or on the principal official bulletin board of such municipality."

According to Lee, executive sessions also fall under this requirement, and "a summary of the subject matter covered within them should be released as soon as the need for secrecy has passed."

Lee also suggested that any three citizens, not satisfied with a board's explanation for a need to go into executive session, may band together and petition the courts for redress.

"It's quite simple," he stated, "although the courts will not void the results of such a meeting, they will issue a desist order against any similar sessions in the future."

State law provides for executive session only in cases where matters to be discussed, if disclosed, might adversely affect public security, the financial interest of the municipality or the reputation of any person.



Don't cut them off.

A Bicycle Isn't A Toy

By ELIZABETH McKINNON
Of The Graphic Staff

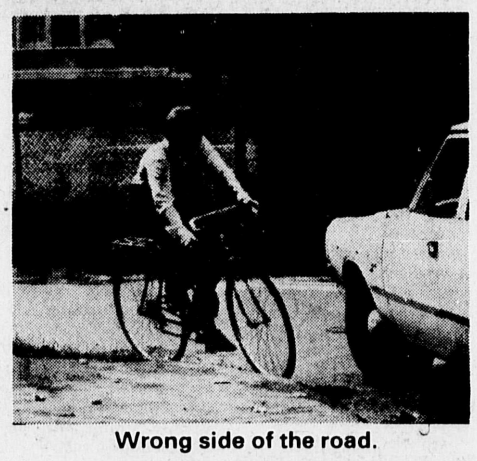
"People still think of a bicycle as a child's toy — that's part of the trouble," Sgt. Charles Feeley of the Newton police says.

Newton for years has taken the bicycle seriously. Charlie Feeley is known to nearly everybody who went through Newton grade schools for many years back as the "bicycle safety teacher" who conducted the fourth grades along the streets on bikes, telling them to LOOK.

Newton police are not the only ones to realize that the bicycle is not a toy and that the booming bicycle business means an increase in the number of serious bicycle commuters as well as occasional riders.

Serious attention has now been given statewide to the whole problem of bicycle traffic and use in the form of Senate Bill 1847; which is on Governor Francis Sargent's desk for signature.

The author of the bill, Sen. William Saltonstall of Manchester, said before the joint committee on public safety earlier this year that in Massachusetts in 1971, 2365 injuries and 19 deaths were caused by bicycle - motor vehicle accidents.



Wrong side of the road.

In Newton, the rate of increase in bicycle accidents has been climbing. In 1971, there were 24, in 1972 there were 33, and to date in 1973 there have been 33 bicycle - motor vehicle accidents, according to Walter Otochitz of the Newton police traffic division.

In none of these accidents was there found to a cause related to a violation of the motor - vehicle laws, but that is not to say the car drivers were blameless. Otochitz said in his opinion the accidents were a result of "human error on the part of both the bike and auto driver."

Saltonstall's bill, which is expected to be signed by the deadline at the end of this week, basically sets forth traffic regulations for bicycle riders.

Provisions of the bill include the obligation of the cyclist to signal his intent to stop or turn, to ride single file, and to give an audible warning when necessary.

Safety regulations of the bill call for the mandatory use of a front white light visible for not less than 300 feet during the period one-half an hour after sunset until one-half an hour before sunrise, and the mandatory use of a rear reflector visible for 200 feet during the same period.

Under Saltonstall's bill, the operator of a bicycle involved in an accident in which there was either personal

Judge Rules In Favor Of Stores

A bill in equity against the owners of a group of stores in the 500 block of Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, was denied Sept. 10 by Judge Samuel Adams of Middlesex Superior Court.

In his decision, Judge Adams commented about the city's request for relief from conditions surrounding the operation of the stores, saying that a neighbor, Hyman M. Rines, repeatedly complained to city officials, and "in reality this is an action of mandamus sought by Mr. Rines against the city."

The stores conduct business by permission of the Board of Aldermen under the "nonconforming use" zoning regulation, since the commercial district was in existence before the zoning regulations went into effect in 1922.

To comply with nonconforming use, the use of a premises must be substantially the same as the previous uses.

The city contented that there has been a substantial change in use since 1922.

Further the city maintained that there had been a change in the character and kind of effect of the stores on the neighborhood.

In his decision, Judge Adams found that there had been no substantial change in the nature and purpose of the stores and no difference in the use or the effect of the use on the neighborhood.

The judge noted that all but one of the stores had been in existence since before 1939, when the zoning laws were changed to require permission by the Board of Aldermen for each change in nonconforming occupancy.

When alterations of the stores were undertaken in 1965, the decision pointed out, the Board of Aldermen decided that they needed to take no action, thus in effect approving both the alterations and the uses of the stores.

"The city's actions involved more than acquiescence and amounted to affirmative approval," the decision read.

In regard to specific complaints, Judge Adams found that there seemed to have been no increase in illegal parking, which is a police problem, he said.

Complaints of a health hazard arising from an accumulation of rubbish were investigated by the city's Health Department, which found that the stores in most cases had private, semiweekly collection of rubbish and made reasonable efforts to prevent undue accumulation, the decision said.

Odors from the stores are "not substantial or objectionable," the problem of lights at night "has been long since resolved," and noise "is no serious problem," according to the decision.

Candidate Offers Abatements Plan

Legislative relief for communities such as Newton, which have been revalued or are being revalued at 100 per cent of market value, is being sought by mayoral candidate William Carmen.

Carmen unveiled his proposed legislation at a recent meeting of the Newton Corner Citizens' Participation Committee.

The keystone is a constitutional amendment, Carmen feels, since all previous attempts to remedy tax inequities have failed in the legislature.

The essence of the bill is allowing abatements for the homeowner who lives in his own home and for the apartment dweller who is forced to absorb tax increases from his landlord.

Carmen would grant a $5,000 flat abatement to every homeowner, whether his house is valued at $20,000 or $100,000 after revaluation in all communities at 100 per cent evaluation.

"This will help those who are going to be hurt most, and hurt the least those who can afford to pay," Carmen said.

Mayor Theodore Mann has approached the matter from a different point of view. On Aug. 28 he wrote Representative Anthony Scibelli of the state House Ways and Means Committee, urging that favorable consideration be given to pending legislation changing the state formula of distribution of funds to cities and towns that have undergone 100 per cent revaluation.

Mann also recommended strongly that steps be taken to ensure that all cities and towns as soon as possible be revalued at 100 per cent.

The inequities that are of concern to both Carmen and Mann are the reduction in state aid to more highly valued communities and the devaluation of abatements (e.g., a $2,000 abatement is worth less when applied against a $10,000-valued house than against a $20,000 house).

Besides the flat abatement, Carmen's legislation would "adjust" all categories of abatement — for the elderly, blind, disabled, and so on — and would double the allowable assets of the elderly from $45,000 to $90,000, including the home.

The age at which the elderly abatement begins would be lowered from the present age 70 to 65 by Carmen's legislation.

A constitutional amendment has to go through two sessions of the legislature. The time schedule would let the amendment become effective by the time the city's revaluation is completed in 1975, and would be reflected in the 1975 tax bills.

At the conclusion of Carmen's talk, several Newton Corner citizens asked Carmen, who had been Ward 7 alderman for several years, whether he knew the plans for the Gorin-Leader building at Centre and Washington Streets.

The property has been allowed to deteriorate for years, residents of the building, which has stores on the ground floor and apartments above, said. Now they have heard that the owners plan to remodel the apartments into smaller, more expensive units, but cannot confirm the rumors because the Gorin-Leader office will not return their calls.

Out Of Gas And Out of Luck

By LEN BATEMAN
Of The Graphic Staff

Norfolk County Superior Court Justice Vincent R. Brogna issued a temporary restraining order against striking gasoline station operators throughout the state including the almost 60 such stations in Newton.

A survey of the Newton area around 6 p.m. on Tuesday, just shortly after Judge Brogna issued the order, still found all gas stations in the city closed, or either open and not pumping gas for prospective customers.

Jack Waller Jr., son of the owner of Waller's Atlantic station on Route 128 Southbound indicated his station was open but not pumping fuel.

"We have a contract with the state to remain open," stated the younger Waller, but he quickly added that the contract did not specifically require the distribution of automotive fuel to customers.

A check at Waller's early Wednesday morning saw automobiles lined up at the station's pumps, being serviced and fueled, thus indicating that Waller had decided to obey Judge Brogna's order.

The order came at Norfolk County's courthouse in Dedham where state Attorney General Robert H. Quinn personally appeared and filed a petition for the injunction against the striking owners.

The American Automobile Association reported there were 2,000 such strike-bound stations throughout the state, roughly 50 per cent of the total.

At the height of the strike Tuesday, it was estimated that only one of the 62 listed stations in Newton was servicing customers, and there was a police officer on hand at that time to control the throngs of gasoline hungry consumers.

A police department spokesman would not confirm a report that the officer was also on hand to protect the operator of the Watertown Street garage against roving bands of striking owners.

Police in other nearby communities did report existence of such bands throughout the day, but the injunction appeared to take some steam out of the movement by nightfall.

A meeting of over 1,000 gasoline station operators voted on Monday evening in Lexington to begin a three-day strike as a protest against the Nixon Administration's Phase 4 economic policy.

Another group of 300 operators on the South Shore met on Tuesday evening and agreed to continue the strike, despite the injunction, by means of a sick-out.

Strike leaders vowed to continue their protest despite the threat of contempt citations, and many in Newton reported sessions with lawyers to work out defenses if the court does crack down with fines or jail sentences.

A full hearing is scheduled by the court on Friday.

Preparations

Looking over plans for Candidates' Night are Miriam Erlich (left), president of the League of Women Voters of Newton and Sylvia Apelbaum (right), chairman. The meeting for candidates in the Oct. 9 Preliminary Election will be held Tuesday, Oct. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at Pierce School, 170 Temple St., West Newton. Everyone is invited.

Newton's History Is Relived

An informative discussion on the architecture, furniture and furnishings of the late 19th century will highlight the Newton Free Library's Ninth Centennial Program at Auburndale Branch, Sunday, Sept. 23 at 3 p.m.

Participants in the discussion, which will be enhanced by slides, include Mrs. E. Graham Bates, Manuel Beckwith and Mrs. Henry W. Lundquist.

Mrs. Dorothy Bates, a photographer and lecturer, will give an illustrated talk on the many styles of Newton homes and buildings constructed during the late 19th century, from a castle built in 1860 to a cottage put up in 1870.

The wife of E. Graham Bates, a former Trustee of the Newton Free Library and an active participant at the Jackson Homestead, Mrs. Bates co-authored "Our Architectural Heritage" in the Newton Centennial Journal.

Manuel Beckwith, chairman of the Newton School Committee since 1968 and a member of the committee since 1956, continues the Centennial Celebration theme with a discussion of the furniture used in homes during the late Victorian era.

Beckwith, an Auburndale resident and owner of the Holly Hill Antique Shop in Boston, has long been involved in many Newton activities including village improvement societies, charitable drives and school PTA's.

Mrs. Anastasia K. Lundquist, who created and edited the Auburndale Community Association Bulletin, is the author of "A Newton Sampler," an article appearing in the Newton Centennial Journal. In her talk she will give background informaation and relate the personal history of selected historical pieces in the exhibit. Her talk will be illustrated with blown up photographs.

Mrs. Lundquist's varied career includes work as a writer, actress, businesswoman and parent.

Guests at the Auburndale Branch Centennial Program will view a replica of an 1873 parlor and hostesses will be available to answer questions and to demonstrate parts of the exhibit.

Smaller exhibits will include a collection of locks and keys, Rose Medallion china, Blue Canton, Chelsea ware and early Belleek as well as maps of old Auburndale, postal cards with scenes of Auburndale of long ago, and photographs of buildings then and now.

Committee members assisting Branch Librarian Marie Simpson include Mrs. Dorothy Bates, Mrs. Madeline Keyes, Mrs. Anastasia Lundquist, Mr. Beckwith and Mr. Peghiny.

The program at Auburndale is the ninth of twelve special Centennial programs coordinated by Library Director Virginia A. Tashjian with the cooperation of the Newton Free Library staff during Newton's Centennial Year.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Newton Free Library's Ninth Centennial Program at Auburndale Branch, Sunday, Sept. 23 at 3 p.m. Following the program, refreshments will be served.

AUTO FACTS

There is probably nothing that makes driving, especially long distance driving, more interesting than a car stereo tape player or radio. You can make your car absorb literally hundreds of miles while you ride along in listening comfort. There is available a new kit which will help stereo owners minimize alternator whine and ignition noise on tape players or radios. This kit contains a choke coil and capacitor. It can be installed quickly and without special tools.

Because not all auto parts can be installed quickly and without special tools NEWTON AUTO SUPPLY, 438 Lexington St., 969-1191 wants to remind you that your local service station or garage is the best place to go if you need repairs. Anything that we don't have in stock we will be happy to special order. We carry the complete Delco line. Open: Mon.-Fri. 8-7, Sat. 8-5.

HELPFUL HINT: Be prepared for emergencies with emergency signs and signals. Keep flashlight, first aid kit, special medications, in your car at all times.

Housing Authority Bids In

By DANIEL BARKIN

Bids were scheduled to be opened at 2 p.m. Wednesday for the low income housing proposals of the Newton Housing Authority.

The new housing is to include 20 units of family housing on Beaconwood Road in Newton Highlands, four low income family units on California Street in Nonantum and 50 units of elderly housing on Thurston Road in Newton Upper Falls.

The Newton Housing Authority, at its regular meeting last week, reviewed subcontractors' bids for the project.

The Authority offered prospective bidders five "options," or packages for bid. These packages included the three projected sites combined, the three sites separately, or the Beaconwood Rd. and California St.-Victory Field sites together.

The Architects Collaborative, (TAC), created the five-option presentation to allow small construction firms equal footing in bidding with the major subcontractor firms.

TAC now has the task of preparing the subcontractor bids for presentation to the general contractors.

The Authority's acceptance of the general contractor bid will be followed by a consultation period, during which representatives of the Newton Housing Authority, the Department of Community Affairs–the funding agency–the general contractors, and TAC will sit down and iron out any difficulties.

Also announced was the recent allocation by the State Department of Community Affairs of funds slated to provide 20 more units of low-moderate income housing in Newton. This would increase the total amount of leased Housing Authority units to 220.

Planning Director Charles Thomas and Donald Levitan, are also working with the Housing Authority in a 'whole-site selection process' which entails study of all potential sites in the city which meet the specifications for low-moderate income housing. A study of this magnitude should enable the Housing Authority to received maximum utility from allocated funds at its disposal, by eliminating much of the time-consuming search for involved in finding suitable units.

Finance Committee Considers Fire Access Road At New Day

Another fire access road for the new Day Junior High School is under consideration by the aldermanic Finance Committee.

Alderman Petter Harrington, noting that the present road into the property does not allow enough clearance between the road and the building for the wide-set mirrors on fire apparatus, told the committee that he had some years ago expected that a pathway across the adjoining playground was to be paved to serve as an auxiliary access. That plan was apparently not possible.

The FinCom voted to request the city engineer and fire chief to submit information on the problem before the next FinCom meeting.

In other action the Finance Committee held the request of Public Works Director Richard Dudman to abolish the vacant position of assistant director and to substitute that of senior systems analyst.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle questioned whether the change would constitute reorganization under the charter, and the item was held for study by the Public Works Committee.

Dudman's request for an additional foreman to supervise night crews at the incinerator was approved. Dudman explained that when the two night shifts are working, there is no one in control to see that certain jobs are done.

Often, Dudman said, the men will not work unless the full labor complement is present. So if there are absences the proper work is not done.

The new Civil Service foreman would work the end of the second shift and the beginning of the third shift.

A 6-0 vote of the FinCom approved a $1000 transfer for parking meter maintenance. According to Dudman, 21 meters were vandalized between January and June this year, mostly by juveniles, it is thought, but one Street Department employee has been charged with some of the thefts. He will come to trial next month at Newton District Court.

Rap Bus Service

No bus service into Oak Hill Park after 6:10 p.m., no holiday service, longer routes because of school service, and "rude and crude" drivers were complaints about MBTA service aired by Oak Hill Park residents recently.

Protesting the change in schedule that adds 13 minutes to the running time between Oak Hill Park and Newton Corner, more than 15 residents appeared at the Mayor's Traffic Advisory Committee last week to ask for a return to the former hourly schedule (at 43 minutes past the hour) and elimination of the early "dogleg" trip down Greenwood street to service Newton South High School.

The revised schedule initiated by the MBTA effective Sept. 8, residents said gets the bus into Newton Corner too late for many to get into their jobs on time.

Furthermore, the Oak Hill Park citizens said, there is no need for the buses to detour to the high school during the hours of service by regular school buses. These buses, they claim, should go directly to Newton Corner.

Returning home in the evening presents another problem to Oak Hill Park residents. The next-to-last bus leaves Newton Corner at 5:10 p.m., too late for most people with jobs in Boston or elsewhere to connect. The last bus–6:10 p.m.--means a considerable wait.

Several residents urged the restitution of an extra bus midway between the last two buses to Oak Hill Park.

Barbara Segal complained about the lack of service on Monday holidays. She said that after 5:10 p.m. on Saturday there is no service in or out of the Park until the following Tuesday.

Many if not most of the families have one car, Ms. Segal said, and are dependent on public transportation for a good part of the time.

Ms. Segal and others found the MBTA drivers lacking in courtesy and regard for their passengers. "They are rude and crude," she said, "and go have Cokes when they feel like it and leave early when they feel like it."

Donald Levitan, the city's director of intergovernmental relations and the mayor's representative at the meeting, will take the problems to Mayor Theodore Mann for presentation to the MBTA.

The Traffic Advisory Committee will meet next in October. Chairman Michael LeConti may be reached at 332-7775.

Freeport To Thank Supporters

Freeport will thank its many community supporters on Sunday, Sept. 23, Executive Director Phyllis Busansky announced this week.

Judy and Arthur Obermayer have invited friends of Freeport to a wine and cheese celebration at their home as their contribution to Freeport, Inc.

A presentation by Mrs. Busansky and Freeport President Larry Schiff will highlight the organization's current status and future plans.

The three-year-old enterprise has grown from an idea in the minds of a handful of Newton High School students to its present reality as alternative housing for Newton youths because of community dedication and financial support. The Obermayer celebration is a way of saying thank you to the Freeport community.

Recent aldermanic approval of Freeport's plan to become a coeducational facility opens both promise and challenge to Freeport leadership, staff and supporters. The third floor of the Commonwealth Avenue residence is being remodeled to accommodate the increased usage resident girls will necessitate.

Freeport houseparents Christene and Bill Deane look forward to having high school students of both sexes in the house. "People are excited," said Susan Hafner, one of the adult staff members in residence. "We'll have a much more natural environment," she said.

Six boys live at Freeport now; others are being selected by the screening committee and will be living in the house by the end of September. Girls will be accepted as soon as remodeling is competed during October, bringing youth resident totals to twelve, the maximum allowed by aldermanic ruling.

Freeport is a non-profit grassroots organization, dependent on the support of foundations, grants and concerned private citizens. Contributions are tax deductible, and can be sent to Freeport, Inc., 361 Commonwealth Ave., Chestnut Hill.

DEEP RUG SOILS EXTRACTED PENETRATED — REMOVED!

PENETRATES AND BREAKS DOWN SOIL — THEN IS INSTANTLY REMOVED.

Shampooed hair requires rinsing . . . Shampooed carpets need rinsing, too!

Do you realize that the brush shampoo method of cleaning carpeting, fails to remove the soil and detergent from your carpet because there is no rinsing?

Also, the brushes on the shampooing machine tend to weaken the carpet fibers due to scrubbing action. Consequently the dirt and soil is scrubbed deeper into the carpet and all these particles become abrasive cutting agents on the fiber. Obviously taking years off your carpet's life.

Yet, carpets still require cleaning. What choice do you have? Until recently there was no effective way to extract soil and detergent residue from wall-to-wall carpet. Under controlled pressure of hot water and cleaning agents with soil retardants, this combination goes deep into the carpet fibres, flushing the soil away from the fibers and held momentarily in suspension. Instantly a powerful vacuuming action extracts the suspended soil into a sealed stainless container.

Use this method and give your expensive carpet the proper care it deserves.

Summer Street Worker Looks At Newton Centre

The summer street worker program, started last spring under the direction of the Human Resources Department,concluded its seven-week life span the middle of August.

The coordinators of the program, two men full time and two women part time, were paid $1630 from funds administered by the Human Resources Department, of which $1000 was contributed by the Brigham's chain and the balance donated through efforts of Mayor Theodore Mann.

The program was suggested by the mayor at a meeting with managers of Newton's food and ice-cream stores in the spring to try to alleviate the problem of young people "hanging around" during the summer.

Folowing is the report by the street worker for the south side of Newton. Buckley's report is complete as presented to the Youth Commission

The report on the north side will be printed next week.

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR

The summer program on the south side of the city was in theory designed to serve the youth in three locations Newton Centre, the Highlands, and Upper Falls. In reality the program was basically involved with the youth hanging around the Newton Centre area. This, however, encompassed kids from both the Centre and the Highlands.

I had little contact with people while in the Highlands area; however, I did see people hanging out. These people, exclusively men between the ages 20 and 30, were not compatible with a program designed for adolescents, and, in my opinion, need the special services of a worker trained to deal with adults.

In general I operated out of the Newton Centre area, basing myself more or less at the lawn of the First Baptist Church on a daily basis from 3 to 11 p.m. I was joined two eveings a week by Judith Dunning.

The First Baptist Church, which was running a summer program of its own, consisted of a legitimized hanging spot, a bathroom and a telephone that the kids could use. The lawn was supervised by Marja Coons and Herb Tobin on an alternating basis.

After speaking with Marja, Herb, and Mike Scrogin, the assistant pastor of the church, I was invited to use the facilities of the church. This gave me an excellent meeting ground from which I could work. I was provided with introductions to several of the kids and from that point waited and played it by ear.

Although by no means stand-offish, the kids did spend some time feeling me out to see just who I was and what I was doing. The kids from the Centre area are predominantly short-haired and very straight in appearance and because I have fairly long hair I soon became the target of their jesting insult games.

Soon after the initial feeling-out period I began getting razzed a great deal about my appearance and about what the kids fantasized my life style to be. From this developed a positive and, considering the brief time period, a strong relationship with most of the kids.

Although we generally saw from 50 to 60 kids a day, I would estimate there to be about 80-90 kids altogether that visited the lawn from time to time. The age range was from about 13 to 20 with the older kids generally being boys. The sex ration was about 50-50.

It is interesting to note that while about two-thirds of the kids came from the Newton Centre area the other third came from the Highlands. This I believe as due to the fact that the older and rougher gang that hung out in the Highlands rather spooked out the younger kids, and the church lawn provided a much more secure and hassle free place for them to hang. The kids come from diverse socioeconomic backgrounds, but generally speaking they come from large middle to lower-middle class families. Although I would by no means characterize these kids as hoods, most of the boys have been on probation or have had some run-in with the police.

Interestingly, drugs are not prevalent with these kids. There is a small group that occasionally gets into LSD. However, most of the kids drink beer and on occasion smoke pot.

In terms of activities the kids had two main desires, to have concerts and to get out of Newton. I tried to organize several camping trips, but because of transportation problems they never got off the ground. The two rock concerts we did have were popular and the kids expressed a desire to have more of them!

Because I really do not think that these kids are into organized activities as such and because I see myself as more of a counselor than a recreation organizer, I spent the vast majority of my time just talking about school, family, or girl-boy friend hassle.

In several cases I think there are kiids with rather serious problems that should be followed through after this program comes to an end. I hope that I will be at a point by the end of the program to be able to make the appropriate referrals.

I think that the effect of the program has been a positive one. In terms of groups, it has given them the availability of a non-authoritarian adult, with both recreational and counseling resources at hand.

The same thing goes for individuals. For many of the kids this has been the first time they have had a positive relationship with an adult in either a structured or non-structured context.

The effect on the community on the surface level is obvious-the summer has generally been very quiet.

On another level this program may be the first step in opening new lines of communication between the adults and certain segments of kids in the community.

For the most part these are kids that have been counted out as drop-outs, as not really being as potentially productive as one would expect a person from Newton to be. This is far from accurate. Although these kids may not be Harvard material, they do possess many talents and abilities and are a great untapped resource.

I think that the strength of the pgogram lies basically in its purpose and unstructured nature, which allows for a number of different approaches to the youth and some creativity in dealing with them.

Its basic weaknesses lie in the fact that the program was too short in duration. It seems that work is just starting and inroads to certain kids are just developing and the programis going to end. The areas assigned to each worker are far too large to expect that each area will be covered adequately. Consequently certain parts of town were not covered adequately. Also there was no budget to cover the extras that help make a program such as this. Bands, movies, and whatever all cost money.

For the future I would recommend that pairs of workers be assigned areas where there are large pockets of youths, especially the schools. A program could be developed where there are workers who are independent of the teachers or adminstrators at the schools. This program could run very similarly to the way that ours did this summer, with the school being the major referral agency.

Dissatisfied With Busing

Dissatisfaction with the new policy for busing of secondary school students has been expressed to members of both the Board of Aldermen and the School Department.

As a result, the two bodies independently have begun consideration of what steps can be taken to answer complaints.

One objection has been to the $15 quarterly passes now required by students who live within two miles of school who wish to ride. (Those who live more than two miles away are bused free by State law.)

Last year enforcement of payment was sketchy or nonexistent, and nearly anyone who wished to ride could do so.

This year, the second year of a contract with a private bus company, the School Department will sell passes for a two-month period, so that the number of seats needed may be anticipated by the bus company.

Mrs. Lillian Radlo, assistant to School Superintendent Aaron Fink said Tuesday that the School Department and the School Committee recognize that there are problems and are considering remedies.

At a meeting of the Legislation & Rules Committee this week, Alderman Lois Pines told of many complaints she had had.

One family with eight children, she said, cannot pay for transportation in advance for a number of children, and wondered what provision could be made for such families.

Other complaints have been received about children without passes not being able to ride on certain rainy or snowy days, who would otherwise walk the majority of the time.

Alderman Eliot Cohen commented during the discussion that Mayor Theodore Mann and his aide have been working with the School Committee, and the Board of Aldermen "should not let people think that we can change the School Committee decision."

Chairman of the aldermanic Education Committee, Louis Egelson, agreed to ask a School Department representative to attend his committee's meeting.

The aldermanic Education Committee was set up a few years ago to provide the Board of Aldermen with a liaison with the School Department and Committee.

Lodge Makes Payment

The only organization in the city to offer payment in lieu of taxes, Umberto Primo Lodge, Sons of Italy, recently gave Mayor Theodore Mann a check for $300.

The Venerable of the lodge, Peter DiFoggio, and the chairman of the building board, Dominic Messina, delivered the check personally.

The Sons of Italy Lodge, a tax-exempt institution, has voluntarily paid to the city $300 in lieu of taxes annually for the past seven years.

Mayor Mann, in accepting the check, said, "This most generous act of the Sons of Italy further demonstrates the exemplary manner in which the Sons of Italy, views their community responsibilities. Through the action of the Sons of Italy, it is clear that they understand that each of us is our neighbor's neighbor and the responsibility for building a happier, livelier, fuller life in Newton must rest in the end with each of us."

Players Select Director

The Country Players of Newton have tapped Liz Bruce of Newton to direct the curtain-raiser of their 18th season, the ever-popular Broadway musical comedy success, "The Pajama Game."

With book by George Abbott and Richard Bissell, music and lyrics by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross, "The Pajama Game" features such memorable hit tunes as "Hey There," "Steam Heat," "Smaall Talk" and "Hernando's Hideaway."

Liz Bruce

Performances are slated for Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 16-17 and 23-24, with a special discount matinee for children and senior citizens on Sunday, Nov. 18. The production is available for programing to sponsor groups and theater parties interested in fund raising at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton, with its seating capacity of 150. Organization bookings for alternate mid-week dates will be considered. A cabaret-style seating arrangement with tables and chairms is planned.

A local talent, Mrs. Bruce is familiar to not only the Newton community, but to Marlboro and Southborough theatre-goers as well. In her solo stint for the Players on stage, she appeared as Ida, the maid, in their 1970 production of "See How They Run."

She received her B.A. in Theatre Education from Emerson College in 1963 and, as an undergraduate, was featured as lead dancer in "Bells Are Ringing," "Wildcat," "South Pacific" and "Brigadoon," as well as being involved in innumerable workshop productions. In 1971, she was named "Outstanding Young Woman of America" by her Alma Mater. Mrs. Bruce is also a member of Zeta Phi Eta, a national professional fraternity for women in the fields of speech and drama.

Her 14 years of study in all types of dance includes private training with Jack Stanley, David Greene and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in New York City and with Janet School of Dance, Dance Teacher's Club of Boston and National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists in Boston. She is also adept with the accordion and Hammond organ.

During her 17 years of teaching dance, Mrs. Bruce has choreographed cuttings of "My Fair Lady," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "The Roar of the Greasepaint," "Man of La Mancha" and "Hello, Dolly!" and the entire versions of "Carousel," "Bye Bye Birdie," "The Mikado," "Carnival" (twice), "Bells Are Ringing" (twice) and the Miss Marlboro Pageant three times.

In the solo capacity of director, she was at the helm for "The Miracle Worker" and the one-actors "The Happy Journey to Camden and Trenton," "Riders to the Sea" and "Overtones." In the dual capacity of director-choreographer, she guided the mounting of "Fiddler on the Roof," an acknowledgement of her 11 years experience in both fields.

In the triple capacity of director-choreographer-producer, Ms. Bruce moulded productions of "Brigadoon," "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Bells are Ringing," "The Party," "Peter Pan," "Iolanthe," "Patience," "Broadway Medley," "Here Comes the Showboat," Happiness Is," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," as well as numerous original musical revenues and children's theatre.

Mrs. Bruce has appeared on TV on the Sonya Hamlin Show - For Women Today, Dateline Boston, Throug the Window and on Channel 2, and on radio over WCRB, WBZ and on the Breakfast Party.

For the past five years, she has been owner and director of The Bruce's Dance and Drama Workshop, Marlboro, presenting entertainment to local organizations, as well as children's theatre and musical productions. She is also producer and director of Libra Productions, and assisted in the formation of the Hudson Boys Club Children's Theatre.

Founding in 1956, The Country Players of Newton is a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels.

For information concerning involvement in the production, phone the show producers, Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Pinkofsky, at 444-1987. For membership information or theatre party sponsorship data, phone Mr. Jimmy Sloane at 969-2665 or write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159.

Airports And Indians

Anyone who has studied the behavior patterns exhibited by government officials knows that, contrary to current journalistic pundits who credit Lyndon Johnson with originally digging the credibility gap in the dark days of the Vietnam war and his successor with widening it to the dimensions of a canyon in the flood of Watergate scandals, the difference between what a bureaucracy does and what it says it's doing has, like death and taxes, always been with us and apparently always will be.

From ancient Rome right down to present-day politics, Massachusetts-style, the public has never had an easy time determining the exact truth about matters of public business a sorry fact that has received its most recent confirmation with the publication in last Friday's Norwood Messenger of sections from a draft report on a proposed statewide airport system advocating outright state takeover of airports where local officials prove unwilling to cooperate in furthering "essential" developments.

It was only last Spring that, having detected rumblings of an uprising among Norwood residents fearful of future airport expansion and a consequent increase in noise, state and federal officials led by Crocker Snow, head of the Mass. Aeronautics Commission, rushed to Norwood to pacify the restless natives at a public meeting with assurances that there wasn't a thing to worry about.

Yet now we learn that these same officials are circulating for comment and suggestion a report which, if implemented, could have disastrous effects not only on Norwood's residents but on anyone unlucky enough to live in its vicinity; and they are doing so, not openly to the general public who will be most directly affected by actions predicated on its contents, but privately to other officials of other state planning agencies.

According to the hitherto secret report, moreover, it appears that Norwood's newly completed control tower, a thirty-five foot high prefabricated sturcture to which an additional twenty feet can be addec' whenever federal aviation officials deem it advisable, represents one of the three key factors involved in upgrading Norwood to the status of a Logan reliever, the others being addition of a short parallel runway and diversion of touch-and-go traffic elsewhere.

And if this were not enough, here is the revelation that the tower was built upon town-owned land leased in June of 1972 to the federal government for that express purpose by the Airport Commission, a body whose members have repeatedly disclaimed any role in bringing this so-called improvement to Norwood.

At this point in time (to coin a phrase) is it any wonder that John Q. Public finds himself asking, "What the hell goes on here?"

It probably won't be long before said John Q. gets another message from the M.A.C.'s Mr. Snow, this one perhaps to the effect that the state's draft report represents nothing more than the musings of some consulting engineer hired to prepare it merely to keep unemployment at a minimum and that the thought of a takeover has never crossed the state's collective mind.

And the long-suffering public need not be surprised to hear soon from one official or another that only a twisted mind would equate the act of giving town land to the F.A.A. on which to build a tower with a share of responsibility for its presence at the airport.

How will our average citizen react to these official pronunciamentos?

Will he once again steal quietly home to Apathy Avenue?

Or will he, following the scenario of a scene familiar to every Western movie buff, emulate the Indian chief who, having been taken to the cleaners by his great White Father once too often, responds to the cavalry captain's latest overtures by muttering, "vVhite man speak with forked tongue," orders the emissary tied to the nearest stake, and forsakes his peace pipe for a war bonnet?

Not that the war path ever led the Indians anywhere except to a drearier reservation. But in pursuing it he learned at least to avoid being bushwacked in Credibility Gap long before the white man ever discovered there was such a place.

Before Crocker Snow essays another expeditlon to Norwood some believe he might mark it on his map as possibly having reverted to Indian territory.

Why So Secret With Your Money?

By CYNTHIA BLACK

If you pay property taxes in the City of Newton, you are an employer.

You are paying the salary of everyone who works for the city and the School Department and that, it seems to me, gives you the right to know exactly how your money is spent.

This week, the Newton School Committee conducted a legally questionable secret session to decide how to spend more of your money, and we seriously question their tactics.

But we don't know exactly how much you know about the School Department.

Part of Monday's meeting was devoted to granting salary increases to school administrators.

Here are some facts:

The Newton superintendent of schools, currently earning $42,000 a year plus $2,000 for expenses, earns more money now than the state superintendent of education and Governor Francis Sargent. He will reportedly get another increase, retroactive to Sept. 1, of $1,500 to $2,000.

The chief administrators of the school department, John E. Gilleland, James Lauritz, the principals of Newton's high schools are salaried at higher figures than the mayor.

In fact, one assistant superintendent earns at least $10,000 more per year than the

Completely Black

Newton director of public works, the city solicitor and the city planner.

The mayor has not received an increase in salary for the past five years but the superintendent of schools' salary has increased at the rate of $2,000 per year for the past five years.

Newton is acknowledged across the country as having a fine school system. Perhaps you as employers feel the raises are justified and the salaries are justified and the disparity between school and city salaries is justified.

That is your right, but we want to make sure that anytime anyone in Newton spends your money, you know exactly where it's going.

It is the consensus of several attorneys that while the School Committee was within its rights in negotiating salary increases in a closed meeting, they must vote on them in an open meeting. The School Department disagrees.

It is the consensus opinion of the same attorneys that salary increases granted to the school administrators and all other personnel are a matter of public record and you have a right to see them.

But only you can exercise your rights. There is a School Committee meeting next Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in Bigelow Junior High School and the eight people sitting on that committee work for you and are elected by you. Perhaps you will ask them to explain their secret meeting and their justification for raising salaries.

Eventually, their request for a supplementary budget will have to come before the Board of Aldermen. Often, we have chided the Board of Aldermen for their uses or abuses of executive sessions, but it appears they can't hold a candle to the School Committee on this subject. They rarely conduct a closed meeting and before they do they must cope with a suspicious press and a group of board members opposed to any closed meetings.

I doubt if they ever would even consider using the tactics used Monday night by their counterparts in the school system.

We hope that our more vigilant aldermen will have researched their rights in regard to the request for supplementary funds before it ever reaches them so that the taxpayer will be afforded as much protection as possible.

If there is one psychological key to this situation it is this: the School Committee, School Department, Mayor and Board of Aldermen are not running their city, they're running YOURS.

How Can Non-Candidate Spend Money To Launch A Campaign?

A reader has written in to ask how former Representative Michael Dukakis of Brookline, an unannounced candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, can spend money on his campaign when he is not yet officially a candidate and will not admit he is running for anything.

That is an intriguing question, and we do not know the answer. Like the reader who posed the query, we thought a candidate could not spend any money on his campaign until he became a candidate, filed the documents required by law and formed the customary committees.

Although not yet an announced candidate, Dukakis has a campaign headquarters in the basement of an office building at 18 Tremont street in downtown Boston near the Government Centre.

A television newscaster reported recently that Dukakis has several paid employees in that office, including one who receives $400 a week and another who gets $200 a week.

Dukakis presumably is paying that tidy sum out of his own pocket since it would not seem he could seek or accept contributions before he is a candidate.

Ironically, the official who would be responsible for investigating any alleged violations of the elections laws or the Corrupt Practises Act is Attorney General Robert Quinn who is Dukakis' unofficial opponent for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Unlike Dukakis, Quinn is not yet openly spending money on a campaign for an office he is not yet supposedly seeking, and he has gone to some pains to avoid any impression that he is using his office for political purposes.

Dukakis is a left-wing liberal of the stamp of George McGovern and a reformer in politics so it may be assumed he is not violating any laws governing the acceptance of campaign contributions or the expenditure of money for political purposes.

However, we're not likely to get any definite answers because it would not be considered sporting for Quinn to make any investigation into the activities of his own opponent.

Agnew Probe Provokes Bitter Attacks On Elliot Richardson

Kevin P. Phillips, a syndicated columnist who writes for the Herald American, levelled a surprisingly sharp attack against U. S. Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson in connection with the Justice Department's investigation into alleged wrongdoing by Vice President Spiro Agnew and in effect, declared that Richardson's behavior and motivation are suspect.

Phillips concluded his assault upon Richardson by expressing the opinion that "the Attorney General's role in any downfall of Spiro Agnew would probably create enough bitterness among the GOP's hitherto pro-Agnew conservative majority to insure that Richardson could never be nominated for national office."

On his way to that conclusion columnist Phillips made a number of allegations against Richardson which we believe should not be allowed to stand unchallenged.

In substance, he accused Richardson of being a bigot and of making attacks upon ethnic politicians which he would not make upon people of his own class. From where we sit that seems like a cheap shot. Elliot Richardson, of course, is a Yankee Brahmin.

But we have observed him closely back through the years to the time when he was an aide in former Senator Leverett Saltonstall's office, and we have never seen any evidence of bigotry on Richardson's part. If Saltonstall believed Richardson was a bigot, he would not have kept him on his staff.

Richardson made a mistake in judgment, which changed a runaway victory into a hard fight, when he attacked Francis X. Bellotti late in the 1966 campaign for election as Massachusetts Attorney General and accused Bellotti of moral insensitivity for accepting a $6,000 fee from an out-of-state insurance company while he was Lieutenant Governor.

That attack backfired on Richardson and cost him votes becuase it was made late in the campaign and Bellotti was able to make political capital of it. But we consider it absurd to imply, as Phillips does, that Richardson would make the attack upon an Italian, but not a Yankee. Richardson, incidentally, did not accuse Bellotti of accepting a payoff, as Phillips indicated. Here is part of what Phillips wrote:

"But what makes Richardson's behavior and motivation so suspect is that he has done all of this before: he made sweeping pre-election payoff charges against a political opponent who had no time to effectively dispute them (1966), he has been a party to release of grand jury bribery testimony that impugned defenseless public officials (1960), and he has been attacked by civil libertarians for employing tactics against ethnic politicians that he would not use against his own class (1960). Here are the circumstances in question:

"In 1966 Richardson was running for Attorney General of Massachusetts. At the last minute. he accused his opponent, Democrat Francis Bellotti, of taking a $6,000 retainer from an out-of-state insurance company during two years in public office and thereby lacking 'the moral sensitivity to fill the office of Attorney General.'

"Richardson's charge was seen by many in Massachusetts as an enexcusable smear. Bellotti called it 'below the gutter.' And as Christopher Lydon noted in a May, 1973, article in the New York Times Magazine: 'the day after the voting when Richardson took his place at the giant roundtable of the downtown Tavern Club in Boston, the son of Webster Thayer, the Massachusetts judge in the notorious Sacco-Vanzetti trial of 1921, upbraided Richardson for using tactics against an Italian-American he never would have considered using against a member of his own class."

(If Elliot Richardson were as bigoted as those three paragraphs indicate, he would not have won election as Lieutenant Governor in 1964 and as Attorney General in 1966; nor would he have risen as high as he has in the public life of Massachusetts and the nation.)

Here is another paragraph from Phillip's column which caused us to sit up in attention:

"Hostility toward ethnic politicians appears to run in Richardson's family. His maternal uncle, Henry Lee Shattuck, hated Boston's Irish wardheelers so much that he paid $35,000 out of his own money for the private investigation that led to Mayor James Curley's imprisonment for fraud in 1947."

Mr. Phillips at that point was discussing a period in Boston politics about which we know substantially more than he does. We covered Shattuck and Curley and the events of the 40s for the old Boston Post, including Curley's imprisonment.

We belong to the school which believes Curley was convicted on trumped-up charges and imprisoned wrongly in 1947, but if Henry Shattuck played a part in sending him to prison, the reporters of that day did not know about it, and we wonder on what basis Mr. Phillips made that statement.

James M. Curley, incidentally, was no more a ward-heeler than was Henry Shattuck who was serving as the City Councillor from the Ward 5 section of the Back Bay when we began covering Boston politics.

Curley was Mayor, Governor, Congressman, Democratic National Committeeman, delegate to national conventions and senior statesman, but a ward-heeler he was not. He used the political gangs, but he was not a member or part of them.

Curley and Shattuck disliked each other. The feeling was strong, and it was mutual. If anything, it was stronger on Curley's part.

Back in 1937, when there was no preliminary city election and the candidates for Mayor engaged in one free-for-all scramble, Henry Shattuck backed Maurice J. Tobin against Curley.

Tobin was as much an Irish politician as was Curley, and Shattuck liked him as much as he disliked Curley. When Tobin was Mayor and Shattuck was a City Councillor, Shattuck dug down into his own pocket to establish and equip a playground and named it in memory of Tobin's mother.

While Shattuck was a staunch Republican, he also has endorsed such other Irish Democrats as John B. Hynes and John F. Collins in non-partisan Boston mayoralty elections.

Elliot Richardson is in an extremely difficult position. He has some tremendous problems. One is the investigation he is heading into claims that Vice President Agnew took kickbacks. Another is the decision he will make whether an indictment should be or can be sought against Agnew.

His third headache of monumental proportions is the investigation Archibald Cox is making into the Watergate mess and just about everything else in sight. Some people already believe Richardson made a poor choice in selecting Cox to be the special Watergate prosecutor. Richardson has an abundance of problems, but we do not believe bigotry is one of them.

Accuse Frank of Cheap Shot Against State Senate Head

Strong resentment is being expressed by members of the State Senate against what they term a "cheap shot" by State Representative Barney Frank of the Back Bay at State Senate President Kevin B. Harrington of Salem.

Political eyebrows on Beacon Hill clicked up and down like loose shutters in a high wind when Frank accused Harrington of political "hoodlumism" and charged that the Senate president had punished him for disregarding Harrington's wishes on the senatorial redistricting bill.

Senate President Harrington is widely respected as an outstanding public leader not only on Beacon Hill but far beyond the legislative halls and chambers of the State House.

He personally sponsored legislation designed to raise educational standards, has served on college faculties, has turned down a proferred appointment as a university president and is a man considered well equipped to serve as Governor of Massachusetts.

Many political observers believe that it was Kevin Harrington's popularity and prestige which helped to elect his cousin, Michael J. Harrington Congressman from the North Shore.

On the basis of the reaction of the State's Senators in speaking out sharply in defense of their head man, one suspects Representative Barney Frank may experience difficulty in obtaining their support on bills he sponsors.

Furlough For Lifers

Editor, Newton Graphic:

On September 12, reacting to an opinion solicited from Atty. Gen. Quinn, Lt. Gov. Dwight revoked the furlough eligibility of all inmates serving life sentences for first degree murder.

This decision, based on the thinnest possible legal ice, will undoubtedly be reversed when the first test case comes before the courts.

However temporary the prohibition, Dwight's action can only be regarded as inflammatory, regressive and arbitrary.

The fact is that all first-degree lifers are eligible for release by commutation. And almost all lifers do eventually return to the community. On what concrete basis can the Department of Correction, the Parole Board, the Governor and the Governor's Council decide when a lifer is ready for release without some knowledge of his or her past performance in a controlled release (furlough) situation? To eliminate that "testing situation" does no service to society.

Given the fact that most first degree lifers do eventually obtain release, it seems crystal clear that their furlough eligibility is mandated by Chapter 777, section 90A(f).

That sub-section states that furloughs may be granted, "for any other reason consistent with the reintegration of a committed offender into the community." Since first-degree lifers are eligible for commutation, their right to furlough consideration seems obvious.

Less obvious than the legality, but equally important, is the impact that the revocation of furlough eligibility has on the individuals involved. Furloughs have provided them with an opportunity to prove their capacity to function in a socially satisfactory way within the community. At MCI-Norfolk, the program has been 100 per cent successful: an eloquent commentary on the constructive way in which participants have used their furloughs.

Furloughs for first-degree lifers, offer an element of hope in a situation that often seems hopeless. To retract that offer of hope is illegal, immoral and inflammatory. One who sees no hope of returning to society is often forced into adopting a "them" and "us" attitude. Can society afford further fragmentation? Can society morally smash the hopes of individuals into fragments?

While first-degree lifers have been convicted of serious crimes, their recidivism rate (for either technical parole violations or any new crimes) is extremely low and their commitment to build socially satisfactory lives is unusually high.

One can only hope that an early test case in the courts immediately re-instates the legitimate right of first-degree lifers to be eligible for furloughs.

Only then will the interests of a society that values life and law really be served.

Pedestrian Safety

(Editor's note: This letter was sent to Ald. Joseph McDonnell, chairman of the aldermanic Public Works Committee with a copy to the Graphic):

Dear Alderman McDonnell:

We are concerned about the safety of pedestrians, particularly school children, who must walk along the east side of Waverly avenue between Farlow road and Franklin street, where there is no footpath, and where the ground slopes steeply to the street.

This becomes a problem because the only safe spot for children to cross on the way to and from school is at Franklin street and Waverly avenue, where there is a policewoman and a blinking yellow light.

There is no traffic light, or policewoman, at the extremely hazardous intersection of Kenrick street, Sargent street, Farlow road, and Waverly avenue.

Therefore, children from Kenrick street, Farlow road, Huntington road, Dorr road, and Waverly avenue (east and south of Franklin st.) must walk along the east side of Waverly avenue, between Farlow road and Franklin street in order to get to the safe intersection.

We feel this is a growing and serious problem because of the increasing amount of traffic along Waverly avenue, going to the Mass. Turnpike. As indicated above, the sloping nature of the terrain along this stretch makes walking difficult in good weather, and impossible in wet or snowy weather.

There are many young children in our area going to Underwood, and many other children going to Bigelow; there are also pedestrians walking to the Tremont street buses.

This is a matter of public safety, a matter of extreme importance. Therefore, we ask that the City of Newton construct a pathway along this public way at the earliest possible date, and hopefully by the opening of school or shortly thereafter.

Thank you very much.

Dangerous Crossing

(Editor's note: The following letter was sent to Edwin Weist, chairman of the Newton Traffic Commission with a copy to the Graphic and the mayor.

Dear Mr. Weist:

I am writing in regards to a high accident intersection in Newton at Commonwealth Avenue and Walnut Street (near Newton City Hall).

In the last four weeks there have been two accidents (disabling a vehicle each time) and at least three or four tire-screeching halts. One person was killed in an accident here, some time ago, as well as many reported and unreported accidents have taken place. The screeching of brakes has become commonplace.

One month ago, I received my First Aid Certificate, and since I live a block away from the area, I can arrive at the scene of an accident within one to one and a half minutes, before the police arrive. So far, luckily, no one has been injured to the degree of requiring First Aid.

I would now like to propose a solution to the "death trap" at Commonwealth Avenue and Walnut Street. The simple installation of "hang over" street lights, rather than the upright lights, would be more readily seen from a distance, therefore alerting the driver. Many accidents occur around 1 a.m. and so the automatic blinking lights should be red for all four sides, not red for one side and red-orange for the other.

I recognize the fact that Newton has posted more speed limit signs (with good intentions); however, I do not believe there has been a significant change in the traffic flow.

Any action taken to cut down on the accidents at this junction would also increase my sleeping hours. But most of all, lives would not be put in jeopardy because of careless drivers who see the traffic light too late.

Thank you for your concern for public safety.

Signing Off

Editor, Newton Graphic:

I was somewhat disturbed upon riding down Watertown street next to the King's shopping center to see a billboard for one of the candidates for mayor.

Even though the billboard is technically in Watertown, it is a deceptive device which violates the spirit of the Newton city ordinance prohibiting lawn signs that deface private property.

Also, in light of the agreement by the mayoral candidates banning the use of billboard advertising, I should think it would behoove Mr. Carmen to remove his sign immediately in order to comply.

Study Candidates

Editor, Newton Graphic:

Do you love your kids? Do you like yourself? Are you an egotist who thinks he is too busy to help others. Or do you think you are unique, that no others understand your problems, or has your problems. Well! I suggest that you take a moral inventory of yourself. Because if you don't, and soon, you may wish you had.

As a citizen of Newton and father of seven children, I beseech you to answer a lot of these problems, by looking closely into your candidates for the coming election. For the first time it will be one on one in the mayorality election. As it should have been a long time ago. There will be no "Dark Horse" thrown in on either side to pull votes away from a legitimate candidate.

William Carmen is running for mayor of Newton for the third time. Why? He doesn't need it for financial reasons, and he doesn't need it for business reasons, and he doesn't need it for prestige. For he has all these things, and successfully so. He has been asked this question many, many times, and the answer is as simple as the truth always is. He wants to help the citizens of Newton (all the citizens).

Not only does he want to help them, but he will help them. He has common sense facts and figures, and sensible plans to aid the tax problems, to eliminate the waste of monies spent. Believe me, when you get a shrewd businessman in there, you will be sure that your tax dollar will be carefully spent. Again I beseech you to please look into this man, who is so honestly concerned about you and yours. Remember they are your children, they are your taxes, and they are your morals. So it is up to you and you alone to help yourself and all of us. I pray, yes I pray, that this man will be our next mayor.

To a better future

Shelter

Editor, Newton Graphic:

"Newton Observer" has complimented our city officials and the MBTA for the new shelter installed on Centre street near the public library.

I certainly praise the above mentioned authorities for their efforts to make improvements, and, while I do not wish to argue about the attractiveness of the unit, I am convinced that it is of little value to the great majority of the persons waiting for the buses.

Not more than four persons can set conveniently in that miniature gazebo and if a few more persons would try to get in and stand in the little space left, a hilarious "squeezing" situation situation could be watched, reminding me of one of the Marx Brothers movies.

Perhaps by watching the situation in winter the value of the shelter may be reconsidered.

Self Determination

Editor, Newton Graphic

One of the original stands taken by the League of Women Voters of the United States after its formation in the 1920's was in support of home rule for the citizens of Washington, D.C. Denied the right to elect their own government officials and control the spending of their city agencies, D.C. citizens have been governed essentially by the Congress of the United States. Thereis now legislation (HR-9682) before the United States House of Representatives sponsored by Chairman Charles Diggs of the House District of Columbia Committee and fifteen other members of the House committee that would grant citizens of Washington, D.C. the right to elect their own Mayor and City Council and to control some of their governmental budget.

A vote on this bill is expected in late September. We urge all persons who believe in representative government for our nation's capital to write to Representative Robert Drinan stating their support of self-determination for Washington, D.C.

Sen. Fishman Declines Expense Paid Trips

Senator Irving Fishman (D-Newton) today notified the Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts that while he would accept their invitation to attend the Savings Bank Convention at Lake Placid, New York to be held next week, he would turn down the Association's offer to pay his expenses.

Fishman had been invited as a guest of the association to appear on a panel to discuss "Legislative Trends in Banking."

Fishman's office at the State House also indicated that he had declined an invitation to be the guest of the Massachusetts Cooperative Bank League at their convention being held this week at Wentworth by the Sea, N.H.

In explaining his actions, Senator Fishman, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Banks and Banking, stated "I will pay my own expenses to avoid even the appearance of undue influence being exerted upon me by any part of the banking community.

Mofenson Urges Privacy Study

A bill creating a special commission on privacy has been given final approval by the Massachusetts House of Representatives and now moves to the Senate for final action.

Introduced by Rep. David J. Mofenson (D-Newton), the measure would establish an 11 member commission for the purpose of making a study into possible invasions of privacy, particularly as it relates to the kinds of information stored in computer data banks and collected by the government.

"The major interest," Mofenson stated, "is investigating and studying what kind of information is being collected, how, why, and by whom, and for what purpose."

"The object is to define threats to individuals' civil liberties - and to meet those threats through appropriate and tiemly legislation," he said.

Rehearsal

Newton-Wellesley Hospital's community-wide lead screening program for children 1-6 will be launched Sept. 25 at Emerson School in Newton Upper Falls. A rehearsal took place during the summer at the Newton Community Center's Kinder Kamp and 5 per cent of the 68 children screened had lead levels indicating the need for a retest and one test high was enough to need treatment.

Lead Screening Starts Tuesday

When Newton-Wellesley Hospital's total lead screening program for children age 1 to six gets underway next Tuesday (Sept. 25) at the Emerson School in Newton Upper Falls, over 500 hours of volunteer time will have preceded into the program's launch.

A total of 20 members of the Newton - Wellesley - Weston Retired Senior Volunteer Program have racked up the hours in the first month of preparation for the community wide screening being undertaken by Newton-Wellesley Hospital and RSVP.

Most of the volunteers working on the project are senior citizens. They are involved in a variety of activities from working with census listings and city directories to locating children in the testing age group, to mailings to parents and follow up phone calls to set up appointments. At the screening sessions themselves, they will assist Newton-Wellesley Hospital medical technicians working under the supervision of Dr. John M. Cohen, the hospital's chief of pediatrics and Mrs. Irene Lamb, pediatric nurse practitioner for the hospital's child care service.

Hours for the September 25 screening at Emerson School are 9 a.m. to noon. It is hoped that all parents of children in the one to six age group will see to it that their children are tested. The goal is a 100 per cent screen and the simple finger prick test is the quickest way to find out if children are being exposed to lead in sufficient amounts to cause lead poisoning.

In putting in the 500 hours in the past month, some of the volunteers have worked with some of the materials in their homes while others have worked with Ms. Marjorie Glassman, the RSVP director at the Newton Community Service Center.

RSVP is an integral part of the social services provided to the community by the cneter, and as co-sponsor of the Lead Screening Program with Newton-Wellesley Hospital, the center is providing all of the necessary volunteer training and community organizational work essential to the success of the program.

Assisting Mrs. Glassman in directing this aspect of the project are Newton Community Center advisory board members Mrs. Nancy Daniele and Mrs. Joan Warshaw. With two screenings a month planned throughout the coming year, more volunteers are needed. aanyone who can help should call Mrs. Glassman at 969-5906 for more information.

Campaign Financing Topic Of LWV Meeting

Campaign financing will be the topic of a meeting Tuesday (Sept. 25) at 8 p.m. in Christ Church, Harvard Square, Cambridge.

Buy the CORNING range James Beard cooks on...

Get the recipes he cooks on it, free!

James Beard chose the Gourmet range for his world renowned cooking school. Why? Because, in his words, "By getting each cooking area its own thermostats and designing special pots and pans, Corning created the world's most accurate cooking system." A system that can actually make someone a better cook.

And that's reason enough to buy a Corning range!

But, if you buy one now, we'll give you something else that can make you a better cook . . . James Beard's American Cookery cookbook.

His newest volume contains over 840 pages; 1500 recipes. It was chosen "cookbook of the year" by newspaper food editors.

Ordinarily a $12.95 value, American Cookery is free with any Corning major appliance while the supply lasts.

So, if you've been considering buying a Corning range, cooktop or wall oven, come in now.

Free for looking!

If you're not quite ready to buy, we'll make it worth your while to come in and look.

We'll give you a free copy of James Beard Cooks with Corning, a 32-page collection of his favorite recipes just for looking at the Corning line.

Pace Quickens At Community Centers

With the return of youngsters to school, the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc., is preparing itself for the start of another busy program year with an activity schedule which will include something for everyone.

Anthony J. Bibbo, executive director of the Centers, stated this week that brochures outlining the agency's many activities have been mailed to city residents. The Centers will have numerous facilities at their disposal in which to conduct activities once again and retain a staff of qualified and experienced personnel to run the program.

Among the Centers regular offerings is the popular "Ecole de la Danse" under the direction of Miss Katharine Dickson and Miss Phyllis Buda. The dancing school offers a schedule of graded classes in ballet set for regular progression from beginners through advanced. Also a beginner tap class will be offered.

The creative arts program for children is once again directed by Mrs. Judy Kelleher. The primary goal of this activity is to stimulate children to explore art, and in this exploration, to build their awareness of themselves and the world around them. By presenting material to children from a range of subject areas, an attempt is made to increase the children's sensitivity to the sensory environment they experience.

The intriguing art of baton twirling offers young people the opportunity to participate in an increasingly popular, and enjoyable activity. Poise, bearing, grace and physical dexterity are elements included in the classroom instruction offered by Mrs. Marjorie Gilbert.

Nursery School at the First Unitarian Society, Day Care at the United Presbyterian Church, and the Headstart Program also at the Unitarian Church, will all be continued. Preschool youngsters, three and up, are included in these activities.

A sampling of the large number of programs planned for youngsters include: an after-school day care pilot project for grades one-four, sewing classes, creative TV studio, drama group, boys club, girls club, cooking, crafts classes, crocheting and knitting, and the Saturday Camp - a camp for seven to twelve year olds conducted on Saturdays, including semi-weekly Friday overnights at the 1000-acre Hale Camping Reservation in Westwood.

Programs for teenagers include the Newton Youth Center, a youth run activity open to all high school aged citizens. Teenagers are encouraged to call the office and help create their own programs.

The Youth Center also coordinates the Job Bank, a non-profit student employment service for those in the 13-22 age range. This service is free to both employer and employee. To list a job or file an application, drop in at 429 Cherry St., or call 969-5908.

Programs offered to adults include women's craft class, mother's clubs, sewing classes, ladies physical fitness, golf school, multi-media experience, weight watchers, yoga, cake decorating, jazz dance workshop, Country Players drama group, senior citizen clubs, and a number of workshops in arts and humanities.

Finally, the Centers sponsor a Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) which provides significant volunteer work opportunities for persons over 60 years of age. New this year is the Senior Exchange Program which utilizes senior citizens with particular talents who share their skills with one another.

For additional information, or to register, phone or visit the Centers main office at 429 Cherry St., West Newton, or phone 969-5906. Office hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Local 800 Says No To 5.1 Per Cent

Officials of Local 800 do not accept a recent arbitration decision giving some 1600 city workers a 5.1 per cent cost-of-living increase.

Robert Hand, vice-president of the union, said Tuesday that a meeting between union officers and Leon Kowal, city labor negotiator, has been called this week to determine what steps the union can take.

Originally announced in June by the administration as a 4.8 per cent increase, the amount was challenged by Local 800 president Louis Rufo, who argued that the increase should have been 5.1 percent, and later revised his figure to 5.5 percent.

The matter had been in voluntary arbitration since July.

The arbitration decision went into detail on the interpretation of the contract clause that said the wage increase to be effective May 1, 1973, should be 4.5 percent or "equal to the percentage increase in the cost of living...for the period from May 1, 1972, to April 30, 1973, whichever is higher."

The Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), the decision said, does not measure changes in the consumer price index by date, but uses a base period or base month.

Therefore a 12-month increase in the cost of living would be indicated only by April-to-April or May-to-May figures, and the BLS would view May 1, 1972, to April, 1973 as an 11-month period.

The words "Effective May 1, 1973" in the contract makes it clear that both parties did not intend to include the month of May or any part of it, the decision finds, and the parties "really meant that wage increases to become 'effective on May 1, 1973,' would be based on the BLS consumer price index changes from April, 1972, to April, 1973.

The arbitrator said in his decision that he is clearly convinced that the parties intended the base month to be April, 1972, and on the basis of April-to-April the proper cost of living increase to which employees were entitled on May 1, 1973, was 5.1 per cent.

Committee Meetings Should Be Open

A "policy statement" that the mayor's advisory committees should hold meetings open to the public and the press will be recommended by the aldermanic Legislation & Rules Committee at the next meeting of the full board, Sept. 24.

A ruling earlier this year by then City Solicitor so-called open meeting law of the state has been criticized by many members of the Board of Aldermen.

A request for a ruling came after several instances of exclusion of the public, and the press, and aldermen from some advisory committee meetings by committee chairmen.

To avoid a confrontation with the press or public, some advisory committees have held their meeting at private houses.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle, who will not attend any meeting not open to the public, discounted Dangel's interpretation, saying that Mayor Theodroe Mann constantly refers to what is said at these meetings and apparently accepts the advice offered there.

Alderman Joseph McDonnell said that the use of city funds and secretarial and other services, as well as the use of City Hall, puts the meetings "into the public domain."

Alderman Eliot Cohen's proposal that the Legislation & Rules Committee and the board adopt a policy that any meeting using city facilities and city funds should be open was approved 5-0.

In other business, the committee heard a request from Alderman Edward Richmond to replace with an ordinance the present resolution calling on all licensing agencies in the city to use their powers to prevent discrimination on the basis of color, sex, national origin, race, or religion.

Passed by the Board of Aldermen in the form of a resolution last January, the measure exempts groups whose purpose involved a common religious affiliation, common ethnic heritage, a specific sex, or specific age grouping.

According to Richmond, the Licensing Board of the city, which approves liquor licenses, has indicated that it feels unable to enforce the provisions of the resolution and would only be able to act under an ordinance.

An interpretation by the City Solicitor of the difference between the two types of measure called a resolution "technically only an expression of principles or purposes of the Board" which "has not the binding effect of local law."

The antidiscrimination resolution was aimed at preventing private clubs who discriminate in their membership practices from being given liquor and other licenses.

McDonnell disagreed with the reported position of the Licensing Board that they cannot enforce a resolution. "It doesn't make sense for the Licensing Board to say what they say. This was passed by the Board of Aldermen and signed by the mayor," he said.

Richmond countered that the Licensing Board "will attempt to implement the resolution, but are afraid."

McDonnell asked, "Is that what the mayor tells them to do? They have no choice. If they don't follow the resolution, there would be grounds for their removal."

Cohen volunteered to be a committee of one to work out the problem with the Law Department, and the item was held pending the outcome of the meetings.

Alderman Lois Pines' ban on smoking in supermarkets and grocery stores was approved for the second time, despite Assistant City Solicitor Kenneth Bagley's opinion that the ban should apply to all stores that sell food, not only the two categories of store mentioned.

Rally Set For Farm Workers

The Newton Committee for Farm Workers will hold a rally in support of the lettuce and grape boycott on Saturday, Sept. 22, at 1 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Beacon and Centre Streets, Newton Centre.

Speakers will include Rev. Joseph Sprague, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Council of Churches, and other civic and religious leaders.

Rev. Sprague recently returned from a fact-finding trip to the San Joaquin Valley in California, where he observed firsthand the struggle of the farmworkers.

A march to the A & P store at Beacon and Walnut Streets will follow the speeches. The public is invited to attend.

For further information call Dan Guberman at 527-6816.

Volunteers

Newton students who dedicated many hours of their summer vacations to volunteer work at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton were honored by the hospital last week at the annual Volunteer Awards Luncheon. Recipients of American Hospital Association pins and a special gift from the hospital, presented by assistant director Charles Jacobs and Mrs. Annette Genfan Brown, director of the volunteer dept., are Dawn Doherty (left) of 16 Pembroke St., and Alison McCann (right) of 106 Shorcliffe Rd.

Newton Junior College Sets Adult Classes

Newton Junior College will hold registration for its Adult Education Program from 6:30 to 9 p.m., Sept. 19, at Administration Hall, Washington Park, Newtonville.

This program is open to all adult residents of Newton and neighboring communities. It includes academic, cultural, and general education courses without credits or prerequisites.

The courses and workshops are designed for adult citizens who wish to continue their formal education in morning and evening programs. The program is sufficiently broad in scope to provide ample opportunity for adults to promote self-development, to meet specific educational needs, or to fulfill a particular cultural or civic goal.

The courses will meet one night a week, 7:15 p.m. to 9:15 p.m., unless otherwise indicated, from Sept. 24 through Dec. 17, and from Jan. 21 through Apr. 22.

The courses offered are:

"Public and Private: Voices of Women in Poetry." This course will deal with both the process of reading and responding to a poem and women's experiences as illuminated in poetry. Focusing on contemporary poets with selected glances at earlier periods, the course will explore poems by Bradstreet, Dickinson, Lowell, Plath, Levertor, Rich, Kumin, Sexton, Brooks, Rukeyser, Bogan, and others. The courses will attempt to de-mystify poetry and prove that poetry is not only meant to be read and understood, but that it is relevant to our lives. Tuesday mornings - 9:30 - 11:20 a.m.

"Language Laboratory." The Language Laboratory at the College will be used in all beginning language courses to give students the opportunity for individual and group practice on basic oral expression and listening comprehension. Recordings of student responses to audio tape statements under the supervision of the laboratory instructor will help the student develop his skill in conversation and understanding. Thursday - 7:15 - 9:15 p.m.

"French, Beginning." An opportunity to begin the fundamentals of French and to use them in extensive oral practice. Conversations, narrations, and brief discussion among class members are designed to increase the students' vocabulary and acquaint them with idiomatic expressions. Topics are based on common occurrences. Dictation, grammar, vocabulary, and comprehension work aid students to parlais Francais. Meets Monday nights.

"French Intermediate." Designed to help students acquire the habit-forming processes of spoken language, construction patterns, and speech sounds. This course makes possible greater facility in self-expression. A thorough and systematic review of the fundamental principles of grammar with intensive practice is included. Meets Monday nights.

"Italian, Beginning." A course for those who have no previous formal knowledge of the language. Those who have had some familiarity with spoken but not written Italian should find this course especially helpful. Emphasis on conversation provides a background of vocabulary and grammar as the students learn to understand and speak the language. Meets Thursday nights.

"Italian, Intermediate." A course for those who have had beginning Italian or its equivalent. The student is encouraged to think in Italian in order to acquire ease in expressing himself orally and in writing. This class may expect to review quickly the grammar covered in Beginning Italian and to complete the study of the basic principles of Italian grammar. As soon as the student learns an adequate simple vocabulary, discussions, especially on Italy today, are conducted in Italian. Meets Monday nights.

"Spanish, Beginning." The course is especially adapted for the adult student. By means of objective-conceptive and audio-phonic methods, the student will be guided in the use of basic elements of the Spanish language as a means of communication. Meets Tuesday and Thursday nights.

"Spanish, Intermediate." A course in spoken Spanish stressing the most frequent structures and idiomatic expressions in the language. Classroom discussions will focus on assigned reading materials that deal with family life, travel, customs, traditions, and attitudes of the Spanish people. The progressive development of the listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills will be emphasized. Meets Wednesday nights.

"Operadventures." A series of slide illustrated programs, each devoted to a different opera, will both introduce and entertain. The series will clarify the stories, introduce the great singers, past and present, who have interpreted the roles, and place each work in the career of its composer and in musical history. Interesting anecdotes and emphasis on the enjoyable aspects of opera will make the course suitable for the most inexperienced beginner; rare recordings of unusual interest will attract even veteran opera goers. The course includes both repertory and revival operas and will emphasize those operas to be performed by the Metropolitan and Boston Opera Company. Meets Thursday nights.

"Modern Literature." A reading appraisal of modern novelists, dramatists, essayists, and poets whose creative intuitions have illuminated the human condition. Joyce, Hemingway, Faulkner, O'Neill, Russell, Yeats, Frost, and Eliot are among the major writers who are resources in the search for an answer to the central question: "What can modern authors reveal to us of ourselves and of the critical plight of humanity?" Meets Tuesday nights.

"Speed Reading." The principal focus of this course will be on advancing the skills of comprehension and speed in reading. An analysis of the organizational patterns of writing will provide the basis for increased reading comprehension. Speed, as a function of comprehension, will be emphasized, and provisions will be made for practice. Such critical reading skills as drawing inferences, determining fact or opinion, and analyzing propaganda, will also be highlighted. Meets Wednesday nights.

"Educational Program for Adult Women." A series of eight morning sessions for adult women of the community who have not attended school for several years and wish to begin or resume college study leading to an associate or bachelor's degree. This program will include improvement of study skills: listening, reading, notetaking, and reviewing; aptitude tests with interpretations' educational and vocational counseling in groups and individually. Each member of the group will be helped in finding an understanding of her own ability, interests, and goals. The program will be conducted by a professional counselor of the college faculty. Meets Wednesday mornings, 9:30 - 11:30 a.m.

NOTICE TO PARENTS, YOUNG PEOPLE AND RESIDENTS

- The J. F. White Contracting Co. has been awarded a contract by the MBTA to reconstruct the tracks on the Green Line.
- Construction can be fascinating to youngsters and curiosity prompts their investigating.
- We love kids, too, and therefore ask your assistance in advising them to avoid trespassing in the construction area.
- Please warn them, also, that construction equipment makes this site a potentially dangerous area.
- In cooperation with Chief William F. Quinn of the Newton Police Department the MBTA has arranged to have a Police Officer detailed at the Elliot Station to insure the safe passage of school children across the construction site.

Newton High School Students Win National Merit Recognition

A total of 20 of Newton's high school seniors have been named semifinalists in the 1974 National Merit Scholarship competition.

They will now compete with each other and 15,000 other high school seniors throughout the nation for approximately 3,100 Merit Scholarships to be awarded sometime next spring.

According to Edward C. Smith, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), "the semifinalists are representative of the nation's most academically talented young people, and they bring honor not only to themselves, but also to their families, their teachers, and their communities."

Students at Newton South High School named as semifinalists include Jonathan M. Backer, Marcella C. Calabi, Nina S. Corwin, Margery B. Fischbein, Jonathan H. Grossman, Ittai Kan, Sonia H. Levin, George S. Lustig, Susan C. Miller, and David N. Robinson.

Those named from Newton North High School include Joseph D. Cocuzzo, Mark P. DeSouza, David E. Keyes, Michael S. Mitrano, Richard M. Pareles, David Parritz, Russell C. Potter, Steeven A. Rosenblum, Sara L. Ross and Rachel P. Teplow.

The only other public school system in Massachusetts which had as many or more Merit Scholarship semifinalists in this year's senior class was Lexington.

That town's school system produced a total of 24 semifinalists in this years scholarship competition.

The semifinalists were the highest scorers in each state of the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT-NMSQT) administered last October to over one million students in about 17,000 schools nationwide.

NMSC will identify the semifinalists to all regionally accredited colleges and universities in the United States.

The distinction is also very useful in seeking financial aid from sources other then the Merit Program and in the process of gaining admission to college.

Semifinalists must now qualifiy as finalists to advance in the competition for the valuable Merit Scholarship.

To become finalists they must receive the endorsement of their schools, confirm their high PSAT-NMSQT scores on a second examination, and provide evidence of their academic and estracurricula activities.

Ninety percent or more of the semifinalists are expected to become finalists, and each will then receive a Certificate of Merit.

Each finalist will be considered for one of the 1,000 National Merit Scholarships of $1,000 each, allocated on a state basis according to each state's percentage of the total United States graduating class.

A selection committee made up of experienced college admissions officers and secondary school guidance counselors will judge all information about each finalists.

The winners of the $1,000 awards, financed by sponsors and NMSC will receive a single payment next fall after they have enrolled as full-time college undergradautes.

Many of the finalists will also be considered for renewable four-year Merit Scholarships provided by some 450 corporations, foundations, professional associations, colleges, labor unions, trusts and individuals.

Winner of the renewable scholarships will receive up to $1,500 per year, a total of $6,000 over the course of four years of college.

Bus Tours Continue

It has been announced that free bus tours to places of historical interest in Newton will continue under the sponsorship of Jackson Homestead.

The bus tours, initially inaugurated as part of the city's Centennial Celebration, won wide public approval and will now be extended to give those unable to obtain reservations then an opportunity to see the more than 40 points of historical interest in Newton.

Points of interest include homes dating back to the 18th century. Members of the Friends of the Jackson Homestead will narrate the tours, which start at the Homestead.

Those wishing to make the tours should call the Homestead at 332-3920 for reservations.

Tours will be held on Wednesdays, Oct. 24 and Nov. 14, at 1:30 p.m., and Saturdays, Sept. 22, Oct. 20 and Nov. 3 at 10 a.m.

'Citizen Kane' Heads Library Cinema Fare

The acclaimed Orson Wells film "Citizen Kane" is coming to the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner on Sept. 27 at 7 p.m.

Heralding the start of the '73-'74 Thursday Evening Free Film Series, "Citizen Kane," often voted the best film of all times and described by one major film critic as close to being the most sensational film ever made in Hollywood, will be screened, free of charge, in the NFL's Chaffin Hall.

Directed by Orson Welles, with a screenplay by Welles and Herman J. Mankiewicz, with Gregg Toland doing the photography and the brilliant music of Bernard Herrmann, "Citizen Kane" is one of the most surprising and cinematically exciting films ever made.

Welles found the camera a perfect instrument for his dramatic energies, able to absorb his prolific ideas. The picture is of overpowering scope, especially in its rapid and graphic rotation of thoughts.

The film recounts the successful career of Charles Foster Kane, modeled after Hearst, whose dying word "Rosebud" sets a reporter off on a search into the meaning of the man's life.

The film records often conflicting, sometimes overlapping views of Kane's life; how as a poor boy he came into great wealth, how he became a newspaper publisher, how he aspired to political office and was defeated because of personal scandal, how he devoted himself to material acquisition and finally died in the palatial estate, Xanadu.

Sure and penetrating performances are given by Orson Welles, Joseph Cotton, Everett Sloane, Agnes Moorehead and Ruth Warrick.

Film fans are invited to view "Citizen Kane" and to attend the Wednesday Noon and Thursday Evening film programs - two free film series with a thoughtful and varied selection of films sponsored by the Newton Free Library. Annotated film listings with dates will soon be available at your nearest Library.

Beginning October 1 Main Library hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Saturday, 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. and Sunday, 1 p.m.-4 p.m.

Museum Opens

The Jackson Homestead, Newton's city-owned museum at 527 Washington St., has resumed its regular schedule and will be open daily, Monday through Friday, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The stately mansion is open to the public for visits by groups and individuals who wish to tour its various rooms and view its exhibits.

The season's first open house will be held on Sunday, Oct. 14. The Homestead's fourth in a series of Centennial events will feature the business, industry and professions of the community.

Details as to the exhibits and participants will be announced in the near future.

Information about the Jackson Homestead and its programs may be obtained by calling Mrs. William H. Cannard, director-curator, at 332-3920.

Court Appoints More Probation Volunteers

The Newton District Court has announced the addition of six new members to it's highly successful Volunteer Probation Officer Program.

The court's program with the cooperation of the Newton Jaycees, is designed to assist the court's Probation Department with the administration of probation requirements imposed by the court.

According to Chief Justice Franklin N. Flaschner, the volunteer program helps not only the regular probation officers with their caseload but also creates a one-to-one relationship with those probationers who become associated with the volunteers.

Chief Probation Officer Kenneth E. Prior designed the training program instituted by Chief Justice Franklin N. Flaschner and Special Justice Monte G. Basbas.

"All volunteers undergo an extensive training program covering court procedure, police involvement, our social assistance program, and the court's psychiatric clinic as well as the responsibilities of our department," Prior stated.

"We have selected the type of volunteer who could establish a good working relationship with the people placed in our custody–these persons cannot only adhere to the requirements placed on every probation officer by the courts but approach the probationer in a roll similar to that of a big brother by evaluating his needs in order to help him make life better for himself. The probationer can find an 'open door' here. A 'friend," Prior said.

"A great number of young people placed on probation are not what you might call hard-core lawbreakers. We have found that these are troubled people–perhaps the situation at home is not what it should be or, perhaps it's a problem of adjustment in some other area of every day life that brings them to use," Prior related.

"The concept of the Probation Department is to give the probationer every opportunity to be helped and receive assistance with whatever problem he may have," he concluded.

The new Volunteer Probation Officers are Helen Alkon, Carol Bard, Beverly Cornell, Steven Gilman, Ed Robinson, and Robert Snyder.

Radio Buffs Hold First Meeting

The Wellesley Amateur Radio Society will hold its first meeting of the fall season on Thursday, Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the basement of the Wellesley Hills Branch Library.

All currently licensed amateurs, and those wishing to get their ham ticket are encouraged to attend.

For many years the Wellesley Amateur Radio Society has advanced the interests of amateur radio with a two-fold program. For beginners the Club has conducted a free 10 week course in radio theory and International Morse Code, leading to an examination for the Novice Grade F.C.C. License.

For those already on the air the society has organized monthly get-togethers with speakers and round table discussions about all phases of amateur radio operation.

If you have an active F.C.C. license and would like to take part in club activities; or if you want to get your novice ticket, mark Sept. 27 on your calendar. We will be looking forward to meeting you.

Journalist Revisits Alma Mater

Kandy Shuman Stroud, Washington correspondent for "Women's Wear Daily" and a 1963 graduate of Newton College, will be the guest speaker at an Alumnae Luncheon at Newton College on Saturday, Sept. 22.

The luncheon is one of the major events planned for Newton College's Alumnae Weekend, Sept. 21-23. A variety of educational, social and spiritual activities are scheduled for the occasion which will bring alumnae of all classes back to the Centre St., Newton campus. Special parties for classes celebrating their fifth, 10th, 15th, and 20th reunions are planned.

As a journalist covering the Washington scene, Kandy Stroud traveled with President Nixon to Moscow in 1972 and to NATO conferences in 1970. She has also accompanied Mrs. Nixon on trips since 1968.

She has written profiles of Henry Kissinger, Sen. Edward Kennedy, Joan Kennedy, Sen. George McGovern, Pat Nixon, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Sen. Charles Percy, Martha Mitchell, former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, Jane Muskie, Sen. Edward Muskie, and several wives of cabinet members.

Kandy Stroud has appeared on television specials with David Susskind and delivered the commentary on Tricia Nixon's wedding for CBS-TV. She has also covered national conventions, candidates and elections since 1968.

Alumnae Weekend at Newton College will commence on Friday evening, Sept. 21, with parties for the reunion classes.

Saturday's activities will begin with registration in the morning followed by exhibits, tours and election of the '73 - '75 Alumnae Association Board members.

A reception hosted by Newton College President James J. Whalen will precede the Alumnae Luncheon.

Alumnae College "Newton '73" will provide the major focus for Saturday afternoon's activities. Seminars will be held for alumnae on "Art '73 – Printmaking and Films in the Age of Multiple Images," and "Science '73 – Science for the Non-Major."

Saturday evening will bring all alumnae and their escorts together for cocktails, hors d'oeuvres and dancing at the Newton Country Day School.

The final event of the weekend will be a Mass on Sunday morning followed by a continental breakfast.

Chairwomen for the reunion parties are Ann Fulton Cote of Winchester, Jo Kirk Cleary of Auburndale, Dorothy Daly of West Roxbury, and Alicia Guedes Franzosa of Newton.

Pines' Bill Advances

A bill which would grant a tax deduction for child care expenses incurred to permit the taxpayer to be gainfully employed was reported favorably recently by the House Committee on Ways and Means.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Lois G. Pines (D-Newton), was reported to the floor of the House of Representatives, where it received a third reading.

The bill had previously received an adverse report from the Joint Committee on Taxation, but Rep. Pines successfully fought to overturn that report on the floor of the House.

In her battle to overturn the adverse report, Rep. Pines told her House colleagues, "this bill will provide deductions for child care expenditures incurred to allow the taxpayer to be gainfully employed."

"A tax deducation is now allowed the businessman who entertains a potential client, for the cost of operating his car, for the cost of his business telephone, for the depreciation and expenses of a portion of his home used for business purposes," she said.

"Why then," Rep. Pines asked, "should not a mother or father be entitled to deduct the cost of child care expenses which must be incurred in order to allow the parent to earn funds to help support his or her children?"

"Today," she continued, "most women work because they must, not because they choose to."

"I hope the House will endorse this bill speedily," she concluded.

Soccer Talk

By PAUL ELDRIDGE, JR.

Because of a College Football game played the previous day, the playing surface of Dillon Stadium in Hartford, Connecticut, resembled a dust bowl. This condition did not, however, hinder the play of the National Teams from the United States and Bermuda.

Both teams showed the fans two different styles of play. The United States was dedicated to a wide open attack, while Bermuda played a defensive game with sparedic attacks on the United States goal. Because of the tight defense around the Bermuda goal, the United States squad had a rough time getting a clean shot off.

Kyle Rote, Jr. who played three-quarters of the game was buzzing like a mad hornet around the Bermuda goal and consequently took a physical beating from the visiting fullbacks. The first half ended with neither side denting the others net.

In the second half, it was all United States, as the American players kept the ball in the visitors half of the field, and it was only the outstanding goalkeeping by the Bermuda goalie that kept them off of the scoreboard.

Then at the seventy-ninth minute of the game, Forge Siega of the United States took a free-kick from just outside the penalty area to the right of the Bermuda goalie. He put the ball in towards the goal up high hoping that one of his teammates could hit it in with his head. In the ensuing play around the net, the goalie managed to get his hands on the ball but he couldn't hold on to it. The ball fell to the feet of Ben Brewster who put it into an open goal.

For the rest of the game, the United States defense tightened up and kept the ball away from their goal. It was only in the last couple of minutes that the visitors could mount a serious attack.

Brewster, who scored the only goal of the game, was playing in his first game for the United States. He was also the Soccer coach of Boston College until this year when he resigned so that he could play Soccer in England. Ben played this season for the American Soccer League's Connecticut Wildcats, whose home games are played on that same field in Dillon Stadium.

The preliminary game was a hard-hitting, evenly played match between the Mass. Soccer Assoc. All-Stars and the Conn. All-Stars. Tom Kalkanasian of the MSA scored at the 11 minute mark of the first half. Connecticut equalized at the 12 minute mark of the second half when Luigi Gardrano put a crossing pass from Ed Zinnitti just over the fingers of Tom Damigella, goalie for the MSA. Tom, this season will be leading his team, Boston Inter, in defense of the MSA championship which they won last season. Another outstanding player for the MSA team was Dick Dietrich from Newton, S. C.

This game also had a Harvard-Yale flavor. Semus Malin, assistant coach at Harvard and Herbert Vogelsinger, coach of Yale played for Massachusetts and Connecticut respectively.

SOCCER SHORTS

A Soccer Trivia question. In the Home International Series between England, Scotland, No. Ireland and Wales, which country has won the most series and what country has won the least? Answer below.

Harvard will play Dublin University on Saturday, September 29 at 10:30 a.m. at Harvard.

Congratulations to Alan Peterson, President of the M.S.A. who received his U.S.S.F.A. Coaching "C" License this past summer.

Answer to Trivia question. England has won the most with 34 and No. Ireland the least with one. This does not include ties.

Innovations In Sound

You've probably never thought of your car as an ideal stereo listening studio. Well, it is! The minute you sit in your stereo equipped auto, you're blanketed in thrilling sound. You'll witness an entirely new perspective in stereo listening; a richness in stereophony and realism of sound reproduction that has never before been possible. Now, with stereo tape cartridges, whether you listen in your car, home, boat, plane or trailer you enjoy an unparallelled sound sensation . . . crisp clarity and maximum fidelity, superior craftsmanship . . . and a wealth of music for every taste from Broadway to The Beatles, from current hits to classical.

Stereo cartridges are carefully engineered to afford maximum reliability and convenience of operation

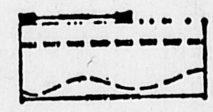
1. You never have to thread or even touch the tape.

2. You may change from one stereo program to another with the press of a button.

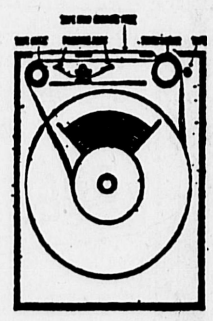
3. Tapes are continuous and never need rewinding.

4. With a minimum of care, the playing life of the tape is practically unlimited.

What is four-track and eight-track stereo tape? Within the ¼-inch tape width, music is recorded on four or eight parallel tracks which run the length of the tape. Two tracks play simultaneously and produce true stereo sound. Standard tapes provide up to 40 minutes of continuous music. Twin cartridges up to 80 minutes.



How does a tape cartridge work Stereo cartridges contain a tape in a continuous loop, which simply means that the tape runs from the center of the spool and is returned to the outer lap of the reel. Thus, never needs rewinding. Inserting the cartridge into the tape playback unit is probably as easy as replacing your cigarette lighter in the dash.



Seeing is believing, however, and perhaps the least expensive method for you to experience the unusual convenience engineered into a stereo tape is to visit a dealer and ask for a demonstration.

Realizing that stereo tapes are here to stay, Lechmere Sales of Cambridge, Danvers, Springfield and Dedham is now compiling substantial stocks. This foresighted record dealer and department store devoted exclusively to providing the consumer with even a larger and more complete musical selection than previously realized with the more traditional record album departments.

Long recognized as a retailing leader and innovator, Lechmere now features perhaps the largest selection of stereo tape cartridges in New England. It's a certainty that a visit to either Lechmere in Cambridge, Danvers, Springfield or Dedham will prove a most rewarding musical experience.

DURABLE RECORD

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe DiMaggio's 56 consecutive game hitting streak for the New York Yankees in 1941 is one of the most durable records in the baseball roster. The National League record is held by Tommy Holmes of the old Boston Braves, who hit safely in 37 straight games in 1945.

Question: Due to the high prices of meat, I've been experimenting with meatless meals and Egg Fu Yung is one dish my family just loves. I've used both leftover chicken and meat strips—do you have any other ideas beside shellfish for Egg Fu Yung? Thanks.

Mr. A.P., West Newton

Answer: Here's another recipe to add to your file—the pancakes are bursting with mushrooms, onions, sliced celery and bean sprouts—an easy dish and so nourishing. Enjoy!

MUSHROOM FU YOUNG

½ pound fresh mushrooms or 1 can (6-8 oz.) sliced mushrooms
3 tablespoons oil
¾ cup sliced onions
½ cup thinly sliced celery
1 cup bean sprouts, rinsed and drained
6 eggs
2½ tablespoons cornstarch, divided
2 tablespoons soy sauce, divided
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground red pepper
1 cup chicken broth.

Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms or drain canned mushrooms. In a large skillet or wok heat oil. Add mushrooms, onion and celery; saute for 5 minutes. Remove to a large bowl. Add bean sprouts; set aside. In a large bowl beat eggs. Add 1½ tablespoons of the cornstarch, 1 tablespoon of the soy sauce, salt and red pepper; mix well. Add to mushroom mixture; mix thoroughly. Spoon approximately 2 to 3 tablespoons of mushroom egg mixture on a lightly greased griddle or skillet. Cook until brown, turning once. Remove to platter; keep warm, repeat until all mushroom egg mixture is used. In a small saucepan combine remaining 1 tablespoon cornstarch and 1 tablespoon soy sauce and the chicken broth. Cook, stirring until thickened. Serve sauce over Mushroom Fu Yung. Yield: 5-6 portions.

How pleasant it was to hear from Mrs. G.W., Providence, R.I., who is visiting here with her daughter in West Roxbury. Here is her favorite company main dish she calls:

LONDON CHICKEN WITH NORFOLK NOODLES

24 pieces of chicken (breasts, legs and second joints)

Shortening enough to brown chicken pieces

¾ pound sliced mushrooms
2 cans cream of chicken soup
1 can mushroom soup
¼ cup sherry or white wine

Brown the chicken in shortening. Saute sliced mushrooms for just a few minutes, in about 3 tablespoons margarine. Place browned chicken pieces in a large casserole. Mix the soups (undiluted) and pour over chicken. Place mushrooms on top. Refrigerate. When ready to bake, add wine, cover and bake at 350 degrees for 1½ hours. Serves 12 (Serve with Norfolk Noodles)

NORFOLK NOODLES

12 oz. wide noodles
1 cup fresh parsley, chopped
1 pt. carton cottage cheese—large curd
1 pt. carton commercial sour cream
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of Tabasco
1 bunch green onions, chopped. Be sure to use onion tops
½ cup grated sharp cheese
½ teaspoon paprika

Boil noodles according to directions on package. Drain. While noodles are still hot, mix in all the remaining ingredients except cheese and paprika. Place in a baking dish, preferably shallow. Refrigerate. When ready to bake, top with cheese and paprika. Place in 350 degree over, uncovered, for 40 minutes or until hot through and through and cheese is melted.

Question: I would like a recipe for making my own peanut butter. Many thanks.

Mrs. J.N. Norwood

Answer: So easy to make and good for you (26 per cent of the peanut is pure protein) here's your peanut butter recipe.

HOMEMADE PEANUT BUTTER

In the container of a blender put 1 cup roasted or salted peanuts and 1½ tablespoons peanut oil. Blend the mixture until it is smooth, adding another 1½ tablespoons of oil gradually, or enough to make the peanut butter the proper consistency. Add ½ teaspoon salt if the peanuts are unsalted.

(Now that you've mastered the art of making peanut butter, here's a peanut butter cookie that's crunchy and delicious).

CRUNCHY PEANUT COOKIES

½ cup butter or regular margarine
½ cup peanut butter
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
2 cups unsifted all purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins
1 cup salted peanuts
3 cups cornflakes

Cream butter (or margarine) and peanut butter. Stir in sugar, eggs and milk. Beat in flour, baking powder and salt until smooth. Fold in raisins, peanuts, corn flakes. Drop by heaping teaspoons on greased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated moderate over, 350 degrees, for 15 minutes until lightly browned. Cool cookies on a rack. Store in tightly covered container in a cool dry place. Makes about 60 2-inch cookies.

Question: I would appreciate a recipe for Piccalilli—the old fashioned kind.

Mrs. A.M.C., West Roxbury

Answer: Here's a recipe over 25 years old. It's called:

GRANDMA'S FAVORITE PICCALILLI

2 quarts chopped green tomatoes
2 tablespoons salt
½ head cabbage, finely chopped (1 qt.)
4 medium onions, chopped
1 quart celery, finely diced
1 pint sliced green peppers
1 pint sliced sweet red peppers
2 hot peppers, chopped
1 tablespoon white mustard seed
2½ cups cider vinegar
1¼ cups sugar

Mix chopped tomatoes with salt and let stand 3 to 4 hours. Place in a colander and press out and discard the liquid. Combine pulp with other vegetables; add mustard seed, vinegar and sugar. Heat to boiling and pack into hot sterilized jars. Seal Makes 3½ to 4 quarts, depending on firmness of vegetables.

Question: I'm looking for a tuna salad recipe that is a bit different—something I can serve at a small luncheon, please.

C.A., Dedham

Answer: Quick and economical, this Tuna Pilau Salad will delight everyone!

TUNA PILAU SALAD

2 cans (6½ or 7 oz. ea.) tuna in vegetable oil
1 pkg. (6 oz.) curry flavor rice, cooked according to package directions
½ cup chopped onions

Dressing

Salad oil and reserved oil from tuna
¼ cup creamy-style peanut butter
½ cup sour cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
⅛ teaspoon paprika
⅛ teaspoon Tabasco
Salad greens
Cucumber slices

Drain tuna, reserving oil for dressing. Flake tuna or cut into chunks; combine with hot cooked curry flavor rice and onions; refrigerate. Meanwhile, add enough salad oil to reserved tuna oil to yield one-third cup. Combine oil with remaining ingredients except salad greens and cucumber slices; beat together until smooth and creamy. (Or, combine in blender container and blend on high speed until mixture is smooth). Line salad bowl with salad greens. Add chilled tuna-rice mixture; garnish with cucumber slices. Serve with peanut butter dressing. (For individual servings, pack tuna-rice mixture into 6 6-oz. custard cups; unmold immediately onto salad greens.) Serves 6.

The Coat That's Right

Wrap it up. Whirl it around. Button it snugly. That's the coat story this fall.

Sportswear inspired, the easy-to-wear wrap coat is reminiscent of the old classics of the 30's, the polo and trench coat. Today's designers have adopted the best features of both coats and come up with many variations in color and fabric. One thing remains . . . the coat must wrap and tie.

Add to the tie, big patch pockets and snugly oversized collars both of self fabric or real fur. It's a comfortable coat to wear with all clothing, easily accommodating a bulky suit or sheer dress.

Fashions By Ruth Lenson

After the wrap coat, comes the cape in every length. Capes that swirl around the knee or flamboyant ankle length capes that almost sweep the ground.

Actually, the cape is perhaps one of the simplest garments ever invented. A fall of fabric attached about the neck, the romantic cape can be dressed up such as Oscar de la Renta's magnificent ranch mink cape with a softly rolled sable shawl collar or an inelegant horse blanket plaid that spells toasty warm hours afforded while rooting for the home town football team.

A cape is nifty when its fabric is a rough, tweedy mixture worn over full tweed pants. When reversible in a contrasting color, an instant's inside-out cape movement changes the entire look.

A cape can also be a clean sweep of natural suede with double stitched seams and a hood worn with a black turtleneck sweater and cocoa flannel trousers.

Those who choose the cape prefer it for its flair for "instant drama". Women who are below average in height shy away from this style, leaving it to their taller, heavier sisters. Those who wear sizes 16 to 20 sometimes complain that coats do little to conceal their girth—for them the swash-buckling capes are the perfect answer.

Most capes are unlined, often done in double faced fabrics. Occasionally they are lavishly collared in a face-framing ring of fur. With the general trend toward fullness and flare, it's the rare wardrobe that won't boast at least one swinging cape.

Lean, fitted coats get a new look this season. Shoulders appear to be a little wider and very slightly padded with rounded wider lapels, an elongated torso and full sweeping hem.

If last year's coat needs a bit of updating, you might consider having it trimmed with fur. Fox, raccoon, rabbit and muskrat or one of the many simulated furs add an elegant touch to any fashion.

Fluffy furs trim more coats than flat furs. The fur-edged full skirted princess coat with the border that continues down the front of the coat and all around the hem is a holdover from the last two years. Cuffs of fur and bands of fur that curve up the front from the hem are also styles popular last year and seen again this fall.

Just above or just below the calf are two favored coat lengths because most designers and women have come to the wise conclusion that bare knees, thighs and legs do not add comfort to a woman when the temperature drops to freezing.

Three inches below the knee as well as ankle length remain the most favored lengths, but midcalf is also acceptable. There are also shorter coats, the seven-eights or fingertip length which is perfect with pants.

Across The Kitchen Counter Ruth Lenson

Rosh Hashanah, which means in the Hebrew language "beginning of the year," begins next Wednesday at sunset. Jewish people throughout the world celebrate the High Holy Days not with gaiety but with solemnity and quiet joy.

The ten-day period of self-examination and repentance concludes with Yom Kippur, the "Day of Atonement" (October 6th). During this time there is much visiting of friends and family . . . a time to wish one another "a healthy, sweet year of fulfillment."

Tradition calls for gefilte fish, a mixture of carp, pike and whitefish ground with carrots and mixed with seasonings, breadcrumbs and eggs, formed into balls and simmered in a rich fish stock. And though tradition is always important, it's sometimes fun to break away from strictly conventional dishes and try new versions of old favorites.

The following recipes are a mixture of the "old" and the "new." Whatever the menu, most cooks will serve a dish made of honey sybolizing the wish for sweetness in the New Year.

SWEET AND SOUR STUFFED CABBAGE

1 cup pitted prunes
1 small head cabbage
1 pound ground beef
1½ cups cooked rice
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons oil
1 medium onion, sliced
1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes
½ cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ cup crushed ginger snaps
1 bay leaf

Finely snip ½ cup pitted prunes. Reserve remaining prunes. Plunge cabbage into large pot of boiling salted water and cook for about 10 minutes, covered. Drain and carefully separate leaves, cutting away hard portion at bottom of leaf. Combine ground beef, chopped prunes, cooked rice, grated onion, salt and pepper. Put about ¼ cup mixture on each cabbage leaf and roll up, tucking in ends. Shred any remaining cabbage. Heat oil in a large heavy saucepan or Dutch oven. Cook sliced onion and shredded cabbage until tender. Gently place cabbage rolls in pan. Add remaining ingredients, including reserved whole prunes, cover pan and simmer about 2 hours, adding a little water if necessary to prevent sticking. Makes 16 cabbage rolls to be served as is or over hot boiled rice.

CHIFFON HONEY CAKE

2½ teaspoons baking powder
3½ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 heaping teaspoon cinnamon
1 heaping teaspoon nutmeg
1 level teaspoon allspice
3 eggs, separated
¼ cup oil
1 pound jar honey
One and one-third cups warm, black coffee
1¼ teaspoons cream of tartar
1 cup finely chopped nuts

Sift first 8 ingredients into a deep bowl and make a well. Add egg yolks, oil, honey and coffee and beat thoroughly. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff peaks form. Gently fold the first mixture into the whites. Fold in the nuts and pour batter into an ungreased 10-inch tube pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven 55-60 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean. Invert over funnel to cool before removing from pan.

Holiday Horns provide a special touch.

HOLIDAY HORNS

5 to 5½ cups all-purpose flour
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
½ cup milk
½ cup water
½ cup sugar
¼ cup oil
2½ teaspoons salt
2 eggs
1 cup finely chopped walnuts
1 cup (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 cup chopped maraschino cherries
Oil
Cinnamon-sugar, if desired

Stir together 2 cups flour and yeast. Heat milk, water, sugar, ¼ cup oil and salt over low heat only until warm, stirring to blend. Add liquid ingredients to flour-yeast mixture and beat until smooth, about 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer. Blend in eggs. Add 1 cup flour and beat for 1 minute on medium speed. Stir in more flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and satiny, about 8 to 10 minutes. Shape into ball and place in lightly greased bowl, turning to grease all sides. Cover and let rise in warm place (80-85 degrees) until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours. Punch down; divide in half. Cover; let rest for 10 minutes. Roll each half into a 15-inch circle. Combine nuts, chocolate and cherries; sprinkle half of this mixture over each circle, pressing gently into dough. Cut each circle into 16 wedges. Roll up each wedge toward point. Place on greased baking sheet with points underneath. Brush with oil. Sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar mixture if desired. Let rise in warm place until doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 20-25 minutes.

+Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Aruba.

Socials

Alice Smith Marries Bruce Edwin Houghton

Alice Dolores Smith and Bruce Edwin Houghton were wed recently, August 19th, at a special Meeting for Worship of the Cambridge Monthly Meeting of Friends (Quakers). The wedding was held at the Quaker Meeting House in historic Longfellow Park. During the shared silence of the meditative worship, the bride and groom exchanged their vows.

The bride, in a wedding dress she had designed and created herself, was escorted into the service by her father, Mr. Dana Smith. Her sisters, Miss Diane Smith and Miss Jean Smith, sang. The groom's father, Mr. Proctor W. Houghton read the certificate of marriage, inviting all present to add their signatures as witnesses to that of the bride and groom. Mr. Mark Houghton and Mr. Christopher Smith were ushers. Friends and relatives shared brief spoken meditations.

Following the service, a reception was held in the bride's home.

Alice Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Andrew Smith of Newton. She is entering her senior year at Boston State Teachers College in preparation for a careeer with emotionally disturbed and retarded children.

Bruce Houghton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Proctor W. Houghton and the grandson of Mrs. Ann Kautz and the late Rev. Edwin L. Kautz of West Newton. The groom is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts in chemistry and sociology and presently director of the Cambridge Hotline.

After a trip to Nova Scotia, the couple will live in Cambridge.

Sandra Segal Is Married

Miss Sandra Ellen Segel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Segel of Newtonville, became the bride of Barry L. Goldstein, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gustave Goldstein, of Pompano Beach, Florida, formerly of Huntington, Long Island.

The ceremony was performed on Sunday, August 26, at the home of the bridegroom's parents by Rabbi Morris Skop of Temple Shalom in Pompano Beach. The bride was attended by her mother and Dr. Goldstein served as best man for his son.

The bride attended the University of Pittsburgh and received a B.A. Degree from George Washington University. She also was graduated from Columbia University School of Social Work in 1972 with a M.S. degree. She is presently a medical social worker at Metropolitan Hospital in New York City.

The groom was graduated from Harvard College in 1967 cum laude. From there, he attended Columbia University School of Law where he was on the board of editors of the Columbia Law Review and received a James Kent Scholarship. Upon graduation from Columbia Law School, he received a fellowship to the Institute of Criminology, Cambridge University in England and received a diploma in criminology. He is presently a staff attorney for the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc.

The couple will live in New York City after a honeymoon to the State of Washington. (Bachrack Photo)

Bumble bee gets the best out of the last of summer weather in this blossom. This creature is a bumble bee. Its hive is usually located underground in an abandoned burrow. Its honey is deposited in a honey-pot, from whence the expression. (Tom Childs Photo)

Seminar For Teachers By Mental Health Assn.

Dr. J. Edward Conners, professor of psychology at Boston State College, and teacher for the fall Seminar for Teachers co-sponsored by the Norfolk Mental Health Association and the Norfolk County Teachers Association states that the seminar will deal with modern life, abnormal behavior and the teacher's role in preventing mental disorders and preserving the child's mental health.

The Seminar will begin on September 24, at the Westwood Junior High School and will continue for 15 consecutive Mondays except for holidays. Some of the topics Dr. Conners will discuss with the teachers are: personality development and adjustment, the basic nature of neuroses and specific neurotic patterns, childhood behavior disorders in school age children and their identification, learning disabilities, the vulnerable or battered child syndrome, environmental interventions, infant death syndrome, classroom management of behavior problems, and special education in transition.

Many actual cases will be discussed in relationship to the course material. Dr. Conners will present information from his own extensive background and will bring in guest lecturers to speak on specific material in order to give the seminar participants various points of view and different ideas of prevention and adjustment.

More information about the Seminar for Teachers may be obtained by telephoning the Norfolk Mental Health Association in Norwood — telephone 769-0006. The seminars have been very popular and consequently all participants must complete a registration form and mail it along with a $30.00 registration fee to the Norfolk Mental Health Association by September 21.

Former Sports Columnist Winner of National Award

Robert E. Bumpus, 52 Greendale Avenue, Needham Heights, was recently presented with a Certificate of Merit for achievement in distributor public relations by William A. Nail, director, public relations, Zenith Radio Corporation.

Bumpus, a lifelong resident of the Forest Hills, Roslindale, Needham area, at one time wrote a weekly sports column for the Roslindale Parkway Transcript. At that time, he was a student at the Boston University School of Public Relations from which he graduated in 1950 with the degree of bachelor of science in journalism.

He has been associated with the Hotpoint Division of the General Electric Company and for the past decade has been merchandising manager for Northeastern Distributors, Cambridge, — distributors for Kelvinator Home Appliances and Zenith Home Entertainment instruments.

Bumpus is a 1943 graduate of Roslindale High School which he left in his senior year to serve in the United States Navy for three years. At that time he was a resident of Beech street in Roslindale. It was upon his completion of military service and his enrollment at Boston University that he became associated with Transcript Publications. He covered high school and local sports for several years while attending B. U. At Roslindale High School, Bumpus was a trackman during the reign of Coach Murray and later ran crosscountry for Coach Doug Raymond at Boston University.

Bumpus, his wife, Sylvia, and daughter, Sarah, now reside at Greendale avenue in Needham Heights. A son, William, is now traveling throughout the United States and is expected back in Needham in the fall.

Leibovitz-Winnick Wedding

Married recently were Miss Nancy Sandra Leibovitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leibovitz, Westerly, R. I., and Warren Winnick, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Winnick, Auburndale.

Rabbi Gerold I. Weider performed the double ring ceremony at Sidney Hill Country Club. A reception followed.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Venise lace on English net, featuring long sleeves, empire bodice, A-line skirt and chapel train. A matching lace crown held her shoulder length illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Joseph Strauss was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Jane Fisher and Miss Nancy Mael.

Flower girls were Jennifer Strauss and Jayme Winnick.

Burton Winnick was best man for his brother. Ushers were Paul Winnick, Stephen Newman, Robert Norman, Robert Weiner, Barry Weiner and Richard Young.

The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Canada. They will reside in Framingham.

The bride was graduated from Westerly High School, Lasell Junior College, and Boston University. She is employed by Newton Dental Associates, Inc.

Mr. Winnick attended the American International College in Springfield. He is an insurance broker with Jules Mayers Associates in Chestnut Hill. (Nourses Photo)

Smith-Thorburn Wedding Held

Wed recently at the United Presbyterian Church were Elizabeth A. Smith of Newton Centre and Edward J. Thorburn of Wayland. It was a second marriage for both.

The Rev. Philip Kylander and Dr. George Fuller performed the ceremony at the United Presbyterian Church.

Maid of honor was Mary J. Umlah, cousin of the bride.

John MacLean of Newton served as best man. Ushers were Jay Gebhardt, Don Smith and Brad Smith.

A reception was held at the home of Tom Thorburn in Marlboro.

Following a wedding trip to Vermont, Mr. and Mrs. Thorburn are residing in Wayland.

Garden Reception Follows Sherrod- Eaton Wedding

A garden reception at the Hampshire road, Wellesley Hills, home of the bride's parents followed the wedding of Miss Corolyn Prior Eaton and Merveyn Frederick Sherrod of 7 Stafford street, Dedham.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Vose Eaton of Wellesley Hills, formerly of Waban. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David William Sherrod of Knoxville, Tenn.

The Union Church in Waban was the setting for the four o'clock, double ring ceremony on Saturday afternoon, September 8, and Rev. Boyd M. Johnson, Jr., was the officiating clergyman.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore an ivory chiffon gown fashioned with a scoop neckline, a set-in empire midriff of beaded re-embroidered Alencon lace, scattered pearl clusters on the bodice, and long sheer bishop sleeves with beaded re-embroidered Alencon cuffs. The gown also had a softly gathered A-line skirt with a full gathered back, and she carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids with ivy and stephanotis.

Miss Deborah Chase Freeman of West Newton was the maid of honor.

Serving as best man for his brother was L. Tyson Sherrod of Dedham, and sharing usher duties were Malcolm Vose Eaton and William Lawrence Eaton of Wellesley.

After a trip South, Mr. and Mrs. Sherrod will reside in Dedham.

MRS. MERVEYN F. SHERROD

Science Fiction Films At Museum Of Science

Boston's Museum of Science is welcoming autumn with a Science Fiction Film Series consecutive Friday nights.

There is no charge for these movies above the normal Friday night half-price admission to the Museum exhibit halls, giving a complete evening's entertainment for $1.00 for adults, and 50c for children. An added bonus for college students with ID's is a special 25c admission on Friday nights in September. These 90-minute films will be shown at 6 and 8:15 p.m.

On September 21 is "The Day the Earth Caught Fire." This unusual film raises the possibility of the earth's spinning off its axis as a result of nuclear testing. The excitement heightens as the wayward earth begins careening toward the sun.

On Sept. 28, Jules Verne tells the story of a post-Civil War inventor in "From the Earth to the Moon." Despite derision from his colleagues, this far-sighted inventor discovers a way to launch rockets toward the moon.

The film series winds up on Oct. 5 with the H.G. Wells classic, "Things to Come." Adapted by the author from his novel, The Shape of Things to Come." This pre-World War II vision of a future civilization recounts the story of a world-wide war that forces survivors underground to escape the poisonous air. The struggle of the new city-state to survive, governed by almighty Reason and Science, provides insight into a world that may not be all that imaginary.

Because this last film will be shown in October, the special college students' September discount will not be in effect. However, college students with ID's are always admitted for 50c less than the adult price.

The Museum's Skyline Cafeteria is open for dinner from 5 until 8 every Friday night. Parking is available at a nominal fee. By MBTA, take the Green Line, Lechmere car, to Science Park Station.

Christian Culture Lecture Series At Paulist Center

Father Eugene C. Kennedy, M.M., professor of psychology, Loyola University, Chicago, will be the opening speaker in the 16th season of the Christain Culture Lecture Series at John Hancock Hall, Boston, on Thursday evening, Sept. 27, at 8:15 p.m., discussing "The Institution and the Individual." Father Kennedy is a well-known lecturer and the author of about a dozen books on psychology and religious belief, including "The Pain of Being Human" and "The Return to Man."

Father Robert F. Quinn, C.S.P., moderator of the Christian Culture Lecture Series, has indicated that this year's program will be pointed towards clarifying unclear religious concepts which have caused misunderstanding among Catholics and other Christians. The lecturers will also examine some of the cultural and personal changes in morality which are apparent in today's society.

On Wednesday, Oct. 15, Father Berard L. Marthaler, O.F.M. Conv., chairman of the Department of Religion and Religious Education at Catholic University of America, will speak on "Religious Education and Socialization." Father Marthaler has written and lectured extensively on the problem and future direction of religious education - a problem which has become acute with the closing of many Catholic schools. His latest book is entitled "Catechetics in Context."

Father Walter J. Burghardt, S.J., former president of the Catholic Theological Society of America, will discuss the subject, "The Search for God, Community and Self" on Wednesday evening, Nov. 14. Father Burghardt is a lecturer at Union Theological Seminary, a member of the Lutheran-Roman Catholic Dialogue Group, and a member of the International Vatican Theological Commission. His latest book is "Saints and Sanctity."

On Wednesday evening, Nov. 28, Father Richard A. McCormick, S.J., of Loyola University, Chicago, will discuss "Divorce and Remarriage: A Moral Problem." Father McCormick is an Editor of the quarterly, THEOLOGICAL STUDIES, a frequent contributor to America Magazine, and writes extensively on moral and ethical matters.

The final lecture will be given by Father Kilian McDonnell, O.S.B., Director of the Ecumenical and Cultural Research Center, Collegeville, Minnesota, on Wednesday, Dec. 5. Father McDonnell's topic will be "The Charismatic Movement: Assessment and Critique." He is a frequent contributor to Worship Magazine and among his writings is the book, "John Calvin: The Church and the Eucharist."

On Saturday, March 9, Father Raymond E. Brown, S.S., Bible scholar and author, of Union Theological Seminary, will conduct an all-day Institute at John Hancock Hall on the topic, "Who Do Men Say That I Am? - An Evaluation of Jesus in the New Testament." Father Brown is currently lecturing at the Biblicum Institute in Rome. He is the author of numerous books and articles on the Bible and religious education.

Information and tickets for the lectures and Institute are available by contacting Father Robert F. Quinn, C.S.P., P.O. Box 8579, J.F.K. Station, Boston, Ma. 02114, or by calling 523-6083.

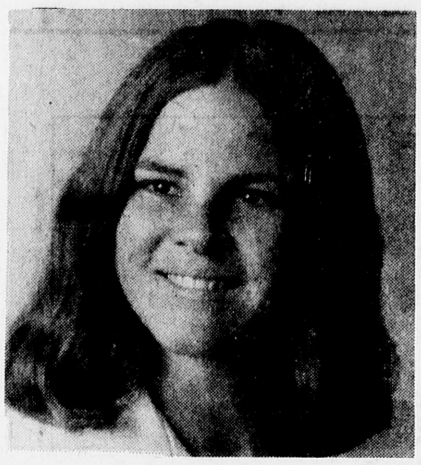
Luncheon Planners

Newton Centre members of Women's Committee of New England Villages met last week to discuss the organization's third anniversary luncheon Oct. 24 which will feature actress and television personality Arlene Francis. The affair will be held at the Chateau de Ville, Framingham. Mrs. Norman Dana (second from left) will serve as luncheon chairman. Working with her are (left to right) Mrs. Melvin Ligums, chairman of allocations; Mrs. Robert Persh, chairman of reservations, and captain Mrs. Coleman Bornstein.



ELIZABETH HAMID

Hamid-Roberts Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hamid Jr. of Margate and Princeton, New Jersey, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Patricia, to William Bailey Roberts of Waban, Massachusetts. Mr. Roberts is the son of Mrs. Hazel S. Roberts and the late Raymond B. Roberts.

Miss Hamid, a graduate of Princeton Day School, is presently a senior at Mount Holyoke College.

Mr. Roberts graduated from Rivers Country Day School in 1968 and received his B.A. cum laude from Amherst College in 1972. He is presently a second year student at Boston College Law School.

Edelston-Krim Bridal Held

Miss Jocelyn Edelston, daughter of Mrs. Henry Jacobs of New York and Towson, Md., and the late Joseph Edelston, was married August 26 to Robert Krim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Krim of Newton Centre.

Rabbi Roland Gittelsohn performed the ceremony in his study. A reception followed at the Krim home.

The bride was graduated cum laude from the Lenox School in New York and from Wellesley College. She studied art in Paris, France and received a master of arts degree in June from the University of California at Berkeley.

Mr. Krim, an alumnus of the Browne and Nichols School, was graduated cum laude from Harvard, attended the London School of Economics, and received a master's degree from Berkeley.

Gwenn Vivian, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Vivian, 770 Chestnut st., Newton, and Robin Karlin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Karlin, 20 Old Farm rd., Newton Centre, will be entering Pomona College, Claremont, Calif., as freshmen this month.

Newton Woman President Dysautonomia Foundation

Mrs. Leonard Ansin of Newton has been re-elected president of the Greater Boston Chapter, Dysautonomia Foundation, Inc.

The election of Mrs. Ansin to her second term as president followed announcement that the Chapter had presented the national Foundation with the largest single check since its founding in 1951.

Other officers who will serve during the 1973-74 year are Mrs. James Spertner of Newton, vice president; Mrs. Harold F. Goldstein of Norwood, vice president; Mrs. Kenneth Elgart of Newton, treasurer; Mrs. Leon Rothenberg of Newton, financial secretary; Mrs. Coleman Bess, Newton, recording secretary; and Mrs. Michael Suvalle, Wayland, corresponding secretary.

Founded six years ago, the Greater Boston Chapter, like other dysautonomia chapters across the country, sponsors numerous events throughout the year to raise funds to underwrite research to find a control and cure for familial dysautonomia, an hereditary disease which afflicts Jewish children.

MRS. LEONARD ANSIN

Headquartered in Norwood, the Greater Boston Chapter has more than 350 members from the Greater Boston area.

Lee D. Grossman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grossman, 130 Walnut Hill rd., Newton Highlands, will enter Lawrence University in Appleton, Wis., this fall.

Grossman is a graduate of Newton South High School.

Newton Residents Among Philharmonia Members

Four Newton residents are members of the Boston Philharmonia orchestra which opens the 1973-74 season with a gala benefit for the orchestra conducted by Michael Tilson Thomas on Sunday, Oct. 7 at 8 p.m.

Dorothy Alpert lives at 123 Walnut Hill Rd., Newton Highlands; Kay Knudsen at 43 Halcyon Rd., Newton Center; and Charlotte Marty is a resident of Newton Upper Falls. All are violinists. Nancy Jerome, a member of the flute section, lives in West Newton on Warwick Rd.

The concert will take place at the E.M. Loew National Theater of the Boston Center for the Arts, 537 Tremont St., Boston (between Clarendon and Dartmouth Sts., near Copley Sq.).

Thomas, who is principal guest conductor of the Boston Symphony and music director of the Buffalo Philharmonic, made his Boston conducting debut with the Philharmonia in 1968.

Joining him for this gala benefit will be the Cantata Singers and baritone David Evitts. The program includes Music for Brass Instruments by the late Ingolf Dahl, a teacher and long-time friend of Michael Tilson Thomas; Mass for Instruments Instead of Organ by Charpentier; Stravinsky's Abraham and Isaac with Mrs. Evitts as soloist; two choral works by Beethoven, the cantata "Calm Sea and Prosperous Voyage" and "Elegaic Song"; and Haydn's Symphony No. 81.

The Oct. 7 performance will open the Boston Philharmonia's sixth season; remaining programs will take place in the National Theater on Nov.4, Dec. 2, Jan 6, Feb. 2 and 3, Mar. 10 and Mar. 31, all at 8 p.m. Among the guest conductors will be Shangai-born Lin Tung, the first mainland Chinese ever to conduct the Japan Philharmonic, Czech composer-conductor Karel Husa and Americans James Paul and James Conlon. Among the assisting artists will be the Billy Wilson Dance Theater of Boston and the Gary Burton Quartet.

Tickets for the Boston Philharmonia's entire seven-concert season are available from the Philharmonia, 416 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass. 02115 (Tel: 536-6311). Subscriptions (including the Oct. 7 benefit) are $35, $28 and $21. Individual seats for the gala benefit are also available from the Philharmonia, and from the Boston Center for the Arts, at a cost of $15, $10 and $5 ($3 for students). Tickets will be sold at the theater two hour prior to performance.

Soft is the key word for waistlines this fall, in line with the general femininity of clothes. That means the waist is readily identifiable but not underlined. If belts are to be worn, they generally are skinny, marking the waist but not making an issue of it.

Boys' Club Opens Here Next Week

The Newton Boys' Club will open its doors to the membership for another season of services to the boys of this community on Wednesday, Sept. 26 at 2:30 p.m.

The Club will be open daily Monday thru Friday from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. On Saturdays the hours range from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All boys between the ages of seven - 18 years of age are eligible for membership and are advised to register soon as possible. Early registration will give the opportunity to sign up for favorite projects before they are filled and to schedule activities planned for the season.

According to Samuel Crocetti, executive director of the Newton Boys' Club, the main objective of the club programs is to "provide the boys with an opportunity to develop basic skills in areas of interest to them, and in this way help them develop a sense of responsibility for themselves and to others.

"We feel that by stressing qualities such as sportsmanship, cooperation, perseverance and honesty we can help the boys not only to build better lives for themselves, but also to become valuable assets to their communities and the degree to which we accomplish this goal is our measure of a successful season," he said.

A record membership of 647 boys and young men were served on a daily basis during the past year. New equipment has been installed in the complex and necessary alterations have been made in the club rooms to insure the best possible accommodations for the ever increasing membership.

Softball

The Newton Recreation Department's Girls Playground Softball Champions are from Auburndale Playground this year. The winners beat Carr Playground 14-7 in city championships. On the team were (front row from left): Lois O'Dowd, Barbara Jean McGrath, Karen Link, Gail Cole, Pam Hays and Gay Davis; (back row, from left): Maureen Mann, Maura Underhill, Laurie Bartley, Coach Kathy Sweeney, Kathy McGrath, Lenore Ross, Cheryl Bartley and Mary Cole. Another team member, Holly Wallace, is not picutred.

The work clothes zipper continues a high fashion item in women's apparel. Pierre Cardin uses the big zippers, and their big pulls, in a lot of the sportswear in his collection for American retailers. They go well with the trend to leathers and to sweater loks.

Temple Reyim Continues Its Autumn Registration

Temple Reyim, 1860 Washington St., Newton, will continue its fall registration, Sunday morning, Sept. 23 from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon for old and new members.

The fall registration presents an opportunity for prospective new members to take advantage of the temple's unique, introductory membership program.

In addition to the special introductory membership plan for new members, the half-price junior membership continues to be available to those families where the head of the household is under 35 and the children are under age eight.

Both the introductory and junior memberships afford full membership privileges, which includes two tickets for the High Holy Days. All those who are interested in affiliating with a young, Conservative congregation are invited to call the temple office, 527-2410. In the evening you may call Nate Seltzer, 969-8518 or Phil Marsh, 527-8223.

Chess Club Opens New Season

New tactical problems in chess will arise when the Newton Free Library Chess Club welcomes past masters and beginners to a new season on Wednesday, Sept. 26, at 6:30 p.m. at the Main Library, 414 Centre st., Newton Corner.

For this year's alternate Wednesday night meetings, Chess Club President, Andrew Schmidt, plans competition among members through December and a city tournament from January through March.

The club, already an affiliate of the Massachusetts Chess Association, plans to join the Eastern Mass. Chess League and to obtain a U.S. Chess Federation Charter allowing players to be rated on a national scale.

An adult team, grade 9 and up, and a junior team, under grade 9, will compete with nearby towns outside regularly scheduled meetings. And again this year members will challenge the public at the Library's booth during the New England Book Festival Nov. 2, 3 and 4.

1972-1973 active members numbered over 120 with an average of 40 participating at each meeting. A team of Andrew Schmidt, Arthur Lewis, Jason Arbeiter, Paul Sbardelli and Danny Shiman took on Watertown in May and won three games to two.

The 1972-1973 NFL Chess Club's top 10 players with NFLCC ratings were: Robert Shor 1674, Andrew Adams 1627, Michael Moy and Andrew Schmidt 1614, Arthur Lewis 1610, Steven Frymer 1600, Jason Arbeiter 1598, Karl Hahn 1584, Jon Yerkes 1556 and Mark Yesley 1552. A rating above 1600 indicates a city 'master'.

Bring chessmen and boards for a brain-teasing evening of chess, Wednesday, Sept. 26 at 6:30 p.m. in Chaffin Hall at the Main Library.

First Star Realty Negotiates Sales

Leonard Abramson, president of First Star Realty Corporation of Newton, reports the sale of two modern office buildings in Marlboro and Newton in a "package deal."

The Marlboro office building is located at 275 Boston Post Rd. and the Newton office building is at 233-235 Needham St. The Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company is the major tenant.

The purchase price is approximately $720,000.00.

The seller was Attorney Thomas Callahan; the purchaser was Mr. M. Glick.

This sale was negotiated through the office of Star Realty of Newton, Mass., represented by Eric Zingler.

Instrument Must Be In Tune, Says Piano Teacher

Arthur Medoff, well known Brookline pianist and teacher, says that second in importance to a competent teacher, the student of piano requires an instrument that is in tune and in good mechanical condition.

He said it is absolutely necessary that the student hears correct and undistorted tones to help develop his ear and correct mistakes. On an out of tune piano every note is a small mistake. In a short time the student is unable to detect very large mistakes. Thus the completion of a piece becomes a long and wearisome task which hastens his disenchantment with the piano, his lessons and music in general.

"Your piano should be tuned at least twice a year - when the heat is turned on and when it is turned off (probably October and May).

"My students require an in tune piano even more than most because, in an attempt to improve his ear and listening habits, I assign songs to be played (by ear) and harmonized (by ear). It is difficult and sometimes impossible to do this on a neglected instrument. The action mechanisms should be examined and adjusted every year or two since maladjustments will make it increasingly difficult for the student to control his playing.

"Providing the student with a good instrument, properly tuned and regulated is the best way to insure that he will get the most benefit from his lessons, make the most progress, and remain enthusiastic about playing the piano," Medoff concluded.

Flotilla Announces Its 'Safety Afloat' Classes

Flotilla 1-511, United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, will conduct a free boating course at Wayland High School, Wayland, starting on Wednesday Sept. 26, at 7:30 p.m. and continuing weekly thereafter for eight weeks.

The subject covered will be: Safety Afloat; Nautical Language; Boat Handling; Legal Requirements; Rules of the Road; Aids to Navigation; Charts and Compass; Coastal Piloting; Marine Engines; Ropes and Anchoring; and Weather and Radio Telephone.

All are welcome from teenagers to grandparents.

Exposition Set

An Antique Exposition in South Hingham will be held at the Old Colony Tennis Club, South Hingham (Exit 29 Rte 3 on Boston's South Shore).

Over 50 top Mid-Atlantic & New England antique dealers will display attractive room-like settings at the 2nd annual antique exposition. Antiques Exposition brings togethr dealer, decorator & collector.

Featured will be period — country furniture, jewelry, paintings, silver, dolls & period accessories.

Camera Club Keen On Competition

Honors will go to the best slides submitted at the second meeting of the Newton Free Library Camera Club, Monday, Sept. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Nonantum Branch Library, corner Bridge and Watertown streets.

Members or newcomers wishing to enter the competition should submit slides to Robert Hunt, chairman of the Slide Program, before 7:15 p.m. The subject will be optional.

At the first meeting of the club, past Presidents Phil Coyne and James Saret received citations for their work with the club and members presented a wide range of mini-slide shows including: "The Barbados" by Phil Coyne, "Thru the View Finder" by Penny Smith, "Cape Ann" by Robert Hunt, "Morocco" by Virginia Stiles, "Potpourri" by Jack Keough, "Window-Shopping" by Florence Coslow, "A Trip through the Orient" by N. Sobel, "Study in Colored Infrared" by James Saret and "A Jaunt thru Europe" by Leo Myers.

Plans for the Sept. 30 field trip to Mystic Seaport as well as member competition are in the offing for the next meeting of the NFL Camera Club. An open invitation is extended to anyone wishing to join or participate.

Jewish Center Offers Novel Teen Program

The Jewish Community Center of Brookline-Brighton-Newton announces an entirely new teen program for the 1973-1974 season.

Featured activities will include the Greater Boston Teen Jewish Repertory Theatre, which will explore and produce plays on topics significant to Judaism. It will meet on Sunday nights from 7 to 9 p.m.

Other activities to be offered to seventh through 12th graders will be Modern and Israli dance, Israeli folk dancing, sculpture studio, photography, cycling and hiking club, Jewish gourmet cooking, college tour group, teen volunteer corps, creative arts, discussion groups, social clubs and lounge.

Teen membership in the center includes use of the gym facilities. Teens may register for individual groups on a fee basis.

Call Kayla, at 734-0800, for further information. Registration takes place Sept. 12, 13, 14 at the Center, 50 Sutherland road, Brokline.

Backyard Frontier

While soaking up the last hot rays of summer sun on the beach during the long Labor Day weekend, I got into a conversation about seaweed with my friend Nancy.

"Seaweed makes the greatest fertilizer," Nancy said. "I come down to the ocean every year and get enough to cover my garden."

"I've heard of using it for fertilizer," I said, "but I always wondered if the salt in seaweed wouldn't harm the plants."

"Well, I've been doing it for years," Nancy said. "There must not be enough salt on the seaweed to do any damage, because I haven't had any trouble."

"When do you gather the seaweed?"

"You know how you always try to keep the garden as long as you can in the fall, just to have a little green around the house. You could gather seaweed any time, but I always wait till after the garden freezes, so I can spread it over everything."

"It must be pretty cold at the beach by them."

"I usually end up putting it off until after the first Nor'easter. The storm washes up quantities of seaweed, and the rain washes it all clean — which is probably why there isn't too much salt on it."

"Then what do you do?" I asked.

"I just spread a good, thick layer on the garden, maybe four or five inches deep. By planting time in the spring, the seaweed has completely decomposed . . . it simply disappears and looks like humus."

"And it's really good for the garden?"

"I'll say. It has more organic matter than manure has and is especially rich in potassium. It has a lot of those trace elements which aren't necessarily in the soil, but which the human body needs. It's wonderful for a vegetable garden. You can also use it for house plants and in the compost pile."

"O.K. if I come along next time you go for seaweed?"

"Sure. You'll like gathering it . . . on a quiet winter beach with no crowds around, with the warm sun on your face, the sound of the surf, and the smell of salt. The seaweed smells good on the garden, too, when you spread it. It smells like the sea in your back yard. Of course, I love the fresh farm smell of manure after it's spread, too . . . just like a barn."

"Personally, I'll take the sweet smell of the salt sea instead," I said.

"And in the spring, you get to gather your first harvest before you even put in your seeds," Nancy said. "You get down and pick out all the baggies and pieces of plastic and bits of sneaker soles and styrofoam chunks that were swept up on the beach along with the seaweed. They're all on top of your garden where the seaweed was before it turned into humus. Throw them away, and your garden is ready to plant."

Medfield Square Dance Club Begins Season

The Medfield Scrambled Eights Square Dance Club will hold a free introductory square dance lesson and demonstration on Sept. 19 at American Legion Hall, Grove street, Medfield, at 8 p.m.

Class lessons will start on Sept. 24 at the Medfield Junior High School and will be held every Monday evening from 8 to 10 p.m.

For further information call Deane and Debby Ellis at 359-6827. (In some areas dial a 1 before the number.)

Auditions For Greater Bostonians

Auditions for the seventh season of The Greater Bostonians will be held during September in the television studios of WNAC-TV Boston.

The Greater Bostonians have won national acclaim for their performances of popular music in personal appearances, recordings and television specials. During the spring of 1974, the group will again present a major performance in Symphony Hall and a new TV special on Channel 7.

Auditions are open to instrumentalists and vocalists from high schools throughout Greater Boston.

Audition appointments may be made by writing WNAC-TV, Government Center, Boston 02114, or calling 266-7515 weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Buy Tureen For Soup And Status

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — When some future social scientist compiles a history of status symbols through the ages, he might well consider soup tureens.

Of all the peculiar ways people have found to keep ahead of the Joneses, glorification of a humble soup-serving bowl is among the strangest. But for a while in the 18th century an ostentatiously valuable or garishly bizarre soup tureen was a status symbol of the first rank.

London's Victoria and Albert Museum has provided the point with an exhibit of part of the Campbell Soup Co.'s astonishing collection of tureens.

There are tureens shaped like rabbits, or chickens, or cabbages with a frog on top, or a boar's head with thrusting tusks. There are silver tureens by the most famous silversmiths of all times and an earthenware one from Portugal shaped like a wooden barrel filled with fish.

Most Had Trays

Most of these great covered bowls originally had matching trays, many of which have been lost or broken in two centuries of uncaring use. But the Campbell company viewed tureens alone as objects dear to its corporate heart and collected them in seven intensive years of scouring Europe and the United States.

There are porcelain tureens from China and Chelsea, from Meissen and Montpelier. There are pewter tureens and Mexican silver tureens and Swedish faience tureens until the mind boggles.

Naturally the soup company had to build something to house such acquisitions as the ship-shaped silver tureen made for Russia's Catherine the Great. Its Campbell Museum has been open in Camden, N.J., for just over three years.

Everything in it has to do with soup—soup plates, soup ladles, soup spoons and above all, tureens. This is the first time items from it have been shown in Europe, where many of them were first made.

Most Made in 18th Century

Most of the collection's really beautiful or really wild tureens were made in the 18th century.

"Formal dining at that time," says Campbell's President William Parker in a catalogue for the museum collection, "was conducted on a grand scale and with an elegance that is unmatched in history."

Elegance is easy to see in the graceful silver tureens by such English silversmiths as Paul Storr, Paul de Lamerie or Robert Garrard. The grand scale shows even in the most extreme designs.

"Big Walk" For Birth Defects On October 7

Making it together . . .

That's what hundreds of people of all ages will be doing on Sunday, October 7th, as they join hands in the fight against birth defects by walking in the March of Dimes Tri-Town "Big Walk." The now annual event will start and end at the Tri-Town Mall and will pass through the towns of Canton, Sharon and Stoughton.

Early registration points to the fall "Big Walk" becoming the biggest walkathon, in terms of participation, that has ever taken place in the Tri-Town area. "While walkathons have traditionally attracted young people, this one seems to be well supported by older folks as well," said Dr. Trott, Mass. Bay Chapter campaign director.

Each person participating in the walk will seek contributions in the form of pledges for every mile they walk. Proceeds from the mammoth event will aid the March of Dimes in the struggle against crippling birth defects.

Anyone interested in joining or sponsoring a walker should call 783-4180 day or night.

Charity Bazaar By Nuns At Dedham Mall

Contemplative Nuns of the New England Region — members of the Assn. of Contemplative Sisters — will sponsor a charity bazaar at the Dedham Mall on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 21 and 22.

The participating monasteries include Carmelites from Roxbury, Mass.; Concord, N. H.; Barre, Vt.; and Saranac Lake, N. Y.; Poor Clare Nuns from Jamaica Plain and W. Andover, Mass.; Dominicans of Bethany in Millis, Mass.; Sisters of Jesus Crucified in Newport, R. I.; Trappistines, etc. Proceeds will go to the Association of Contemplative Sisters and to the contributing monasteries.

There will be many hand-crafted articles on sale — cards and candles, ceramics and jewelry, as well as knitted, sewn and crocheted things. Most of the articles on sale have been made by the Nuns and others have been donated by friends. In addition, chances are being sold for five articles; two afghans, a still-life painting, a doll house styled after a southern mansion, and a wood-finish ceramic nativity set with creche.

The bazaar will feature a white elephant table and a food sale also.

Schoolboy Football Is Here

Newton South Journeys To Weston For Opener

By VIN LEMBO

The Dual County League officially opens its 1973 season this Saturday afternoon as the Newton South football team journeys to Weston to meet powerful Weston High School. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Newton South Head Coach George Winkler expects his squad to be ready for the contest. The team has looked good during the month-long pre-season period, getting progressively better with each scrimmage.

When asked what it would take for Newton to come away from Weston with a victory, Coach Winkler said, "We have to outhit them. The game will be won or lost in the trenches." Winkler has the utmost respect for the Weston team, saying, "Weston is a good ballclub. They have an excellent backfield and the entire squad is experienced. But I think Newton has the ability to outhit Weston and to stop their running game. If we outhit them, we'll win."

YOUNG TEAM

The Newton South team is relatively young, having only nine seniors on the roster. Most of the experienced players will be in the starting line-up, leaving little depth on the bench. The team is coming off a poor season last year, when they finished with a 3 and 6 record, although two losses came in non-league contests. The majority of the team is composed of juniors and sophomores, which means that if South can put a winning year together this season, they'll be the team to watch next year in the Dual County League.

Many of last year's sophomores, however, have returned this season with a year's varsity experience behind them. This is an important factor because there is no teacher like experience. Winkler will start seven veterans on offense, and most of them will also see action defensively. Tri-captains for this year's team are Dennis Anastasia, Tony Lombardo, and Arthur Murphy.

EXPERIENCED OFFENSE

The Newton South offense will be an experienced unit, with many of the boys having seen quite a bit of action last season. The key to the Weston game, as Coach Winkler believes, will be the offensive line's ability to open holes for the fine running backs in the Newton backfield.

Winkler will start Co-captain Dennis Anastasia at center, Greg Moan and Aaron Moynihan at the guards, Rick Taranto and Haskell Kingston at the tackles, and Bob Taglienti and Hal Bennett at the ends. In the Newton backfield, Pete Maples will run out of the fullback slot and Pete Nathanson will be one of the halfbacks. Winkler is still undecided as to his starting quarterback, and he will be forced to choose between Lombardo, Jeff Lawson and Kevin Hogan. If Hogan does not start at quarterback, he will be the other halfback in the backfield. If he is chosen to call signals, Winkler will insert Joe Donlan at halfback. Donlan has looked very good at practice at both halfback and fullback.

Others who may see action on offense for Newton South are running backs Rick Gasman and Jeff Bennett, tackle Paul Tormey, end George Brockman, and tackle Scott Groper. Groper will also be called upon to do the punting.

MOST GO BOTH WAYS

Most of the offensive unit will switch to defense when Newton gives up the pigskin. This is a major example of Newton's lack of depth, but Winkler believes he can oovercome this handicap. Hal Bennett and Bob Taglienti will be the defensive ends, with Dennis Anastasia and Rick Tarento at the tackles. Pete Maples will be the middle guard. Winkler has yet to decide on his "Monster Man," and he will probably choose between Matt Sabetti and Haskell Kingston.

Linebakers for Newton will be Greg Moan and Aaron Moynihan while Tony Lombardo, Kevin Hogan and Art Murphy will be the defensive halfbacks.

Newton has had some problems with injuries during the training season, but none seem to be serious. Defensive hallfback Tom Sullivan has been hurt, but he is getting in shape and may see action on Saturday. The same is the case with fullback Walt Fatini. Tackle Paul Tormey is still a question mark for the tilt.

WALPOLE SCRIMMAGE

Newton South ended their scrimmage season with a full scrimmage against Walpole of the Bay State League last Saturday. Winkler was happy with his defense even though Walpole outscored Newton. "They edged us in the score," Winkler said, "but we were able to keep close to them. I think we've shown steady progress during the scrimmages and I'm sure we'll continue to progress throughout the season." Walpole is picked by many to be the front-runner in the Bay State League this season, so Newton was up against some stiff competition.

The coaching staff of the Newton South team includes Head Coach George Winkler, Line Coach Art Kojoyian, Backfield Coach Charlie Vento, End and Junior Varsity mentor Mark Young, Kicking Coach Norm MacConnell, Trainer Warren Bochtold, and Equipment Manager Ed Poskitt.

"We've had a very positive training period," Coach Winkler stated. "We have made steady progress and the boys have had a great deal of enthusiasm. We'll be ready on Saturday. We'll make mistakes as all teams do early in the season, but we hope they won't hurt our effort. If we don't make too many mistakes, and if we hit hard on the line, we'll be successful."

Newton At Everett With Norm Walker At Controls

By BOB LOW

There will be many new faces on the field this Saturday when Newton High opens its football season at home against Everett.

Only four players are back from last year's squad which compiled a seven and two regular season record, and fell just short of taking the superbowl, bowling to Brockton 16-14.

Co-captains tackle Gardner Olsen and lineback Jerry Kelleher return along with quarterback Cal Moffie and tackle Jay Murphy.

The rest of the squad is made up of newcomers and in some positions remain up for for grabs. Only the backfield is set, with Moffie and Kelleher, fullback Gary Breton and wingback Dana Foley.

The biggest fights are in the defensive secondary where Joe Rondina, Bobby Meek, Gary Tutunjian and Artie Murphy are the leading contenders, and on the defensive line where Darrell Ramsey, Rod Marshall, Donnie Keefe and Mark Riley will probably start.

The Tigers suffered a slight blow when Don Morrell, who would have started on the line, injured his knee a week before the opener.

One place where experience won't be lacking is on the sidelines where Norman Walker with eleven years of coaching experience is taking over from James Ronayne.

Walker has spent nine years as assistant coach at Newton High, in between which he spent two years as head coach at Wayland.

Walker is building a "traditional" Newton team with a strong defense and basic offense.

The Tigers squad is small, with only one player, Jay Murphy, over 200 pounds. But Walker calls it a "fighting, young" team. He says they "must tighten up all around," and that they "still have a lot to learn."

But he says that the team's progress is very satisfactory, their attitude is very good, and they will be ready when the opener is played.

Newton held four scrimmages during the pre-season. They tied with M.I.T., topped B.C. High, lost to Natick, and had a situation scrimmage with Walpole.

Of these scrimmages, Walker said: "We were trying to get certain things done, and we got those things down in each case."

But the real test of the Tigers ability will be when Everett comes to Dickinson Field this Saturday.

Lions Win Second Straight

The N.A.A. Lions won their second straight Pop Warner Suburban League game by beating the Brookline Rams 20 to 0 and this marked the second consecutive shutout for the N.A.A. The Lions did it with a ball controlled offense and an awesome defense. Brookline kicked off and the ball went thru the end-zone for a touch-back. The N.A.A. was unable to launch an attack and was forced to punt. The Newton punt by Steve Fleming was mishandled by the Brookline punt receiver and the Lions' Jack Forti alertly recovered the fumble at the Brookline's 26. With power running against the stingy Ram defense, the Lions moved down to the 4 yard line and had a serious scoring threat stopped by a fumble. It was on the next series Brookline picked up one of their two first downs all afternoon. From these the Newton defense stopped Brookline cold and made Brookline punt, which was returned by Steve Fleming 36 yards to the Brookline 14. Newton advanced to the two yard line from where Rich Proia scored on a push over left tackle, behind the great blocks of tackle Joe Donaghue and guard Jim Schmidlein. The conversion attempt by Proia was stopped just short of the goal line.

The Newton Defense really throttled the Brookline attack in the second period holding them to 5 yds. total offense. Newton was set back to their own 30 when an illegal fair catch was ruled. The Lions ate up the clock with another ground assault. In this series Proia carried the ball 3 times for 12 yds., Steve Fleming carried 3 times for 18 yds. and fullback Barry Gale once for 4 yds. In a key situation quarterback Brian Kinsella hit half back Richy Proia for 14 yds and a first down. But, with time running out, Brookline held at their ten yds. line. At the end of the half Rich Proia had 42 yds. rushing, Steve Fleming 19 yds. and Barry Gale 9 yds. and the Lions led 6 to 0.

Forti Recovers

Opening the third period the Newton kick off was recovered by a very fast John Forti on the Brookline 35. The Lions mounted a 9 play drive featured by a 10 yd. scamper by Steve Fleming and a 16 yard ramble by Barry Gale. However, the drive stalled at the Ram 10 yd. line. Again the Lion defense throttled the Ram offense and forced another Brookline punt. Scat back Rich Proia fielded the punt at his own 35 and behind excellent blocks by Fleming, Paul Butters and Mike Hernandez rambled 45 yds. for a touchdown, only to have it nullified by a clip.

In the fourth period the Rams opened by getting their second first down of the afternoon. After that it was all Lions. Rich Proia returned their punt 36 yds. to the Ram 26. Six plays later Proia went over left tackle for the score. Joe Donaghue blew out the whole left side of the Ram defense. Proia also rushed a conversion, behind a crisp block by Barry Gale. Later in the fourth period Steve Fleming went off left tackle behind a block of Andy Toyias for 11 yds. and a touchdown.

The Lions picked up 149 yds. rushing and 226 overall while allowing Brookline to hold the ball only six times for a total of 11 yds.

Proia Leads Carriers

The Lions ground attack was well balanced; Proia had 69 yds. rushing, Fleming 42 and Gale 31. The offensive line that controlled the game included center John Kane, guards Andy Toyias and Jim Schmidlien tackles Mike Hernandez, Sean Foley and Joe Donaghue, ends Noel Foley, Jim Quinn and Scott Seidman.

Defensively Andy Toyias and Dave Mosca split the middle guard chores. Tackles were Joe Donaghue and Mike Hernandez, ends Glen Erickson, Doug Bullen and Jack Forti, line backers Barry Gale, Stve Fleming and Brian Kinsella. Secondary backs included Jim Quinn Paul Butters and Tony Muccini.

Fleming and Forti were outstanding at their respective positions while Barry Gale intercepted his second pass of the season in the fourth period.

Next week the Lions play home opener against the Waltham Devil Dogs who beat the Wayland Chargers this week.

South Soccer Team Looking For A Big Season

By RANDY GRODMAN

This year could turn out to be one of Newton South's great soccer years. The team is led by coaches Ophair Caras and Alan Einhorn. This is Mr. Einhorn's first year of coaching, as he is a recent graduate of Cornell University. He was the co-captain of the soccer team there, and is presently studying law at Boston University.

The team roster includes twenty-three promising young athletes. Alternating in the goal are goalies John Bamel, a junior, and Jimmy Sheroff, a senior. Fullbacks for the team include seniors Alan Barnett, Randy Grodman, Ittai Kan, Ed Lafferty, David Mark, Larry Shulkin, and junior Ray McKinney. Playing halfback are seniors Billy Goodman, Andy Moore, Mike Shockett, Billy Tartar, and junior Mike Lafferty. Making up the team's strong offensive line are seniors Larry Benders, Aris Bidianos (last year's M.V.P. of the Dual County Soccer League), John Firger, Roger Gordon, Paul Lynn, juniors Humberto Fagundes, Mike Kan, and Jimmy Young, and the team's only sophomore, Bruce Jennings.

The following were members of the Varsity soccer team last year: Aris Bidianos, Billy Goodman, Roger Gordon, Randy Grodman, Mike Lafferty, Paul Lynn, Andy Moore, Mike Shockett, and Billy Tartar.

The team has already played its three pre-season scrimmages. The first was against Boston College High at Newton South on August 30. The two teams fought diligently, and the result was a 1-1 tie. Scoring for South was Ed Lafferty.

On September 8, South went to Arlington, and beat the home team. The final score was 5-2. Senior Roger Gordon had a good day, scoring three goals, and Aris Bidianos and Bruce Jennings each scored one. Three goals came in the first quarter, one in the second, and one in the third. Arlington scored their goals in the second and fourth quarters.

FINAL SCRIMMAGE

South travelled to Brookline on September 14th to play its final scrimmage. With seniors Aris Bidianos and Roger Gordon excelling for South, they went on to win by a score of 4-1. Roger Gordon scored two goals, Aris scored on an indirect kick, and junior Humberto Fagundes scored on a penalty kick. All four of South's goals were scored in the second quarter. Brookline's lone goal came in the fourth quarter.

This year, headed by a new coach, Mark Young, the Junior Varsity has high hopes. In pre-season games, the J.V. has not looked as strong as it might, but things may change.

On August 30 they played Boston College High, and lost 3-1. The lone goal was scored by Jim Goldfarb. Then, Sept. 7, they went on to play Beaver. They lost by a score of 4-1, and their only goal came in the third quarter by sophomore Danny Wisel.

JV's WIN

The tide changed on September 14 when the J.V. played Brookline at home. Winning by a score of 3-0, the team looked strong all-round. Excelling for South were sophomore Carson Milgroom, who scored two goals, and junior Mark Schuster, a fullback. South's third goal was scored by sophomore Danny Wisel.

Both the varsity and the junior varsity look forward to playing their first league game on Tuesday, September 18. With a little bit of luck, and a lot of hard work, both teams will have very successful seasons.

South X Country Team Is Ready

By RANDY GRODMAN

Coached by Richard Geist, a teacher at Newton South High School, the Cross-Country team has hopes of achieving a winning record.

Led by captain Byron Ress, a senior, the team will run in it's first tri-meet against Maynard and Concord-Carlisle at Maynard.

The squad is broken down into two teams - a Varsity and a Junior Varsity. The Varsity includes seniors Russ Kintner, Bob Lein, Byron Ress, David Robinson, and Ara Shishmanian, juniors Chris Capeless and Jeff Karol, along with sophomore Dennis Belke. Running for the Junior Varsity are sophomore Arthur Brown, junior Stuart Rothman, and senior Dennis Sheradon.

Running with at least one year's previous experience are Chris Capeless, Russ Kintner, Bob Lein, Byron Ress, David Robinson, Stuart Rothman, and Ara Shishmanian.

This year the team will take part in eight tri-meets, a league meet, the Catholic Memorial Invitationals, and then the state meet. Other teams in the league include Acton, Bedford, Concord-Carlisle, Lincoln-Sudbury, Maynard, Wayland, and Weston.

As the Cross-Country meets consist of a course between 2.4 and 2.9 miles, it is essential that the team be in shape. To meet this requirement, each day of practice consists of a combination of about four of the following drills:

a. warm up with 20 minutes of calisthenics.
b. jog an easy mile on the course before workout.
c. run at least 5 miles.
d. practice running uphill, working on drive, body lean and arm carry.
e. easy stretching and jogging.
f. time trial.
g. interval running: 440's, 880's, mile.
h. interval running over cross-country course.
i. stride 150's on flat turf.
j. finish workout with running hills.
k. easy jogging to end practice.

If the team can remain in top form, it may have a rewarding season.

Bicycle-

injury or property damage over $100 must report the accident to the Registry of Motor Vehicles and the local police departments.

How are all these provisions, and more, going to be enforced?

S. 1847 carries with it a fine up to $20 for violations, and states that parents of children under age 18 shall not knowingly allow operation of a bicycle in violation of the provisions of the law.

Bicycles operated by persons under 18 in violation of the provisions of the bill, if it becomes law, would be subject to impoundment for up to 15 days.

As a further aid to law enforcement and accident prevention, local police may use the provisions of another, recently enacted law of Saltonstall's (S. 883).

In S. 883, every city and town is directed to provide a noncriminal ticketing procedure against violators of local or state laws governing equipment and operation of bicycles.

(Sgt. Feeley said this week that he knows of "no plans to print tickets of any nature" by the Newton Police department.)

Further provisions of S. 883, which was signed into law about two months ago according to Sen. Saltonstall's office, are an optional fine, and a notice sent to the parent of a child under age 16.

Every driver and every bicycle rider each must assume more responsibility.

Toward that end, the Charles River Wheelmen, Inc., an association of about 300 "serious cyclists, have endorsed the Saltonstall bills (they helped write them, said CRW founder and former president Ralph Galen of Cambridge).

Galen's pet horror when he is on a bike or in a car is people who ride their bikes on the wrong side of the street.

For every motorist who thinks the road belongs to them exclusively and complains about the cyclist who does not signal, who rides out in the middle of the street and who may and often does commit other unpleasantries against the "king of the road," there is a bike rider who can tell about the number of car drivers that cut a rider off at the corner, open the car door in front of a bicycle, and do not observe a bicycle's right of way.

For the drivers who feel that a bicycle should not be on the road at all, Saltonstall's most recent bill says: "Every person operating a bicycle upon a way . . . shall have the right to use all public ways in the Commonwealth except limited-access or express state highways where signs have been posted, and shall be subject to the traffic laws and regulations of the Commonwealth . . ."

The bicycle really is here to stay. It is not a child's toy, but a way of life.

Whether or not Saltonstall's latest bill becomes law, this week it shows that people are beginning to face the need for some kind of legislation. Clearly education and reeducation are needed as well.

Choralists Begin Rehearsals

The Choral Society of Brookline-Brighton-Newton has announced its first rehearsal for the 1973-1974 season on Monday evening, Oct. 1, at 7:45 p.m. at the Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center, 50 Sutherland Rd., Brookline.

Under the direction of Mary Wolfman Epstein, of Brookline, the Society will prepare for a program of Hebrew, Yiddish and folk music to be presented in concert during the fall and winter season.

Openings in all sections of choral singing are available. Information for membership may be obtained by calling Harry Bloom, chairman, at 254-8840.

Victorious BC Eagles Journey To Deep South

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

So much for the questions of last week.

However good Temple is, Boston College is better, much better.

Before a Newton Night crowd of 27,710 at Alumni Stadium, last Saturday, the Eagles made their season's debut and crushed the Owls, 45-0.

Annihilation is the best word to describe what the high-flying Eagles did to the visitors from Philadelphia.

Mike Esposito may be no relation to the brothers Esposito of hockey fame, but if his rate of improvement keeps up he may make the local fans divert their attention to the gridiron fellow of the same name.

Esposito shredded the Temple line for 159 yards in 28 carries and two touchdowns. He had 148 of them by the half when BC led 10-0. Though the score was still close Temple was locked out of the game by BC's ball control strategy.

In the second half, although Esposito was less of a factor, his backfield mates Phil Bennett and Keith Barnette kept the running game on top.

Bennett bulled his way to three short-yardage touchdowns and Barnette notched the other one. All six Eagle scores came on the ground.

Fred Steinfort, a left-footed booter, took care of the rest of the team's point-production with six extra points and a 46-yard field goal in the second quarter.

So the Boston College offense looks sharp, and two of the chief questions confronting the team before opening day have been answered.

Quarterback Gary Marangi, though not called upon to pass much, proved he could run the team without something awful happening, and the defense, loaded with capable, anonymous performers, showed it could get the job done.

The Pat Bentzel and Jim Combs-led unit contained an attack which had piled up 49 points the week before and which had one more week of game experience under its belt.

With the pursuit, accurate tackling and the tenaciousness the defensive 11 exhibited, Eagle fans should be less apprehensive about the Southern swing which confronts their troops.

ON TO SOUTH

Ah, Tulane. New Orleans is a nice place to visit, around Mardi Gras time. The Mardi Gras is in late winter, however, so the Eagles will have to settle for football.

Last year, not knowing really what to expect outside of a big, physical football team, BC was toppled in its opener, 10-0.

One situation will be reversed in the Eagles' second game. They will have the edge in seasonal experience. It will be the opener for Tulane.

This will be a true test for BC. Tulane has been rated in the top 20 by some national magazines, mostly on the strength of its ferocious defense. If the BC offense can best that rugged defense, it could be a Boston College year. And the clamoring amongst the fans for a return trip to Louisiana in January–for the Sugar Bowl–will start.

But those thoughts are premature at this date, with only one foe flattened. Just a hint of things to come came over the wire in the late scores. Next week's opponent, Texas A&M belted Wichita State, 48-0 in its opener. There are no patsies on this trip.

CROSS COUNTRY

The cross-country season got underway last Saturday, but the Eagle harriers decided not to take in the Northeastern Invitational at Franklin Park.

However, the Greater Boston Track Club, with four Eagle alumni in its lineup, made its debut and fared fairly well.

The new club finished second to Northeastern in the five-mile race behind Bob Sevene of Waltham, sixth in 25:12, Steve Marks, 26:03, 13th, Alan Milld, 26:07, 14th, Charlie Diehl, 26:40, 25th, and Bernie Lancaster, 27:19, 38th.

Marks attended Harvard, Milld, Boston State, Diehl, BC, and Lancaster was a 4:10 miler at Northeastern last year, but has transferred to BC. He is ineligible for that reason this fall.

Jack MacDonald, 28:01, the founder of the club, and ex-of BC, Kurt Pfrangel, 28:28, formerly of Tufts, and Dick Mahoney, 30:19, another ex-BC man, also competed for GBTC. BC's Don Ricciato did not finish.

The Eagle varsity squad will meet Tufts and Boston University Saturday morning also at Franklin Park.

Deaths

Francis Ginsberg

Nationally known teacher-consultant in operating room nursing Miss Francis Ginsberg died Thursday (Sept. 13) in Tufts New England Medical Center after a long illness.

Miss Ginsberg, 55, of 209 Commonwealth Ave., Chestnut Hill, operated Francis Ginsberg Associates, serving as a consultant for 400 hospitals in the United States.

A retired colonel in the Army Nurse Corps, Miss Ginsberg served in the South Pacific during World War II. She was the author of several books and contributed a column published in "Modern Hospital."

She was a registered nurse and graduated from the Beth Israel School of Nursing in 1950. She was also a Boston University graduate (1948) and received her master's degree in administration from BU in 1951.

Miss Ginsberg is survived by a brother, Stanley, of Washington, D.C.; and two sisters, Mrs. Estelle L. Weiner and Mrs. Marilyn Dropkin of Winthrop.

Services were held in Levine Chapel, Brookline, Monday (Sept. 17).

Erasma Ventura

Funeral services were held Saturday (Sept. 15) in Our Lady Help of Christians Church for Mrs. Erasma (Macera) Ventura.

Mrs. Ventura, 82, of 16 Walker St., Newtonville, died Wednesday (Sept. 12) in Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Gaeta, Italy, she had lived in Newton for the last 18 years.

She is survived by two sons, Guido of Newton and Albert of Malden; three daughters, Mrs. Tina Fantasia of Newtonville, Mrs. Eleanor Pasciuto of Medford and Mrs. Mary Spinosa of Arlington; 19 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren; three brothers, Gaetano of Somerville, Anthony of Revere and Michael Macera of Gaeta, Italy; and one sister, Mrs. Anita Valente of Gaeta.

Burial is in St. Michael's Cemetery, Boston.

Head Of Lechmere Sales To Start Second Career

Maurice M. Cohen, who led Lechmere Sales from a small family run tire business to a major force in American retailing, will leave Lechmere this month to embark upon a new three-phased career.

After forty years in retailing, Cohen will devote himself to outside business interests, community involvement and cultural endeavors.

"I am fortunate to be able to enter upon a second career while still young," Cohen said. "I will now have the opportunity to express myself in areas I have long been interested in, but have never had ample time to pursue fully."

His new business interests will involve investments and directorships in a number of corporations, and placing major emphasis upon developing budding entrepreneurs to expand their own business operations.

Although active in community affairs for many years, Cohen now sees the opportunity for an intensive community participation. He has long been active in philanthropic work, holding leadership roles with the Combined Jewish Philanthropies, American Friends of the Hebrew University, Brandeis University, Bonds for Israel, Jewish Theological Seminary and Temple Emeth. Future plans call for extending these involvements as well as new community activities.

In addition, Cohen intends an intensive program of personal involvement in travel, reading and "so many of those things for which time never was ample in the past."

"I cannot predict the exact degree of involvement in all of these activities," Cohen said. "The one thing I do know for certain is that the next forty years will not be like the last forty years."

Former president and chairman of Lechmere Sales, Cohen is one of the nation's most prominent and respected figures in the retailing field, and has pioneered retailing concepts which have gained national recognition for both his company and himself. He was the first retailer in his category to be twice named as "Retailer of the Year" by the Brand Names Foundation, winning this highly coveted award in 1959 and in 1966.

Cohen is a former vice president and director of the National Appliance Radio-TV Dealers' Association, a member of the board of managers, Middlesex Bank, a director of the Coolidge Bank and Trust Company and former president of the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce.

Howard Chevrolet To Reveal New 1974 Models

Chevrolet Motor Division takes new strides forward as the industry's manufacturing and sales leader with important advances in sturdiness and roadability in its seven different passenger car lines for 1974.

On the way to a third consecutive record "three million-plus sales" year, Chevrolet will introduce its new cars and trucks in dealership showrooms across the country on Thursday, September 20, including the show room of Howard Chevrolet, 361 Belgrade avenue, West Roxbury.

A total of 44 models are being offered by Chevrolet for 1974. . . four less than in the previous model year.

Greatest change is in the Chevelle line where a new sporty Laguna Type S-3 coupe is added while a luxurious new Malibu Classic series replaces the Laguna series at the top-of-the line. The Malibu becomes the standard series replacing the former DeLuxe designation.

"Improvements all across the board add value to all our car lines," says F. James McDonald, Chevrolet general manager.

"Later in mid-year of the 1974 model run," McDonald added, "further excitement will be added with the introduction of the special performance Cosworth Vega. Heart of this limited production option," he said, "will be the Cosworth Vega engine with dual overhead camshafts and 16 valves - four per cylinder."

In addition to the various styling and mechanical advances, Chevrolet is equipping all cars in 1974 with a sequential ignition interlock in the seat belt system that calls for the driver and front seat passenger to be seated with belts buckled before the car will start. Seat sensors and buckle switches operate sequentially to help prevent defeating the system.

There are three distinct bumper systems on Chevrolet cars in compliance with the more stringent government impact regulations.

They include the hydraulic-pneumatic energy-absorbing systems on the regular Chevrolet, Chevelle, Monte Carlo and Nova; the new spring-mounted aluminum bumpers with resilient impact strips on Camaro and Vega and the body-colored urethane "soft" bumper covers with aluminum and cast iron reinforcement and deaw bolts on the Corvette.

Engine power ranges from the Vega's aluminum alloy block four-sylinder 140-cubic inch power plant and the standard 250-cubic inch six-cylinder on up to an optional 454 cubic-inch V8.

In compliance with emission standards, California engine availability will be different from the rest of the nation. Basically, all California V8s will have four-barrel carburetion. Additionally, Chevrolet is making a four-barrel 400 V8 standard for all big Chevrolet wagons and a two-barrel 400 V8 standard for Chevelle wagons. . . both for improved performance.

Various sizes of steel-belted radial ply tires are standard on Corvette, Monte Carlo and Laguna Type S-3 and available as extra cost options on all others.

Headlining the broad variety of other Chevrolet developments for 1974 are new front and rear styling for standard-size cars; new styling for the Chevelle and Vega lines; new front and rear appearance for the Camaro and styling refinements for the Monte Carlo.

The five coupes in the standard Chevrolet and Chevelle series have new roof designs. There are new bumper systems using for the first time extruded aluminum bumpers for Camaro and Vega.

Other features for 1974 include wear sensors and indicators for disc brake lining and front suspension ball joint; new battery flame arrestor caps; a low internal resistance battery and a more simplified air conditioning system.

Basic highlights of the new Chevrolet lines according to Neal and Howard Clay of Howard Chevrolet Inc., 361 Belgrade avenue, West Roxbury, are:

There are two distinct appearances in front and rear styling. . . one for Caprice models and one for Impala and Bel Air series. Caprice Classic coupe and Impala Custom couple have new colonnade-type roof design with long rear quarter windows nearly 50 per cent larger. The new Impala sport coupe roof features formal hardtop styling.

A new heavier guage frame as well as rear suspension lower control arms are given a new anti-corrosion treatment. Added body insulation gives Caprice models quieter ride while extra acoustical package is available as extra cost option on Impalas and Bel Airs.

Seat folding operation in the big Chevrolet 3-seat wagons, as well as Chevelle models, is made even easier. All seats can be operated from a single position at right hand side of wagons.

N. E. Wood Carvers To Exhibit At Concord

The first gallery exhibit of wood carvings by contemporary New Englanders is being held at the Concord Art Association gallery through October 7th. The gallery, at 15 Lexington road (Route 2A) in Concord Center, is open from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily Tuesday through Saturday; from 2 to 4:30 on Sundays; and is closed on Mondays.

The exhibit will be presented by the New England Wood Carvers (NEWC) and will consist of whittlings, wood carvings, and wood sculpture produced by amatdur and professional members. The open exhibit will be housed in two rooms on the first floor of the gallery, and a juried exhibit will be shown on the large second-floor of the gallery.

An evening of carving demonstrations is planned from 7:30 to 10 on Thursday, September 27th in a combined program between the Concord Art Association Gallery and the First Parish Meeting House at 20 Lexington road. This program will consist of several informal and simultaneous carving demonstrations from 8 to 9 o'clock in the Parish Hall. Before and after the demonstrations the gallery will be open to view the exhibit, and refreshments will be served following the demonstrations.

The New England Wood Carvers is a non-profit, cultural, and educational organization dedicated to the promotion of wood carving as an art form to the general public, and to the advancement of all wood carving skills by its members. Membership is drawn from all walks of life, amateur and professional whittlers, carvers, and sculptors. Membership, now standing at 281, is drawn from the six New England states and from Canada. The organization holds five regularly-scheduled meetings a year in Lexington, Massachusetts. Meetings are held in even numbered months, except August, and usually consist of a short business meeting, a guest speaker or program on some facet of wood carving, followed by a fellowship hour with refreshments.

A bi-monthly newsletter is published to announce each regular meeting and to present news of interest to wood-carvers. A membership roster is also published to encourage communication between members.

Several shopping-mall exhibits are held each year by NEWC, and NEWC has sponsored shows at the West Lynn Public Library. Individual NEWC members have participated in art exhibits (and have done quite well in winning awards), however, this will be the first art gallery exhibit.

Membership in the New England Wood Carvers is obtained by application to: Margaret M. (Mrs. Robert) Buyer, NEWC membership secretary, 90 Glendale road, Sharon, Mass. 02067.

Rex Stout Cooks Up Stories And Meals

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Author Rex Stout denies any strong resemblance between himself and his most famous fictional character, the gourmand detective Nero Wolfe.

But some similarities were apparent from the moment our telephone talk began. Through a misunderstanding, I called the 86-year-old Stout just as he was sitting down to lunch.

When I called back an hour later, he explained that lunch had included fresh roasted corn from his garden, and the corn couldn't wait. The same attitude toward meals in general and fresh corn in particular is held by his portly detective character.

Wolfe's hobbies are cooking and orchid-growing. Stout also enjoys cooking and gardening—growing flowers as well as fruits, vegetables and herbs.

"We grow about 50 things, particularly things that are not easy to buy—chives, fresh shallots and garlic. We grow thousands of shallots every year. We use a lot and give some away."

Home in Brewster, N.Y.

Stout's garden is at his home in Brewster, N.Y., on the New York-Connecticut border.

"I used to cook quite a lot, but I don't do much of it any more," he said. "I have more fun cooking eggs and meat and cheese than I do making bread, dessert and other things. I'll bet I've cooked eggs 419 different ways."

He conceded that the figure was a bit high, but he does find the egg a wonderful article of food. Some egg recipes are in "The Nero Wolfe Cook Book" by Stout and the editors of The Viking Press.

The book contains excerpts from many Nero Wolfe mysteries as well s recipes improvised from descriptions in the books.

Stout gives full credit for the recipes to several persons—including the late Sheila Hibben, a friend who wrote extensively on food and restaurants for the New Yorker magazine.

Stout said his interest in cooking "actually began when I was a farm boy in Kansas. I became interested in what my mother and sisters did with the food we grew on the farm." The farm was about 10 miles outside Topeka, the capital.

Descriptions Are Clear

Stout's descriptions of specific dishes in the Wolfe mysteries are so clear that some readers have been cooking from them for years. Yet Stout said he hasn't read a lot about cooking, as preparation for writing about food. He said that he's talked a lot about it, but not with any professional cooks.

If Fritz Brenner, Nero Wolfe's fictional Swiss chef, had a real life counterpart, Stout won't say.

"I never made a character consciously after anyone I've ever known," he said. "But I don't know about my subconscious."

He added that he'd lived in France for about three years and, during that time, had made a trip to Castelnaudary especially to eat a famous local dish, cassoulet—a casserole of baked beans with a variety of meats.

While food is talked about often in the more than 60 Nero Wolfe mysteries Stout has written since 1934, he denied that it was by design.

"I never decide anything. It just comes out that way," he said.

Many readers write him to ask for recipes. "But I don't send 'em, because if I did, I wouldn't get anything else done," he said.

Eggs a la Nero Wolfe

Poached eggs Burgundian is from The Nero Wolfe Cook Book, by Rex Stout and the editors of The Viking Press.

Bring 1 cup of burgundy and ½ cup of beef bouillon to boil in a shallow pan, adjusting heat so liquid simmers gently. Add 1 small bay leaf, 1½ teaspoons of minced shallots, 1 sprig of parsley, ½ teaspoon of salt and 1 grinding of fresh black pepper. Split and toast 2 English muffins. Poach 4 large eggs in the simmering liquid. When done, remove them with a slotted spoon to the prepared muffins and keep warm in a holding oven. Rub 1 tablespoon each of butter and all-purpose flour together into a smooth paste; stir it into the poaching liquid and simmer a few minutes, stirring constantly, until the sauce thickens. Strain and pour over eggs. Serve immediately. Serves 2.

Open New Line Lumber Company In Norwood

From a small lumber company in Malden, Mass, some twenty five years ago to it's new location now open in Norwood, Jim and Mary Bonia have a success story all of their own. Jim did the buying and selling while, Mary took care of the financial details to expand this business to it's present size today. With the dedication they have amassed a business and the people to run it while they themselves give it the direction it requires.

It was called Line Lumber simply because the Malden–Everett line ran right through the building. The building materials firm has now become one of the largest retailers of paneling, ceilings and mill work items in the area.

It now has locations in other cities and towns from Danvers, Medford, Saugus, Stoughton, Framingham along with it's new Norwood location. Some of the innovations that the couple started was the cash and carry concept for the home owner, along with cutting plywood into small pieces so that the customer would not have to buy the entire sheet.

A great believer in newspaper advertising, one of Jim's stated policies, and he insists that his employees adhere to is that no item be used to lure a customer into the store and attempt to sell him something more expensive.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of the late Dennis Cronin, longtime owner of the Cronin Lumber Co., of Saugus. Jim and Mary have seven grandchildren from fourteen years of age to three years.

The Norwood operation will be managed by a local resident Peter Barram, one of the partners in the firm. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barram are graduates of Wheaton College. Mrs. Gail Barram is the daughter of Lydia and the late Willard Soderstrom long tome residents of Norwood. Mr. Barram's parents flew in from Stow, Ohio, to be on hand for the opening day ceremony and ribbion cutting by State Senator, John Quinlan from Norwood.

Reverend and Mrs. Edward T. Barram are no strangers to the Norwood area as he at one time pastored and preached at First Baptist Church of East Dedham and Foxboro before being appointed the Great Lakes Area Representative for the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society. His son, Peter, is fulfilling a life long desire to go into business, he will be the partner of Jim Bonia's son, Ron Bonia, who has been involved in the business since high school. He is married to Ethel Bonia, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Blodgett of Lynn, Mass.

The business according to Jim has been successful because of the many people he has brought into the business, his feeling is that people are still the key to running it smoothly.

The property at 200 Broadway is being leased from Beaver Coal and Oil owned by Mrs. Geraldine Viano of Norwood.

Drinan Rally Speaker

Newton Congressman Robert F. Drinan will be the guest speaker at the annual Simchat Torah Rally held in solidarity with Soviet Jewry on Saturday, Oct. 20.

Ralliers will gather at Temple B'nai Moshe, 1845 Commonwealth Ave., Brighton, at 8 p.m. and march to the rally site at Cleveland Circle.

Notaries Appointed

John David Reilly, 5 Graydale Cir., and Paul A. D'Agostino, 9 Perry Rd., both of Auburndale, have been appointed as notaries public.

Confirmation of the new appointments was made in Boston at a recent meeting of the Executive Council following submission of the nominations by Governor Sargent.

Schools Schedule Music Demonstration

Newton elementary school students, now in line for musical instrument instruction, and their parents will now have an opportunity to see and hear the various instruments in action.

The schools' Music Department faculty will illustrate the wide selection of instruments available for student study. The demonstrations will be held at the city's five junior high schools.

These demonstrations will begin at 7:30 p.m. according to the following schedule:

Thursday, Sept. 20, at Meadowbrook Junior High Schools for the students of Countryside, Emerson, Memorial, Oak Hill and Spaulding schools.

Monday, Sept. 24, at Warren Junior High School for the students of Angier, Burr, Davis, Hamilton, Peirce, and Williams schools.

Tuesday, Sept. 25, at Weeks Junior High School for the students of Beethoven, Bowen, Hyde, and Mason-Rice schools.

The Newton schools provide at least one year of class instrumental lessons. Students are then encouraged to take private lessons.

Instrumentalists begin participation in school orchestras and band very soon after individual instruction has started.

String instruction is started at the third grade level. All others start at the fourth grade level.

Brass and woodwind instruction may start at the third grade level if recommended by the music specialist.

Music teachers are currently, at least where time permits, expanding instrumental offerings from the usual four, clarinet, flute, violin and trumpet, to include such others as tuba, cello, string bass, trombone, and saxophone.

Newton students and their parents are encouraged to attend any of the remining demonstrations. If unable to attend, a music faculty member will be happy to discuss your child's place in instrumental music.

Campus Notes

On September 12 Governor Dummer Academy opened its doors for the 211th time.

The school is the oldest boys' boarding school in the United States and is located in Byfield, Mass. Two years ago the Academy decided to admit girl day students, and this year is accepting girl boarders.

Local students attending the Academy this year are: Mark S. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Myers of Newton and Robert E. Libin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Libin of Waban.

Mark A. Hoffman of 21 Mosman St., West Newton, was awarded a master of science degree at Tulane University Aug. 18 during the summer commencement exercises in New Orleans.

Mark Lewis Aronson has been admitted to New Hampshire College in Manchester, N.H., for the fall semester. He will be enrolled in the college's four–year degree general management program.

Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Aronson of 90 Truman rd. in Newton Centre. He is a 1972 graduate of Newton South High School. Aronson has previously attended Bentley College.

Judy Cunniff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Cunniff, 68 Wyoming Rd., Newtonville; and Sarah Porter, daughter of Mrs. Joyce K. Porter, 5 Oakwood Terrace, Newton Center, have been admitted to Earlham College.

A private four-year co-educational liberal arts college, Earlham is a Quaker institution which was established in 1847 by the Indiana Yearly Meeting of the Society of Friends. While the faculty and student body represent many religious denominations, the college is administered by the Quaker principle of decision by consensus and the Quaker ethos is important at all levels of campus life.

Craig T. Carmichael, 34 Emerson st., Newton, received a bachelor of fine arts degree with honors during recent commencement exercises at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

Wheaton College, Norton, Mass, opened its 139th academic year with President W.C.H. Prentice outlining new directions and a new era for the College.

A private women's college and recognized leader among small liberal arts institutions, Wheaton is developing a number of career oriented and pre-professional programs, including a dual degree program in engineering with Georgia Tech, and a post–graduate exchange internship program with a national consortium of 17 women's colleges.

President Prentice stated, "This college started as a revolutionary protest, a bold insistance that higher education should be sexless and must not be denied to women."

"Today's movement," he said, "is not concentrating on mere concessions like jobs or votes, but on sexism itself. Wheaton must respond in ways that will reinforce demands for equality and leadership on the part of women."

Founded in 1834, Wheaton currently enrolls 1293 women from 43 states and 19 foreign countries.

Residents of Newton enrolled at Wheaton include:

Sheryl Stein, freshman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Stein of 71 Fairlee rd., Waban; Sharyn Stein, freshman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Stein of 71 Fairlee rd., Waban; Stephanie Sidell, sophomore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sidell of 40 Baldpate Hill rd., Waban.

Also Nancie Ellen Kingsdale, sophomore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Kingsdale of 19 Kelveden rd., Waban; Anne Friedell, sophomore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Friedell of 122 Temple st., West Newton; and Judith Fleishman, junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Fleishman of 21 Haynes rd., Newton Centre.

The following Newton residents have been named to the dean's list at Boston University for the past spring semester:

Joann Feeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Feeley of 10 Emerson St., is a senior at the university's School of Nursing. She previously earned her bachelor of science degree in biology from Northeastern University.

Patricia Ann Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Carroll of 678 Boylston St., Newton Centre, is a sophomore at the university's School of Nursing. She is a 1972 graduate of Newton South High School where she was a member of the National Honor Society.

Wendy Silverman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Silverman of 128 Olde Field Road, Newton, is a junior at the university's School of Nursing. She is a 1971 graduate of Newton South High School.

Lewis Howard Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Miller, 231 Spiers Rd., is a student in the university's College of Business Administration. Miller is a 1971 graduate of Newton South High School. An accounting major, he plans to attend graduate school after completing his undergraduate studies.

Ellen Bovarnick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Bovarnick of 41 Brentwood Ave., Newton Centre, is an accounting major at the university's College of Business Administration.

Ms. Bovarnick graduated in 1972 from Newton North High School where she was a member of the National Honor Society and the circulation manager of the school paper.

A sophomore, she is a member of the university's Hillel House, and has been studying Yiddish.

Y Offers Crafts Instruction

Decoupage and a leather workshop are new additions to the Newton YMCA's list of eight arts and crafts classes for adults beginning the last week in September. Registration is now underway at the Newton Corner building.

Linda Martinez, a veteran "Y" instructor, teaches her decoupage class to beginners and those with some skill in the art. Mrs. Martinez shows students how to mount their favorite prints on wood, glass and even plaster in the course.

A teacher at Burlington High School and former Fitchburg Community Center Instructor James Nash teaches his leatherworking students how to produce everything from simple barrettes to wallets and footwear. Cutting, finishing, lacing and tooling are among the techniques students learn.

Two classes in enameling – the art of fusing ground glass to metal in a kiln – are offered by Elizabeth Klimm, a member of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts staff.

Experimentation with free-formed shapes and, for the advanced student, use of techniques such as cloisonne, foils, sgrafitto and firescale will be emphasized. Finished dishes, jewelry, and plaques are typical of creations produced by students.

Ann Hynes returns for her sixth year to teach both drawing and painting to beginners and more advanced students. The focus of her drawing class is on instruction in line, perspective, composition, shading and proportion, with work done in charcoal, pastel, pencil, pen and ink. The painting course is geared to individual needs and emphasizes creative spontaneity.

Other programs offered adults are ceramics, taught by long-time "Y" instructor Tobey Hirsch; beaded flowers, the French art which uses four techniques to make hostess gifts and room decorations; and leaded glass, another class of Mrs. Martinez' in which students make figures made of lead chanel with cathedral or stained glasss.

Miss Hirsch also offers boys and girls a choice of four crafts classes. Ceramics teaches the basic methods of hand building, slab, coil, pinch, and glazing techniques. Painting focuses on color theory, with work done in oil, tempera and water colors.

Arts N' Tots is a fun program for children three years old through five years old. And the crafts workshop is a general crafts class in which a different project is completed each session.

A final "craft" class for children is Maria Puzzanghero's sewing course. For girls 10 years old and over, the class teaches hand sewing, the use of a sewing machine, fitting, and how to use a pattern. Mrs. Puzzanghero is a veteran "Y" instructor and has also taught in the Quincy Adult Education program.

For further information concerning "Y" programs, call 244-6050, or come by the Newton YMCA at 276 Church street, Newton Corner.

Named B'nai B'rith Lodge Consultant

Philip L. Buxbaum of Newton has been appointed by Albert Z. Elkes of Washington, D.C., National Director of Membership for the Supreme Lodge of B'nai B'rith, as new Lodge Consultant in the New England area.

Buxbaum has headed the Boston Regional B'nai B'rith office since 1951 and retired on July 1.

PHILIP BUXBAUM

Buxbaum has been affiliated with B'nai B'rith since 1944 when he joined the Boston Staff of the Institute for American Democracy, in which the Anti-Defamation League was interested.

Prior to 1944, he was engaged in public relations work in radio in his home city of New Haven, Connecticut. He is a graduate of the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania.

Buxbaum has organized over 100 B'nai B'rith men's lodges in the New England area since 1951, specializing in the creation of 24 professional and industrial lodges in the Greater Boston area. In his new role as a Consultant, he will concentrate on the organization of additional new lodges throughout New England.

Buxbaum was succeeded by Irving B. Matross of Newton, veteran B'nai B'rith leader who was named Director of the New England B'nai B'rith Office at 72 Franklin Street, Boston.

Israel Bond Campaign Goes Into High Gear

Jewish synagogues and temples in the Newton area will participate in the most intensive Israel Bond High Holy Day campaign in history.

The Holiday campaign, which begins with the Jewish New Year on Sept. 27, is traditionally the single, most concentrated activity in behalf of State of Israel Bonds. More than 25 percent of the total bond goal is realized during this period.

More than 70 congregations throughout Greater Boston will hold appeals in behalf of Israel, representing a total of $2½ million.

The High Holiday appeal in behalf of Israel Bonds will be held by Temple Beth Avodah, under the leadership of Rabbi Robert M. Miller, president Mrs. Dexter Segall and Bond leader Melvin J. Fisher; by Rabbi Abraham Koolyk, president Abraham Nathanson, Bond leader Irving B. Matross and Mrs. Samuel Andler, Congregation Beth El-Altereth Israel; by Rabbi Samuel Chiel, Rabbi David Silverman, president Morris Finkelstein, Bond leader Frank Brezniak and Mrs. Joseph Rosenthal, Temple Emanuel; and by Temple Israel of Boston's Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn, Associate Rabbis James Rosenberg and Paul Citrin, president Herman Snyder, Bond leader Sidney Robbins and Dr. Max M. Laufer and appeal maker Mrs. Harold H. Silverstein.

Appeals will also be conducted by Rabbi Samuel I. Korff, president Marvin Lampert, Bond leader Maurice A. Bell and appeal maker, Congregation Kehillath Jacob; by Rabbi Israel J. Kazis, Associate Rabbi Alvin Lieberman, president Harvey C. Krentzman, bond leader Stanley J. Hatoff and Mrs. Benjamin Maletz, Temple Mishkan Tefila; and by Rabbi Philip Kieval, president Dr. Leon B. Levitan and Bond leader Saul H. Cutter, Temple Reyim.

The sole purpose of the international Bond campaign, which was launched in Boston 22 years ago, is to provide investment funds for the economic development of Israel through the sale of interest-bearing bonds. Since the inception of the program, more than $2.4 billion in bonds have been purchased by people throughout the free world.

The bond program provides a financial instrument for Israel to achieve economic stability and enables the Middle Eastern democracy to progress under a program of economic self-determination. The Israel Bond program is one of the most successful financial stories in modern history, State of Israel Bonds being the third most widely held security in the world.

"Israel, however, still has many problems with which to cope," Chairman Kaitz points out. "It is, therefore, essential that Israel continue to receive support through the purchase of bonds so that the nation, which this year celebrates its 25th anniversary, may look with hope to the next 25 years," he said.

Baptist Home Holds Annual Fall Program

Representatives of nearly three hundred American Baptist churches in Massachusetts will attend the annual fall program of the Women's Auxiliary to the Baptist Home of Massachusetts, on Tuesday, Oct. 9, at the home, 66 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, opening at 11 p.m.

The devotional leader will be the Rev. Seymour J. Steeves, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Belmont.

Following the business meeting and luncheon, the auxiliary members will visit some 130 residents of the home, now marking its 83rd year. The home is one of the oldest and largest of its kind in the Bay State.

Plans will be completed for the giant bazaar and donation day to be held at the home in November.

Mrs. Edgar F. Beers of Randolph, president, will preside. She will also announce plans for the open house and dedication of the new 74-unit Baptist Home Residence and Retirement Center, Lake street, Kingston, to be held Sunday, Oct. 14, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Participating in the program will be Mrs. Wallace Morse and Mrs. Harold Tisdale, Newton; Miss Mildred A. Bates and Mrs. Murray N. Mansfield, Milton; Mrs. Percy Belyea and Mrs. Archibald Meikle, Medford; Mrs. Richard C. Harriott, Malden; Mrs. Enos Eisnor, Norwood; Mrs. Herman Foster and Mrs. Bertram Pennell, Westwood; Mrs. Eleanor Youth, South Boston; Mrs Frank Brier, Dorchester; Mrs. Morton J. Thorburn, Mrs. Robert A. Adams, Mrs. Norman D. Cronin, all of Arlington; Mrs. Philip R. Bailey, Needham; Mrs. Herbert Cassidy, Belmont; Mrs. Harold S. Libby, Mrs. Frank Hall, Braintree, Mrs. Walter J. Sly, Waltham; Miss Louise Wyman, Back Bay; Mrs. Pearl Henry, Allston.

New Minister Preaches Here

On Sunday, Sept. 9, the Rev. Ernest Heeren preached his first church service at Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, as its first minister.

Rev. Heeren is a graduate of Rutgers University and New Brunswick Theological Seminary. He has continued his education at Pacific School of Religion, the Claremont School of Theology and the Institute of Advanced Pastoral Studies.

Rev. Heeren's recent pastorates have been in San Francisco, Riverside, Cal., Appleton, Wis., and the First Congregational Church in Flagstaff, Ariz.

Rev. Heeren and his wife, Dorothy, reside at the parsonage, 40 Foster St., Newtonville.

This faucet is a drain.
A leaky hot water faucet can cost you 2000 gallons of hot water a year. Or more. And this isn't simply a waste of water. It's a waste of the energy you use to heat that water, as well. This is just one of the points covered in the booklet, "The Wise Use of Energy." In it, you'll find lots of worthwhile information. Some of it can even save you money. And the booklet is free. Get it by writing to Boston Edison at this address. "The Wise Use of Energy," P.O. Box 300, Back Bay Annex, Boston 02117.

Westworld: A Chrichton First

cinema updated

by Marjory Adams

Even robots have to be updated. And if you don't have a new gimmick in today's entertainment, whether it be music or art or sculpture there is sure to be a depressing amount of disinterest from the public. It's true that a Rembrandt or a Murillo costs a couple of king's ransoms but the abstract artists of the 1970's are making very nice little fortunes for themselves.

Disneyland, both in California and Florida, created a new type of entertainment for America (and the whole world, for that matter) and it undoubtedly serves as inspiration for writer-director Michael Crichton in "Westworld." On a visit to Disneyland one rides along a river and your boat is attacked by Indians, for instance. But the arrows come nowhere near the paying customers. There are many other "near" escapes from aborigines and other unfriendly sources, including roaring lions, but you never get in proximity to the make-believe dangers.

Said Crichton, "people want to feel they really are in serious peril even if their common sense knows they have nothing to fear. So wouldn't it be the gimmick of all time if adventurous fun-lovers could find a spot where they could shoot back at their attackers, indulge in old-fashioned duels, and then make love to beautiful houris, all for $1000 a day, plus tax. And while the men they shoot and the glamour gals they press to their manly bosoms appear to be human actually they are robots made under such an advanced process that they seem to have all the attributes of flesh and blood character.

If you lop off a man's head in "Westworld" it is put back on his body that night and he's ready for the fray the next day. I can't vouch for what they do for the women robots but they are as fresh and smiling and dewy eyed Saturday as they were on Monday. They are inspected every night in "Westworld's" laboratory by skilled technicians.

Crichton's amusement park de luxe, utilizing space age technology, is called Delos. The original Delos, incidentally, is an island in the Mediterranean which was a home of the gods and where Apollo was born.

Visitors to Delos, after paying their $1000 a day, are taken by plane to a spot in the Sahara Desert where they can be transported to the fantasy they have chosen. There are three special places; Westworld, where the American frontier of 1880 has been recreated; Medieval World, where the guests find themselves in 13th century Europe with plenty of romance, combat and excitement and Roman World which features the decadence and the relaxed morality of Pompeii. Principally, in all three places, the Mr. Mittys of the modern world can indulge themselves in their private dreams. You get all the gloating pride that comes your way without worrying over who will be the victor when you snatch a rifle or a sword to fight off the menacing enemies which attack you. After all, they are robots and their job is to die realistically.

Obviously it required a high degree of imagination to invent such a plot, and even more to bring it into film form. Michael Crichton is a Harvard man but of course that doesn't answer everything. He entered Harvard Medical School in 1965 and since that time has written 15 books under four different names. During his last year in medical school he completed a novel on abortion, "A Case of Need" which not only won him the Mystery Writers of America Edgar Allan Poe Award, but which was recently made into a successful film thriller, "The Carey Treatment."

Deciding against practicing medicine as a means of livelihood, Crichton next wrote a non-fiction book, "Five Patients" based on his experience at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Under his own name Crichton, who was then studying at the Salk Institute in La Jolla, wrote one of the most popular books of the decade, "The Andromeda Strain." Receiving leave of absence from his medical studies, Crichton then made his book into a film for producer and director Robert Wise. It was Wise's most profitable production since "The Sound of Music."

Michael and his brother then wrote a novel about marijuana, "Dealing" which was made into a picture by Paul Williams. Other more recent achievements of Chrichton include novel, "Binary," which he adapted to a TV movie of the week, "Pursuit," and "The Terminal Man" which is now being made ready for the screen.

However, "Westworld" is his first job as director. He chose his associates carefully. Camera work is handled by Gene Polito who is best known for "Colossus: the Forbin Project" and "Prime Cut."

David Bretherton, the editor, recently received an Oscar for "Cabaret" and an "Eddie" presented by his fellow film editors for the same picture. He also did the cutting of "Save the Tiger," Jack Lemmon's very fine film.

Crichton's cast of "Westworld" is a long one but with only three stars, Yul Brynner, Richard Benjamin and James Brolin, whose best known role was that of Dr. Kiley in the Marcus Welby M.D. television series.

Brynner wears in his current film the same black costume which he has done in many of his other screen appearances. Yul is almost never "between films" and he has just finished starring in "The Serpent."

Benjamin's appearance in "Goodbye Columbus" started him off as a hit among the younger film-goers and he followed up with "Catch-22," "The Diary of a Mad Housewofe" and "The Last of Sheila."

The picture was not made in the Saraha Desert and suitable backgrounds of desert were made in the Mohave. The gorgeous gardens of the Harold Lloyd estate were also used. But the re-creations of the amusement parks were primarily built in the MGM Studios on Washington Boulevard, Culver City, California.

CAPSULE CRITIQUE

"ELECTRA GLIDE IN BLUE" — This is a different type of picture in today's scheme of things, and is about an under-sized motorcycle cop who is big in courage, heart and moral integrity. Robert Blake plays the role of the police officer, Wintergreen, and if the younger generation can be persuaded to take a member of the fuzz into their understanding and sympathy "Electra Glide in Blue" is apt to win large audiences. In an effort to reach this type of filmgoer, Director James William Guercio has loaded the film with popular ballad-type rock.

Guercio is an expert in this music, since he once played with the Frank Zappa rock group, and helped build some top rated disks.

There are magnificent scenes set in Arizona, where all the action takes place. Wintergreen, as he courses along the bare roads, is on the lookout for people he can help as well as for offenders to send to the pokey. If he can leave the drivers smiling the small sized guardian of the law is a lot happier than when he must lower the boom. While this is popular with his pals he is quick to fight them when they try graft and chicanery and has no fear of the ones who try to get him into the racket through threats and insinuations. Not for Wintergreen are the small time graft tributes, which makes him a respected and beloved citizen in the far-flung community where he rides.

His ambition is to be a police detective—it is the realistic conclusion which ends his life and his work.

At the end of "Electra Glide in Blue" one is left with both anger at irresponsible violence and admiration for the exciting Monument Valley backgrounds. Otherwise the picture is not noteworthy. While Billy "Green" Bush, Mirchell Ryan and Elisha Cook have featured roles, nobody's protrayal stands out except for Blake's characterization, none are three dimensional. Jeanine Riley has a melodramatic scene as a nymphomaniac tart whose cop boyfriend is impotent but adds no importance to the story as a whole.

Ceremonies Sunday Designate Lay People To Give Communion

More than 800 lay men and lay women from the Archdiocese of Boston will be designated Extraordinary Ministers of Communion by His Eminence Humberto Cardinal Medeiros at ceremonies at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross at 4 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 23.

The new role for lay men and lay women is being introduced at this time to facilitate the distribution of Communion. With the use of extraordinary ministers of Communion it is hoped to reduce the time involved in distribution at large Sunday Masses affording more time for a period of thanksgiving after Communion and it is hoped to increase the frequency with which the sick may be given Communion in hospitals, nursing homes and private homes.

The evaluation of the need for the program and the selection of candidates was made at the local level of parishes and institutions. Approximately 25 percent of the parishes responded at this time sending candidates for training over the past two months.

Newton candidates include: Sr. M. Belita Downing of Aquinas Jr. College; Sisters Margheria Cappelli, Frances de la Chapelle and M. Margaret McDonnell of Sacred Heart; Fredson T. Bowers Jr., Margaret Galvin, Margaret K. Murphy and Edward J. Yelinek of Mary Immaculate of Lourdes; Gerald G. Bilodeau, Joseph W. Chevarel Chevarley, David DiMarzio, Charles F. Donohue, John F. Fantasia, Giovanni G. Fazio, John R. Marzilli, Robert F. McMahon, Joseph H. McPherson, Robert A. Nolan, Maurice A. Reidy Jr., Kevin L. Stokes, Joseph L. Walsh and James Whynot of Our Lady Help of Christians;

Norma D. DeAngelis, Charles Forget, Arthur J. Kubick, Dennis McCrory, Sr. Catherine Mary McHale, Malcolm McLoud, Henry J. McMahon, Lillian E. McNulty, Mary M. Murphy, Lucille A. Swan and Leo P. Walters of Sacred Heart Parish; and Sisters Mary Elaine Scully and Mary Marcella Shanley of St. Philip Neri parish.

Shalom Nursery Begins Classes

The Temple Shalom of Newton Nursery School began classes on Wednesday, Sept. 12.

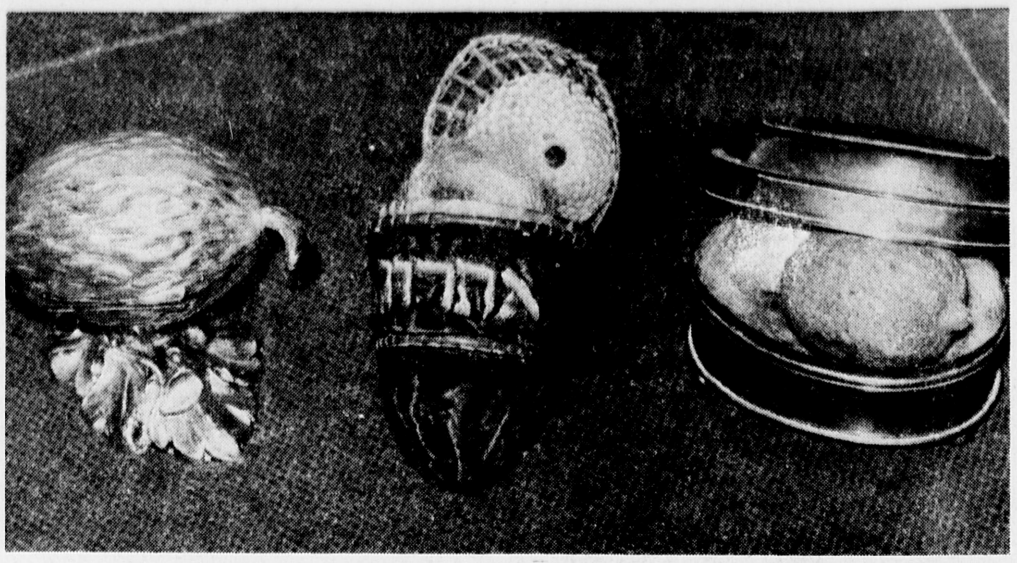
This new nursery school, with hours from 8:45 a.m. until 11:45 a.m. is housed in the modern classrooms of Temple Shalom on 175 Temple st. in West Newton. The red and yellow classrooms are supplied with all new equipment for three and four-year-old children.

The main objective of the school is to meet each child at its own level and to provide the tools and resources which foster balanced growth. The values and costume of Reform Judaism will be an integral part of the curriculum.

Mrs. Nessa Seigel is the teacher-director and Miss Judith Ross is the co-teacher. Mrs. Seigel has taught in Cincinnati, Ohio, and later worked with the Headstart program.

Miss Ross has recently received her masters degree and Mrs. Seigel states that "the atmosphere in a good nursery school must be a stimulating one which neither limits nor pressures the child, but rather helps him to establish his identity through social, verbal and intellectual progress."

The new nursery school is open to the entire community. For further information, contact Emily Lipof, 244-5254, or Elaine Shulman, 969-8338.



Artifacts

Temple Mishkan Tefila will dedicate the Rabbi Herman H. and Mignon L. Rubenovitz Museum and Archives Saturday (Sept. 22). The community is invited to be present at 10:30 p.m. for an evening of history and nostalgia. These three antique etrog boxes will be among the displays.

Rabbis Seek Support

Rabbi Samuel Chiel, spiritual leader of Temple Emanuel in Newton, and Rabbi Zev K. Nelson, spiritual leader of Temple Emeth in Brookline, have been named members of a newly established rabbinic cabinet that will work to enlist support for the central institutions of Conservative Judaism.

The announcement of their appointment was made by Rabbi Stanley Schachter, assistant Chancellor of The Jewish Theological Seminary of America, the spiritual and academic center of the Conservative Movement.

In the role of regional representatives, Rabbis Chiel and Nelson will visit congregations in the Boston area to explain the national enrollment program.

Through the national enrollment plan, mass support is assured for a movement that numbers a generous third of American Jews in its membership. Members of Conservative congregations are asked to make a single modest contribution, payable along with annual synagogue dues, which goes to the support of the Jewish Theological Seminary, the Rabbinical Assembly, and the United Synagogue of America.

The Seminary trains rabbis, cantors, teachers and lay leaders at its main campus in New York City, and in schools in Los Angeles and Jerusalem.

Rabbis Chiel and Nelson will work closely with two national leaders of Conservative Judaism: Rabbi Bernard S. Raskas of Temple Aaron in Minneapolis, who is chairman of the rabbinic cabinet on the national enrollment plan, and Gerrard Berman, of Paterson, New Jersey, chairman of its lay counterpart.

Rabbi Chiel has been at Temple Emanuel for three years. He received a B.S.S. degree from City College of New York, and was ordained by the Seminary. He is now working on a Ph.D. in modern Hebrew literature at Brandeis University, and is the author of a volume of sermons entitled "Spectators or Participants."

Rabbi Chiel is a member of the Social Planning and Allocations Committee of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Boston, of the Board of Governors of the National Academy of Adult Jewish Studies, and of the rabbinic cabinet of the United Jewish Appeal.

A graduate of New York University and the Herzliah Hebrew Academy, Rabbi Nelson was also ordained by the Seminary. He received his doctorate in Hebrew literature there, as well as an honorary doctor of divinity degree.

He has served as spiritual leader of Temple Emeth since 1947. He is president of the New England Association for Hebrew culture, chairman of the board of directors of the Solomon Schechter Day School, and a member of the executive committee of the Associated Synagogues of Greater Boston.

In addition to its academic programs, the Seminary is also engaged in a number of educational programs for the general public. It is widely known for its radio and television programs on the Eternal Light on the NBC network, and on ABC's Directions.

The Jewish Museum in New York is under the auspices of the Seminary, which also operates a wide program of intergroup activities. The Ramah Camps, serving more than 5,000 American young people, are under the educational supervision of the Seminary.

Temple Elects First Woman President

The initial service of the fall season for Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton, was held last Friday evening.

Installation of officers followed the service and Rabbi Robert Miller consecrated the new board, including the first woman president of the temple.

Serving on the board for the coming year will be Mrs. Dexter Segall, president; Bernard Julius, Marshall Paisner, and Lewis Millender, vice presidents; Samuel Klingsberg, treasurer; Mrs. Herbert Goodman, financial secretary; Mrs. Eugene Black, recording secretary; and Mrs. Milton Shaer, corresponding secretary.

Rabbi Miller's charge to the officers indicated the religious leaders' prophecy of the demise of the synogogue as a viable institution.

He therefore summoned them to make Temple Beth Avodah a vibrant, vital, integral aspect in the lives of all the members in the community.

An Oneg Shabbat and social hour brought the Sabbath evening to a close.

In accordance with the spirit of keeping temple involvement important to the younger congregants, an all new Junior Choir is being formed under the competent artistic direction of Mrs. Herbert Bamel.

This choir will perform at family services and at Junior Holyday services, and is expected to add to the intimate family atmosphere of the temple.

Information about the Holydays may be obtained by calling the temple at 527-0045.

Eliot Church Calls Pastor

The Eliot Church of Newton has voted to call the Rev. Herbert R. Davis to be its minister.

Rev. Davis is currently minister of the Horace Bushnell United Church of Christ in Hartford, Connecticut. He will move to Newton in early November.

Before his present position in Hartford, Davis served pastorates at St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Chicago, Ill., and Trinity Church in Mountville, Pa. He is a native of Pennsylvania and a graduate of West Chester State Teachers' College, Lancaster Theological Seminary, and holds a Master of Sacred Tehology degree from Lutheran Seminary in Gettysburg.

In his recent pastorates, Davis has been active in various forms of urban and social service ministries. He is a member of the Task Force on Evangelism for the United Church of Christ and was chairman of the Peace Task Force for the Illinois Conference.

Davis succeeds the Rev. Harold R. Fray, Jr., who went to the Fauntleroy Community Church in Seattle, Washington, in June 1972. Since his departure Eliot Church has been served by a multiple interim staff.

Church Shop Opens Doors

The Community Exchange run by the Church of the Good Shepherd in Waban will reopen its doors at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 18 for the new season just beginning.

Located in the Good Shepherd Parish House at 1671 Beacon St., Waban, the Exchange buys and sells clothing and sports equipment for men, women and children, and occasionally features other merchandise such as costume jewelry and household items.

Receiving hours are from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and selling hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. every Tuesday that public schools are in session. All of the merchandise is of good quality and in excellent condition. The public is invited to participate.

The Church of the Good Shepherd is located just off Waban Square in Newton and is easily accessible by subway on the Riverside line (station: Waban).

Baptist Home Sets Open House, Dedication

Hubert Gillespie of Pembroke, president of the Baptist Homes of Massachusetts, will preside at two events at new 74-unit Retirement & Residence Facility in Kingston. An Open House and dinner for South Shore officials will be held on Thursday, Oct. 11, at 6:30 p.m. and dedication ceremonies Sunday, Oct. 14, from 2 to 5 p.m. for Baptists and friends from all parts of New England. The original Baptist Home of Massachusetts is located at 66 Commonwealth Ave., Newton, dating back to 1890.

Obituaries

Edward D. Lyons

A funeral mass was celebrated in Our Lady Help of Christians Church Monday (Sept. 17) for well-known local entertainer Edward "Eddie" Lyons.

Mr. Lyons, 82, of 56 Eldridge St., Newton, an entertainer for more than 30 years, died Thursday (Sept. 13) in Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a brief illness.

He was the husband of the late Ella Lyons and is survived by two brothers, Arthur J. of Newton Centre and George W. of Boston.

Mr. Lyons staged many benefit shows in the Newton area and at one time had his own troupe.

Burial is in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Eileen O'Connor

A funeral mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Church, Wellesley, Wednesday (Sept. 19) for Miss Eileen O'Connor of Newton Lower Falls.

Miss O'Connor, a retired production manager for Polaroid, died Saturday (Sept. 15) in the Chetwynde Nursing Home.

She is survived by a brother, William J. O'Connor of Nabnassett; and a sister, Mrs. Anne Johnson of Wellesley.

Burial is in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Lowell.

Michael A. DeLuca

A funeral mass was said in St. Bernard's Church Wednesday (Sept. 19) for Michael A. DeLuca, a resident of West Newton for the past 28 years.

Mr. DeLuca, 50, of 7 Cottage Pl., died suddenly Sunday (Sept. 16) en route to Massachusetts General Hospital. He was a state inspector for the Metropolitan District Commission.

Mr. DeLuca was a member of Post No. 440 American Legion, the Sons of Italy, Newton Veterans' Honor Guard and was officer of the day for the Dept. of Massachusetts Italian-American War Veterans.

Mr. DeLuca is survived by his wife, Mrs. Josephine DeLuca; a daughter, Miss Marie DeLuca; three sons, Michael Jr., Anthony J. and Edward R., all of West Newton; his mother, Mrs. Lucy DeLuca of Medford; three brothers, Arthur C. and Anthony M. of Medford, and Richard W. of Arlington; a sister, Mrs. Anna Rosselli of Arlington; and several nieces and nephews.

Albert Alphin

Albert Alphin of 26 Orient Ave., Newton Centre, director emeritus of the Boston Conservatory of Music, died Wednesday (Sept. 12).

Since 1967, he had served as treasurer of the Conservatory Corp. and had been director from 1933-67. Under his guidance, the school was reorganized as a nonprofit educational institution, acquiring all of its current physical plant and obtaining authority to grant degrees.

Mr. Alphin attended the conservatory in 1920 and became a member of the faculty in 1924.

Mr. Alphin is survived by his wife, Mrs. Katherine Alphin; two sons, Albert and John; and his daughter, Elizabeth.

James M. Cahill

James M. Cahil, 53, of 19 Park Dr., Newton Highlands, died Saturday (Sept. 15) in Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Funeral services were held Tuesday (Sept. 18) with a mass in Sacred Heart Church.

A native of the Garden City, Mr. Cahill was a carpenter.

Mr. Cahill is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary P. Cahill; a son, James Jr. and daughter, Susan, both of Newton Highlands; a sister, Mrs. Mary Brennan of Walpole; two brothers, Andrew of Wareham and William of Lexington.

Eddie Condon: A Special Jazz Artist

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eddie Condon, who died a few weeks ago, was something special in the world of jazz.

Eddie could never become an overpowering essence because he played the guitar and banjo and neither can compete with the blare of the trumpet or the barking of the drums.

But Eddie was the living history of jazz. An admirer, on hearing of Condon's death, said the best word to describe Eddie was "catalyst." He was the glue that stuck things together.

Over the years Eddie was in the middle of the scene, either as an instrumentalist or as a leader.

And after World War II, when the interest in jazz began dying, Condon kept the pulse beating with great concerts at New York's Stuyvesant Casino.

"Eddie Condon's World of Jazz" (Columbia KG 31564) might be called a musical biography of the colorful guitar player.

The recordings which are reproduced on this two-LP album go back as far as 1927 with "Sugar," which featured Eddie on banjo, and "Krazy Kat," which showcased Bix Beiderbecke on cornet. The latest, "Blues My Naughty Sweetie Gives to Me," was made in 1954 and brought Condon together with Wild Bill Davison, Billy Butterfield, Cutty Cutshall, Lou McGarity, Ed Hall, Peanuts Hucko, Bud Freeman, Dick Cary, Gene Schroeder, Al Hall and Cliff Leeman.

This is truly a treasure of jazz because it includes Louis Armstrong on "Just a Gigolo," Bunny Berigan on "That Foolish Feeling," Bing Crosby with the Dorseys on "Stay on the Right Side, Sister," Hot Lips Page on "St. James Infirmary," Mezz Mezzrow on "Dissonance," Fats Waller on "The Yellow Dog Blues" and Miff Mole on "Red Hair and Freckles."

Another intersting item is "Dr. Heckle and Mr. Jibe," an early Johnny Mercer vocal.

Condon doubles on banjo and vocal in what came to be a standard or warhorse of jazz, "Indiana." This recording was made in 1928 and lineup consisted of Condon, Frank Teschmacher on clarinet and alto sax, Joe Sullivan on piano and Gene Krupa on drums.

If you want to get to the roots of jazz, listen to "Soul Makossa" by Manu Dkbango (Atlantic SD7267). Here is a music that could have mushroomed from African soil centuries ago yet there is something cohesive about it that defies any fixation in time.

Dibango wrote the music and arranged it for his horn and his band, which consists of string and percussive instruments.

Even on first listening, there is something impelling about the music that holds the attention to the end.

Tape Deck—Dan Hicks and the Hot Licks would have been a popular combo back in the days when good humor in music was appreciated. On "Last Train to Hicksville" (Blue Thumb BLE M551), an Ampex cassette, Hicks and his band ramble through such tunes as "Cowboy's Dream No. 19," "The Euphonious Whale," "Lonely Madman" and "'Long Come a Viper.' It's a fun session.

CARE Airlifts Of Supplies To Pakistan

CARE announced this week an initial airlift of nearly $200,000 worth of emergency relief supplies to flood-ravaged Pakistan.

Leon M. Blum, CARE New England director, reported from his Boston office that CARE began airlift of more than 100,000 pounds of ready-to-eat survival foods, nearly a million vitamin tablets and more than 5,000 blankets for distribution to two hard-hit provinces in eastern Pakistan where seven million people are reported to be homeless and destitute following the disastrous floods.

A New England man, Michael Viola of North Providence, has just returned to his post as assistant director of CARE operations in Pakistan, and it is expected he will be involved in relief operations.

The Pakistan disaster is the latest in a series of flood or drought disasters which have left millions of people homeless and threatened by hunger and famine across vast areas of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

Blum reported that CARE has established a Flood and Famine Emergency Fund and has been responding to these disasters in nations where it operates as far as resources permit. As summer ends total aid by CARE to these world crisis areas is approaching one million dollars.

Boat Trip to George's Island By Sierra Club

The Greater Boston Group of the Sierra Club will hold a picnic boat trip to George's Island on Sunday, Sept. 30, from 9:45 a.m. to 4 p.m. The boat will leave from Long Wharf and those planning to make the trip should bring a lunch.

The Sierra Club is a non-profit conservation organization with 140,000 members nationally and over 3,000 members in Massachusetts. The Greater Boston Group has been active in many urban environmental issues.

The office at 14 Beacon street, Boston, is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and on Saturdays when volunteers are available.

Canoeist Hero

GRAND TETON PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — Edward A. Wilson, a mild-mannered 29-year-old seasonal ranger at Grand Teton National Park, also is a hero.

The Alhambra, Calif., ranger recently received the U.S. Department of Interior's highest award for valor for rescuing two canoers from the swift waters of the Snake River in 1972.

Wilson heard on his radio that three men had been dumped from a canoe into the river, and one had made it to shore. He raced to a point on the river below the canoe. Louis Ortiz and Arsenio Arce, both of Puerto Rico, were hanging on to their canoe for their lives.

When Ortiz spotted Wilson on the shore, he attempted to make the swim but floundered. Wilson plunged into the frigid Snake River and pulled him out.

Wilson then returned to the river and pulled the canoe with Arce to shore.

COUNTIES PAYROLLS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The salaries and benefits of county employes in California totalled $2.1 billion in 1972-73, the California Taxpayers Association reports. That compares to $1.3 billion in 1968-69.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by MANDEL E. COHEN and WINIFRED H. COHEN, husband and wife, as tenants by the entirety, to LINCOLN TRUST COMPANY dated December 30, 1970, and registered with the Middlesex South Registry District of the Land Court as Document No. 481900, noted on Certificate of Title No. 95736 in Land Registration Book 608, Page 186, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction at 10 o'clock A.M. on Friday, the 5th day of October A.D. 1973, on the premises described in said mortgage, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage, commonly referred to as 134 Chestnut Hill Road, Newton, Massachusetts, to wit:

A certain parcel of land situated in Newton, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, bounded and described as follows:

Southeasterly, Southerly and Southwesterly by Hayward Road, Three Hundred fifty-five and 60-100 feet;

Northwesterly by land now or formerly of Ben Ames Williams, et al, two hundred two and 67-100 feet; and Northeasterly by land now or formerly of Lucille F. O'Malley, two Hundred ten and 30-100 feet.

All of said boundaries are determined by the Court to be located as shown on a plan, as modified and approved by the Court, filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of a portion of which is filed in the Registry of Deeds for the South Registry District of Middlesex County in Registration Book 115, Page 489, with Certificate No. 18648.

Subject to any restrictions of record in so far as the same may be in force and applicable.

Together with all buildings, structures, apparatus, fixtures, and articles of personal property now or hereafter erected or placed in or upon said real estate or now or hereafter attached to or used in connection therewith, including, without being limited to, all elevators, screens, doors, awnings, blinds, shades, floor coverings, lobby furnishings, gas, and electric fixtures, all heating, lighting, cooking, refrigerators, refrigeration equipment, laundering, plumbing, ventilating, air conditioning, sprinkling, incinerating, swimming pool and recreational equipment of whatsoever kind and nature, all of which fixtures, and articles of personal property are hereby declared and shall be deemed to be fixtures and accessory to the freehold and a part of the realty as between the parties hereto, their successors and assigns, and all persons claiming by, through or under them and shall be deemed to be a part of the security for the indebtedness herein mentioned and to be subject to the lien of the mortgage.

Together with all and singular the tenements, easements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging and also the rents, income and profits thereof; and also all the estate, right title and interest of the mortgagor, of, in and to the aforementioned properties and every part and parcel thereof.

Said premises to be sold and conveyed subject to and with the benefit of all restrictions, easements, improvements, outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, liens or claims in the nature of liens, and existing encumbrances of record created prior to the mortgage, if there be any.

TERMS OF SALE: Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars to be paid in cash, or certified check, or Treasurer's or Cashier's checks, by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, balance within ten (10) days after approval of the sale by the Land Court at the office of JOSEPH F. O'NEIL, 100 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts, attorney for the mortgagee.

Other terms to be announced at the time and place of sale.

Rock 'N Roll Quickies

By BRUCE MEYER
United Press International

Some quickies, to let you in on what's happening in the world of rock 'n' roll:

The Who will definitely be touring the United States this fall, the tour to coincide with release of their first new album since the superb "Who's Next" two years ago. In between, three members of the band (Peter Townshend, Roger Daltrey and John Entwistle) have released solo albums. I have it from usually reliable sources that the new Who album "will be a concept album equal to the standard set by the rock opera 'Tommy.'"

The Doobie Brothers used to be just another comfortably unknown rock band. But now, with three hit singles and two LPs under their collective belt, they're being mobbed after shows and other such foolishness that goes with being stars. The Doobies reportedly had to escape one post-show crowd in a police speedboat. On the other hand, the band has a few markets left to crack: I'm told that a radio station in Idaho had them on the playlist as the Booble Brothers.

London Records, in an important new step backwards, is releasing the original Zombies album, cleverly titled "The Zombies." It is a fine album, though—and the London people have had enough taste not to change the cover or remix the music. So if you're into completing your rock collection or your old copy is worn nearly through, it's worthwhile.

Probably the best thing Randy Bachman ever did was to leave the Guess Who and form a new band, called Bachman-Turner Overdrive. Because while the Guess Who has produced one truly great single ("American Woman," which Bachman helped write) and 10 ho-hum albums, BTO's first album on Mercury is an absolute knockout. It's hard, pounding rock and so much better than the Guess Who it makes me wonder why Bachman fooled around with them as long as he did.

Jim Seals and Dash Crofts are recording "Summer Breeze" again—but this time in Japanese. That ought to help the balance of payments ... and while we're discussing the Orient, take note all you Kung Fu movie freaks: Warners has released the sound track to one of the late Bruce Lee's classic demolition derbies, "Enter the Dragon." I haven't heard it, but the score is by Lalo Schifrin, who did the music for "Mission: Impossible," and it's described by one source as "a cross between Hong Kong cinema and American rock 'n' roll."

The Rolling Stones have begun their first major tour of Europe in seven years. The Stones will be supported by Billy Preston and his band and durable Chip Monck will be along to handle lighting on his fourth Stones tour.

Season Of Printed Fabrics

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — It has been said that fall 1973 is the season of bow ties, suits with vests and camel hair coats. It is also the season of printed fabrics, and this goes for everything from bow ties to jazzy underwear.

The American Printed Fabrics Council attributes this upswing in prints to the theory that when men feel secure about the prospects of steady employment and continued prosperity they show a propensity for flamboyance in color and design.

And flamboyant sports shirts are only the beginning of the print boom. Printed fabrics appear in neckties, dress shirts, underwear, slacks, especially printed corduroy, caftans for wear at home, sports jackets, evening wear.

Another factor is that the United States, never a country to worry too much about tomorrow, enjoys a "disposable view" about its apparel. This is exaggerated when money is easy to come by and if a man tires of his flamboyant sports shirt he hangs it up in the closet and goes out and buys something he likes better.

They Respond Quickly

Another reason for the popularity of prints is that they respond quickly to the slightest shifts in color and pattern tastes. Plaids happen to be in favor at the moment but it is not necessary to wait till some mill weaves them—they can be printed almost at once.

This ends the long wait between the time a man saw something advertised for sale and the actual time he could buy it. And color communications in newspapers, magazines and television heops whet the appetite.

Fall 1973 is also the season for color in men's wear and some designers have cast inhibitions to the wind. There is a color and pattern explosion in some garments—and printed fabrics to bring back the looks of the past in others.

The biggest changes have been in the sports shirts, which have gone from a reasonably dull look to something else again. Now they are in florals, stripes, abstract patterns, classic paisleys and traditional heraldic designs of the old school tie vintage.

It is true to a somewhat lesser degree in dress shirts where you can find prints interspersed with woven patterns—in plaids, in checks, in stripes, in dots, and in heraldics. And with these come printed ties, in even more patterns. And more and more of them are bow ties.

Printed Slacks Big

Oddly enough printed slacks are one of the big items this fall. Plaids printed on corduroy are almost undetectable from more expensive woven woolens. And the same idea carries over into sports jackets, sports shirts, shoft golfing or baseball jackets.

For formal wear the prints show up in evening jackets printed in paisley or other classic designs, worn with the traditional black trousers and shoes. For the more uninhibted there are floral prints on mohair fabrics.

There is a growing demand for caftan type clothes to be worn around the house for lounging and even for party wear and these appear in batiks, Hindu patterns, paisleys, moire stripes and sporting designs.

Perhaps the biggest use of prints cone in what the clothing business calls "fashion underwear" —briefs or boxers printed in wild and colorful patterns and with T-shirts to match. The most popular designs are abstracts and geometrics.

NEW COMPETITION

NEW YORK (UPI) — Suede, a classic among leathers, has new competition from a material that's frankly fake.

It's Ultrasuede, which you can toss into a washing machine, tumble dry it, or have it dry-cleaned like the real thing. It has all the attributes of the real product, say its creators, the Skinner Division, Springs Mills. There is one catch—so far the material is available in a relatively small number of stores and only a few top designers have the fabric. And, there's the cost—about $17 a yard. But the mills hope to have the material available soon to meet all demands including those of the home seamstress.

Nut and fruit farm acreage in 1972 in California totaled 1,446,110 acres, an increase of 101,456 acres over 1972.

Next time you see someone polluting, point it out.

It's litter in the streets. It's air that smells. It's a river where fish can't breathe.
You know what pollution is.
But not everyone does.
So the next time you see pollution, don't close your eyes to it.
Write a letter. Make a call. Point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution. People can stop it.

Fashionettes

By

United Press International

There's more fullness in the skirts of the fall and winter silhouettes. Designers get the effect either with flat-pressed pleats or with gores. Designer Donald Brooks likes unbelted princess shaped coats ending with a huge flare, done with as many as 17 gores all around. Favorite tone: camel.

Stylists tell the fall and winter fashion story in parts. Take a few color coordinated parts and multiply into a many-parts wardrobe. Pierre Cardin's collection for American retailers features tunics, jumpers and sweaters which can be combined several ways.

Black is back in fashion. Well, actually it never went away, it just was overwhelmed by designers' turning to bright and neutral shades. But almost every fall and winter collection features both the short black cocktail dress, usually with some skin bared, and the longer dinner dress or dress-jacket costume.

Gustave Tassell's collection for the house of Norman Norell leans heavily to black for late day and evening. One loyalist to the Norell label is Betty Furness, New York City's Commissioner for Consumer Affairs. She arrived at the fall opening of the Norell collection wearing a short, two-piece dress she said was 12 years old.

And in black, of course.

Give a girl enough scarf...and that's just what is happening in the fall and winter clothes. Scarves come in all dimensions and in all sorts of exaggerations. Sometimes they add sharp color contrast to a costume but more often they're coordinated in color. Special favorites are the pale beige and camel tones and the long rectangular shapes that loop loosely at the throat and fall to the waistline or lower.

One of the neutrals of fall fashion is a subdued gray tone, almost the color of the sea on a gray day. Geoffrey Beene uses it and calls it petrel, for the bird of the waters.

Watch for something new in fur patterning. Designer Pauline Trigere calls it marbleizing, skillfully working skins in tones of beige, gray and off-whit into an unusual mix. The fur is dyed fox.

The alligator miniature, a famous symbol of one fashion house, now is given a new treatment. The firm of David Crystal says that henceforth the tiny 'gator' on the left of the bodice either can be "peeled" off or fused permanently on with a hot iron.

Photography Exhibition

An exhibition of fine art photography by Newton resident Georgia Litwack is at the Brockton Art Center through October 28.

Mrs. Litwack deals with photography as a valid art form using abstract patterns and compositions that achieve an effect similar to paintings.

Her symbolic photographs force the viewer to pull out a "meaning" rather than to judge her work only by its impressive handling of composition and texture. Mrs. Litwack refers to her works as Signals, which is the title of her splendid photographic show.

Her artistic use of light distinguishes her work from the school of everyday photo-journalism; these mystic qualities of light express a deep religious and symbolic interpretation of nature. The light she captures equally attracts the eye of the viewer and ties together the form and composition of her work.

Mrs. Litwack feels that the natural lighting at the Brockton Art Center will greatly enhance her work. Favorable to photography both night and day, the setting is most agreeable to the artist.

The Art Center is open daily except Mondays from 1 - 5 p.m.; Thursdays until 10 p.m. In an effort to better serve our public, the Art Center will be open on the Monday holidays of Oct. 8 and 22.

Annual Exhibition Set On Saturday

The annual fall outdoor exhibit of the Newton Art Association will be held Saturday (Sept. 22) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the grounds of City Hall.

Paintings by local artists will be on display and for sale.

The Newton Art Association resumes its regular fall and winter meetings Oct. 4 at the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands on Columbus Street. A varied and interesting program has been planned.

The public is invited to attend.

Lounge Presents Duo

The Windjammer Lounge at the Marriott Motor Hotel, Newton, is now featuring Michaels and Martinelli and their diversified array of musical entertainment, ranging from nostalgic tunes to contemporary rock sounds.

They play for dancing every evening Tuesday through Sunday starting at 8 p.m.

Vince Michaels has the lead in vocals plus playing drums and trombone. John Martinelli sings and plays the organ, electric piano and keyboard bass.

The popular, "Glori B" continues in the Windjammer Lounge Monday through Friday afternoon during the cocktail hour and Monday night.

All Newton School Now Offers Dance

Creative dance classes for children, teen-agers, and adults will begin Oct. 2 at the All Newton Music School.

They will be taught by Louise Bruyn who is returning to the school after an absence of two years.

The classes for small children will focus on gaining a wide range of movement experiences through responding to varying stimuli such as music, voice sounds, poetry, physical images, dramatic situations.

The older the child, the more traditional modern dance technique will be taught, enabling the student to gain strength, agility, and total use of the body as an artistic instrument. The older children and high school students will be encouraged to choreograph dances of their own which will be performed later in the year.

A Saturday morning workshop will be held for older students who wish to do more extensive in choreography.

Ms. Bruyn has taught at National Music Camp, Interlochen, Michigan, at Boston College, Cambridge and Boston Adult Education Centers, Peabody School in Cambridge, Boston Summer Creative Arts Program, and the Commonwealth School in Boston.

For further information call the All Newton Music School, 527-4553.

Local Explorers Rally

People forget that many of today's top race drivers got where they are today because of their early enthusiasm for competition at road rallies, the minor leagues of road racing.

In this tradition, two young West Newton Explorers have done well enough in local competition to go on to the Exploring Grand National Safe-Driving Road Rally in Dearborn, Mich., Sept. 20-22.

Members of the rally team are Robert Antonelli, 17, of 19 Sylvester Rd., and Nick DeSouza, 20, of 38 Barbara Rd. Both are members of Explorer Post 530, sponsored by Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.

They will join 98 other young men and women from all 50 states in vying for $6,500 in college scholarships. All rallyists are top winners of local Exploring Road Rallies that involved more than 30,000 Exploreres during the past year. Exploring is a program for high-school-age young men and women designed by the Exploring Division of the Boy Scouts of America to help them find their present and future roles in our society.

During the three-day event, the 50 rally teams will be the busy guests of the Lincoln-Mercury Division of the Ford Motor Compnay. Beginning Thursday, Sept. 20, the rallyists will fly to Detroit and begin preparing for Saturday's 125-mile test by attending a safe-driving rally school and practicing their driving skills.

The rally, which is not a race, will take teams through all types of city and country driving and test their ability to follow directions and speed limits through a complicated 6-hour route laid out according to Sports Car Club of America principles.

It won't be all work because the group will also tour the Rouge Production Plant, the world's largest industrial complex; Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum; and on Friday they will visit Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

At Saturday night's awards banquet, members of the first-place team will each receive a $2,000 college scholarship; each second-place team member will be awarded a $750 college scholarship; and each third-place team member will receive a $500 college scholarship.

Rallying is becoming a popular sport for all ages because it is a team effort demanding safe driving, accurate timing, and alert navigation skills. This past year more than 250 Exploring road rallies were conducted locally, involving more than 30,000 teenagers.

Rallying is a test in which cars leave a starting point individually, at carefully recorded times. Minutes before leaving, each team is given a set of detailed instructions directing them to follow a generally complicated route taking them through cities, over freeways, and down country roads.

Teams are expected to be on time along the route, so there are checkpoints to penalize them if they pass these points too early or too late. Times are carefully calculated by rally officials based on the time it should take a car to travel the exact course at precise and legal speeds specified in the instructions.

Amateur Hockey Fans Organize On State Level

An organizational meeting of the Massachusetts Amateur Hockey Association will be held on Saturday, Sept. 22, at 10 a.m. at the Charles River Skating Club on Wells Avenue in Newton.

The meeting has been called for the purpose of finalizing the formation of the association, to elect officers and directors and to transact any business pertinent to the interests of hockey in Massachusetts.

The directors of all hockey programs and teams now registered with the New England Association are asked to attend.

Fictional Journal Relates Nightmare

As We Are Now, by May Sarton.
(Norton, $5.95)

This fictional journal is the heartbreaking story of one woman's plight and Everyman's nightmare—the fear of ending one's life in an isolated country nursing home, badly run by a slovenly mother and daughter team, in an atmosphere that degrades the soul and tortures the body through neglect.

The 134-page journal is kept by Caro Spencer, a retired school teacher who has been relegated to the home by her older brother and his younger wife when a heart attack prevents Caro from remaining in her own home.

While her physical health fails, Caro's fights to maintain her health of mind and spirit. She is a woman of formidable intellect and insight—qualities that make her situation doubly hard to bear. Miss Sarton writes with consummate skill, evoking all too vividly the frequent horrors and rare delights that occupants of badly run nursing homes must deal with daily. Perhaps the ultimate horror is the increasing doubt of one own sanity.

Caro's story should be required reading for all who hold the power to license and maintain nursing homes. Consumer activist Ralph Nader himself could not paint a more shocking picture of the end that awaits the old and the ill who are without means or family, or whose family is unable or unwilling to accept responsibility for their kin.

—JeanneLesem(UPI)

The Spirit Soldiers, by Richard O'Connor.
(Putnam, $8.95)

This well-documented story of the Boxer Rebellion in China provides a solid base for understanding some of the attitudes of China today toward the West and shows why Chinese have reason to distrust foreigners, regardless of the "isms" involved.

Women in Prison, by Kathryn Watterson Burkhart.
(Doubleday, $10)

Even a male chauvinist pig might see that women are sexist victims of a double standard of penology, receiving stiffer sentences than men for similar crimes and imprisoned under conditions that certainly punish but are hardly likely to rehabilitate. There's something particularly evil, society seems to say, about a "bad" woman.

Joshua Son Of None, by Nancy Freedman.
(Delacorte Press, $7.95)

Webster's dictionary defines clone as "the aggregate of the asexually produced progency of an individual." Novelist Freedman has created what she calls a "clone" of a hero, meant to represent an asexual offspring of John F. Kennedy. It's an intriguing premise but lacking in dramatic impact.

Portuguese Feminist Goes To Trial For "Shocking" Book

By HAROLD H. MARTIN

LISBON (UPI) — Dr. Maria Isabel Barreno is tall, stoop-shouldered a sociologist and a feminist.

On October 25, she, Dr. Maria Velho da Costa, a psychologist, and Dr. Maria Teresa Horta, a journalist, go on trial for expressing frank, feminist views in a book, now banned in Portugal, called "New Portuguese Letters."

The book was published in May 1972, and seized three weeks later by the police and a court action begun that has become known in the world feminist movement as "The Case of the Three Marias."

"The book was considered pornographic and an outrage against public morals," said Dr. Barreno, who is 34 and the mother of two sons, Christopher, 7, and Marcos, 4.

She spoke to United Press International in a private interview in her office. She is an industrial sociologist for the state-operated National Institute for Industrial Investigation, and has published two other feminist-oriented books with no problems. Dr. da Costa is a psychologist in the same office.

The book draws its theme from the 17th-century Portuguese classic, "Letters from a Portuguese Nun," five alleged letters from a cloistered nun to a French army officer who had seduced her and deserted her.

Book Based on Letters

"The book is based on those letters, the idea is sort of like someone being in prison against her will, wanting to talk about love, sexual relations and things like that," she said.

"The book deals in a more direct way, more open, than the first book with these subjects," said Dr. Barreno.

It was the explicitness as well as the fact that the book attacks the masculinity of the Portuguese society that brought them to court, she said.

"Because the book was written by women and deals with the problems of women, as they affect the superiority of men that they have over women in Portugal, that is why they find it shocking," Dr. Barreno said.

"If it had been written by a man there would have been no problems." She said numerous books dealing with sexual harmony and marriage are sold openly in Portugal but all are written by men and tend to ignore the problems of women.

Even in most fiction by men, Dr. Barreno said, "Love is presented as a battle which must be won by the man."

"New Portuguese Letters" are a mixture of poems, essays and letters, each written by one of the three women but unsigned and therefore, she said, the responsibility for each is collective.

While she and Maria Teresa Horta push only for the end of discrimination against women, Maria Velha da Costa is basically against discrimination of all kinds, she said.

The Problem in Portugal

The problem in Portugal is not strictly to break down legal barriers to women's rights, she said, although they do exist to some extent, but to get away from the tradition of women in a subordinate role. But, she said, it is not possible not to escape completely male domination.

"I can escape from individual domination. I can refuse to be friends or have any contact with men if I think they are 'marchista' but in general I live in a society that is 'marchista' and there are things you cannot avoid," she said.

"Marchista" and its noun "marchismo" is Portuguese for male dominance or belief in the superiority of the male.

Asked if women weren't sometimes their own worst enemies, Dr. Barreno said:

"I don't think that applies specifically to women but to all people with a long tradition of submission or acceptance of their role. They are so conditioned for that that they really are sometimes their own worst enemies. They cannot even think of how to change their position."

She did not appear afraid of going to court.

Her lawyers, who are trying to get the trial opened to the public, feel the women will be acquitted or at the most fined and given suspended sentences.

"I don't think I'll go to prison," she said.

Moakley Announces Grant to U. Mass.

Congressman Joe Moakley (D-Boston) has announced a grant of $208,874 for the University Year for Action program at the Boston campus of the University of Massachusetts.

The program is used to assist deserving students who work in the community on various service projects. Their participation in various programs is undertaken as a learning experience and they receive college credit for their work.

ACTION, the Federal agency which funds the program, had chosen the Boston project as one of the pioneers of the University Year for Action and the University of Massachusetts continues to be the program's largest unit.

COMMERCE, Tex. (UPI) — Scandals such as the Watergate bugging affair should remind people that the United States is a nation of laws, according to Texas Attorney General John Hill.

Hill also says Watergate demonstrates the need for legislation protecting a newsman's right to keep his sources secret.

"Without protection of news sources all the facts in a situation like the Watergate probably would not come to light," he told students at East Texas State University.

NEW Chevrolets NOW At Dealers

Chevrolet Motor Division takes new strides forward as the industry's manufacturing and sales leader with important advances in sturdiness and road-ability in its seven different passenger car lines for 1974.

On the way to a third consecutive record "three million-plus sales" year, Chevrolet will introduce its new cars and trucks in dealership showrooms across the country on Thursday, September 20.

A total of 44 models are being offered by Chevrolet for 1974 . . . four less than in the previous model year.

Greatest change is in the Chevelle line where a new sporty Laguna Type S-3 coupe is added while a luxurious new Malibu Classic series replaces the Laguna series at the top-of-the-line. The Malibu becomes the standard series replacing the former DeLuxe designation.

"Improvements all across the board add value to all our car lines," says F. James McDonald, Chevrolet general manager.

"Later in mid-year of the 1974 model run," McDonald added, "further excitement will be added with the introduction of the special performance Cosworth Vega. Heart of this limited production option," he said, "will be the Cosworth Vega engine with dual overhead camshafts and 16 valves—four per cylinder."

In addition to the various styling and mechanical advances, Chevrolet is equipping all cars in 1974 with a sequential ignition interlock in the seat belt system that calls for the driver and front seat passenger to be seated with belts buckled before the car will start. Seat sensors and buckles switches operate sequentially to help prevent defeating the system.

There are three distinct bumper systems on Chevrolet cars in compliance with the more stringent government impact regulations.

They include the hydraulic-pneumatic energy-absorbing systems on the regular Chevrolet, Chevelle, Monte Carlo and Nova; the new spring-mounted aluminum bumpers with resilient impact strips on Camaro and Vega; and the body-colored urethane "soft" bumper covers with aluminum and cast iron reinforcement and draw bolts on the Corvette.

Engine power ranges from the Vega's aluminum alloy block four-cylinder 140-cubic inch power plant and the standard 250-cubic inch six-cylinder on up to an optional 454 cubic-inch V8.

Men's Wear

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — A lot of looks have come and gone in men's clothing but the "English Look" is the most persistent and probably has had a greater influence on men's clothing than any other. It is back in favor this fall.

With the cut of clothing more or less stabilized, designers and manufacturers are depending more on fabric, color and design to sell their products. And, with a wealth of English and Scottish tweeds, plaids and checks and flannel, the result is a back-to-England look.

As a matter of fact, a number of firms used an English background of Rolls-Royces, the Houses of Parliament and Big Ben for their fashion pictures for fall—Hardy Amies, of course, and Peg Matthews of the J. P. Stevens & Co., fabric producers, Curlee Clothes and Max Evans, fashion director of the Men's Fashion Association—which is all U.S.A.

The English influence shows up in a John Weitz sports ensemble for fall—an all-wool Saxony sports coat in a striking Tartan plaid, for example. The Clothing Manufacturers of the U.S.A. feature the return of the British Warm in their fall showings.

Curlee showed a lot of Savile Row in its sports jackets with hacking pockets, side and center vents cut very deep, and with lots of plaids, pin stripes, checks and tattersalls. There is more English country gentleman in the occasional elbow patches and touches of suede cloth trim.

For Cold Weather

Lakeland Manufacturing Co., of Sheboygan, Wis., produces a lot of cold weather clothes with deep pile linings and weather-proof fabrics but when they look for a dress-up fashion they do it with an English wool checked outercoat with wide lapels, slash pockets and a belt. And to drive the nail in further they call it "The Windsor."

Star Sportswear of Lynn, Mass., features an American Design Award-winning safari coat in its fall and winter collection. But look a little further through the line and sure enough there is an English Country Coat with leather striping on the sleeves and yoke and a pile collar.

Nino Cerruti is really an Italian who lives in Paris where he runs a fashionable boutique but if you look at one of the suits he has designed for Society Brand, Ltd., you see another hint of England—a bold-checked, subtly-toned wool worsted that would be good for walking on the moors in.

Our Eyes Were Bigger Than Our Showroom. It's Time For The '74's And We Still Have Plenty of '73's

AT TOM CONNELLY PONTIAC

Woe is us! When we ordered our last batch of '73's, we got carried away with their good looks and great performance. And now, well, we're sitting here with a great selection of '73's and no place to put the '74's. But even though that's bad for us, it's good for you, 'cause we're ready to move 'em out. Whatever price it will take to trade, we can just about promise we'll take it. At Tom Connelly Pontiac, our eyes were bigger than our showroom, and that may be about the best thing that ever happened to you. Come see us at Tom Connelly Pontiac. We're selling out of the '73's!

MEN'S WEAR

By WALTER LOGAN

Mixed Up

Then there is the mixed up concept. Wrangler, which makes sports wear, long was famous for its blue jeans. Europe took the blue jeans and fancied them up so Wrangler combined a French interpretation with a Scottish tartan and came up with a uniquely American look.

Pretty much the same thing happened at Liberty Trouser Co., of Birmingham, Ala., where blue jeans aren't blue any more and denim has given way to many other fabrics, including plaids. One plaid trouser has legs that flare out to 25 inches. Company president Milton Jacobson predicts that cut will replace the baggies.

And what happens to the denim they used to put into blue jeans? Well now the denim look has turned up in underwear. Jockey International insists that it is only a denim look and that your undergarments feel as soft and comfortable as other underwear.

And since blue jeans are no longer just blue, neither is the underwear. Fashion underwear is in like crazy and you not only can get wild colors and prints but you can get the denim look in navy, brown, hunter green or burgundy.

John Shalbey, Jr. and Robert A. Piso have opened the largest car service-wash in the United States on Route 1 in Norwood. During their grand opening on Thursday and Friday, September 20 and 21, a free car wash will be given with every fill up of gasoline. Many sports celebrities will be on hand to help them celebrate.

Fashionettes

By United Press International

The "sweat shirt" look is a high fashion item for women's wardrobes, fall and winter. It shows in all the casuals around and then appears for evening in lavish fabrics.

The elaborate short formal is back on the winter dress scene. Designers say women want its dressy look because they're weary of evening pants, but don't want always to change into a long formal.

Watch for popularity of sheer wools come winter. One of the sheers used actually is a nun's veiling.

There's a lot of mixing in both color and fabric in fall clothes. Designers will use as many as three textures of fabric in one costume.

Doing Their THING – Ray Hall (left), sales manager at Herb Anderson Volkswagen of Norwood, Mass., presents Peter Crawford, sales manager of WRKO Radio of Boston with the keys for a brand new Volkswagen Thing. The vehicle was donated to the radio station by the Greater Boston VW dealers for use in conjunction with the City of Boston's Summerthing program. Disc jockeys from the station use the vehicle as their official "Summerthing Thing" during personal appearances and community activities throughout Eastern Mass. At the end of the summer, the car will be given away at a special drawing.

Cougar XR-7 In size, the totally new '74 Cougar is like Grand Prix and Monte Carlo. In every other way, it's like nobody else's car. Wide buckets, dash with tachometer and gauges mounted in padded vinyl. Landau roof. Opera window. Steel-belted radials. All standard.

FRIDAY IS THE DAY OF THE CAT

SEE ALL THE NEW 74's AT YOUR LINCOLN-MERCURY DEALER

Marquis Brougham
Today a great ride is just not enough. So we designed the '74 Marquis to be more economical to maintain. Gave it steel-belted radials, standard. And Marquis does not require premium gas.

Continental Mark IV
The Mark IV continues to be the most distinctive car of this decade. And offers a host of luxury features as standard equipment: AM/FM/MPX stereo radio, six-way power seats, Sure-Track anti-skid braking, plus new sophisticated insulation for an incredibly quiet interior.

Montego MX Brougham
This personal-size Mercury is designed to ride like a big car. On an extra-wide stance and the same type suspension system as Lincoln Mercury's most expensive luxury car. But with the economy of a mid-size car.

Lincoln Continental
The smooth, comfortable ride and ease of handling of the Continentals continue to be one of the great achievements of the luxury car class. And all Continentals ride on steel-belted radial tires. Judge your car by our car.

Comet with Custom Option
Who says gas economy comes only in plain little cars? Even though Comet's stingy on gas, it's generous on luxury. Because this Comet's got a little Cougar in it. Now you don't have to give up luxury to get gas economy.

Starting today, there's a complete line of smart, new, better built cars at the sign of the cat.

Not shown: Mercury Monterey, the medium-priced car with the famous Mercury ride. And Capri, the sexy European.

See the whole new family of wagons, too.

The kind only Mercury could build.

It all happens "The Day of the Cat."

Lincoln-Mercury. Nobody in the business has more kinds of cars for more kinds of people.

New Lincoln's, Mercury's At Owen Motors Sept. 21

An all-new personal luxury car — the 1974 Cougar XR-7 — highlights the debut of new Lincolns and Mercurys Friday, September 21, at Owen Motors, Inc., 840 Providence Highway, Rte. 1, Dedham.

"The all-new Cougar offers highly personal styling and elegance in a smaller, mid-size package," said Frank Owen, president of Owen Motors, Inc. "It has the luxury, comfort and convenience features usually found only on much more expensive cars.

"In addition to Cougar, we offer more types of cars for the buying preferences of more kinds of people than any division in the industry. From the economical, compact Comet to the classic Continental Mark IV, our 1974 cars appeal to buyers seeking more comfort, luxury and economy of operation.

"Leading the way with outstanding operating economy are the division's small cars — Comet and Capri; and at the top end the Lincoln Continental and Continental Mark IV provide the ultimate in sophistication and elegance."

Cougar XR-7 and Capri join the full-size Mercury, Lincoln Continental and Continental Mark IV in offering steel-belted, radial-ply tires as standard equipment.

These longer-wearing tires — also available on Montego and Comet models — are cooler running, provide more precise steering and directional control, have less rolling resistance and deliver a superior ride at highway speeds.

New safety and damageability features for 1974 include impact-absorbing front and rear bumpers for all models and a new Seatbelt Interlock System.

New solid-state ignition is standard on all 1974 Lincoln-Mercury models equipped with 400 cubic-inch-displacement (c.i.d.) 2V and 460 c.i.d. 4V engines.

The new system replaces conventional ignition parts such as points, cam and the condenser from the distributor assembly with highly reliable, low-maintenance electronic components.

(Except for Capri, all Lindoln-Mercury cars sold in California, regardless of engine size, are equipped with solid-state ignition.)

Customer benefits from solid-state ignition include a stronger spark for quicker starting, long spark plug life and reduced service maintenance.

The public is invited to see the 1974 Cougar XR-7, full-size Mercurys, Montego, Comet, Lincoln Continental and Continental Mark IV at Owen Motors, Inc.

School Buses Free Until Settlement

By LEN BATEMAN
Of The Graphic Staff

Newton's secondary school students will ride their school buses free of charge at least until Dec. 1 when the School Committee expects to have ironed out the many problems now confusing its transportation fee schedule.

The committee voted to suspend the previously imposed, $60 per pupil bus cost before a jammed packed audience of concerned parents at the Bigelow Junior High School on Monday evening.

Acting on a motion submitted by Ward 7 School Committee member Dorothy M. Reichard, the school board also voted to limit the free bus service to students outside a one and one-half mile radius of their classrooms.

Previously, students outside a two mile radius were exempt from paying the yearly fee for bus transportation.

According to Mrs. Reichard, the motion for suspension was the result of numerous complaints received by every member of the School Committee, the superintendent's office, and various other city officials including the mayor and aldermen.

"Chief among those complaints," Mrs. Reichard told the school board and assembled parents, "was the financial hardship imposed on families with two or more children and the method of computing the two mile limit."

Other factors related by Mrs. Reichard as reasons for submission of her motion included the fact that sick children would not be able to use already purchased tickets and students involved in after-school activities were also left with unused tickets.

Another facet of the Reichard proposal, and the one on which the others hinge, calls for the establishment of a transportation study committee charged with creating a bus fee schedule amenable to all factions.

The committee is expected to come up with its plan before the Dec. 1 deadline date for imposing a new fee schedule.

The committee will be composed of a representative of the Mayor's office, an official of the school department's Support Services Division, a member of the aldermanic education committee, two student representatives from the two high schools, and a member of the Newton PTA Council.

The fee schedule discussion was sidetracked somewhat when mayoral candidate William Carmen accused the School Committee of neglecting "long range planning."

According to Carmen, a "change in policy from contracted trahsportation to city-owned buses will offer a better and safer school bus system."

"City-owned buses will reduce costs dramatically," Carmen told the School Board.

"All costs are reimbursable by the state and the latest in safety equipment can be included if the city purchases its own," he added.

Citing the example of nearby Weston, Carmen extolled the virtues of municipally-owned bus transportation before several disbelieving school committee members.

According to the figures Carmen stated he obtained from the Weston School Department, that town provided free bus service to every one of its students at a cost to the town of $25 per pupil last year.

"The low cost was possible," Carmen continued, "because the state reimbursed the town for 100 percent of the purchase prices of the buses."

"It also includes tax free gasoline, tax free parts, and low cost financing as well as the latest in safety devices," the candidate added.

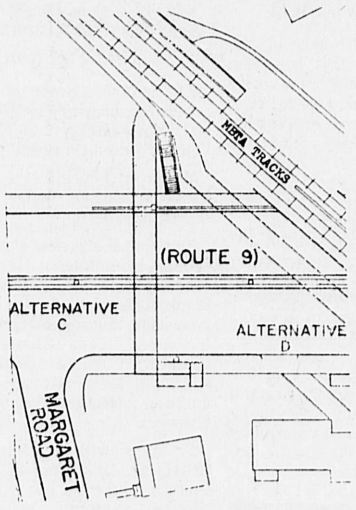
Rosh Hashanah Begins

The blowing of the Shofar, the ram's horn described in the Book of Leviticus as "the blast of horns, a holy convocation", is central to the celebration of Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish holiday which began Wednesday. Rabbi Rievan W. Slavkin of Temple Beth Shalom, Needham, here raised the Shofar to his lips. (Warren Wolloff Photo)

Recommend Overpass

A consulting engineering firm for the state Department of Public Works has recommended the construction of a pedestrian overpass on Route 9 at Margaret road, Newton Highlands.

The Tippetts-Abbett-McCarthy-Stratton firm (TAMS), commissioned by the state to do a feasibility study for the overpass, cited the increasing fatality rate over the years, the increasing traffic volume, and the restricted driver sight distance as the principal factors in the recommendation for the overpass.



It takes almost the same amount of time for a pedestrian to cross the eastbound side of Route 9 as it does for an eastbound vehicle, traveling at the usual rate of speed for that location of 45-55 miles per hour, to reach the crosswalk at Circuit Avenue from the instant the driver first sees the crosswalk from the crest of the hill, the TAMS report says.

In August TAMS conducted a survey of pedestrians in the area, which showed that many are over age 55 (the three most recent fatalities were all elderly people). In addition, the crossing is used by junior and senior high school students, parishioners of Mary Immaculate Church in Upper Falls, and commuters dropped off and picked up on the south side of the road.

The construction by the Newton Housing Authority of 50 units of housing for the elderly on Thurston Road will increase the need for a safe crossing to the Eliot MBTA station, the report points out.

Four alternate sites for location of the overpass were considered by TAMS, but the site finally selected was west of the MBTA overpass near Margaret road.

OK Retarded Home

The establishment of a home for eight mentally retarded adults at 14 Newtonville Ave., Newton Corner, was approved unanimously by the Board of Aldermen this week.

Other action by the board included the heavily debated petition for permission to build 54 apartment units at 2326 Commonwealth Ave., Auburndale, of which five apartments are to be leased to the Newton Housing Authority for its subsidized housing program.

The home for the retarded, which received considerable opposition at a public hearing in August, is a project of a Newton-Wellesley-Weston committee under the sponsorship of the state Department of Mental Health.

Six of the eight residents will be former Newton residents who are now living in state institutions.

The goal of the home will be to return the mentally retarded to a normal life situation under the guidance of houseparents.

Aldermanic approval was granted subject to a number of conditions. The home is to be maintained in as residential a character as possible, in keeping with the other houses on the street.

Restrictions on the use of the yard and garage, and a requirement for off-street parking for six vehicles were also included.

The permission was granted on an annual basis.

Other conditions call for a report on the home to be submitted to the Board of Aldermen annually by the Newton-Wellesley-Weston mental health area board, and an opportunity for interested neighbors to serve on the house committee if one is established.

Land Use Committee Chairman Alan Barkin, presenting his committee report on the apartment petition at Commonwealth Avenue, noted that new information had been received since the committee vote of 5-1 in favor, provided the developer would lease three two-bedroom and two one-bedroom units to the Housing Authority.

The developer, Michael Iodice, refused the committee's proposed number of apart-

A Little Cool In Stearns School

To move or not to move was the big question facing the School Committee this week, and a definitive answer was put off until a joint meeting with the aldermanic Education Committee next Wednesday evening.

The predicament revolves around the antiquated state of the boilers in the old Stearns School, present School Department headquarters, and the unrenovated state of the old F. A. Day School, planned headquarters for the school's administrative staff.

"We have no alternative but to vacate the Stearns building," Superintendent of Schools Fink explained to the School Committee.

"We can't possibly stay in the old building after Nov. 1," he added.

Fink and his staff are currently occupying a building in which the boilers, under state environmental regulations, cannot be used.

The only other alternative offered by the superintendent calls for occupation of the old F. A. Day School during the process of renovation.

The latter proposal created consternation in the minds of several school committee members already conscious of the cost restrictions placed on renovation by the Board of Alderman.

Eleanor Rosenblum, Ward 2 committee member, appeared to speak for her colleagues when she stated, "I'm reluctant to endorse such a move, especially in light of the low cost to rent boilers until the renovation in the new headquarters is completed."

Emil Larson, city building commissioner, appeared before the school committee and told them it would be cheaper to rent low pressure boilers for the Stearns than to renovate the old F. A. Day while it was occupied.

His appearance also touched off a flurry of questioning from committee member Richard M. Douglas.

"Why," asked Douglas, "did it take you so long to advertise for bids on the boilers when you know we were engaged in an emergency situation?"

Larsen replied that "45 days was a reasonable amount of time to expect bids to go out and come back in."

"In fact," continued Larsen, "the bids are expected in my office on Friday, Sept. 28, and we should have the boilers in operation by Nov. 1."

"We just can't make a decision until we are in possession of all comparative costs for both the rental boilers and renovation while Day is occupied," Mrs. Rosenblum concluded.

The school committee will meet in City Hall one hour before its scheduled aldermanic meeting to make a decision on the move.

North High Dedication Sept. 30

The Open House and Dedication Ceremonies of the new Newton North High School will be held on Sunday, Sept. 30.

The building will be open to the public for inspection at 11:30 a.m. and the formal decication will take place in the school auditorium at 2 p.m.

Richard Mechem, principal of the Newton North High School will act as master of ceremonies. Newton officials taking part in the exercises will include: Eliot Cohen, president of the Board of Aldermen; Manuel Beckwith, chairman of the School Committee; Aaron Fink, superintendent of schools; and Mayor Theodore Mann, A student attending the High School and a member of the clergy will also be present.

Coordinating the plans for the day are co-chairmen Mrs. Lewis DeSousa, president of the Newton North High School PTSA, Richard Adams, housemaster of Beals House in the Newton North High School, and a committee of parents, students, and faculty. Mechem is Honorary Chairman.

Construction of the new Newton North High School was begun on May 1, 1970, with the signing of the contract between the City of Newton and the Harvey Construction Co. of Manchester, N.H. The architectual firm was Perry, Dean & Stewart of 31 St James Ave. in Boston. The total cost of this building is around $20 million. This new four story "factory style" structure is planned to accommodate a school enrollment of 3000 students in 445,000 square feet of building and is designed for flexibility and constant change.

The school is designed and built around the House Plan and the "Academic Mesh," to which Architect Clifford Stewart refers, consists of a series of squares all arranged around a Main Street, a 16 foot wide corridor running the entire length of the first floor. Main Street relates and connects all houses and public facilities-security enclosures enable the opening of public facilities such as the Auditorium or Gymnasiums or Swimming Pool without disturbing the rest of the building.

Newton North High is divided into six houses, each house is composed of about 475 students and 30 teachers, where the house office is the center of activity. The houses are located on one side of Main Street with groups of classrooms arranged around three cores. Two houses are located in each core. Each house is self-contained with its own staircase, common room, master's office, with waiting space, and secretarial area, control and information desk, study area, 2 guidance offices with waiting space, and lockers for each student.

The house is easily distinguished by its own color scheme-anything relative or pertinent to a particular House is seen by its house color. The basic colors are as follows: Barry, yellow; Beals, lime; Adams, green; Palmer, blue; Riley, magenta; and Bacon, red.

The ground floor level or first floor contains the technical-vocation areas, the cafeteria and Music Dept. The Technical-Vocation Dept. has shops in metal fabrication, auto mechanics, electrical, machine, printing, plus an added shop in this school, the auto body shop. There are classrooms in planning and drawing, drafting, and driver education. Plans have already been completed to move and include the Production Center (printing, etc.) from the superintendents' office to this area.

The cafeteria consists of a full kitchen and a seating capacity for 700 students. It has three serving lines for fast service, and is designed and subvided into different areas that can be used as student centers. It is equipped with vending machines so that food will be available during the entire school day.

The Music Dept. has a music library, a 100 person instrument rehearsal room, a 200-person choral rehearsal room plus make up and dressing rooms.

The second floor or Main Street, as well as holding the house complexes, contains the auditorium, a 100-seat lecture room and a 200-seat drama -lecture hall or "little theatre in the round."

The Library can accommodate up to 300 students at one time. It consists of a 180-seat reading room, an audio-visual and conference area seating 65, a process and work area, a 100-seat film and lecture hall, a library classroom, a special collections area, a faculty library, a typing room, text book storage area, and a film studio.

The view from the library encompasses the student mall and athletic fields. The Auditorium is equipped with a full stage, projection facilities, has dressing, costume, and scenery areas and a seating capacity for 750 people.

The Administration and Guidance Depts. occupy the third floor. The Administrative area, as well as housing Mechem, has a reception and waiting area, offices and record storage space.

The Guidance Dept. also has its own offices for counseling and a career display center. The remaining floor space is taken up by classrooms for English, Social Studies, Language and Art.

The Business Dept. and classrooms occupied by it are on the third floor and on the fourth floor.

Academically, this building contains a total of 130 classrooms, labs and shops, 44 conference and small group instructional spaces and reading and speech clinics. There are 84 individual teachers' offices, departmental offices, teachers' lounges and work areas. The Health suite consists of a boys and girls isolations room, examination rooms and nurses office.

The Physical Education Plant is situated at the end of the building and is constructed on 2 levels. These facilities include an exhibition gymnasium, a swimming pool, boys' gym and an indoor track.

The exhibition gymnasium with its 1000-seat movable bleachers is located on the lower level right off Main Street. It will double as part of the girls' gym and has space for three basketball courts or the equivalent.

The swimming pool (25 yards) with its viewing area, lockers and dressing cubicles is also on this level. The Boys' Gym on the upper level, is very flexible and contains space for

Cohen Files On Recycling

A comprehensive recycling program to be carried out by the city has been proposed in a recently filed measure by Alderman David Cohen.

Cohen's proposed legislation calls for the use of three or four packer trucks to be used exclusively for separate collections (on successive weeks) of newspapers, clean glass, colored glass, and metal cans.

Another provision of the measure would be the annual appropriation of $5,000 for continuous advertising of the program by posters, fliers, and newspapers.

A part of the proposed ordinance is the establishment of a seven-member committee on recycling, whose purpose is to advise the Public Works department and the rest of the administration and generally to oversee the program.

Enforcement might be optional, at least for a while, Cohen said. One method of enforcement could be the refusal to collect regular trash that has any recyclable material mixed into it.

Reception

Deborah Randolph of 75 Woodchester drive, and David Gertman of 1355 Beacon street, Waban, had a chance to talk with Newton Congressman Robert F. Drinan at a recent reception for entering freshman at George Washington University.

Conservators Want Charles River Pathway

Establishment of a Charles River pathway along the entire river frontage in Newton is being actively pursued by the Newton Conservation Commission and the Planning Department, with the aid of a matching-funds Ford Foundation grant.

William Giezentanner, employed by the Planning Department on a part-time basis, is in the process of a full-scale survey of the Newton riverbank.

To determine what lands should be recommended for acquisition or easement rights, manmade factories—such as present ownership, pollution, land use and zoning, land value, history, and access—and natural factors, such as vegetation, wildlife, geology and topography, are being considered.

As long ago as 1969, in the Planning Department's recreation and open-space plan, the Charles River pathway was proposed.

The Metropolitan District Commission owns most of the publicly owned land along the river, and is interested in seeing "as much as possible in public ownership and control," Dix Leeson of the MDC said at a recent Conservation Commission meeting. "We are working with communities to get public control."

"Public control" can either be gained by easements over private land to allow use of and access to the riverbank or by MDC or municipal acquisition of the land on the riverbank.

Giezentanner expects to have completed his work by July, 1974, to coincide with the City Planning Committee deadline for land-acquisition recommendations for the 1975-76 budget.

The Waltham Conservation Commission also has received a Ford Foundation Grant to plan a Charles River recreation system and has hired a landscape architectural firm to do the work.

The Charles River Coordinating Committee, whose chairman is Alfred Ferullo from the MDC has been established by the Secretary of Environmental Affairs, Charles H. W. Foster, with members from several state agencies.

The CRCC and the Charles River Watershed Association, another organization that is primarily concerned with water quality but is involved in land use as it affects water quality, have both proposed that the portion of the river between Newton Lower Falls and the Moody Street dam in Waltham be designed a "scenic river" under the provisions of the Scenic River Act of 1972.

Appointments Made To Culture Affairs Commission

Members of the new Cultural Affairs Commission have been appointed by Mayor Theodore Mann, in accordance with an ordinance recently passed by the Board of Aldermen.

Appointed to three-year terms are Theodore A. Monacelli, an architect and associate professor at Harvard University Graduate School of Design, and Mrs. Louise Bielski and Mrs. Irene Bickelman, co-chairmen of the PTA Council Creative Arts Committee.

Appointed for two years are Mrs. Polly Egelson, a sculptor; Mrs. Syrille Rosman, past president of the Newton Creative Arts Committee; and Walter J. Tower, Jr., president of Nimrod Press.

One-year appointments are Richard A. Winslow, a trustee of Lasell Junior College; Mrs. Nancy Cohen, a trustee of the All Newton Music School; and Ms. Cece Sloan, a vice-president of the Newton Country Players.

The purpose of the commission is to initiate, coordinate, and stimulate programs concerning the arts in the city.

One of the first tasks of the commission will be to continue some of the programs that were begun during this year's Centennial Celebration, according to Mayor Mann.

"The nurturing of cultural arts is important to the quality of life in Newton, and the Cultural Affairs Commission will be a vehicle to insure that the arts receive the priority they deserve," the mayor said.

Of his appointments, Mayor Mann said, "I am confident that these highly qualified individuals will most effectively provide a link to all of the varied cultural activities taking place in the city and bring into focus the needs and desires of Newton residents with regard to the establishment and appreciation of fine arts."

The first meeting of the commission will take place on Thursday, Oct. 11, at 3:30 p.m., in the mayor's office, at which time the appointment of the CAC advisory board will be discussed.

The advisory board, according to the ordinance, is to consist of not less than 20 representatives of groups concerned with the arts. It will meet with the commission and may meet separately.

Vale Will Be Saved

"The Vale will be saved," mayoral aide James Salter said this week.

Remaining unanswered are nearly all the rest of the questions, such as exactly what land contitutes the Vale, how much acquisition will it cost, how much will be acquired, how many houses will be built on what portion and so on.

The Vale, an ecologically valuable and unique parcel of land adjoining the city-owned Webster Conservation Area in Chestnut Hill, is owned by Robert Cohen of Newton Centre

Cohen's plan to build several houses on the seven-acre property mobilized environmentalists across the city to request that the city acquire the land either by purchase or by precedure of eminent domain.

Cohen offered the city a permanent conservation restriction on the lower part of the Vale and proceeded with plans for building on the Ridge, the high, rocky portion.

Last week a hearing was held in Middlesex Superior Court on Cohen's suit against the Planning Board, in which he claimed that the decision regarding sewerage plans was not in accordance with law. The judge's decision is expected next week.

The decision of the city on how much of the entire parcel to acquire and how to fund the acquisition cost is under discussion now.

Cohen, Mayor Theodore Mann, and Planning Director Charles Thomas met Tuesday, with no definitive result. The meetings will resume some time early in October, according to Thomas.

Thomas will, in the interim, will be working out alternatives for the amount of land to be acquired by the city and the federal and state funds available for its purchase.

Last week Friends of the Vale, a group that has been actively working for city acquisition, presented a list of 4,500 signatures of Newton residents in favor of the proposal.

Friends of the Vale has reportedly collected $3,000 to be given the city toward the purchase price.

Correction

In last week's story on bus service in Oak Hill, the mayor's Transportation Advisory Committee was inadvertently referred to as the Traffic Advisory Committee.

Debate Scheduled

Mayor Theodore Mann, William Carmen, and Elliott Berry–Newton's three mayoral candidates–will be televised in a debate Oct. 1 by Channel 2 (WGBH).

The hour-long program will be taped during the afternoon without an audience and shown twice the evening of Oct. 1 at 6:30 and 10:30 p.m.

Questions formulated by WGBH reporters will be asked of the candidates both as a group and individually, with time planned for responses.

Post No. 30 Auxiliary Holds Its Elections

Election of officers of the Ladies Auxiliary of Post No. 30 Italian-American War Veterans was held recently.

Margaret Pellegrini of 402 Parker St., Newton Centre, was elected president.

The rest of the new slate of officers includes: Joanne Torchio, senior vice president; Elena D'Amico, junior vice president; Mildred Merceireo, treasurer; Lena St. Onge, secretary; Mary English, chaplain; Sally Caruso, conductress; Helen Flaminio, historian.

Trustees will be Phyliss Dellafarno, Lena Chinian, and Theresa Griffith.

Mary Ciammo of the auxiliary has also been elected National department president of Itams.

Memorial Service

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Friday (Sept. 28) in Colby Chapel on the campus of Andover Newton Theological School for Dean Emeritus Vaughan Dabney.

Dean Dabney died Aug. 20.

Election

Preparing materials to promote citizen participation in the upcoming Newton elections are Bonnie Carter chairman of Voter's Service of the League of Women Voters of Newton; and Alan Licarie, executive secretary of the Election Commission. The city's first preliminary election will be held Oct. 9. The general city election is Nov. 6. Registration for the preliminary has closed but voters can register for the November election through Oct. 17.

Alderman Asks DiCarlo To Leave Redevelopment Authority

Ward 4 Ald. Richard J. McGrath this week issued a public statement asking Mario DiCarlo to step down from the Newton Redevelopment Authority.

"I feel it is important that I let the public know of certain strong feelings I have that my influence my objectivity" on the DiCarlo petition for extension of permissive use needed to continue construction of the Towers in Chestnut Hill.

A public hearing will be held Monday (Oct. 1) before the aldermanic Land Use Committee on Di Carlo's expired permit for building the Chestnut Hill Towers. McGrath is a member of the committee.

McGrath's statement appears in part below:

"As a businessman who operates a construction company in the West Newton-Auburndale area of the city, which has residential zones intermingled with manufacturing zones, Mario DiCarlo has over the years refused to be a good neighbor. There are other construction companies and businesses located in this area who are sensitive to the effect that their operations have on their neighbors and make honest efforts to cooperate with the residents.

"It has been the policy of DiCarlo's company not only to ignore the residents but to ignore the law as well. Mr. DiCarlo does not think that it is illegal or harmful to use the land on Rowe Street as a dump—but it is. And, after investigating complaints from area residents, the Newton Board of Health and the Building Department have had to act on numerous occasions to force DiCarlo to stop his illegal dumping in this area. Ordinarily the City's actions would be enough to eliminate the problem. But not so when dealing with DiCarlo, for when his construction company's needs require it he has deliberately ignored the Board of Health and Building Department's orders and again hauled in rubbish and demolition material in bold violation of our zoning and health laws.

"Complaints from the people who live around the Rowe Street area range from clouds of dust resulting from the hauling, smelly odors, and the sighting of rats. Just recently, a small child living on Rowe Street was treated for a rodent bite suffered while playing in his backyard. Personal requests by me of DiCarlo to stop these clearly illegal actions have produced no results.

"As a member of the Newton Redevelopment Authority (NRA) DiCarlo has demonstrated an insensitive attitude and an unwillingness to listen to, communicate with, and be guided by the people whose lives he so greatly affects when he votes as a member of the Authority: Unfortunately, his actions have caused years of delay of the Authority's projects, not to mention years of anguish and hardship to the community of Newton Lower Falls. The NRA's ability to function in the future in other areas of Newton seems to have been seriously jeopardized by DiCarlo's contributions.

"There have been throughout DiCarlo's years as a member of the NRA allegations as to possible conflicts of interest in various areas. Whether these allegations are fact or fancy I know not. But I find it increasingly difficult to discount these allegations after the recent episode published in the press which found trucks from the DiCarlo Construction Company hauling material around the construction site which is under the direct control of the NRA. I would mildly classify this activity as highly irregular and very suspect.

"Recent actions of some members with whom DiCarlo cooperated when selecting the company that will develop part of the project in the Lower Falls area stimulated heated protests from the residents of Newton Lower Falls. Citizens, civic groups, cith department heads, the Board of Aldermen, the administration, elected state officials and state department head crossed all lines and united to come to the support of the people of Lower Falls against the action of members of the NRA who sided with DiCarlo. Again the project of NRA ground to a halt.

"Mr. DiCarlo's membership on the NRA does not allow for progress. Attempts to remove DiCarlo from the Authority have failed and Mr. DiCarlo holds fast that he will not quit, even though his presence on the Authority whether intentional or not has only obstructed all forward movement of the Authority.

"I feel that the Lower Falls project is more important than Mr. DiCarlo's pride. Since he persists in remaining a member of the Authority, thereby stopping the development of a project which will benefit the citizens of Newton especially by bringing into the city treasury much needed taxes, I hope you can understand why I have a difficult time being objective with regard to a project that will bring substantial revenues to Mario DiCarlo's treasury.

"I know that a demand that DiCarlo divorce himself from the Towers development is unreasonable and ridiculous. But I find it very reasonable to request that Mario DiCarlo voluntarily remove himself from the NRA as soon as possible.

"I realize that I am only one member of the Board of Aldermen, and a freshman member at that, but if I can develop such strong feelings within the period of one term, I can imagine what the feelings of some others might be who have delt with DiCarlo for vears.

"There is too much at stake for the city of Newton for us to allow the controversial presence of one individual to cloud and obstruct so much that is so important to so many. So I repeat my request that Mario DiCarlo remove himself from the Newton Redevelopment Authority."

School Committee Ratifies Salaries

By LEN BATEMAN

The Newton School Committee voted in open session on Monday evening to ratify a new salary schedule for teachers and administrators worked out by its negotiators and the Newton Teachers Association.

According to Herbert F. Regal, Ward 6 committeeman and chairman of the board's negotiators, the ratified schedule represents only a "Summary of Agreement" and the final details of the contract must still be worked out.

"Actually," stated Regal, "only the minor details of periods and commas must still be decided."

The committee's action was a rerun of a vote taken earlier last week in executive session, and in effect grants a 5.275 percent increase to teachers for the present academic year.

Both Mayor Theodore D. Mann and Ward 8 Committeeman Alvin Mandell were opposed to the ratification which came on a show of hands vote in the open session after Regal explained the major points of the contract.

Mayor Mann had actually left the meeting earlier, and his opposition was voiced through Manuel Beckwith, chairman of the School Committee.

The contract also calls for a teacher pay hike for the 1974-1975 academic year equal to the cost of living increase for the period plus one percent with the stipulation that the hike cannot exceed 5.5 percent nor be less than 4.0 percent.

Teachers at Newton Junior College will receive an increase of 2.5 percent according to the new schedule and the ooverall increase for the entire professional staff approaches 4.9 percent.

In the matter of administrative salaries, the School Committee has established two separate classifications according to the amount of time served by each administrator.

Those professional, non-classroom personnel on the job prior to Sept. 1 of this year will receive an average increase of 3.6 percent. Salaries in this category will thus range from a low of $17,200 for a bachelor's degree to a high of $22,750 for a doctorate.

In the second category, those professional non-classroom personnel hired after Sept. 1 of this year will receive a low of $15,100 for a bachelor's degree to a high of $20,900.

According to Regal, the addition of two classified schedules "puts Newton more in line with comparable communities and should be of long range benefit to the Newton taxpayer."

David Geigie, president of the Newton Teachers Association, disagreed with Regal, however, and told the School Committee, "You have done an evil thing in creating these two classified schedules."

"You have created an enormous morale problem among administrators, and I'm sure it will come home to roost," warned Geigie.

Chairman Beckwith also announced that Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink had received an increase of $1,500 over last year's salary.

Fink was hired as superintendent in 1969 at an annual salary of $37,000. The current hike brings his pay scale up to $43,500.

A beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree in Newton will start with a salary of $8,677. The maximum to be paid a teacher with a bachelor's degree during 1973-1974 will be $14,592.

A beginning teacher with a master's degree will be paid at the rate of $9,451 while his or her counterpart with the maximum experience will receive $15,862.

The highest paid classroom teacher in Newton, one with a doctorate and the maximum years' experience, will receive $17,908 annually.

Voters Get Cards

Every registered voter in the city should have received a card from the Newton Election Commission informing him or her of ward and precinct numbers and polling place for this fall's elections.

At the Oct. 9 preliminary and the Nov. 6 general election, all voters whose name cannot be located on the voting list at the polls will be allowed to vote at the polls after the name is verified by poll officials by calling City Hall.

If the name cannot be verified by the phone call to City Hall, the voter must go to the Election commission at City Hall, where another attempt will be made to verify the name.

If the name is then verified, the voter may vote by absentee ballot at City Hall instead of having to return to the polling place.

The absentee ballot will permit voting on all position on the regular ballot.

Conservation Commission Meets Oct. 3

The Newton Conservation Commission will meet Wednesday, Oct. 3, 8 p.m. in Room 220, Newton City Hall.

On the agenda will be the commission's Capital Improvement Program requests which must be submitted to the Planning Department for review by Oct. 5.

The commission, in cooperation with Newton Conservators, Inc., is planning a series of Sunday afternoon bus tours of the sites recently recommended for open space acquisition and of Newton's Charles River frontage.

Arrangements have been made to use the Recreation Department's 44-seat bus. The tours will begin at 1:30 p.m. at City Hall on Oct. 14, Oct. 28, and Nov. 11.

For Veterans Only

Everyone has dreams of his ship coming in. War veterans are certainly no exception but it always doesn't work out that way because the right opportunity doesn't come at the right time.

Now there is a massive effort shaping up at dockside in Boston next month that might go a long way towards making veterans aspirations and hopes an everyday reality.

Three Federal agencies, each involved in assisting returning veterans have pooled their resources with the Massachusetts Job For Veterans Committee to provide an extensive educational, job-training and personalized counselling mart for veterans who have not yet used their GI Bill benefits.

Agency planners feel strongly that many newly returned veterans are working at jobs far below their potential because they failed to take advantage of the counselling and Federal financial assistance available to them to attain more satisfying vocations and trades.

The Veterans Administration, US Department of Labor, US Health, Education and Welfare Agency and the Mass. Division of Employment Security are co-sponsoring this two-day event October 5 and 6 within the convention hall at Commonwealth Pier, Northern Avenue, Boston. Professional advisors from more than 100 institutions of higher learning, secondary schools and vocational-technical schools, all approved for GI Bill training as well as other Federal agency assistance will be on hand.

In addition scores of professional apprenticeship training advisors, educational and training counsellors from participating Federal agencies will be available for individualized counselling for veterans.

All veterans who served since January 31, 1955 may take advantage, free of charge. Those who have not availed themlselves of their GI Bill rights should definitely attend.

For those younger veterans in this community, not yet employed in a rewarding job or vocation, October 5 and 6 sound like very important dates to circle on their calendars.

Tax Rate Aftermath

As some residents in just about every community around here found out it is possible for a tax rate to be publically declared stable while certain property tax bills go up.

And that's the loud word recently from some outspoken Boston taxpayers who have received their tax bills in the last week.

Despite the fact that Boston's Mayor Kevin White made quite a television production out of announcing that the city's tax rate for 1973 would remain at $196.70 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation there have been more than a few screams of "foul."

It seems that some of the property owners in Boston have received the latest bills indicating that they will have to pay more in taxes to the city this year than they did last year. Just how many Boston taxpayers received increases is a statistic that, we are told, is not possible to attain at City Hall.

"We don't have a computer here," the man in the assessor's office said. "You know how it is. Why I'd probably have to dig for three days and even then we couldn't tell you."

Another man who wound up with a telephone inquiry suddenly went dumb when told a reporter was calling with a question on the tax rate. "I'm sorry," he said. "We're not allowed to talk to newspapers. Geez, don't use my name. I'll lose my job. I'll switch your call. Goodbye." And you know what happened then. The department head who, we were told, could answer "everything" had left for the day. After all it was 4:15 p.m.

Actually the city of Boston probably has buried within its vaults a somewhat updated tally of just how many tax bills will remain the same, how many actually went up and an approximation of how many tax payers found their tax bills were actually below the 1973 level. And if there is ever a true silent minority it is the latter grouping. You'll never hear more than a squeal of delight out of those who will have to pay less.

Re-evaluation in Boston is a constant process. Just as it is in Newton or Dedham or Norwood and other communities. When a property changes hands, when rental income increases or decreases, whenever there is just any change to a house or a building there is an increase or decrease in value. And that makes for a change in tax bills even when the tax rate remains the same.

Perhaps in the days to come we will be told exactly how many pieces of property increases in valuation in Boston and just how many went down over a given period. That alone lends new meaning to any tax rate story.

If Mayor White were to make the up and down re-evaluation figures available with half the publicity effort that went into his no-hike announcement it might make for a more equitable and understandable situation. And isn't that the essence of all tax news and views?

Thumbnail Thoughts

Thumbscrews may be out-dated but, over Watergate, the news media keeps alive the ability to put the pressure on Mr. Nixon.

Even more controversial than squabbles over Blue Laws would be the situation if all Massachusetts laws were strictly enforced.

Law-Makers Take Dim View Of Sarge's New Budget Request

Members of the Massachusetts Legislature would no more think of increasing taxes in an election year than they would of sawing off their own arms, especially in an election year when all the members of the House of Representatives will be running in new single districts.

That's one of the reasons so many law-makers are taking so careful a look at Governor Francis W. Sargent's request that they approve a second budget of $135.5 million. Another reason is that they suspect that good, old folksy but politically astute Sarge is trying to outmaneuver them, with next year's state election in mind.

They refer to it as a supplementary budget, but Secretary of Administration and Finance William I. Cowin, known on Beacon Hill as the Deputy Governor, calls it a correctipe budget which implies that somebody made a mistake, possibly Francis Sargent and William Cowin.

When the Governor submitted his budget message to the Legislature last January, recommending the appropriation of $2.465 billion he said that rather tidy sum would be enough to finance the operation of the Commonwealth—if the Legislature approved his plans for reorganizing the state government.

But the Legislature did not okay his scheme for streamlining the state government, and experienced political pundits on Beacon Hill now would not be startled if Sarge were to claim that is why he needs the additional $135.5 million.

However, $55 million, more than one-third of the amount being sought, is being requested for medicaid for people on welfare, and it would be rather difficult to claim that need arose from the failure of the Legilature to approve the reorganization plan.

But Governor Sargent always has managed very skillfully to run against the Legislature, and it appears he is doing so again.

Goldwater Again Disparages 'Ted's Presidential Chances

Senator Barry Goldwater, the symbol of conservatism in the Republican party, who has repeatedly declared that both the Democratic and Republican parties must nominate "Mr. Clean" candidates for President in 1976, has persistently disparaged Senator Edward M. Kennedy's chances either of winning election to the Presidency three years from now or of being nominated for it by his party.

Buried deep in an article by Goldwater published recently in the Globe was a paragraph which said: "For example, Sen. Kennedy, who two years ago looked like a lead pipe cinch to run off with the Democratic nomination, is now questionable. He has been badly damaged by Watergate, which renewed discussion once again of the senator's ill-fated accident on Chappaquiddick Island. This, the Democrats, who want to make the most of their opportunites to capitalize on a 'Mr. Clean' image, will find Teddy Kennedy a hard product to sell."

That was not the first thinly veiled attack Barry Goldwater has levelled at Ted Kennedy. Senator Goldwater is not exactly an objective observer. He is a hard core Republican conservative. He was a weak candidate for President when former President Lyndon B. Johnson defeated him by a massive margin in 1964.

It wasn't so much that LBJ cut the political mustard, as it was that Barry Goldwater didn't.

Many sound political pundits now believe that Senator Kennedy will be nominated as the Democratic candidate for President in 1976 and will be elected President by the people of the United States. They further feel that Ted never again will have as good a chance of achieving the Presidency as he will in 1976.

It has been a little more than four years since a tragedy made Chappaquiddick a household word. In that time Ted Kennedy has been reelected to the U.S. Senate, and last year was importuned to accept the Democratic nominations for both President and Vice President.

That certainly is evidence that time has eroded some of the feeling aroused by the accident at Chappaquiddick. What feeling does still remain should be more than offset by the public indignation against the Republican party stemming from the Watergate mess.

In scanning the political scene, it seems that the Democratic party at this time does not really have an outstanding candidate for President except Ted Kennedy.

Sarge Opens Campaign For New Term At Clambake For Newsmen

Governor Francis W. Sargent officially is an undeclared candidate for reelection.

This means that Sarge has declared he will seek reelection next year but that he has not yet officially assumed the status of a candidate for another term.

If that confuses you, it may bewilder you to learn that the Governor unofficially launched his campaign for reelection with an old-fashioned clambake for newspaper and television reporters at Point Rok on Lake Quinsigamond in Shrewsbury.

What was perhaps most surprising about the event was that so many political reporters, columnists and commentators showed up with their wives and kids for a Saturday clambake.

It added up to the fact that Sarge, who has made his full quota of mistakes as Governor, is personally very popular and highly respected by the men and women who cover him for the newspapers and the radio and TV stations.

Where President Nixon, for example, is generally disliked by the members of the White House press corps, perhaps largely because he avoids contact with them, Sarge is well liked by the full-time and part-time State House press entourage.

Albert (Toots) Manzi, the Governor's No. 1 fund-raiser, was in charge of the clambake, and he obviously put a lot of time, thought and effort into it.

Governor and Mrs. Sargent stayed at the clambake until 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Veteran newsmen, perhaps with more candor than tact, expressed the opinion that Sarge's clambake was much more enjoyable than the more formal reception held for them by Senator and Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy at the famed Compound where they mostly just stood around.

The writers, commentators and their wives and sons and daughters were supplied brown bags by Toots Manzi's aides and urged to fill them up with the candy, fruit and other goodies available in large quantities.

The folksy Governor Sargent, dressed informally in blue slacks and sports shirt to match, joined in to try to see that everyone, including the kids, had a good time.

May Move Next Year's Primary Ahead From September To June

Democratic leaders on Beacon Hill are considering a plan to move next year's primary ahead from September to mid-June.

This action would be coupled with the repeal of the law requiring that the two political parties hold pre-primary State Conventions for the purpose of endorsing candidates for their state tickets.

Whether Governor Sargent would have any objections to such a change in the election laws is uncertain, but the guessing here is that he would.

He is planning to stage an unofficial Republican State Convention next June and then invoke party discipline to try to uphold its actions.

This move by the Legislature would necessitate that the unofficial GOP conclave be held in March or April and that he assume the role of a political candidate earlier than he now plans.

But the Democrats have the necessary votes in both branches of the Legislature to pass the bill over Sarge's veto if they decide to make the effort.

What the Democrats would accomplish by such a move other than forcing Sargent to assume the posture of candidate for reelection earlier than he now plans, is not clear to this bystander.

Whatever advantage would accrue to the Democratic candidate for Governor would come from giving him additional time to unite the various elements and factions in his party and to carry the fight to Governor Sargent.

Actually, however, only the politically-minded show much interest in politicking and electioneering during the summer vacation season, and a candidate for Governor would not be able to do much other than solidify his own forces during that period.

But such a step is being weighed. It may be taken before the Legislature prorogues this fall; or it may be postponed until the law-makers reconvene in January.

Candidates In The Limelight

By CYNTHIA BLACK

Newton's three mayoral candidates will be in the limelight next Monday.

WGBH TV, Channel 2, will televise a one-hour program on Newton and its candidates for mayor at 6:30 and 10:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 1.

Entitled, "Newton — The Race for Mayor," the program will consist of a profile of the Garden City, statements by the candidates, and a short quiz session with three station reporters.

According to the program's producer, the show will open with a look at the city itself and then move to a brief identification of the issues facing the people in Newton and their relation to the interests of other communities.

Completely Black

The candidates, incumbent Mayor Theodore D. Mann, William Carmen and Elliott Berry, will then be given time to make an opening statement.

Reporters Dianne Dumanoski, Paul deGive and Lee Daniels will be asking the questions. Candidates, the producer said, will be given an overview of the subjects reporters have chosen to question them on but will not be briefed ahead of time of the specic questions.

The program will end with a closing statement from each candidate.

The show will be taped in Channel 2's studios Monday afternoon and there will be no audience present.

Originally, the producer said, Channel 2 intended to stage the program in the city, but because of conflicts, had to decide to work in the studio.

Newton, of course, is looking forward to a big Monday night next week and I'm glad the educational station has chosen to broadcast the program at 6:30 p.m. It will be over before several controversial public hearings get underway at City Hall at 8 p.m.

Tuesday night, Oct. 2, the League of Women Voters holds its forum for candidates in the Preliminary Election Tuesday, Oct. 9.

I would personally like to thank the League for what I consider an improvement in scheduling of its forums.

I recall last year the candidates' forum in state and national races was held on a Wednesday night, precluding a lot of newspaper coverage. With both League forums slated on Tuesdays this year, we will have ample time to prepare stories and spread the word on what the candidates had to say.

Florence, did you do it?

Procedure Is Explained For Choosing New Vice President

A number of students have written in to ask what the procedure is for choosing a new Vice President in the event that Spiro Agnew resigns or is removed from office and if there is any possibility a Democrat might be picked to succeed him.

Answering the second question first, there is practically no real likelihood that a Democrat would be placed in the Vice Presidency.

The procedure which would be followed is that President Nixon would nominate a candidate for the office, and his choice would be subject to confirmation or rejection by both the Democratic-controlled Senate and national House, each body voting separately.

If either the House or the Senate voted against the President's nomination, he would be obliged to submit a new name.

Word from Washington is that the Democratic leaders in the two branches of Congress would oppose the selection of a Vice President who would run for the Presidency in 1976.

For example, they would not accept the nomination of a John Connally, Nelson Rockefeller, Charles Percy or Ronald Reagan. They very likely would approve the nomination of someone such as Barry Goldwater who could serve three years as Vice President but would be too old to stand for the Presidency three years from now.

President Nixon does not have the political muscle in Congress that he had before the Watergate mess exploded. If he refused to meet the terms of the Democratic leaders in the House and Senate, the selection of a Vice President could take a long time.

In reply to inquiries, the Congress does not rubber-stamp the vice presidential nomination by a President, especially when the Congress is controlled by the opposite party from that of the President.

School Committee Answers The Graphic

(Editor's Note: This statement was issued Monday night by the chairman of the School Committee in reply to a story in last week's Graphic. It quotes the story in question and presents a response. The statement appears here as submitted by the School Committee)

Item: "The Newton School Committee met in secret this week....."

Response: The Executive Session Scheduled for September 17 to consider tentative agreement of the contract with the N.T.A. and to consider salaries of people not in negotiating units, including cafeteria workers, tutors, data processing personnel and those administrators considered on a "name-by-name" basis, was announced in public session at the School Committee meeting on September 10. The minutes of the regular meeting on Sept. 10, 1973, read as follows: "Mr. Fink announced that an executive session of the School Committee would be necessary on Monday, September 17, 1973, for consideration of personnel and salary matters." The School Committee was never aware of the requirement that Executive Sessions be posted in the City Clerk's office since these meetings, which deal exclusively with negotiations and personnel matters, including the evaluations of professional staff, are not open to the press and the public. This matter can be rectified easily.

Item: In referring to salary increases for administrators ..... "That particular percentage (5.27 per cent) figure was used as a guideline, according to one source close to the School Committee, because it had already been established as the norm for cost of living increases in negotiations with teachers and custodians."

Response: The average negotiated increase for principals and others on the classified salary schedules was 3.6 per cent; the average increase granted "name-by-name" administrators was 3.5 per cent, both well below the increase in the cost of living.

Item: Quoting Mr. Marr: "I think the School Committee has placed itself in a box . . . . . because it told the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen during budget hearings earlier this year that it had the funds to cover any potential salary hikes."

Response: Throughout all of the School Committee's public meetings on the budget, in its written transmittal of the budget to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen dated Feb. 12, 1973, and in its meeting with the Finance Committee on March 3, 1973, the School Committee stated clearly that it had submitted a budget "exclusive of new salary policy." The purpose was to avoid exposing a salary position while negotiations were in progress. In the two previous years the School Committee was able to absorb the increases because they covered only one-third of the budget year (September 1 to December 31). The remaining two-thirds was incorporated in the budget of the following year. The new 18-month budget makes this impossible to achieve. Every attempt will be made to absorb as much as possible, but additional funds will undoubtedly be needed. We won't know exactly how much until the entire budget is reviewed.

Item: "According to Carter Lee of State Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's office, state law requires that all meetings be announced at least 24 hours before they are scheduled to begin. 'Properly speaking, said Lee, notices of all meetings should be posted'."

Response: The meeting was announced, but not posted. There was no attempt to keep secret the fact that a meeting was being held. The School Committee has always attempted to abide completely by the requirements of the law and, in fact, has exceeded that requirement in matters relating to the budget. As noted in the article matters involving "the financial interest of municipality," among others, may be held in executive session, but the School Committee has always attempted to abide completely by the requirements of the law and, in fact, has exceeded that requirement in matters relating to the budget. As noted in the article matters involving "the financial interest of the municipality," among others, may be held in executive session, but the School Committee has held all budget discussions in public. Furthermore, the School Committee has made available to the Aldermen, the press and the public all data relating to the budget which was under consideration.

Complete copies of the budget are on file in the public library; all salaries of personnel are a matter of public record and may be reviewed at the office of the School Administration or the City Clerk.

Dangerous Crossing

(Editor's note: The following letter was sent to Edwin Weist, chairman of the Newton Traffic Commission with a copy to the Graphic and the mayor.)

Dear Mr. Weist:

I am writing in regards to a high accident intersection in Newton at Commonwealth Avenue and Walnut Street (near Newton City Hall).

In the last four weeks there have been two accidents (disabling a vehicle each time) and at least three or four tire-screeching halts. One person was killed in an accident here, some time ago, as well as many reported and unreported accidents haven place. The screeching obrakes has become commonplace.

One month ago, I received my First Aid Certificate, aand since I live a block away from the area, I can arrive at the scene of an accident within one to one ahd a half minutes, before the police arrive. So far, luckily, no one has been injured to the degree of requiring First Aid.

I would now like to propose a solution to the "death trap" at Commonwealth Avenue and Walnut Street. The simple installation of "hang over " style lights, rather than the upright lights, would be more readily seen from a distance, therefore alerting the driver. Many accidents occur around 1 a.m. and so the automatic blinking lights should be red for all four sides, not red for one side and red-orange for the other.

I recognize the fact that Newton has posted more spped limit signs (with good intentions); however, I do not believe there has been a significent change in the traffic flow.

Any action taken to cut down on the accidents at this junction would also increase my sleeping hours. But most of all, lives would not be put in jeopardy because of carless drivers who see the traffic light too late.

Thank you for your concern for public safety.

Boycott Goes On

Editor, Newton Graphic:

We are happy to announce hat a settlement has been eached with officials of Star Market in regard to their urchase of iceberg lettuce and able grapes.

After a week of intensive icketing by the United Farm Workers (UFW), Galen Pike, resident of Star Market, Inc., greed to discontinue further urchases of non-UFW lettuce nd grapes. Star joins First National and its subsidiary Big Buy, Purity-Supreme, and Stop & Shop in supporting the farm-workers' boycott.

As the UFW is on strike against the entire grape industry in the San Joaquin Valley, these stores will be without grapes for the duration of the boycott. In addition, they plan to carry loose-leaf lettuce when UFW lettuce is unavailable.

Continued monitoring is essential if these commitments are to be maintained. UFW products are identified by an Aztec eagle insignia either on the wrapper or the box. None of the grapes should bear this symbol. UFW labels are being used illegally by the Giumarra Vineyards Corp. Please treat these grapes with the same disdain.

A&P is now the last major chain store in the Boston area which refused to honor the boycott. Picketing is in progress every Thursday from 6:30-8:30 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For more information or if you wish to help, please call Dan Guberman at 527-6816.

Newton Helps

Editor, Newton Graphic:

I am a citizen of Lawrence, Mass., involved in a campaign where a police officer is a candidate for public safety director. I was told by the City of Lawrence that we could not run any type of fund raising party.

Tuesday, I went to the Elections office at the State House in Boston and they were of no help to me. While there, I had the honor and pleasure of meeting Representative Paul Guzzi, who took the time to help me, although I'm not from his city. He referred me to the city solicitor, Mr. Howard Levine who also helped me by referring me to Mr. Alan Licarie of the Newton Elections office.

Mr. Licarie should be highly commended. This man whom I've never met has made the time to look into the laws and give me the information I needed.

What a wonderful city to live in! I was a stranger yet these three wonderful and concerned men found the time to answer my plea for help!

I would like to extend my sincere thanks over and over again to Rep. Guzzi, Mr. Levine and Mr. Licarie for making all my efforts worthwhile.

I hope that you will print this letter, so that the citizens of Newton can be as proud of these men as I am thankful.

Carmen's plan would also call for the construction of adequate garage facilities, a maintenance shop and trade-in of the buses every four years at state expense.

Dr. Richard M. Douglas asked Carmen if the state reimbursement applied to the original capital outlay, or purchase of the buses, or to just operating costs of the system.

"The cost of the vehicles, themselves, is reimbursable three years after purchase," he answered, "and in 1972, Weston submitted 90 percent of its total operating cost to the state and was reimbursed for 85 percent of that figure.

A check with the state Department of Education, however, has shown that at least in academic year 1971-1972, Weston paid almost $105 per pupil for bus transportation.

Figures for this past academic year were not available from the state and Weston officials would not release figures for the year.

Instead, the Weston office referred all inquiries to Leo Turo of the state department's Office of Management Services.

"Management is the key to either system," stated the 28-year veteran of the bus wars.

"I realize Newton has had a problem with new management personnel and an entirely new transportation problem," added Turo, "but I definitely feel they are trying to genuinely iron out the difficulties."

According to the figures released by Turo, Newton has, in fact, been having problems with its school bus program.

Newton, according to Turo, is still working on a system to measure the amount of pupils serviced each day by its school buses.

"They estimated 1800 per day,"

"They estimated 1800 pupils serviced per day," continued Turo, "and that has to be inaccurate."

"But," again emphasized Turo, "I am currently working on the entire problem with Aaron Fink and have enough confidence to know he and his associates will come up with an economical system."

"Everyone who looks at the state reimbursement figures gets very excited about the one-third purchase price write-off per year," stated Turo in reference to the state's repayment program for capital outlay.

"The private contractor achieves the same thing after seven years through the internal revenue service while paying the property taxes for garage space and excise taxes for the school buses," he continued.

"In effect," concluded Turo, "everything is up for grabs as far as economy is concerned, depending on the individual city and town, of course."

John Gilleland, director of Support Services for the Newton School Department, explained at the open session on Monday evening that a study of the feasibility of any plan should be delegated to the just-established study committee.

The school committee evidently agreed, and mayoral candidate Carmen's suggestion will be part of the subject matter to be considered by the just-established study group.

two basketball or three indoor tennis courts or gymnastic equivalent and a one-twelfth mile oval and sprint track with pole vault and long jump. All gym spaces have composition flooring.

The small exhibition gymnasium can accommodate 2000 persons and will be used for large school gatherings or school concerts as well as athletic events. The larger gym will take care of 2500 to 3000 people for large convocations, etc.

Included in this area are boys and girls remedial rooms, a girls dance studio, locker facilities for boys and girls participating in physical education, varsity and visiting teams and coaches.

The school building is partially air-conditioned and air-cooled; it can be expanded with the closing of Elm Road; elevators can be used for paraplegics; it has wall-to-wall carpeting except for Main Street and the ground floor; and has accoustical ceilings throughout the building. It is constructed of red and British brown brick on the exterior, brick and natural wood on the interior.

Lack of ground area due to the existing buildings on the site necessitated the architects to design this school in a three to four story construction and to change the school front to Lowell Avenue. Wrecking crews are in the process of razing the existing three buildings to make way for a student mall to be built adjacent to the cafeteria to accommodate 500 students, a 300-car parking area and improvments and expansions of the existing playing fields.

Newton High School has a long and distinguished history.

The original high school, erected in 1859, was a three story wooden structure, was built at a cost of $3,000 with a class of 75 students and a faculty of two and was directed by Principal J.N. Beals. Building No. one was built in 1886 with an addition in 1897 to accommodate the increasing number of students.

Building No. two was built in 1908 three years after a commercial course was introduced into the curriculum. It was known as the Tech Building because it contained the Tech High School, had its own director, and was one of the oldest of its kind in Massachusetts. In 1971, Tech High School was discontinued as a separate school and incorporated into the regular high school as the Tech-Vocation Dept.

Building No. three was known as the Administration Building and was built in 1925. In 1960, because of overcrowding from increasing enrollment, Newton South High School was built.

Within a few years, -Newton High school again was overcrowded and plans were underway to build a new building to replace Building No. one which was outdated and to rehabilitate the other two buildings. Also in the early 60's, the house plan was adopted to make it possible to divide the school into smaller units so the educational needs of the pupil could be met. The school was divided into six units, each under a headmaster.

Manson Hall is headmaster for Barry House which is named after Leo Barry, a principal in the system from 1954 to 1956. Richard Adams heads up Beals House.

Adams House under the direction of Norman Gaudet, is named for Enoch Adams, Headmaster–1897 to 1921. Michael Gradone is Housemaster for Palmer House. This House is named for Irving Palmer–1910-1932. Riley House Housemaster is Edwin Fraktman. Cora E. Riley was the first director of Guidance and Student Personnel from 1930 to 1948. Bacon House has Helen Ryan for its headmistress and the house is named after Francis Bacon, 1922 to 1929.

In 1968, the consensus of the Public Committee of the Newton High School Study was to proceed with an all new construction and to demolish the existing buildings and in 1969 approval for a new Newton High School became a reality.

Not to confuse Newton High with South High the Newton High School was officially changed to Newton North High School.

ments on the grounds that he could not afford the reduced rent, and offered five one-bedroom apartments for the Housing Authority's leased housing program for the elderly.

At that time Iodice also said that he would lose his $25,000 deposit with the M&B, owners of the land, if he were not given permission.

The new information relayed by Barkin was that a new arrangement between Iodice and the M&B allows the developer to recoup his deposit if he is forced to lease the larger apartments to the Housing Authority.

More new and unexpected information emerged from an erroneous financial statement provided by the developer and his lawyer, Robert Freeto, showing that the developer would have only $5,500 profit per year, not enough to allow the larger units for the Housing Authority.

The correct figure should have been $20,000, Barkin said ruefully, after discovering the error.

Barkin, who originally supported the developer's proposal for five one-bedroom units, then moved for acceptance of his committee's majority report requiring the three two-bedroom and two one-bedroom units for the Housing Authority.

The vote was 19 in favor, four opposed, one absent.

The Board also voted overwhelmingly to deny two petitions of the Jenney-Citgo company to convert two gasoline and service stations to smaller gasoline-only outlets that would sell a limited number of food and notion items.

Overpass- Continued From Page 1

Alternate C, the recommended plan, has advantages over the others in less obstruction to the frontage of homes on the south side of Route 9, a smaller span, and less landtaking on the north side of Route 9, and improved access to Eliot Station.

The structure would be a clear span (no center support) that should be screened at least seven feet from the floor and made vandalproof, TAMS said.

The cost estimate for the project is $150,000, excluding enclosing the structure or special features such as snow-melting equipment.

According to a spokesman for the state Department of Public Works, funding would be partially state and partially federal.

Probably the cost of landtaking would have to be borne by the city, the DPW spokesman said.

The overpass was proposed last year by Alderman Lois Pines, and received the approval of the Planning Department.

The Massachusetts Department of Public Works forwarded the TAMS report to Mayor Mann for his concurrence on the recommended site.

Mann's letter of approval was sent last week, the Mayor's office said this week.

Approval of the mayor will initiate the design stage of the project, the DPW said. Construction may not be completed for as long as a year.

The first transcontinental airmail was flown from San Francisco to New York in February, 1921, in 33 hours, 30 minutes.

Youth Activities Resume

The coming of the fall season marks the reopening of two popular youth activities in West Newton.

The West Newton Community Youth Center, operated jointly by the Newton Community Center and the Newton Recreation Department, will resume its open gym program at the Warren Junior High School, beginning Friday, Oct. 12. The co-ed program for junior and senior high school age young people will feature volleyball, basketball, street hockey and the use of gym equipment. Hours are 7 to 11 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 13, the Coffee House and Drop-in Center will be reactivated at the First Unitarian Church on Washington street. The center is designed for junior and senior high age young people and will be open from 7 to 11 p.m. Saturday nights. Coordinators this year will be Rick Williams and Phil Churchill, both graduate Education majors at Boston College.

Recreation Intern Austin Moore announced the first practice session for the Boys' Street Hockey League was held at Cabot, Tuesday afternoon and that League play will get underway next week.

Boys interested in joining the League should call Austin Moore at the Newton Recreation Department, 969-3171, any weekday morning.

The Toneastics Classes will resume Tuesday, Oct. 9. These classes for women are held on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 10:30 at the Newton Centre Playground House on Tyler Terrace.

The classes will be held for six weeks under the direction of Barbara Valinsky and women joining, have the option of attending both the Tuesday and Thursday sessions, or either the Tuesday or Thursday sessions. There is a $1 fee for each class.

Recreation Supervisor Fran Towle says she is still looking for another team to play in the Junior Division of the Girls' Street Hockey League. Interested girls should call Fran at the Recreation Department.

A meeting has been scheduled at Cabot Park, Tuesday, Oct. 2 at 8 p.m. for women 16 years and over who would like to play Street Hockey. Further information may be obtained from Fran at 969-3171.

Bill Perry, director of the Newton Recreation Department's Tag Football League, reported that after being rained out the first night of the season play began the next night with two games.

Paulini Loam and the Troubadour teams played to a scoreless tie while the Crystal Lake AA upset Gaths without the benefit of a touchdown. The only scoring in that game came on three safeties, two by Crystal Lake AA.

The games are played Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Albemarle Playground. Game times are 7:30 and 8:30. Friday night is reserved for making up rained out games. Bill advises young people and their parents that the Recreation Department's Mini-Bike facility off Winchester street, Newton Highlands, is open and will continue to operate until Thanksgiving. He points out that riding mini-bikes on the public highway is not only dangerous for the operators, but illegal as well.

He urges mini-bike enthusiasts to use the Department's extensive track facilities any Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The tracks, there are three, have been resurfaced with a grader and provide a safe area in which to ride.

A safety officer is present to instruct riders in safety procedures and be sure that both the bikes and safety equipment are in good shape.

Counselor Looks At North Side Youth

Last week, the Newton Graphic ran a report from a counselor in the summer street worker program on the south side of the city, conducted here for seven weeks this summer.

The coordinators of the program, two men full time and two women part time, were paid $1,630 from funds administered by the Human Resources Department.

In the second part of this two-part series, we are printing the street workers' report of the north side of Newton.

By ANTHONY QUINTILIANI AND ELEANOR LIEBMAN

The street worker program included several forms of activity, including drop-in coffee houses, movies, trips to Paragon Park, camping trips, and concerts. Most of these activities took place in conjunction with the Newton Youth Center's summer program.

As part of the program we operated a drop-in center at the Newton Community Service Center and the Rebecca Pomroy House. The Pomroy House program was very limited. The Newton Community Service Center program, however, operated at least one night a week and was highly successful. It usually operated from 7 to 11 p.m. and served youths in the West Newton, Newtonville, and Auburndale areas.

On most nights from 20 to 45 young people visited the center and attracted a new group of older and less amicable young males. Some of the newer visitors became prime targets of our counseling work.

We also ran a coffee house at the Newton Community Service Center, which young people enjoyed and requested be repeated. We were unable to fill their request because of lack of funds.

The designated areas for the Summer Street Worker Program on the north side of the city were Newton Lower Falls, Auburndale, West Newton, Newtonville, Newton Corner, and Nonantum.

We located groups of young people in each area except Newton Lower Falls, and decided to limit our activity in Nonantum because there was already a successful program serving the area.

Youths are not readily receptive to the help outsiders profess to offer. Furthermore, they tend to be cynical of all "helping" agencies. Hence the development of mutual trust is essential if counseling and referrals are to be successful. Both time and contact are the primary factors involved in the development of such trust.

Our main mode of contact and operation, especially in West Newton, has been friendly conversation. Through such a medium we have been able to do informal counseling with both groups and individuals.

In Newtonville we began to establish positive relationships with about three youths. But our primary service in this area has been informational. In all areas covered we have publicized our own and other activities by word of mouth and the posting of signs. It was always easier to contact young people when we had some interesting news for them.

With respect to services, our primary role has involved counseling, referrals, and information relay.

In Auburndale we located small groups of young people who occasionally gathered in the municipal parking lot.

In West Newton we covered the Davis and Warren playgrounds, the Austin Street wall (in front of the School Department's Division of Instruction) and the area in front of Brigham's; in all these areas young people consistently met and remained for long periods of time.

In Newtonville large numbers of young people gathered at the Brigham's lot and the municipal parking lot across the street.

In Newton Corner youths frequently congregated at the Eliot Church and in the adjacent park. Our contact here was intermittent and usually of short duration.

We attempted to use several different methods for initial contact with youths being served.

In West Newton initial contacts were most successful. The situation was one of mutual recognition. Because of our Youth Center program, we were familiar with many of the youths in the area. Our approach was informal. The more relaxed and informal the contact, the more successful the encounter was.

In West Newton the groups tend to be of mixed socio-economic background. Most fall somewhere between lower-middle and middle-middle income ranges. The majority of young people in the area come from common ethnic stock, mainly Irish, Italian, English and French families. There are a few blacks in the area.

Family disorganization appears to be a problem for some of the youths. About 10 youths have had at least one minor dealing with the courts, and at least four have had more serious dealings. About half of the young people we contacted made it a policy to stay out of the way of illegal acts, but some youths obviously suffer from recidivism.

The main form of entertainment seems to be nightly drinking; this use of alcoholic beverages is moderate to heavy, and in some cases it borders on severe alcoholism.

Drugs are used to a lesser extent; grass and "downs" seem to be the common stock. One group in the area appears to be more drug-oriented than the others, but the situation in this group does not seem very dangerous.

In Auburndale there also existed mutual recognition, but in this area it was far less significant than it was in West Newton. When we encountered strangers we merely used whatever information (recreational) we had available as means to initiate conversation.

This direct approach appeared to be less successful than the informal approach, but under some conditions we had no choice but to be very direct.

In Newtonville contact conditions were more difficult. The youth in the area represent two distinct groups. Those who habit the Brigham's lot and the church area directly across the street from it tend to be older and are highly skeptical of strangers.

They seldom communicate openly; they first want to know who you are and what you want.

It was clear from the start that a direct approach would not work in the area.

The Brigham's-lot group in Newtonville is a very tight organization. The individuals we hoped to use as contacts for the area were unable to fulfill this role because of their tenuous positions in the group. We hoped that youth who noticed our presence would initiate contact; as time passed we realized that not many of them desired to do so. From that time on our role there was one of informational relay.

In Newtonville the absence of mutual recognition and established contacts, together with the realization that a forceful introduction would not work, left us little choice but to sit and wait. This approach was not very successful.

In Newton Corner we were forced to make a direct approach. The youth were more receptive than we expected them to be, but they appeared a little skeptical of our real role. Although we did not serve these young people in the same manner as we served those in West Newton, Newtonville, and Auburndale, we did communicate with them. We learned what they wanted: coffee houses, films, and concerts in their area.

The only area in which we had considerable effect was in West Newton. The street worker program opened a new means of communication and created a new framework for recreational and informational activities.

A system for referrals was also developed.

Also this summer has been less active (drugs and drinking) than last summer. We do not know if this is true for other areas of the city, but it is true for West Newton.

In the community at large we have been able to obtain information concerning the desires of the city's younger population. The program also proved that adults could function (communicate and relate) in areas controlled by younger people and under conditions imposed by younger people.

We believe that our presence has limited violence in the areas covered.

Based on our experience this summer, we feel that it is unrealistic for three workers to cover the entire city. We believe that at least one and preferably two street workers should be assigned to each major area. On the north side of the city these areas would be West Newton, Newton Corner, Newtonville, and Nonantum.

A base such as a drop-in-center operating on a daily or nightly basis would facilitate the street worker role in contacting, counseling, and referring youths and would also provide a place for young people to congregate.

A large number of youths in the areas covered are involved in illegal acts; besides drug taking and drinking, stealing is extremely prevalent. An important function the street worker should fill is acting as an alternative to dismissed cases, juvenile detention center, and regular probation officers.

THE STREET WORKER WOULD BE EFFECTIVE IN MEETING THE NEEDS OF YOUTH IF PART OF HIS FUNCTION INCLUDED PERIODIC VISITATIONS TO LOCAL SCHOOLS IN HIS AREA. Hopefully coordination of related activities would come about. We would like to note that we support William Buckley's suggestion that a full-time worker be assigned to the city's schools.

A subcommittee of the Youth Commission that has been monitoring the street worker program is currently evaluating the street workers' reports to determine whether to continue the program during some part of the school year.

The Dunkin' Donuts franchises on Boylston street and Watertown street have recently contributed $300 toward the program, which was matched by a personal contribution of $300 by chairman of the board of Dunkin' Donuts William Rosenberg.

B.C. To Present Maxine Kumin

Now in its 17th year, the Boston College Humanities Series will once again present internationally prominent figures in the fields of arts and letters.

Poet Maxine Kumin of Newton will be among the highlights of the humanities series. She will read her poems in McGuinn Augitorium at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 6.

Since its inception in 1956, the humanities series has been offered as a community service by Boston College. The public is invited to attend free of charge, any of the 17 evening lectures, readings and performances.

The series will open on Thursday, Sept. 27, with a lecture by Geoffrey Kirk, Regis Professor of Greek at Cambridge University. He will speak on "From Myth to Philosophy: A Problem in the Development of Greek and Western Thought."

Maxine Kumin, last year's Pulitizer Prize winning poet, will present the poetry element of the first semester portion of the series.

All first semester programs will begin at 8 p.m. on their scheduled date.

Report On Improvements

Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney has issued a progress report on the department's Capital Improvement Projects.

Scheduled for completion in the next two or three weeks are renovations of baseball and softball fields at the Franklin School in West Newton and the Williams School in Auburndale.

The infields are being brought up to grade and new sod laid and the outfields are being dressed and overseeded.

Specifications have been drawn up and let out to bid for the installation of night lights at the basketball court at the Brewer Playground in Newton Centre.

Work on the hard surface courts for basketball is substantially completed at the Emerson School in Newton Upper Falls, and the Angier School in Waban.

At Emerson, the junior size basketball court will be suitable for flooding for ice skating. Construction is now in progress.

The new facility at Angier will include a full size basketball court with an adjacent tennis practice court.

The Street Department is busy grading and seeding the new Crescent Street Playground, and Commissioner Penney expects that the construction will be completed within the next two weeks. This will be a new facility for the young people of West Newton.

At the Hunnewell Playground in Newton Corner, construction of a cage-type basketball backstop and fence extension is in progress.

Major children's playground apparatus is now being installed at Auburndale Park. Major repair projects at Recreation Department facilities include moving and raising the height of the baseball backstop at Cabot Park in Newtonville. That has been completed.

Before the season opened, broken racing lane tiles at the Gath Pool in Newtonville were removed and replaced with smooth epoxy lines.

The basketball court at Burr Park in Newton Corner has been resurfaced and sealed. Also completed are the installation of two additional poles and practice lights for Pop Warner Football teams at the Newton Highlands Playground. Construction is now in progress for the installation of two additional poles and Pop Warner practice lights at the Albemarle Playground in Newtonville.

The tennis courts at Weeks Junior High School in Newton Centre have been resurfaced and sealed, and bids are out for fence repair work.

Scheduled for completion in the next week or two is the resealing of the tennis courts at Warran Junior High School in West Newton. Bids have been asked for fence repair work. Completed projects include the backstop at the Ward School in Newton Centre, and the baseball backstop extension at the Burr School.

ARNOLD CREIGHTON TOVELL of Newton Highlands has been named editor-in-chief of the MIT Press. Tovell was associated with Beacon Press prior to this appointment and earlier, was associated with Holt, Rinehart and Winston, New York. Tovell lives in Newton Highlands. He is married to Joyce Pressey Tovell and they have two children, Robin and Christopher.

ADL Anniversary

Two events celebrating the 60th anniversary of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith will be held Sunday, Oct. 14.

The day-long program will begin with a meeting at Touro Synagogue in Newport R.I. In the evening, the regional board will conduct its annual meeting with a cocktail party and dinner at Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton.

North High Parking Goes To Traffic Commission

Parking at the new Newton North High School appeared to preoccupy a meeting of the School Committee again this past week as many neighbors of the new building appeared to voice opposition to a recent board action.

At their last regular board meeting, School Committee members voted to join with the mayor and the Board of Alderman in petitioning the state for permission to allow on-street sticker parking around the new high school.

A phalanx of neighbors appeared to voice their objections to the recent School Committee action endorsing a move for the petition to the state.

Ward 2 School Committee member Eleanor Rosenblum explained to neighbors that the School Committee action was based on a desire to "leave all options open."

"We do think it is sensible," explained Mrs. Rosenblum, "to request the use of stickers as an alternative option."

Neighbors, however, continued to express their displeasure with a sticker solution to the parking problem.

Harold Scheibert, chairman of the neighborhood association, explained that it was the goal of his group "to be a positive force to help (the School Committee) and the neighborhood" to work out a viable solution to the parking problem.

"We belong to a heavily populated area," countered Scheibert, "and ours is a genuine and not token concern."

He presented the School Committee with a petition signed by over 400 residents of the area asking for such participation, and also expressed a concern with a solution to the problem of permanent site development.

At this point, Mrs. Rosenblum interjected an opinion that the neighborhood association was more concerned with parking cars on site than saving space for physical education programs.

"Not so," countered Scheibert.

"We are as concerned with saving green space from the onslaught of asphalt as is the School Committee," he said.

In the long run the School Committee agreed to reconsider its endorsement of Alderman David Jackson's suggestion for a petition to the state for sticker parking permission.

The matter has been placed with a special sub-committee of the city's Traffic Advisory Commission for further action.

Lung Act Signed

A special act for the city of Newton extending retirement benefits for Newton incinerator employees has been signed into law by Governor Francis Sargent.

This act gives the legal presumption that a disabling lung or respiratory-tract disease incurred by an incinerator employee is due to the inhalation of fumes or particulate at the incinerator, unless the contrary can be shown by medical evidence.

Mayor Theodore Mann, who had appeared before the joint committee of the legislature dealing with the "lung act," extended his thanks to Newton's State House delegation for their unanimous support of the bill.

Democratic City Committee Slates Meeting

The Democratic City Committee will meet Wednesday (Oct. 3) at 8 p.m. at Mason-Rice School in Newton Centre.

A panel discussion entitled, "What Revaluation Will Mean To You," featuring Robert Capeless, former state tax commissioner; Joseph Cosgrove and Philip Waterman, members of the Newton Board of Assessors, and a member of the assessing firm of Cole-Layer-Trumble, will be held.

The public is invited to attend.

Fellowships Go To Three

Three Newton residents have received National Arthritis Foundation fellowships for research at Harvard University.

Joel D. Kowitt, Ph.D., 70 Elm street, West Newton; Joel Ivy, Ph.D,, 5 Willard St., Newton; and Thomas F. Linsenmayer, Ph.D., 28 Hancock St., Auburndale, have all been awarded postdoctoral fellowships for the 1973-1974 academic year.

been awarded postdoctoral fellowships for the 1973-1974 academic year.

The awards were announced by James H. Fairclough, Jr., 77 Wyman street, Waban, chairman of the Massachusetts Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

"The Foundation's national fellowship program, which celebrates its 22nd anniversary this year, has proved to be a highly valuable investment in the fight against arthritis," stated Fairclough.

"It has contributed to many advances in the fundamental understanding of the arthritic processes. Of further benefit to the more than 20 million arthritics in the country is the fact that the majority of the more than 200 fellows who received foundation support and training in the past are still working in the rheumatic disease field," he concluded.

Hedges Re-Elected To County Retirement Board

Norfolk County Treasurer James M. Collins today announced that Sheriff Charles W. Hedges of Dedham has been re-elected to the Norfolk County Retirement System.

Treasurer Collins stated that 1,038 members of the Retirement System cast ballots, which is a return of approximately 32 percent, an excellent return when contrasted with other systems of like size.

Sheriff Hedges received 638 votes, an unprecedented and overwhelming victory. William F. Woloshyn, Foxboro Town Accountant, was second with 209 votes; and Joseph A. Mastandrea, Assistant County Building Superintendent, trailed with 174 votes. Write-in ballots were received for Peter A. Clapp, Edward Clark, John Pohlmeyer, and Richard Wells.

Retirement Board Chairman Wallace S. Carson made a motion to accept the above as the final result of the election. This motion was seconded by County Treasurer James M. Collins, and the results of the election were recorded by the Norfolk County Retirement System Director, Francis W. Burke.

Sheriff Hedges was re-elected for a three-year term. The Retirement Board will meet next Tuesday in their regular monthly meeting.

Eight New Programs At Mass. Bay

Massachusetts Bay Community College in Watertown will implement seven new career programs, and one new transfer program this semester. The new programs include child care assistant, court and conference reporting, medical laboratory technician, medical record technician, small business management, public administration and data processing. Business education is the new transfer program.

The child care assistant program is designed to prepare students as child-care assistants in day care centers, private nurseries and kindergartens and hospitals.

Court and conference reporting will prepare men and women for careers as court reporters in county, state and federal courts; as conference reporters for industry, the professions and government agencies; and as secretaries in business and professional offices where the ability to take high-speed dictation is necessary for employment.

The medical laboratory technician program provides students with a general education and technical preparation necessary for a career as a med lab technician.

The students will be trained to enter directly into laboratory employment.

Medical record technicians are trained for positions in hospitals, clinics and community health care centers. The graduate will be able to assist the medical record administrator in maintaining the records in these facilities.

Small business management is designed to provide specific knowledge of business procedures common to the operation of a small business.

The program will be cooperative by design and geared to train students to make immediate contributions to the firm and-or enter a company-sponsored training program.

Public administration prepares students for a career in government service on the state and municipal levels as well as upgrading the skills of current state and local government employees.

Data processing prepares students to use electronic computers and related equipment at the junior programmer level. The students will be taught to comprehend computer "language", to work with a variety of competitive computers, to master program design, computer system principles and computer capabilities.

The business education transfer program is designed to prepare students to transfer to four-year institutions offering a business education curriculum which will prepare them to teach business education at the elementary, secondary and vocational-technical school levels. This program will also prepare the students for administrative assistants positions in government, industry, and the medical and legal professions.

If anyone would desire more information on these or any programs at Massachusetts Bay Community College, please call or write our Admissions Office, 57 Stanley Avenue, Watertown, MA. 02172, (926-2600

Chamber Honors Miss Ball

The Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce will hold its Fifteenth Annual Achievement Dinner on Tuesday evening, Oct. 16 at the Marriott Motor Hotel, Auburndale.

Adelaide B. Ball, former member of the Newton Board of Aldermen and former president of six major organizations in the community, will receive the 1973 Achievement Award citation.

Adelaide Ball

Miss Ball has an extensive record as a civic leader in government and community organizations, including election to the Board of Aldermen in 1954 as ward alderman. In 1960, she was elected asn alderman-at-large from Ward 1. She served in this position until 1971, when she chose not to seek re-election. For the Charter Review Commission elected by the voters to recommend changes in the City Charter, she served as its secretary.

A former president of the Newton Boys Club, Miss Ball has also headed the Family Service Bureau, the Newton Community Council, the Human Relations Committee, Friends of the Jackson Homestead and was eelected as founder and the first chairman of the City's Council on Aging.

Active in Republican affairs, she is past president of the Newton Women's Republican Club and served as Ward 1. chairman. She was chosen Republican "Woman of the Year" in Newton in 1964.

Other civic interest have included leadership and membership in Newton's Board of Health, the Newton Junior College, the Advisory Board of the Community Relations Commission, the state Consumers' Council and the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce.

A native of Newton, Miss Ball received her education in local public schools and lives in Chestnut Hill with her sister, Margaret. They recently moved from their home which has been owned by the family since the mid-1800's on Waban street, Newton Corner.

Previous recipients of the award include Hon. Franklin N. Flaschner, the late Hon. Leslie B. Cutler, Hon. David A. Rose, Rev. W Seavey Joyce, S.J., Joseph C. Cronin, Hon. Howard Whitmore, Jr., Hon. Monte G. Basbas, the late Hon. Joseph W. Martin, Mr. Earl Stevenson, Dr. Abram Sachar, Rev. Michael P. Walsh, S.J., Hon Leverett Saltonstall, Dr. Charles Stark Draper, Charles Francis Adams and the late Hon. Sinclair Weeks.

The Conductor

Bavicchi Gets Award

Berklee College of Music's John A. Bavicchi has been honored by ASCAP for the 12th time for his contributions to serious music.

ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers), granted him the ASCAP Award for 1973-74.

Bavicchi, a Newton resident, is a veteran Berklee educator of advanced composition and conducting. His works have been performed and recorded by orchestras including the Milwaukee Symphony and the MIT Concert Band and are published by Oxford University Press.

In recognition of his creative contribution to music, he has been awarded the National Institute of Arts and Letters Award. In addition to teaching at Berklee, Bavicchi is musical director of the Arlington Philharmonic Society Chorus and Orchestra and the Belmont Community Chorus.

DeSimone Of Newton On Fair Housing Board

Robert Desimone of Newton has been named to the planning committee of the Metropolitan Boston Committee for Fair Housing Week.

Desimone is Assistant Planning Director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

The Committee, under the co-chairmanship of Governor Francis W. Sargent and Mayor Kevin H. White, has established the week of Oct. 1 - 7, as Metropolitan Boston Fair Housing Week.

The Week is designed to increase public awareness of the fair housing laws and to promote public support for the principle of equal opportunity in the sale and rental of housing.

Activities planned for the wek include a one-day symposium on Tuesday, Oct. 2, in Faneuil Hall, on equal opportunity programs and efforts to increase the supply of low and moderate income housing.

Fair housing exhibits and informational materials will be on display throughout the week on the second floor of Boston City Hall, with representatives of exhibitors available on Wednesday, Oct. 3, to answer question.

Fishman Legislation Nears Enactment

A bill, S.652, filed by Senator Irving Fishman (D-Newton) dealing with childrens services is nearing enactment.

Senator Fishman's bill was merged into S.596 and both are now in third reading, a preliminary stage before enactment by the Senate.

The legislation would decriminalize such offenses as truancy, being a stubborn child or a runaway and categorize them as civil offenses.

The bill aims at state financing for the expansion of pre-trial diversion facilities encouraging job training while sentencing is stayed.

In commenting on his bill, Senator Fishman said, "I feel one positive approach to the corrections problem is to prevent young people from reaching the stage where confinement is necessary."

"I feel that the decriminalization of what are essentially behavior problems and training in lieu of confinement should be steps in that direction," he concluded.

Horace Mann Hosts Community Program

The Newton Recreation Department in conjunction with the Community School program will offer varied activities at the Horace Mann Elementary School beginning Tuesday, Oct. 9. The 10 week program will be held Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

Activities will include a custom design senior citizen exercise program from 7 to 7:30 p.m. and co-ed class for other adults from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Geraldine Muccini will direct an arts and crafts program and for those who like to read, the school library will also be open.

Barbara Valinsky will direct these programs.

Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney reported that his department and the Community Schools Program are planning to expand the popular program this winter.

South High Hosts Local Political Forum

During the first week of October, the Newton South High School Enrichment Program, under the direction of Mrs. Phyllis Monderer, will be offering a Political Forum featuring the three candidates for mayor, Mayor Theodore Mann, William Carmen and Eliott Berry.

Candidates running for the office of School Committee that have accepted the invitation are: David J. Mortimer, Jr., S. Leonard Spitz, Manuel Beckwith, Dorothy Reichard, Herbert Regal, Eleanor Rosenblum.

An added educational experience of this year's forum will be a member of Common Cause who will discuss candidates' contributors disclosure statements.

The public is invited to join students and faculty at South High to hear the speakers, ask questions and join in the discussions.

The schedule is as follows:

Monday, Oct. 1, at 10 a.m. Mann, Carmen, Berry.

Tuesday, Oct. 2 at 10 a.m. School Committee candidates, Mortimer, Beekwith and Spitz.

Wednesday, Oct. 3 at 10 a.m. School Committee candidates Rosenblum, Reichard and Regal.

Thursday, Oct. 4 at 10 a.m. Campaign Coordinators for Mann and Carmen. 11 a.m. Speaker from Common Cause.

Innovations In Sound

You've probably never thought of your car as an ideal stereo listening studio. Well, it is! The minute you sit in your stereo equipped auto, you're blanketed in thrilling sound. You'll witness an entirely new perspective in stereo listening; a richness in stereophony and realism of sound reproduction that has never before been possible. Now, with stereo tape cartridges, whether you listen in your car, home, boat, plane or trailer you enjoy an unparallelled sound sensation . . . crisp clarity and maximum fidelity, superior craftsmanship . . . and a wealth of music for every taste from Broadway to The Beatles, from current hit to classical.

Stereo cartridges are carefully engineered to afford maximum reliability and convenience of operation.

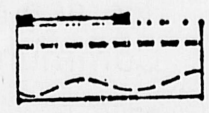
1. You never have to thread or even touch the tape.

2. You may change from one stereo program to another with the press of a button.

3. Tapes are continuous and never need rewinding.

4. With a minimum of care, the playing life of the tape is practically unlimited

What is four-track and eight-track stereo tape? Within the ¼-inch tape width, music is recorded on four or eight parallel tracks which run the length of the tape. Two tracks play simultaneously and produce true stereo sound. Standard tapes provide up to 40 minutes of continuous music. Twin cartridges up to 80 minutes.



How does a tape cartridge work Stereo cartridges contain a tape in a continuous loop, which simply means that the tape runs from the center of the spool and is returned to the outer lap of the reel. Thus, never needs rewinding. Inserting the cartridge into the tape playback unit is probably as easy as replacing your cigarette lighter in the dash.

Seeing is believing, however, and perhaps the least expensive method for you to experience the unusual convenience engineered into a stereo tape is to visit a dealer and ask for a demonstration.

Realizing that stereo tapes are here to stay, Lechmere Sales of Cambridge, Danvers, Springfield and Dedham is now compiling substantial stocks. This foresighted record dealer and department store devoted exclusively to providing the consumer with even a larger and more complete musical selection than previously realized with the more traditional record album departments.

Long recognized as a retailing leader and innovator, Lechmere now features perhaps the largest selection of stereo tape cartridges in New England. It's a certainty that a visit to either Lechmere in Cambridge, Danvers, Springfield or Dedham will prove a most rewarding musical experience.

DURABLE RECORD

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe DiMaggio's 56 consecutive game hitting streak for the New York Yankees in 1941 is one of the most durable records in the baseball roster. The National League record is held by Tommy Holmes of the old Boston Braves, who hit safely in 37 straight games in 1945.

Leaner, Neater Shoes Forecast

Autumn smoke signals tell us you'll be looking down at shoes that will boast cleaner, more feminine-looking lines than we've seen in years. Forget those clunky, awkward shoes — enjoy slimline silhouette shoes that are perfect worn with the new skirts and dresses.

The Look is Leggy, says the American Footwear Institute, the better to show off shoes that invite you to jump feet first into fall. The most popular all-round shoe remains the basic patent pump with the spectator look.

Heel heights range from low to high, and it's evident that despite the warnings by doctors, platform shoes continue to be worn by a large percentage of women who clomp around in them.

The National Roads and Motorists Association has issued a warning to women who drive automobiles while wearing platform shoes, to wit: "Platform shoes, some of which have heels up to six inches high, could easily be caught between the pedals and the floor of the car.

"Should a woman have to brake quickly with those heels on, anything could happen if she misjudges the pedal." A major problem is the platform with no counter (the piece at the back that holds the heel together). Without it, the heel of the foot is apt to spread and overhang the back of the shoe.

Women who do choose to wear platforms cannot use as an excuse "the shoe store carried only platforms, so I HAD to buy them." You will be able to select from a variety of heels and quarter as well as half-inch soles. As a matter of fact, soles that do not exceed three-quarters of an inch are considered fall's more elegant styling.

We hasten to add that this in no way indicates that platforms have disappeared; they're here for those who wish them, however, fashion designers preferred the modified platform soles with a variety of throat treatments when accessorizing their new fall collections. Extreme platforms will be retained only by the very young.

Fashions By Ruth Lenson

Saying that a shoe is very sensible looking could be the kiss of death to a style, and yet such is the situation. Sober-looking, classical shoes are a part of the new softer looks in dresses. There's nothing extreme about the dressy pump which has made a strong comeback.

When questioned about the new shoe styles, one experienced shoe salesman replied, "What bothers me more than the new platform styles is, the way women come in and tell me what their size is, and chances are they haven't had their feet measured for shoes in years!

"I can look at a woman's shoes (the ones she wears into the store) and I can tell immediately if she's wearing the correct size. For instance, if the tip of the toe is curled or excessively worn — if the soles are worn unevenly (especially on the inner edge) . . . if the heels are run over . . . if the upper part of the shoe bulges over the sole or is twisted . . . if the toes have worn holes into the linings . . . and, of course, if the heel counter is broken down it means she's wearing the wrong size and sooner or later will suffer with corns, calluses, blisters or, worse than these, backaches."

So, next time you buy shoes, ask the shoe clerk to check the shoe length and width. He should ask you to stand so that your feet are supporting the weight of your body. In trying on the shoes there should be one-half to three-quarters of an inch between your longest toe and the end of the shoe.

And since we're talking about healthy feet, when was the last time you treated your feet to stimulating exercise? Try these simple exercises on a daily basis, best done after bathing. Stand erect in bare feet and raise your body up on the balls of the feet. Hold for a few seconds and lower slowly. Repeat several times. Place a tennis ball under the arch, put much of the body weight on that foot, and roll the ball under it (perhaps you'd better hold onto a chair when you're doing this one). Try lifting a pencil with the toes. Stand on the end of a towel and try to rake in the rest of the terrycloth with the toes.

It has been estimated that the average homemaker takes 20,000 steps a day, so be kind to your feet. After bathing, soften and lubricate the skin with baby oil. Remove the excess oil with tissue and then massage the feet and ankles briskly with good quality witch hazel. Pat with the fingers until dry.

Pants are still very much in the picture and that means the return of flats. Saddle and moc patterns are also in the picture, especially the new fashion of bobbie socks and flat-flats.

No, boots are not passe . . . they're alive and kicking though they've lost their fashion status. The short, campy boot will make headlines this fall and winter, blazing trails in all weather with jeans or cuffed pants. The rocker-sole suede pull-on boot teams nicely with the new straight pants.

Shoe colors for fall are: all the warm shades of the brown family including the new rusts, copper, henna and terracotta. Ready to coordinate with the popularity of gray flannel, charcoal gray shoes will be new to the fall shoe market. This color is a good one when wearing plaids and the new winey reds as well as navy and green.

Evening shoes will gleam and glitter. Satin and rich brocades, silver and gold reptiles and black silk shoes aglitter with tiny "diamonds" will go out dancing on the town.

Platforms 'Grotesque'

By MALCOLM McINTYRE

I am in the process of being disowned by my wife.

Saturday, for the eighth time in the past three months we went out to buy her a pair of shoes, and for the eighth time we came home empty handed.

It's not that there weren't enough shoes around, nor was the price much of a problem; it was simply a case of not being able to reach a compromise on what pair she would buy.

And therein lies the problem.

You see, I've become an old man before my time. At least that is what my wife insists.

I've always liked button-down shirts, penny loafers, and cuff-less pants. And I've never given up on knee socks, pleated skirts, button-down collar blouses, and sweaters, especially cable knit and argyles.

So that makes me an old man, I guess.

But it is the shoes that have really created the problem.

My wife likes shoes that I don't even consider shoes. She likes things with open toes, thick soles, and quarter pound heels.

I don't.

I mean they're health, safety, and aesthetic hazards. Aren't they?

When it snows or rains, won't her toes get wet? Maybe that doesn't bother you, but I for one have always disliked women with wet toes.

And when her toes get wet isn't there a chance she'll come down with wet toe illness?

What about those soles? I'm used to shoes where if you drag your feet you'll soon be in need of a repair job. Planned obsolescence, maybe, but something I'm used to. Heck, the shoe repair man needs to eat like everyone else doesn't he?

But now, with those half-inch to two and three inch thick soles, who's going to visit his friendly local shoe repairman?

Really, to be honest, it's the heels that do me in. And that's where my wife and I really don't come close to a compromise.

I think those thick high heels are simply grotesque.

I showed her the New York Times Women's fashion supplement this fall and all the low heeled shoes, but she just sat there and smiled that polite little "forget it" smile.

And at the shoe store I picked up every shoe that looked something like a loafer and told her how great she would look in one of the normal shoes.

Think she'd buy that. Nope.

She won't talk about it, but I know that if she does get a pair of those rejects from the furniture industry she'll have to practice walking in them for a couple of days before she ventures forth in public.

She'll be so far off the ground the FAA will want her to file flight plans.

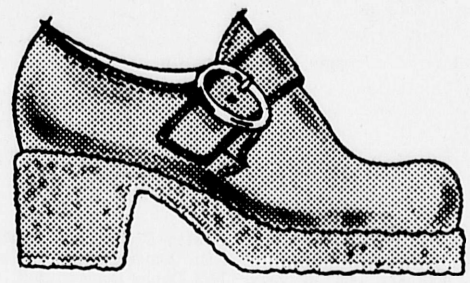
My wife, like everyone's wife, spends a considerable amount of money making herself look more attractive. I accept that as a necessary evil. I'm told that all the bottled stuff makes her more feminine and that is how she justifies her support of the cosmetics industry.

But those shoes with the quarter pound heels do nothing to make her or any woman more feminine. Those heels are so cloddy, so ungraceful, and so noisey' that I can't imagine how any woman could ever wear them.

But then who has ever really been able to understand the American woman?

I guess I'll just make my reservations early for the old folks home.

I wonder if they take 26-year old journalists who wear loafers and blue oxford cloth button down shirts?



Across The Kitchen Counter

Ruth Lenson

If you're looking for ways to cut corners, make sure you have a package of rice on the pantry shelf.

Rice is one of those cereal grains that can be used for just about any dish . . . on your dinner plate, in your soup bowl or dessert dish. A most important factor about rice is, it's economical. One serving of cooked rice costs about 3 cents. In addition to pleasant flavor and adaptability to many preparations and uses, this age-old staple has the added appeal of ease of handling and no waste at all.

Some white rice is enriched; minerals and vitamins have been added to replace those lost in milling. White rice usually costs less than rice in other forms. If you're making croquettes, puddings or rice rings, use short or medium grain rices which have tender grains that stick together and mold well. (Also, short grain rice is often less costly than the longer grain because it has a short growing period and produces a higher yield per acre.) Brown rice, preferred by many for its nutty flavor, has had less milling than white rice, leaving the value of the whole grain. Convenience pre-cooked rice has been partially cooked which makes it a more expensive product.

Long grain rice is hard and translucent; the cooked rice is fluffy and the grains separate. This type of rice is preferred when appearance is important and is generally used as mounds of rice for curries, stews and creamed dishes.

Rice can be refrigerated about a week or frozen up to eight months either separately or with any other food that freezes well. When storing cooked rice, cover the container so that the grains will not dry out or absorb the flavors of other foods. To reheat, add 2 tablespoons liquid for each cup of cooked rice and simmer in a covered saucepan for 4-5 minutes.

Brown rice has more nutrients (the B vitamins — thiamin, riboflavin, and niacin) than white rice, but somehow doesn't have the sales appeal. It doesn't cook up as fluffy and as quickly as some of the other rices, but it is good for you.

A WORD OF CAUTION: Rice is enriched with the B vitamins and iron, so please do not rinse them before cooking or afterward. If you do, you will be washing away the water-soluble vitamins, not starch. The milky cast of any rinse water used on the rice does not mean you are ridding yourself of starch, but washing away the residue of the milling process. True, years ago many times Mother would ask us to help "pick over" the rice which meant removing tiny bits of stones which were certainly not edible. Today's rice does not contain impurities and any rinsing or washing means loss of precious vitamins and minerals.

Here are some quick rice tips: Cook rice in tomato juice and serve topped with cheese sauce . . . Serve creamed salmon, hard-cooked eggs, peas and pimiento over hot fluffy rice . . . Add rice to homemade vegetable soup about 20 minutes before cooking time is over . . . Mix sweetened, cooked rice with whipped cream and layer in parfait glasses with cling peach slices.

DON'T peek when boiling rice. It lets out steam, lowers the temperature. DON'T stir rice after it comes to a boil. This mashes grains; makes rice gummy. DON'T leave rice in pan in which it was cooked for more than 5-10 minutes or cooked rice will pack.

1-2-1 FLUFF METHOD OF COOKING RICE

1 cup rice, 2 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt. Step No. 1: Combine 1 cup rice, 2 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt in a 3-quart saucepan that has a tight-fitting lid. Step No. 2: Bring to a boil, stirring once or twice as water comes to a boil. Lower heat to simmer. Cover pan and cook about 14 minutes without removing lid or stirring. Fluff rice lightly with a fork, and let stand in covered pan for no longer than 5-10 minutes.

CHINESE FRIED RICE

3 tablespoons oil
3 cups cold cooked rice
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ pound uncooked shrimp, shelled and split
½ cup finely diced celery
½ cup sliced green onions with tops
½ cup drained canned bean sprouts
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons soy sauce
Dash pepper

Heat oil in a skillet or wok; add rice and salt and heat thoroughly. Add shrimp, celery, green onions and bean sprouts. Cook and stir over high heat for 3 minutes or until shrimp turn pink and opaque. Add beaten egg and cook, tossing, until egg is set and coats the rice. Add soy sauce and pepper. Cook and toss a minute before serving. Serves 4 as a main dish, 6 as side dish. Note: Shredded cooked chicken or beef may be substituted for shrimp.

SPINACH RICE MEDLEY

1 cup uncooked rice
½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons olive oil (or salad oil)
2 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen cut spinach in butter sauce

Saute rice and onion in oil for 15 minutes, stirring now and the. Add boiling water and salt. Cover and simmer for 20 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid absorbed. Meanwhile, heat spinach as directed on package; add spinach to cooked rice, mix lightly and turn into a serving dish. Serves 4-6.

MUSHROOM ALMOND RICE

1 cup chopped onions
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup uncooked rice
2 cups beef bouillon
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup sliced almonds
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms

Cook onions in two tablespoons butter or margarine until tender. Add rice and continue cooking until golden. Add bouillon and pepper. Stir well. Heat to boiling. Cover pan, reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Saute almonds and mushrooms in remaining butter or margarine. When rice is tender, add almonds and mushrooms and toss lightly. Serves 6.

OLD FASHIONED RICE CUSTARD

6 eggs
3 cups milk
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ cups cooked rice
½ cup raisins

Beat eggs lightly with a fork. Stir in milk, sugar, vanilla and salt. Turn rice into a greased 2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with raisins. Pour custard over rice and set baking dish in a shallow pan of hot water and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 15 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Serve warm or cooled. Serves 6-8.

CHICKEN PILAU

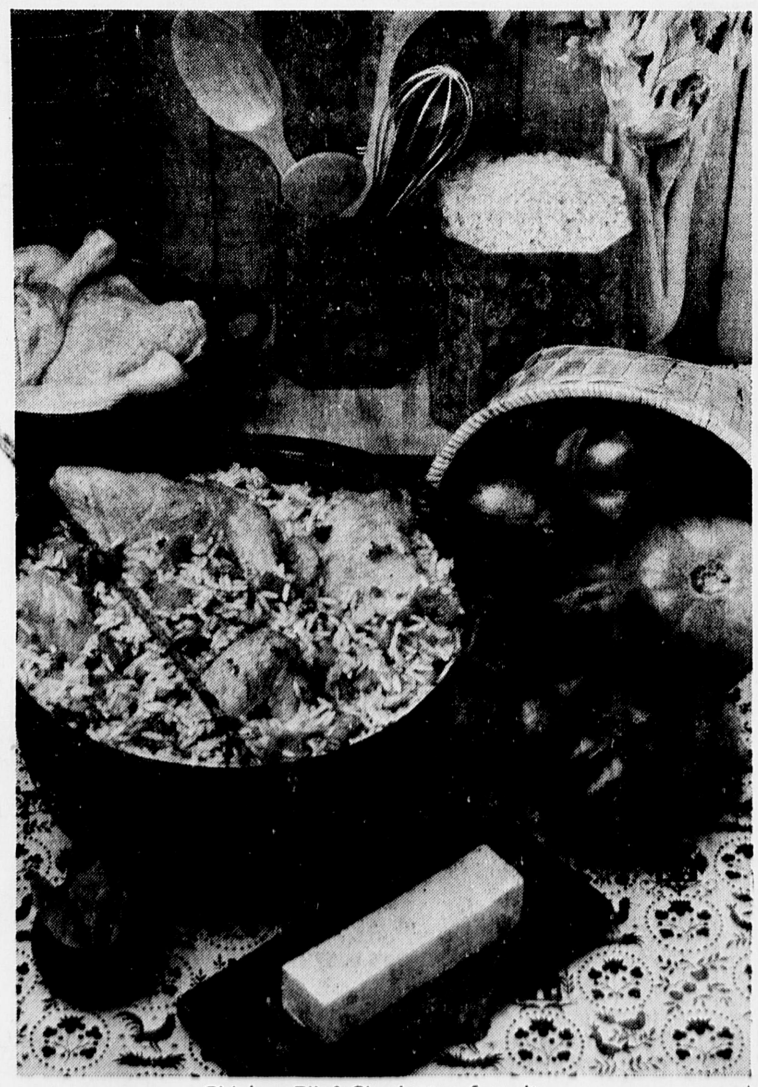
1½ cups sliced celery
¾ cup coarsely chopped onion
¾ cup diced green pepper
¼ cup (½ stick) margarine
2 cups chicken broth
1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes, undrained
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 bay leaf
1 (2½ lb.) broiler-fryer cut in serving pieces
1½ cups uncooked rice
Chopped parsley

Saute celery, onion and green pepper lightly in margarine in Dutch oven for about 5 minutes. Stir in chicken broth, tomatoes, salt, cayenne pepper and bay leaf. Add chicken. Cover; cook over medium heat until chicken is partially cooked, about 20 minutes. Stir in rice. Cover; cook over low heat for about 25 minutes. Remove cover; cook until rice and chicken are tender and liquid is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Arrange chicken and rice in large serving dish. Garnish with chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

FRUITED CHANTILLY CREAM

1 cup heavy cream
¼ cup sugar
2 cups cool cooked rice
1 can (8½ oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup shredded coconut
1 small orange, peeled, seeded and diced
¼ cup chopped maraschino cherries
12 marshmallows, quartered
¼ cup pecans or walnuts

Whip cream and add sugar. Combine remaining ingredients. Fold into whipped cream. Spoon into serving dishes and chill. Garnish with additional cherries and pecans or walnuts, if desired. Makes 6 servings.



Chicken Pilaf, Charleston favorite.

Press-Weber Bridal At M.I.T.

Miss Dina B. Press of West Newton became the bride of John M. Weber of Nashua, N.H. on Sunday, September 9 at the MIT Chapel. A wedding reception followed at the Harvard Club.

Mrs. Weber is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Press of West Newton and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Kabatznick of Brookline. Mr. Weber is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Weber of Corning, N.Y.

The bride wore a gown of off-white peau de soie with a long-sleeved net bodice embroidered with seed pearls and alencon lace. The veil was held in place by a peau de soie head band trimmed with seed pearls. Escorted by her father, she carried a bouquet of celia orchids, surrounded by stephenotis, freesia, and miniature ivy.

Attending the bride were Miss Ann Nowak of West Newton, maid of honor; and Miss Janice Newman of Cambridge and Mrs. Deborah Waselewski of Dedham. The attendants wore taffeta print gowns of blue, green, pink and white, covered with blue net, and they carried bouquets of summer flowers.

The best man was Joseph P. Walsh of North Carolina. Ushers were the groom's brothers, William A. Weber of Corning, N.Y., and James S. Weber of Evanston, Illinois, and the bride's brothers, David M. Press and Benjamin H.M. Press of West Newton.

The bride is a graduate of Dean Junior College. The groom, a graduate of Yale College, is development engineer in electronics for Corning Glass Works. (Kemp Photo)

Nancy Brine Is Bride

The wedding of Nancy Stewart Brine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gerard Brine, Dennis Port, formerly of Newton Centre, and Gary Robert Frederickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Robert Frederickson, East Longmeadow, took place in the chapel of Holy Trinity Church, West Harwich, Sept. 8.

Officiating at the nuptial mass was the Rev. Michael Doocey of St. Mary's Church, Lynn. A reception followed the ceremony at the Christopher Ryder House, Chatham.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a victorian lace gown and carried a bouquet of cornflowers and babies' breath.

Mrs. Kevin R. Currie of Framingham was her sister's matron of honor. The best man was George C. Burns of Randolph, Vt.

The bride is a graduate of Regis College and her husband was graduated from the University of Massachusetts.

After sailing to Nantucket for their honeymoon, the couple will live in Acton.

Bornstein-Wachs Bridal

MRS. HOWARD SANFORD WACHS

Miss Sharon Teri Bornstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bornstein, Newton, was the recent bride of Howard Sanford Wachs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Wachs, Brooklyn, N.Y.

The ceremony and reception were held at the Sidney Hill Country Club. Cantor Gabriel Hochberg officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white peau do soie princess style gown, trimmed with seed pearls and beads, with a veil of silk illusion. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of stephanotis, white freesia, lilies, pink and white roses and ivy.

Maid of honor was Mrs. Rena Leslie Cautin, sister of the groom. Elaine Attanasio was bridesmaid.

Brother of the bride, Michael Robert Bornstein, was best man. Ushers were Michael Wachs, Murray Cautin and Richard Attanasio.

The bride has an associate degree from Boston University. She has studied at the American College in Jerusalem and plans to complete her studies in the field of urban education.

The groom, a student at Tufts Dental School, is a graduate of Brooklyn College, N.Y.

After their honeymoon in Bermuda, the newlyweds are residing in Boston.

Lobovits-Tatelman Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lobovits of Bridgeport, Connecticut, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan, to Mr. Barry Tatelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tatelman of Newton.

The future bride, a graduate of Lasell Jr. College and Boston University School of Education, is teaching in Needham.

Her fiance, a graduate of Boston University School of Public Communication, is associated with Jordan Furniture Company of Waltham.

Campus Note

David Gomberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gomberg of 264 Mill St., Newtonville, has entered his senior year at Darrow School in New Lebanon, N.Y.

Darrow, a coeducational college preparatory boarding school for students in grades nine through 12, offers a challenging and flexible curriculum, a wide range of interscholastic sports and a unique student-faculty "Hands-to-Work" maintenance program.

Jean Zase Is Bride

Married recently were Miss Jean Deanna Zase, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Selig G. Zase, Newton Centre, and William Alan Doniger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Doniger, Hull.

MRS. WILLIAM ALLAN DONIGER

The ceremony and reception took place at the Chateau de Ville, Randolph. Rabbi James Rosenberg performed the single ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, Jean wore a floor length white double organza gown with attached train.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ellen Hersey, sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Miss Rhonda Rosen, Miss Nancy Bloch, Miss Caren Palmer and Mrs. Michael Fisher. Michelle Hersey, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Joseph Doniger was his brother's best man. Ushers were Mark Pure, Dr. Martin Zase, Alan Swiman and Stuart Rosenthal.

The bride was graduated from Newton South High School, Lasell Junior College, and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where she majored in elementary education.

Mr. Doniger, a graduate of Hull High School, attended Northeastern University and is a manufacturer's representative.

The couple spent their honeymoon in St. Maarteen. (Ciro's photo)

SUSAN LOBOVITS

Dr. Williamson Regis Dean

Sr. Jeanne d'Arc O'Hare, President of Regis College in Weston, has announced the appointment of Dr. Susan Williamson as Academic Dean. She is the fifth administrator to hold this vital post in the 46-year history of the liberal arts college.

A resident of Newton Centre, Dr. Williamson is a nationally prominent scholar and prolific author. Her name appears in Who's Who of American Women, Who's Who in the East, Outstanding Educators of America, Leaders in American Science, American Men and Women of Science, Two Thousand Women of Achievement, and World Who's Who of Women.

The first woman to receive a Ph.D. in Mathematics from Brandeis University in 1963, she also studied at American University and did post-doctoral work at Harvard University. Her A.B. was conferred by Radcliffe College in 1958, her A.M. by Brandeis University in 1961.

Dr. Williamson is a Professor of Mathematics. During her eight years on the faculty of Regis College, she has served on the Curriculum Committee, Faculty Council, and Educational Policy and Planning Committee. Her previous teaching commitments included Boston College, Cardinal Cushing College, and Brandeis University.

A member of the American Association of University Professors and the Association for Women in Mathematics, the Dean is particularly active in the American Mathematical Society, which she serves as a reviewer and lecturer.

Dr. Williamson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Williamson of Hagan Road, Newton Centre, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Charles H. McCarthy of West Somerville.

Candidates' Night Special

The voters of Newton are invited to the Peirce School, 170 Temple Street in West Newton on Tuesday, October 2 to hear and question those candidates who will be competing in the preliminary election on October 9.

The League of Women Voters of Newton, a non-partisan organization, has arranged this special Candidates' Night to encourage voter participation in this, the city's first preliminary election.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. with section meetings for candidates for Ward Alderman from Wards 3 and 4 and their constituents. At 8:15 p.m., candidates for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 7 and mayoralty candidates will participate in the main auditorium. Following the meeting, refreshments will be served and citizens will be able to chat informally with the candidates.

Dr. Richard Mallon, Associate Director of Development Advisory Services at the Center for International Affairs and Lecturer in Economics at Harvard will moderate the general part of the meeting. Section meetings will be moderated by Ellen Lipson and Rita Barron.

The Committee responsible for the special Candidates' Night is as follows: Chairman, Sylvia Apelbaum; vice chairmen, Rochelle Alexander and Thelma Pleishman; hospitality, Mary Morrison; ushers, Jane Montgomery; publicity, Patricia Keairnes; Posters, Arlene Lwney; Signs, Felice Kahn; timer, Shirely Beaser; Screeners, Fay Bronstein and June Rosenberg.

12 MDC Skating Rinks To Reopen Oct. 6

MDC Commissioner Sears announced today that twelve enclosed metropolitan skating rinks will be opened on Saturday, October sixth. The remaining thirteen open-sided rinks will come on line November third. The fees for hourly ice time will be the same as they were in 1972-1973. Figure skating instruction will be extended to at least one new rink.

Recognizing the need to provide increased services to face the expected great demand for these popular ice facilities, the MDC has undergone a reorganization of its recreation division. A new park director, Mr. Robert Williams, an experienced administrator who was formerly the Commissioner of Forests and Parks for the State of Vermont has been appointed. Reporting to him will be Mr. James Whelan, Director of Recreation whose office will be coordinating the distribution of ice time. Three Assistant Directors, Mr. Richard Binnall, Mr. John Yovicsin and Mr. William Henderson, will exercise supervision over the north, central and south sections, respectively. The creation of these new recreation sections and the reassignment of some managerial personnel will shorten the lines of command within the large State agency and provide quicker and more efficient response in the area of maintenance and supervision.

The Commissioner also announced the assignment of managers to the rinks. In doing so, he commented that he was, "pleased that the new Park Director has made some management changes, as a part of a year-long effort to strengthen the supervision of MDC recreational facilities." He said he strongly supported Director Williams' judgment to take action; adding that, "anyone who calls on us to stand pat and do nothing is demonstrating a certain amount of contempt for the widespread public discussion of our recreational services."

Sears made the point that the MDC Police, Administration and the Engineering Division have both been substantially realigned recently. He called for public support of a park reform package included in the supplementary budget which will place maintenance engineering functions more closely in line with the park administration and tighten up top management.

"In the same spirit", the Commissioner said, "we are making management changes at the facility level at Milton, Cambridge, Weymouth, Neponset and South Boston, thus strengthening supervision in the southern and central area in line with similar changes made in the past two years at Arlington, Charlestown, East Cambridge, Jamaica Plain, Belmont and West Roxbury". These changes, he said, were designed to bring about a new lease on life in certain rinks where criticism has arisen, and also to give the managers a wider experience to improve their chances of progressing in a reorganized and revitalized recreation system.

Commissioner Sears said that he expected there would be some criticism of these changes but added that he thought the criticism would be "far greater and more justified if we did nothing at all." He admitted that some of the managers reorganized had been involved in the controversy over MDC facilities which was in the public eye last summer, but pointed out that some of those more prominently involved were left in their previous assignments, and most of the managers reorganized had kept entirely out of the controversy. If this were some kind of shallow retribution," the Commissioner pointed out, "we would be making these changes after the legislature finished its review of the MDC, and making them to increase the inconvenience to the men involved, whereas, in fact," said the Commissioner, "we are making them now because they are based on management needs and the rinks are opening now, and in most cases, we're shortening the commuting distances for the men involved."

INITIATIVE PETITION leaders meet with Senator Quinlan (far left) to coordinate statewide distribution of a petition to reform the Massachusetts campaign spending law and to create a Corrupt Practices Commission to oversee enforcement. As described by Senator Quinlan, chairman of the Committee to Reform Election Laws, the petition will allow the Massachusetts public to by-pass the Legislature and enact campaign reform by popular vote. From left: Senator Quinlan (R-Norwood); Nathaniel Reed, dean and professor of American Studies, Amherst College; Estalla L. Crosby, vice-president, Council of Elders of Roxbury; Martha Reardon, member, National Governing Board of the Republican Society; James F. Lawson, Jr., chairman, Massachusetts Jaycees Governmental Affairs Commission; David J. Panaia, former chairman, East Longmeadow Board of Selectmen. (Photo by Chalue)

TEACH SAFETY

NEW YORK (UPI) — If your children walk to school, walk with them now and then to be sure they are going the safest way. Some schools suggest safe routes. Parents should explain to a child why one route is best, and warn of any dangers—blind intersections, grouchy pooches, heavy traffic, deserted buildings or construction sites.

Fall Art Courses At Museum Of Fine Arts

The Museum of Fine Arts is offering a varied selection of evening and day courses this fall to both adults and teenagers.

Registration is now underway for studio courses in drawing, painting, sculpture and design for adults. Adult classes are available during the day Monday through Saturday and on Tuesday and Thursday evenings October 9 through December 15. Studio courses for students 8-18 years old will be held on Saturdays September 22 through January 19. Fees for the courses run from $20.00 to $36.50.

Three Hundred Years of American Painting: From Limning to Time Space, a lecture series tracing the history of American painting from Copley to post World War II painters, will be held in three terms from October to May.

Two sections are available: Thursday evenings 7 to 8:30 and Friday mornings 10:30 to 12:00 The schedule for the three terms is as follows:

1st term: Pioneers in a New World: the 17th and 18th Centuries. October 4 - November 30

2nd term: Sophistication and "Rugged Individualism": The 19th Century. January 10 - March 1.

3rd term: Confrontation with a Wider World: The 20th Century. March 14 - May 3.

The course fee is $38 per term ($30 for Members) and includes free admission to the Museum one hour before each lecture.

Also scheduled for adults this fall is a series, Arts of the American Home, featuring lectures by distinguished scholars. The series, sponsored by the Department of American Decorative Arts and the National Home Fashions League, meets on Tuesday evenings through October 23 at 7 p.m. A single subscription is $35 ($30 for Members) and $65 ($55 for Members) for a couple.

Subscribers will be admitted free to the Museum one hour before the lecture. The schedule follows:

October 2 - Pottery and Porcelain in the American Home, 1700-1900, J. Jefferson Miller III, Smithsonian Institution

October 9 - Traveling Artists in Early New England Nina Fletcher Little

October 16 - Changing Tastes in 19th Century America Berry B. Tracy, Metropolitan Museum of Art

October 23 - Quality in Historic Restroation Charles E. Peterson, F.A.I.A.

Bruncheon Party

NORWOOD, MASS. . . The Greater Boston Chapter of the Dysautonomia Foundation, Inc. will sponsor a Bruncheon Card Party at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton on Wednesday, Oct. 10, at 10:30 a.m.

In announcing the event, Mrs. James Spertner of Newton, the Chapter's first vice president for fund raising, said the bruncheon would be open to the public.

"Tickets, at $10, are available by contacting Bruncheon Chairman Mrs. Linda Wolf of Newton, at 969-5670," Mrs. Spertner said. "The morning program includes brunch, to be followed by bridge, Mah Jongg and other card games.

The Oct. 10 Bruncheon is being held to raise funds to aid in the underwriting of research to find a control and cure for familial dysautonomia--an hereditary disease which afflicts Jewish children.

TEMPLE EMETH SISTERHOOD

On Sunday evening, October 14, 1973 at 8 p.m. Temple Emeth Sisterhood will present Mr. Robert Silver of the JDL, who will speak on the "American Reaction to Anti-Semitism". Mr. Silver is a doctoral candidate at Harvard and has written many articles which have appeared in the Jewish Advocate and the Jewish Times of New York. At the conclusion of his work at Harvard he plans to move to Israel.

Mrs. Arthur Bass, President of Temple Emeth Sisterhood and Mrs. Robert Ross, program chairman, invite the entire community to attend. Mrs. Jason Long is chairman of the evening and Mrs. Nathan Furst is hospitality hostess.

A coffee hour will follow the program and admission is free. Please call 469-0009 or 469-9649 for reservations.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The Woman's Union of the First Baptist Church in Newton, Newton Centre will hold its first meeting of the season on October 1 at "Grotonwood", the Baptist Camp in Groton, Mass.

Mrs. Ronald W. Adams of Wellesley will preside at the business meeting. The speaker of the day will be Mrs. James H. Burns, national president of the American Baptist Woman. Her subject will be "Signs of Hope in Thailand". Mrs. Burns is a former resident of Newton Highlands and a former president of Church Women United in Newton.

CENTRAL CHURCH

The Woman's Association of The Central Congregational Church of Newtonville will hold its first meeting on Wednesday, October 3. Luncheon is at 12:30 and will be followed by a short business session.

At 1:30 in the Merrill Room the Rev. Paul Irwin of St. John's United Methodist Church of Watertown will discuss his adventures as "A Protestant Chaplain On The Good Ship Hope". Members who recall Mr. Irwin as a Lenten speaker two years ago will welcome this return visit and a large attendance is anticipated.

NEWTONVILLE WOMAN'S CLUB

The opening meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Club will be held Monday, October 1 at St. John's Parish House, Newtonville. Coffee will be served at 1:30 p.m. The business meeting will begin at 2 p.m.

Hospitality chairman will be Mrs. Henry J. Chaudovait, assisted by Mrs. Harold S. Rice and Mrs. Ross E. Langhill. Pourers will be Mrs. Walter E. Brown and Mrs. Edmund Anthony. Mrs. Stanley Sobocinski will present the program.

B'NAI B'RITH

Newton members of Constitution Chapter, B'nai B'rith Women and all interested friends will want to know that the entire 2nd deck of the S.S. Peter Stuyvesant of Anthony's Pier Four Restaurant has been reserved for their Annual Fall Dinner party on October 30.

This will celebrate the Chapter's 35th anniversary. Featured will be a complete dinner and boutiques galore. The highlight of the evening will be a skit directed by Mrs. Harry Rifchin of Newton, with the ladies of Constitution Chapter in the cast.

GARDEN CLUB

Garden Club members in Newton will hear Mrs. Edw. G. Freeman's lecture and demonstration, "An Hour in Japan," on Wednesday, Oct. 3 at 10:30 a.m. at Temple Shalom, Newton.

Mrs. Freeman is a past president of Ikebana International, Boston chapter, and a teacher of the Ikenobo school. She is a professor of the Sogitsu School and a past officer of the Temple Shalom Garden club.

A petite luncheon will follow the meeting in the youth room at Temple Shalom, 175 Temple st., West Newton. A guest fee of $1 will be charged.

The acting coordinator of the meeting is Mrs. Peter Ulin. Chairman of Hospitality is Mrs. Edward Goodwin. The public is invited to attend.

BOWEN P.T.A.

Bowen School P.T.A. extends an invitation to the community to participate in its annual Harvest Fair. The event will be held on Saturday, Oct. 13 (rain or shine), from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on the school grounds, 280 Cypress street, Newton Centre.

Featured at the autumn sale will be pumpkins, apples, penny candy, and popcorn; as well as cider, doughnuts, and coffee. On sale also will be attractive dried flowers, colorful ballons, and an assortment of home-baked goods.

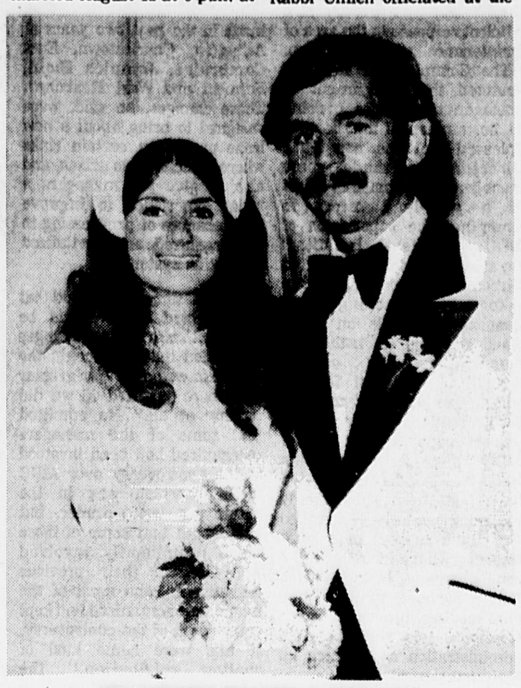
In keeping with Bowen's interest in ecology, the Fair will offer a variety of used items donated by Bowen parents and children. These items to be "recycled" include skates and boots; books, toys, and games; even a collection of outdoor plants that will not survive the winter and are looking for a new home.

Mrs. Ann Regan and Bowen sixth garders have arranged an afternoon of games and fun, including clown make-up practice sessions just in time for Halloween.

Mrs. Denise Karger is this year's Harvest Fair chairman.

Laura Ann Elfland Is Bride

Laura Ann Elfland and Walter F. Spellman were married August 12 at 6 p.m. at the Martha Mary Chapel, Sudbury. Father McCabe and Rabbi Umien officiated at the ecumenical ceremony. A reception followed at the Sheraton Tara Hotel, Framingham.



MR. AND MRS. WALTER F. SPELLMAN

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron J. Elfland, Newton Centre, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of mira mist trimmed in rose point lace, with a victorian neckline, bishop sleeves, gathered skirt and court train. Her bouffant veil was attached to a matching crescent cap. She carried a cascade of stephanotis and babies' breath on her father's Bible.

Maid of honor was Donna Bromberg. Bridesmaids included Anne Richards, Linda Cotter and Karen DiBlosi.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Spellman, Lexington chose William Roy as best man. Ushers were Stuart Elfland, brother of the bride, Thomas Kennedy and Jack Tabios.

The bride was graduated from Forsyth Dental School. Her husband, a graduate of Chamberlain Junior College, is attending Bentley College.

After a trip to Aruba, they will live in Lexington. (Westwood Photo)

Marjorie Floyd Is Married

Wed recently in St. John's Church, Wellesley Hills, were Marjorie N. Floyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm T. Floyd, Auburndale, and Daniel G. Arcand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Arcand, Wellesley.

The Rev. Ronald Calhoun performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of imported organza and venise lace featuring a high neckline and full bishop sleeves. A touch a lavender ribbon and crystal pleating was repeated at the neckline, cuffs and hemline. Her matching juliet cap held her chapel length mantilla and she carried a nosegay of white daisies and babies' breath.

Mr. James M. Sullivan was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Paul Ivers, Miss Peggy Arcand, and Miss Kristin Perry. Flower girl was Kara Sue Sullivan and ring bearer, William Sullivan.

Best man was Arthur Ferzinis. Ushers included Charles W. Floyd, John E. Floyd, Jay Arcand and Bruce Boyd.

A reception was held at the Allston Depot Restaurant. The couple left for a wedding trip to Maine and Canada.

Mrs. Arcand, a graduate of Framingham Teachers College, is teaching in Waltham. Her husband is a graduate of Providence College. They are residing in Needham. (Korday photo)

Rosemary Fraioli Is Bride

Miss Rosemary Louise Fraioli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Faioli, Newton, was the recent bride of Charles J. Porfert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Porfert, Norwood.

The Rev. Francis Strahan celebrated the nuptial mass at Our Lady's Help of Christian Church. Mr. Richard Osgood played the organ and was soloist.

The bride was escorted by her father. Her gown was white cotton appliqued with petal point Italian lace and lace ruffles at the wrists and chapel train. A pearl trimmed rosette lace headpiece held her French illusion veil. She carried a nosegay of white gardenias and pink tea roses.

MRS. CHARLES J. PORFERT

The attendants wore gowns of rainbow pastel colors. Maid of honor was Nancy A. Fraioli, sister of the bride. Miss Lea Dallamora and Mrs. Annmarie Demeo were bridesmaids. Pamela Fraioli was flower girl.

Alan Porfert, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Frederick Porfert and James Donovan Jr. Billy Pearson was ring bearer.

Following a wedding reception in the ballroom of Newton Post 440, American Legion Hall, the couple left for a wedding trip to the Poconos' Mountain resort.

The bride is a graduate of Framingham State Teachers College and is a teacher at Waldo Emerson Elementary School, Newton Upper Falls. Her husband is a graduate of Northeastern University. He worked in the research laboratory at Harvard University and is employed as supervisor of laboratories at Northeastern University.

Mr. and Mrs. Porfert are residing in Newton.

Recent Birth

Gail and Avi Goldwasser of New York City are parents of a daughter, Ilana Gail, born August 22 at New York University Hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds, one and one half ounces.

Grandparents are Dorothy and Arthur Blank of Newton Centre and Lucy and Joseph Goldwasser of Bayside, N.Y. Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Blank of Sharon and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Summers of Kansas City, Mo.

MRS. DANIEL ARCAND

Woman's Club Conference

The New England Conference of State Federations of Women's Clubs was held September 24, 25, 26, at the Sea Crest Motor Hotel, North Falmouth.

Mrs. Eugene G. Faucher, Newton, first vice president, Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs and resolution chairman for the New England Conference was hostess to the vice presidents from the New England States.

The keynote speaker on Monday afternoon was the Rev. Robert W. Golledge, Auburndale, vicar of Old North Church in Boston.

A Prayer Breakfast was Tuesday morning. Mrs. James H. Shaw, Newton Centre, 1972 Massachusetts Mother of the Year, was guest speaker.

A workshop was conducted by the International Affairs Department. Mrs. Proctor W. Houghton, Newton Centre, chairman, Committee of Responsibility, was a panelist.

Condominiums Offer Charm

Charles Court East, a rental apartment complex completed six years ago, is Needham's first condominium apartment conversion with a total of 116 apartments being offered.

In a three-month selling campaign under the supervision of Data Realty, exclusive sales representatives, more than 40 per cent of the units have already been sold.

Charles Court East's 2-bedroom model apartment, open daily by appointment, stresses old world quality and charm.

"The goal was to create a design incorporating both period and contemporary elements" says Richard Moulton Towner, "to stimulate the imagination so individuals can modify, adapt or duplicate ideas they see utilized in the exceptional decoration and furnishings of this apartment."

"The decor of the model apartment," explains Moulton, "gives families moving from beautiful homes with lovely old furniture a feeling of what can be done to incorporate their same life style into a smaller area." It provides ideas and an alternative to the strictly modern apartment," he added.

Practicality as well as elegance are important elements in the design of the two bedroom model apartment, which has not been architecturally modified from any of the other apartments offered to the public.

The model apartment's contemporary yet period identity has been established through a blending of the antique and the modern. Antique furniture and accessories have been combined with modern elements to create a truly unique model apartment, completely different from models in any other complex in the country.

Sliding doors, molding, an English steel mantelpiece and luxurious drapery and upholstery fabrics in damasks, silks and velvets deliver an old world quality of elegance to the decorating scheme.

Epstein Named To Ad Board

Newton resident, William S. Epstein, C.A.S., vice president - sales of Pilgrim Plastic Products, has been nominated for the Specialty Advertising Association International's (SAAI) board of directors.

SAAI represents the fifth largest advertising medium in the United States. This is the industry's only trade association with over a billion dollars in sales. They chose Epstein as one of four nominees from over 40 names submitted by both committees and the national membership.

In his nomination acceptance Epstein said, "If a man participates in committees, management practice conferences, and addresses local universities he will gain not only a personal satisfaction but more importantly, a knowledge that he is participating in forming the policies that will direct and stimulate the industry's growth."

Specialty advertising encompasses all advertising products given away free, bearing a customer's message. Products include pocket and wall calendars, rulers, key tags, writing instruments, portfolios, etc.

A local trade magazine, New England Advertising Week, plans to spotlight the industry with a "Specialty Advertising Day." The date will be announced in the near future.

WILLIAM EPSTEIN

As a member of the SAAI Speakers Bureau, he addresses local colleges and universities in the Boston area.

At the August Houston convention he presented two national proposals, one directed at educators, and one for ad clubs to bring more SAAI speakers to these organizations.

Ultimately the value of SAAI membership can be measured only by the effectiveness with which we translate the association's principles into action. I will work for an association never too complacent to keep striving for the best it can produce, and where creative ideas and application go together", Epstein said.

Guaranty First Appoints Weiner

Residential developer Morton D. Weiner, retired partner and treasurer of Meryl Construction Co Inc. and a former president of Star Contracting Company, has been appointed director of real estate and construction industries at the Guaranty-first Trust Company, Waltham.

In his new capacity, Weiner will assume responsibility for appraisals, construction progress and inspections and serve as a consultant in all construction matters. He is a member of the bank's board of directors and executive committee and chairman of its real estate committee.

During his distinguished building career, Weiner has served as president of the Home Builders Association of Massachusetts and the Home Builders Association of Greater Boston, and as a director of the National Association of Home Builders, the latter two of which he is an hononary life member and a director. He was the 1963 recipient of the building industry's highest recognition on the local scene - the Massachusetts "Builder-of the-Year" award. The residential communities "Brentwood at Holliston," "Brentwood at Avon" and "Brentwood at Hanson" are among his major housing developments.

A graduate of Chelsea Senior High School, Weiner attended Boston University and served four years with the U.S.Navy.

He is active in Temple Emanuel, and holds membership in the Freedom Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Somerville, the Realty Lodge, Boston and Probus Club, Quincy.

An avid boatsman, Weiner presently serves as vice commodore of the Metropolitan Yacht Club, Quincy.

MONY Honors R. J. Horrigan

Newton life insurance specialist Richard J. Horrigan, 130 Pine St., was honored by top company officials during a conference of MONY sales leaders in New York City recently.

During the three-day meeting, Horrigan met with MONY president James S. Bingay and executives from the company's sales and underwriting departments.

The program featured presentations of MONY's advanced concepts of life insurance planning, seminars led by outstanding underwriters from MONY's 4,000-man field force and open discussion of business markets, health underwriting and group insurance.

Horrigan qualified to attend the conference on the basis of his sales performance and service to policyholders.

He is associated with MONY's Boston-Broderick agency, located at 15 New Chardon St.

Northeastern Names Associate Dean

Malcolm J. Campbell of 225 Harvard Circle, Newtonville, has been promoted to the position of associate dean of adult education and director of continuing education at Northeastern University.

Campbell joined the Department of Continuing Education in 1965 as an assistant professor in the field of management. Since then, he has been an associate professor, director of the Bureau of Business and Industrial Training, chairman of the department, and assistant dean.

An alumnus of Northeastern, he has been awarded a master of education degree in education administration and has taken graduate courses in psychology there. He has also pursued graduate study in counseling at Boston University.

In 1969, Campbell was invited to England as a visiting professor in management by the British Commissioner for Education.

The Presidency: A Problem Child?

By JOHN D. LOFTON JR

WASHINGTON – Since the paternity of the present-day powerful Presidency is clearly that of the liberals, it is quite fitting that one of their own, Minnesota Sen. Walter Mondale, should be calling for a commission on the Presidency to find out how and why their offspring became a problem child.

Once the commission gets rolling, it would be of great historical value to hear in public the testimony of some of the bloaters whose huffing and puffing over the years created the climate which brought about "the boated state in which we now find the Presidency," as Mondale puts it. For example:

In 1953 Ohio Sen. John Bricker introduced a Constitutional amendment to require Congressional approval of international agreements and to impose controls on the power of the President to conduct foreign relations.

Mondale, who now lists the reassertion of Congressional responsiblity over warmaking and the execution of treaties as some of the things that should be done, might want to urge the commission to call the editorial writers of the New York Times who opposed the Bricker amendment as "ill-conceived, potentially dangerous and founded on fear."

MIGHT TIE HANDS

"It might be interpreted so as to tie the hands of the President just at a moment when quick and decisive international action was essential," the Times worried.

"Some risks have to be taken in the field of foreign affairs; and we believe the risks from an abuse of Presidential power are in these special circumstances less than the risks from tampering with Constitutional practice that for more than a century and a half has worked well."

The paper associated itself with J. William Fulbright who attacked Bricker's amendment in the Senate, observing that the President is "the leading actor" in the conduct of foreign relations and was never intended by the Founding Fathers to be "a ventriloquist's dummy on the lap of Congress."

Speaking of Fulbirght, even if he has to be granted immunity and will appear only in executive session, the commission should compel him to explain how he could have been so wrong when he wrote what he did in the Cornell Law Quarterly in 1961. A sample:

PRESIDENT ALONE

"The President alone can act to mobilize our power and resources toward the realization of clearly defined objectives and to wean the Amierican people and their representatives from the luxuries of parochialisms and self-indulgence that they can no longer afford.

"The enhancement of Presidential power is, as I have said, a disagreeable and dangerous prospect. It is seen to be a compelling necessity, however, when set against the alternative of immobility, which can only lead to consequences immeasurably more disagreeable and dangerous."

Nowhere is the slavish devotion of the liberals to executive power better demonstrated than in Milton Viorst's 1963 book, "Liberalism: A Guide to its Past, Present and Future."

Writing approvingly of candidate John F. Kennedy's 1960 vow of strong Presidential power, observed:

"Liberals understood that, whether or not they liked Kennedy's ideas, he would have programs he would energetically promote. The odds on these programs were in their favor, for the days were over when government exercised its powers against the interests of the common people.

"The damage occurred when government failed to act, when business and money interests took the initiative away from an inert executive. Liberals recognized that when a strong President stepped in, special interests. had to retreat. Gradually and with enthsusiasm they swung to Kennedy's support."

Subpoena Viorst! Expose the bloaters! Start the commission proceedings! Full TV coverage! Lights & cameras! Action! This is one subject that must be wallowed in.

"Stars Of Autumn" At Museum Of Science

Three meteor showers, a new, highly touted comet, and the relatively rare passage of Mercury across the face of the sun are among the celestial events taking place in the autumn skies this year. They will be depicted by the Hayden Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science in its seasonal "Stars of Autumn" through October 1.

There are advantages to doing one's star-gazing in a planetarium, Museum officials say. For instance:

Outdoors, telescopes will be needed to see the transit of Mercury when it takes place here November 10, between 6:29 and 8:18 a.m. Such passage by Mercury across the sun occurs only about a dozen times in a century. Because they cannot gaze directly at the sun, viewers will have to project the sun that morning through the eyepiece of a telescope onto a white cardboard or other screen.

The meteor showers, one in October and two in November, will be visible to the naked eye, but to see them at their best, it will be necessary to rise before dawn.

Until early November, the recently discovered Comet Kohoutek will not be visible to the naked eye. Expected to become one of the most spectacular comets of this century, rivaling the famed Halley's comet, the new object was noted early enough to give astronomers sufficient time to prepare for their observations.

Those who wish to see the planet Mars at the moment it is closest to Earth will have to stay up till midnight October 16. The Red Planet will not be so close again (some 40 million miles away) until the 1980's.

The Planetarium program will also introduce the celestial objects that are visible before bedtime. These include Venus, Jupiter, Mars, and Saturn, and the nearest spiral star system to us, the Andromeda galaxy. Among the constellations visible is that of Pegasus, the winged horse, which is considered a symbol of autumn from its position high overhead in the southern sky.

"Stars of Autumn" will be followed by "Worlds of Wonder" from October 2 through November 25. This program considers four planets that will be under close scrutiny by astronomers and space probes this year.

Planetarium programs are presented daily and Friday nights. The fee is 50 cents above Museum admission. Children under five are not admitted, although they are admitted free to the rest of the Museum.

H&R Block Expands Its Tax Course Curriculum

H & R Block, America's largest tax service, has for the past ten years taught the complexities of Form 1040 and taxes in general to literally thousands of people from all walks of life and has expanded the scope of their annual income tax instruction to include an Advanced Tax Course.

Block's Advanced Tax Course has been designed to provide additional, in-depth training for people who already possess a basic knowledge of income taxes. The need for this additional training has been brought about by the many amendments, Reform Bills, and Revenue Acts that have been passed since our present Income Tax Statutes were established in 1913. These many changes have made a special tax education a necessity in order to accurately prepare tax returns today.

The Advanced Tax Course delves into these many complexities and the numerous schedules that accompany and support Form 1040 in any given tax situation. Actual practice in the preparation of these often complex schedules will be only a small part of the illustrated lecture sessions. Beginning in late September, the ten week course will feature two, three-hour sessions each week, with a choice of daytime or evening classes. The comprehensive 60 hour course of instruction contains in-depth study of individual, partnership, corporate, fiduciary, and other complex tax situations.

The course is open to anyone who has the basic tax knowledge necessary to qualify for the more advanced training. Additional information regarding enrollment procedures may be obtained by contacting the local H & R Block office at the Dedham Mall or by calling Mr. Mortimer, local manager for H & R Block, who will be happy to discuss the advanced tax course with you.

Bicycle Club Sponsors 100 Mile Ride

The Walpole Spokesmen Bicycle Club will be among the hundreds across the nation participting in League of American Wheelmen Century Rides during the month of September.

As the name implies, a Century Ride covers a distance of 100 miles. Cyclists are given 12 hours in which to complete it, with those finishing within the specified time receiving jacket patches signifying their accomplishment.

Slated for Sept. 30 starting from the Walpole Common, pre-Century route review is schedule to take place at 6:45 a.m., with the start of the event promptly at 7:00 a.m.

The number of individuals taking part will be limited to 50. Those who wish to go along must be at least 16, or be accompanied by a parent. Registration forms are available from Bill Brady at the Walpole Center Cyclery, 944 Main street in Walpole.

Charles Industrial Wastewater Effects Studied

A Wellesley firm will carry out a major six-month study to determine industrial wastewater production in the Charles and Merrimack River Basins.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has charged Jason M. Cortell & Associates, Environmental Consultants, with taking an indepth view of wastewater being produced in the two basins by industry and municipal facilities in 109 communities throughout eastern Massachusetts.

Included in the survey, now underway, are major industries in the Towns of Needham, Wellesley, Dedham, Westwood and Dover and in the Cities of Newton and Boston.

The Cortell firm will ascertain the projection figures of wastewater loads expected to be discharged by 1990, 2020, and 2050, were current discharge levels to continue until those dates.

Sources of potential organic pollution being surveyed range over a wide variety of industries in twenty seven broad categories. These include meat and food processing, textiles, electroplating, chemical manufacturing plastics, leather tanning and hospitals as a partial listing.

When completed, all of the data compiled will be fed into computer banks where, when added to other information, will be used by various federal and state agencies in planning the future pollution control needs of the region. The MDC will use the results to select a wastewater management plan in particular, for the Eastern Massachusetts Metropolitan Area of the study as part of their long-range plans for the new sewage treatment facilities.

The Wellesley environmental firm, established in 1963, has among its recent contracts, the Boston Transportation Planning Review, U.S. Navy Thames River Dredging Project, the Corps of Engineers' Hudson River Oil Pollution Protection Project and the new American Hospital in Parish. In addition, JMC&A has also carried out ecological studies for the Mass. Dept. of Natural Resources, Mass. Dept. of Public Works, M.D.C., Maryland Dept. of Transportation, American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

PAUL A. MARSHALL has joined J. Homestock as senior corporate buyer, Division 1, it was announced this week by Joseph J. Freeman, president. A native of New England, he is an Army veteran and studied at Boston University and was recently affiliated with a Florida based mass merchandiser of furniture.

Nature's Ways

By WAYNE HANLEY
(Mass. Audubon Society)

They looked like a mob of college freshmen who had clothed themselves in the leftovers of a rummage sale.

But, they were not, of course. Instead, they were 200 young cowbirds. The flock had settled on a small lawn and indivudual birds strutted around, almost shoulder to shoulder, searching the grass for seeds and insects.

The cowbirds all had been born this summer and they were in a motley plumage that those individuals never will wear again. It was a period of color transformation. The dull olive-brown feathers that all cowbirds wear as they leave the nest were being replaced. The females were shifting to mouse-gray plumage. The males to feathers of glossy black on the body and brown on the head. The change is made a few feathers at a time, and as a result the birds were splotched with blacks and browns or grays. No two looked the same. None looked exactly like an adult cowbird.

It is interesting that while the birds did not look alike, all seemed to know that they are cowbirds. Most humans unfamiliar with molting habits of birds would not have recognized them as cowbirds. But, this mutual recognition among cowbirds of differing feathers is only a minor mystery within a much greater mystery.

It is easy, for instance, for an English sparrow to recognize other English sparrows. It had its parents for a model.

But, a cowbird has a greater problem. Its parents were cowbirds, to be sure. It was not, however, reared by cowbirds. It may have been incubated and fed by yellow warblers. For cowbirds build no nests and the female cowbird lays her eggs in the nests of other birds. The foster parents rear the birds. And, the young cowbird remains with the foster parents until some magical day it decides that it is a cowbird and gangs with its own kind.

The most acceptable explanation of how cowbirds come together in youthful flocks is based on the idea that the actions of other cowbirds appeal to them. In other words, one young cowbird sees another young cowbird strutting along and falls in with it. Soon another sees the two scouting around in short grass and decides that's the life for him. And so on, up to a few hundred young cowbirds.

The explanation of how cowbirds became parasitic breeders which shift parental care onto other birds is a little more complex. Most birds, just as most humans, get a big kick out of quieting the demands of a gaggle of hungry mouths. Indeed, one may find in studying birds that many facets of their lifestyles hinge upon the breeding period and that producing young and caring for them is central to their lives. Yet the cowbird has developed a lifestyle that avoids this culmination of a cycle.

FATAL STINGS

NEW YORK (UPI) — During a nine-year period, out of 460 reported deaths from bites and stings from venomous creatures, 229 were from insects, 138 from snakes and the rest from spiders, scorpions, and poisonous sea animals, such as sting rays and jellyfish.

So reports Dr. Harold D. Newson, Michigan State University medical entologist. Out of the 229 insect sting fatalities, 167 of the victims died within an hour of the stinging, and 24 within two to five hours.

'DEAF SMITH' STARS — Franco Nero and Pamela Tiffin star in the new MGM movie 'Deaf Smith and Johnny Ears,' filmed in Italy.

Moakley Taking Service Academy Applications

Congressman Joe Moakley has announced that he is accepting applications from young people interested in nomination to the service academies, West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force and Merchant Marine Academies.

Candidates must be 17 years of age and must not have reached their 22nd birthday by July 1, 1974. They must be single and meet the specific requirements of the academy to which they desire appointment.

Consideration for appointments can only be given to those persons who are legal residents of the 9th Congressional District of Massachusetts. Those interested in applying for nomination to one of the service academies should contact Congressman Joe Moakley, 1970A John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts 02203.

BLOCK MOTHERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Does your block have a block mother? This is a Mother who usually is home when children are going to or from school. She has a sign in her window to tell children she is a block mother.

If any children have trouble with a bully, molester, illness or other problem, they go to the block mother's home for help.

'Deaf Smith' Has American Plot With Multinational Star Cast

cinema updated

by Marjory Adams

Anthony Quinn and Franco Nero may be engaged in helping save Texas freedom in MGM's "Deaf Smith and Johnny Ears," but they spent four weeks in the beautiful area of Bari, Italy, for the location work. There didn't seem to be the proper locations in Texas itself—oil wells and modern skyscrapers now occupy what were once unspoiled Texan territory back in 1834 just after the war against Mexico.

Bari lies between the heel and the toe of Italy and in its boundaries can be found desert, dry river beds, mountains and streams. Paolo Cavara, director of many documentary films, found it a picturesque background for the story of war and passion, adventure and romance, which was written by Americans Oscar Saul and Harry Essex, but produced by Europeans Luciano Perugia and Joseph Janni.

Essentially American in plot, background and treatment, "Deaf Smith and Johnny Ears" has a trio of stars with widely divergent backgrounds.

Internationally known as one of the great stars of films, Anthony Quinn, of course, is of Mexican-Irish parentage but was brought up in California. His present wife and mother of his second family of three sons, is Italian, and their established home is a hillside farmhouse in Albano, Italy. The place is 400 years old, but has been modernized to include a swimming pool and a sauna. Tony has also a library of some distinction and a collection of paintings.

Delighted that their father was making a film so close to their Italian home, the Quinn boys, Francisco, 9; Daniele, 8; and Lorenzo. 6; made him an unexpected visit and interrupted proceedings to romp and roll on the ground with their famous parent. Director Cavara had no recourse except to suggest a scene in which Quinn didn't appear.

Handsome Franco Nero was born in Parma, Italy, 31 years ago, and had to learn English the hard way to become the singing Lancelot in Warner Brothers' "Camelot." I interviewed him on the Hollywood set of that picture and he was trying hard to answer questions in English, fight off a cold and glance every spare moment at Vanessa Redgrave, the Guinevere of the film and later the mother of his child.

Vanessa never did marry Franco and now he is back in Italy where he is said to be an important member of the "Bankable Five." This means that banks will lend money to producers who make films staring Ugo Tognazzi, Nino Manfredi, Alberto Sordi, Marcello Mastroianni and Franco Nero.

Nero is in a transitional period of his career. He has been most famous for romantic roles such as "Camelot" and "The Virgin and the Gypsy," but now he prefers tough, strong, masculine characterizations.

In "Deaf Smith and Johnny Ears," he has a chance to be both a passionate lover and a hard-shooting adventurer. Quinn plays a deaf mute, who is also a battle-scarred hero in his twilight years. Johnny Ears is a woman-crazy cowboy who acts as the ears for the deaf but still asture and perceptive friend.

Pamela Tiffin is the woman involved. The daughter of an architect of Russian lineage and a mother descended from American politicians, doctors and famers. The actress studied at Hunter Women's College and Columbia University in New York and earned tuition as a model after school. Mostly she appeared in layouts for high fashion magazines and in TV commercials.

On vacation in Holywood, Pamela met Hall Wallis, the producer, and appeared in her first film, "Summer and Smoke" with Peter Glenville directing. After that were a long list of repertory and cinema jobs, but her last films have been made almost entirely in Italy.

She was once married to publisher Clay Felker but is now divorced and lives quietly in Rome where she studies Italian art. Much of her spare time is spent in art studios in Tuscany and Umbria, and of course she is now fluent in Italian.

Nero had not planned to be a great lover in this picture, but he declared afterward, "I spent a week in bed with Pamela, and my lips were numb by the time they finished the final scene. My private opinion is that kissing is going out of style in pictures. It has lost its meaning. Sometimes, after one of my former pictures, I felt as if I were kissed out for a year."

As a student of kissing Franco says he prefers to shake hands. Social functions drive him mad with the conventional kissing.

"In Rome everyone plants wet kisses on both your cheeks," he commented. "In Hollywood they walk up to you and kiss the air by your ear. Neither one means a thing. A strong hand shake usually means honest friendship, at least."

But what sort of Italian can Nero be when he turns down spaghetti on the dinner menu? He prefers Mexican and Chinese food. And his favorite actors are not Europeans but the late Clark Gable and Gary Cooper.

Cinema Review: Maurie

MAURIE brings back memories of the 1940's when motion pictures would be judged by critics as "two handkerchief" melodrama. Some of Hollywood's finest stars participated in these popular and prosperous films, and it has been a long time since I saw women openly weeping at the end of a picture, as I did with this film.

The picture is based on a remarkable true life story about a black basketball player who becomes paralyzed and helpless, and is befriended by a white player. Jack Twyman raised over $1,000,000 by his own efforts in the five year period it took to turn the helpless Maurice Stokes (Big Mo) into a man again.

There are no stars in the film, although Daniel Mann is the director. Douglas Morrow, an Oscar winner, wrote the story.

There are several excellent portrayals by almost unknown actors, of which the work of black actor Bernie Casey is outstanding.

Cartoons Have A Serious Side Too

By RUDY CERNKOVIC

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob McCully writes special material for nationally-televised shows, supplies cartoonists with gags and impersonates a high government official at lectures, but he has serious moments.

A cartoon drawn by Bo Brown with a gag supplied by McCully was widely circulated. It depicts a woman showing off her expensive mink coat to her club members.

"We had to sacrifice much to get this coat—Henry's allowance, his car, his club membership, his cigarettes and his lunch money," she says.

This cartoon exposes the "keeping up with the Jones" attitude of many Americans.

Mischa Richter, a cartoonist whose work frequently appears in the New Yorker magazine, was inspired by a gag supplied by McCully. The cartoon shows a dignified man pulling a rickshaw hauling his equally dignified wife and her companion. The wife tells her friend "since Henry's been on a rice diet, he's been acting very strangely."

McCully believes cartoons are an art form which expose the foibles of people.

"The national attitude is reflected in the humor of the nation through cartoons," he said. "The problem now is that so many newspapers and magazines have gone out of business and this art form gets less exposure."

McCully regards Charley Schulz, creator of "Peanuts" as "unquestionably the greatest comic strip cartoonist in America."

No Gags

"He does not rely on gags, he uses no adults and expresses his ideas through children," McCully said. "He is extremely creative."

Kaye Ballard used McCully's material on a recent appearance on the Johnny Carson show. She talks about "Pimply", a hippie who complains in song that man has learned to fly to the moon "but can't do anything about acne."

"Bottoms Up," a revue running in Las Vegas for several years used McCully's material. He contributes to "Laugh In," and wrote material for the old "Hollywood Palace Show."

McCully delivers tongue-in-cheek lectures before various groups. He has posed as a high government official from Washington.

"The government really is not telling you the truth," he tells audiences. "But we're going to do it our way—whether you like it or not."

After his lecture is over his role is revealed as a bag but many in the audience refuse to be mollified.

McCully appears before groups of doctors and dentists and tells them "I'm for socialized medicine." As he goes on, resentment grows in the audience. A dentist once threw a shoe at him and he was denounced variously as a Communist or right winger.

McCully has made return appearances before the same group but disguised with tinted glasses, a moustache and a beard.

Child Expert

At times, posing as a child expert, McCully will address an audience of women, many of them mothers.

"Most women don't know how to care for a child properly," is a remark that arouses the fury of mothers.

"How can you know about babies when you're a bachelor," the women will protest.

"I see about 300 kids a day in my clinic and I know more about them then their mothers," he replies.

Often, McCully has a plant in the audience who stands up and challenges him to step outside and fight. This melts the resentment of his audience.

McCully averages 12 hours a day at his work. He is the public relations officer of a Pittsburgh industrial firm which does an annual business of $36 million.

He appears on television commercials and stages industrial shows throughout the country.

"I divide my work in three phases," he said. "Shows and entertainment, doing radio and television commercials and at my regular occupation as advertising and public relations official."

Car Inspection Closes Oct. 15

The Registry of Motor Vehicles reminds owners or operators of Massachusetts registered motor vehicles and trucks that less than three weeks remain in which to have their vehicles inspected according to the compulsory inspection law.

Supervisor of Vehicle Inspection, Charles V. Mulhern reminds drivers that in order for a station to inspect vehicles, the owner or operator must present the registration certificate. The vehicle identification number on it must match the VIN on the vehicle itself.

The inspection fee is still 50 cents for a trailer only and $1.00 for a motor vehicle only.

You And Your Car

The American Automobile Association's annual survey reveals that in the approximately 85 million auto breakdowns and failures to start in 1972, the percentage of people who run out of gas or lock their keys in the car hasn't changed, but the nature of mechanical difficulties has.

Tire trouble, for example, is declining. In 1965 the AAA found tire problems to be the cause of 19 per cent of their service calls. In 1969, this figure has dropped to 18.7 per cent and in 1972, only 15 per cent of service calls related to tires.

Electrical problems on the other hand, have been steadily increasing. In 1965 about 26 per cent of the AAA's service calls were for electrical reasons; by 1969 it had climbed to 45 per cent, and in 1972 electrical problems accounted for 50 per cent of all service calls and was the leading cause of breakdowns.

Treavor White, AAA's director of club services, thinks the percentage of electrical-based breakdowns will go even higher in 1973. The reason, he says, is that people are buying cars which have more electrical equipment.

The demand on the battery is greater, and pollution control devices add another strain to the engine. If the battery is weakened, the increased demand on it, coupled with the greater effort required to start the engine increases the possibility of an electrical failure.

How & Where To Serve
BEAUJOLAIS (bo-jo-lay)

A delicate fruity red wine produced from the Gamay grape in the Beaujolais, France, area south of Burgundy . . . sharp, spicy bouquet, best when drunk young.

Serve: Slightly chilled or at room temperature.

This wine compliments red meats (from a juicy steak to a tasty meatloaf), also lamb, veal and poultry.

Information Please by Ruth Lenson

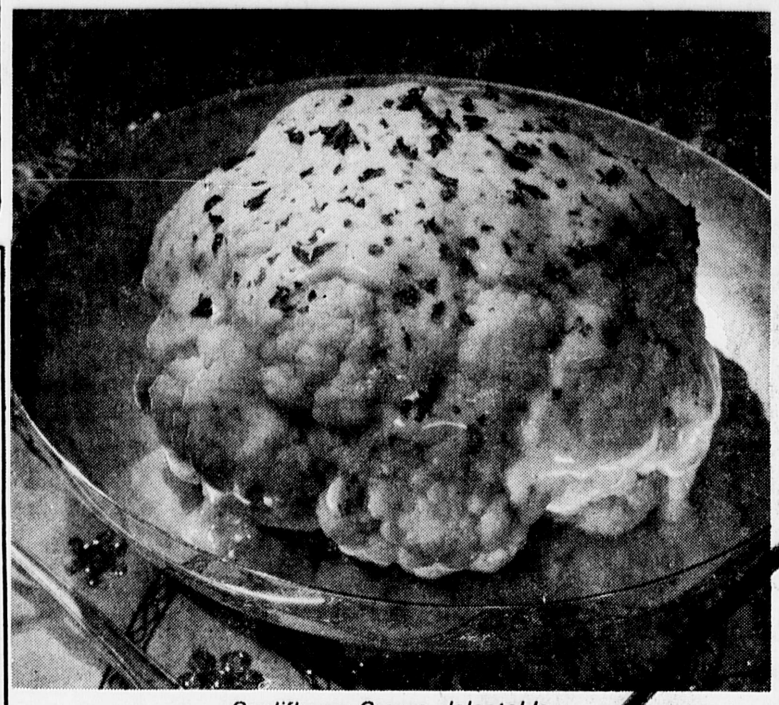
This is the reader's column. If you have a question or a recipe to share with other readers, please write to: Information, Please, Transcript Newspapers, 420 Washington Street, Dedham, Mass. 02026.

Question: Do you have a recipe for a casserole dish that's like a scalloped potato with tuna in it so that it serves as a main dish? I would also appreciate a recipe for a lamb loaf (meat loaf but using lamb instead) if possible. Thank you. — Mrs. E. M., Walpole

Answer: Your requests are well-timed. We're all looking for inexpensive main dishes and these two are nutritious as well as very tasty.

SCALLOPED TUNA AND POTATO CASSEROLE

4 cups thin sliced potatoes
1 medium onion minced
2 tablespoons margarine



Cauliflower Creme, delectable.

1 tablespoon salad oil
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 can (7 oz.) tuna, flaked

Cook the sliced potatoes in salted boiling water for 10 minutes. Drain. Meanwhile, melt the margarine and oil in top of double boiler; stir in the flour, then add the milk, onion, salt, pepper and cook over hot water while stirring, until thickened. Add minced parsley. Arrange potatoes and tuna fish in alternate layers in a greased or oiled 2-quart casserole. Pour sauce over all and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45 minutes. Serves 6. (Salmon may be substituted for the tuna.)

LAMB LOAF WITH TOMATO SAUCE

1½ pounds ground lamb
1 tablespoon grated onion
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
¼ cup finely chopped celery leaves
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon black pepper
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup peeled, seeded and chopped tomato (1 medium), 2 slices white bread, cubed and soaked in water (Tomato sauce recipe follows(

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a loaf pan about 9 x 5 x 3-inches. Combine lamb, onion, parsley, celery leaves, salt, cinnamon, pepper, eggs and chopped tomato, mixing lightly with a fork. Squeeze the water out of the bread cubes, add them to the meat and mix again with a fork. Pack mixture into prepared pan and bake for 1 hour. Serve cut in thick slices and topped with Tomato Sauce. Serve 6.

TOMATO SAUCE

2 tablespoons olive oil
¾ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
3 medium tomatoes, chopped (about 3 cups)
1 teaspoon salt
One-third cup tomato paste
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
½ teaspoon dried leaf oregano
¼ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Heat olive oil in medium saucepan. Add onion and garlic and cook gently, stirring, until soft but not brown. Add tomatoes and salt, cover and cook gently, stirring, until soft but not brown. Add tomatoes amd salt, cover and cook until tomatoes are very thick, about 30 minutes. Press through a sieve. Return to saucepan and add remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil and cook, uncovered, until mixture begins to thicken — 5 to 10 minutes. Turn down heat and continue cooking, stirring often, 5-10 minutes. Makes 1¾ cups sauce.

Question: A friend of mine has been telling me about a marvelous fish dish she ate when she was in Mexico, called Seviche. I would like the recipe so that I could surprise her when she visits me. Thank you. — Mrs. G., Norwood Answer: Seviche is a marinated "raw" fish dish noted for its fine blend of seasonings. The following recipe specifies scallops, but you can use any boneless white fish available.

SEVICHE

1 pound scallops
3 bay leaves
Salt
Lime juice to cover
1 clove garlic, finely minced
1 cup white onion, chopped
2 small dry red-hot peppers, finely chopped
4 tablespoons white vinegar
2 tablespoons olive oil
Sprigs watercress or parsley
2 lemons, sliced and quartered

Place scallops in nonporous bowl (glass or pottery) with bay leaves, salt to taste and lime juice to cover. Lift scallops so that all sides are touched with lime juice. Place container in refrigerator to marinate overnight. Soak minced garlic, onion, peppers in vinegar for about 5 minutes and add to scallops when ready to serve. Stir in olive oil gently and decorate servings with watercress or parsley and lemon wedges. Serves 4.

Our thanks to Mrs. Conger Williams, Westwood, who would like to contribute her recipe for scones for our reader, Mrs. E. E., Needham.

GRIDDLE SCONES

8 oz. flour, salt, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1½ teaspoon sugar, 2 oz. shortening, (1 tablespoon currants optional), 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, ¼ pint buttermilk (or 2 teaspoons if fresh milk is used). Makes 8 scones. Heat griddle. Sift dry ingredients; add buttermilk and currants. Turn onto floured board, shape into 2 rounds ½-inch thick and cut into quarters. Dust with flour and cook on hot griddle until risen and slightly brown, about 5 minutes. Turn and cook on other side. Split, butter and serve. (May be baked in a hot oven, 425 degrees, instead, like biscuits.

Question: We enjoy cauliflower in our home and though I experiment with many recipes, I would like one where the vegetable is served whole with a sauce of some kind. Can you help me? — Mrs. M., Needham

Answer: Cauliflower Creme is an elegant dish that tastes as good as it looks. The recipe consists of a cooked cauliflower bathed in a golden creamy sauce that is flavored with nutmeg and chicken broth. Surround the vegetable with ruby red slices of Harvard beets for a most attractive dish.

CAULIFLOWER CREME

1 cup water
½ teaspoon salt
1 medium head cauliflower, washed, outer leaves and stalk removed
2 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg
Dash pepper
1 cup chicken broth
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

In a large saucepan bring water and salt to a boil. Add cauliflower; bring to a boil. Cover and cook over medium heat until tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Remove from saucepan. Place on serving dish. Keep warm. In a small heavy saucepan blend together oil, flour, salt, nutmeg and pepper. Cook over low heat, stirring until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Remove from heat and gradually stir in chicken broth. Return to heat and bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Pour some of hot mixture into egg yolk. Blend well. Pour yolk mixture back into broth mixture. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Sir in parsley. Pour over cauliflower. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Fall Cultural Series At Regis College

Regis College in Weston will inaugurate its Fall Cultural Series with a performance by the Brandeis Chamber Orchestra on Thursday, Sept. 27, at 8 p.m., followed by a reception in the Foyer of College Hall.

The Brandeis ensemble is directed by Dr. Robert L. Koff, an eminent concert violinist, who was also a founding member of the Julliard String Quartet. Instruments and bows of the Baroque and Classic period are used, including harpsichords, reproductions of early pianos, oboes, flutes, violones and other instruments. The orchestra is one of the few larger ensembles that offers an audience the opportunity of hearing the music of Bach, Mozart, Haydn and other composers played in a manner similar to its original performance.

There are a number of musicians in this country who have focused on the reconstruction of this musical period. Harpsichordists, recorder players, a few wind and string players and lutenists have contributed greatly to this renaissance of performing on authentic early instruments.

The public is invited to all events of Regis' Cultural Series

Newton High Eleven Stuns Everett 13-10

By BOB LOW

Throughout the preseason, first year Head Coach Norman Walker has said that Newton High's football team makes up what it lacks in size with enthusiasm. He called it a fighting team that would be ready for its opener, and they proved him right by upsetting highly touted Everett, 13-10.

The Tigers played just as Walker said they would. They displayed a tough defense and an offense that came through in big moments. Neither the defense nor offense can claim the majority of the credit for the win. It was, as promised, a team effort.

Everett took the opening kick-off and moved behind Quarterback Shrepfer inside the Newton 10, after converting on two key fourth down situations. However an injury to Shrepfer brought on substitute Quarterback, Leonard. On his first play, Leonard rolled out to his right, was hit, and fumbled. Gardner Oleson recovered on the 23 for Newton.

Quarterback Cal Moffie then took over, and led Newton on an eight play, 77 yard touchdown drive. The key play came on a third down and six on Newton's 27, when Moffie, under pressure, desperately floated a pass downfield which Ed Hartunian hauled in on the Everett 39. Two plays later on thrid down and seven, Moffie raced around left end for a big twenty yard pick-up. Gerry Keleher capped the drive with a slashing ten yard touchdown run. Bill Seaward added the extra point, and at the end of a quarter, Newton led, 7-0.

Everett Drive Stalls On 2

On the next series, Newton stopped Everett, and got the ball back on their 25. But on first down, Keleher fumbled and Everett recovered. They then proceeded to move the ball all the way to a second down on the 2. But the Tiger defense stiffened and after Everett suffered two offside penalties, one nullifying a touchdown, they attempted to pass three times. The first pass fell short under a heavy rush, and the defensive line never let Everett throw the other two times, recording two sacks of the quarterback, ending the threat.

Taking over at the 23, Newton moved again. A great run by Moffie went for 42 yards, with only a desperate shoestring tackle preventing a touchdown. Keleher ran for 18 more yards to set up an apparent 15 yard touchdown pass to Hartunian. But a penalty nullified the score, and then Everett's DeAngelis made a tremendous deflection off hat looked like a sure touchdown pass.

Everett got the ball back and ran out the clock, leaving the score at halftime Newton 7, Everett 0.

Moffie, Hartunian, Combine For 53 Yard T.D.

Newton lost no firepower, as they started the second half blazing. Joe Marella returned the kick-off to his own 37. Keleher ran for ten yards and on second down, inches to go, Moffie caught the Everett secondary sleeping. Hartunian got in behind the defensive backs made a fingertip catch and raced 53 yards for the score. The extra point was blocked, but Newton led 13-0.

On their next series, Everett was stopped and again forced to punt. A fair catch was called for, but the ball was dropped and Everett recovered on Newton's 18. Three plays later, Panoresi swept around the left side untouched, five yards for a touchdown. Everett went for and made a two point conversion on a pass to Mike Marchese. All of a sudden, the game was turned around and the lead was only 13-8.

Defense Holds Everett

Newton took the ball after the kick-off and moved into Everett territory before being forced to punt. Everett then moved from their 20 to the Newton 46, before a holding penalty cancelled a 40 yard run by Stoddard, and halted the drive. The third quarter came to a close with Newton up 13-8.

Everett punted and the Tigers took over on the 9, but couldn't advance. Gordon MacNeil hit a booming 45 yard punt which was returned 12 yards to Newton's 46.

DEFENSE GLITTERS

Two runs and a pass netted just six yards and Everett punted once more, and after taking a Newton roll, the ball stopped on the 21. A Newton fumble on the next play handed Everett their big chance. But the Tiger defense rose to the occasion once more, forcing a fumble which Gary Tutungian pounced on, on the 25.

That play took the steam out of Everett. Newton took the ball to midfield before having to punt. When Everett got the ball, they were on their 15, but failed to mount an attack. Martial Frechette intercepted a pass, & moments later Bobby Meek picked one off too, killing all hopes for Everett. Everett got its final two points when, on the last play Quarterback Robert Kinsella deliberately ran backwards, killing the clock, and was downed in the end zone for a safety as time expired.

For Norman Walker it was his first win as Varsity Coach, and the team proved to many detractors that it could win despite its size.

Scoring

South Cross Country:

Harriers Outrun L-S, Trounce Maynard

By RANDY GRODMAN

The Newton South Cross-Country Team ran its first race against Lincoln-Sudbury and Maynard on Tuesday, September 18. On the 2.8 mile course at Maynard, South ran circles around both teams!

This is a sport in which the lowest score wins. Newton South beat Maynard 27-34, and trounced Lincoln-Sudbury by a score of 24-39. Out of a possible 21 places, South runners who placed were Bob Lein, placing fourth; Jeff Karol, fifth; Dave Robinson, sixth; Dennis Bauke, seventh, and Byron Ress placed ninth.

On Friday, September 21, South traveled to Concord-Carlisle's 2.7 mile course, and were demolished by an extremely powerful Concord-Carlisle squad. After the final runner crossed the finish line, the score was calculated to be Newton South 43, Concord-Carlisle 16.

South entered seven runners, and four managed to place. Bob Lein placed fifth; Jeff Karol, seventh; Byron Ress, ninth, and Dennis Bauke placed tenth. Senior David Robinson was unable to complete the race, due to a sprained ankel. Finishing for South, although not placing, were Russ Kintner and Ara Shishmanian.

On the same day, Newton South's Junior Varsity ran on a 2.2 mile course. They fared no better, and lost by a score of 48-15. Running for South were Gary Abramson, Arthur Brown, Stuart Rothman, Denis Sheradon, and Joel Zecher.

Concord-Carlisle, strong contenders for the Dual County League championship, shut out a weak Bedford team. South is scheduled to compete with Beford soon, and expects to win. The Varsity is looking forward to at least a 7-7 season. As there are no outstanding runners on the team, they run together as a group.

Schoolboy Hockey Teams To Play 15 Minute Periods

The High School hockey teams in the state of Massachusetts will be able to play 15 minute periods and an extended 22 game schedule starting with the 1974-1975 season.

The announcement came after a meeting last night at Natick in which the MIAC (Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Council) voted on the new legislation.

The legislation was presented by former Dedham High School Hockey Coach John Dooley who is now hockey Coach for Mass Bay Community College in Watertown.

"This is a big step forward for high school hockey and in my opinion one of the most important pieces of legislation ever drafted for schoolboy sports. It means that with the 15 minute periods every team will have to use three lines, which means that more boys will play. The schools started by playing 10 minute periods and then moved to 12 minute periods."

"This year they will play the 12 minute periods and then next year we'll see real team hockey. In behalf of the Coaches Association I would like to personally thank Norwood High School Principal Dr. John Monbouquette for his efforts for the new legislation. It is a real big boost for high school hockey all over the state." (FRANK WALL)

NAA Lions Crush Waltham 22-0 For Third Straight

The Newton Athletic association Lions won their third consecutive Suburban League game and fourth overall by shuting out the rival Waltham Devil Dogs 22-0 last Sunday at Newton Highlands Playground.

Again it was a combination of good defense and good offense. The whitewashing of Waltham marks the third league shut-out and the fourth game the first unit has not yielded a score.

Offensively, the Lions rushed for 245 total yards. Halfback Rich Proia continues to impress as he scored all three T.D.'s and ended the afternoon with 169 yards in only 11 carries.

The Lions wasted no time in scoring after Mike Hernandez recovered a fumble at the Waltham 30. Five plays later Proia burst over from the five behind the blocks of tackle Joe Donoghue and guard Jim Schmidlein.

The feature play in the drive was a 25 yard pickup by Proia who received excellent blocks from Schmidlein, Shawn Daley, Paul Butters and Mike Hernandez. TheLions received a bit of good luck when the attempted conversion points were fumbled into the end zone and pounced on by Shawn Daley.

The defense again repelled the Waltham offense, but the Lions attack was stopped by a fumble.

It was in the second period that Waltham mounted their best threat of the day, marching to the Lion 21, the deepest penetration the Lions have suffered this year. However, Waltham had two cracks at picking up two yards and failed. Middle guard Pete Boisvert, linebacker, Barry Gale and Rich Filler and tackles Joe Donoghue and Mike Bernandez were instrumental in stopping Waltham.

It was here that Proia turned in his most electrifying run of the season. From the "I" formation Proia started what looked like a wide play and then cut behind a vicious block by fullback Barry Gale. In the meantime, end Shawn Daley and tackle Mike Hernandez cleared down the right side of the line. Prioa cut back across field and picked up downfield blocks from Schmidlein, Donoghue and Quinn and continued 70 yards for the score. The Lions again fumbled the conversion attempt, but did not recover. The Lions led at halftime 14-0.

In the second half, Waltham kicked off to Newton's Rick Filler who returned the ball to the N.A.A. 45. Six plays later Proia had his third T.D. This time 31 yards around right end and made possible by the blocks of Schmidlein, Gale, Kinsella, Hernandez, Butters and Daley. Barry Gale rushed the conversion to culminate the scoring.

The Lions depth continues to be a big part of the story. Last week Noel Foley, all 85 pounds, replaced the injured Shawn Daley. Daley was back and played extremely good this week. The versatile Tony Muccini was shifted from free safety to monster back. Tony intercepted a pass and ran it back 13 yards.

One of the better subbing performances was turned in by Paul Butters. Butters is the right corner on defense, but was pressed into a starting role when halfback Steve Fleming had his ankles tapped on during practice this week. Butters responded very well by blocking well and also picking up 25 yards in only three carries.

End Scott Seidman missed Sunday game and will miss next weeks game. David Marcus replaced Seidman and did a good job alternating the play calling assignments with Jim Quinn.

Defensively it looks like the Lions have three of the best defensive ends in the area. They are: Jack Forti Doug Bullen and "Mad Stork" Glenn Errickson. At the tackle position, Joe Donoghue and Mike Hernandez could be the best pair around, and middle guard. Andy Toyias and Dave Mosca have responded well when given the call. Two of the smaller and diminutive players the Lions have are center John Kane and offensive end and defensive halfback Jim Quinn. Both boys are light, but quick and agressive.

The Lions will be at Wayland Friday night for a 7:30 affair and hope to chalk up their fourth league victory. However, if the Lions fail to get up they could be shocked.

Tigers' Soccer Record 3-1-1

By BOB LOW

Despite what Coach Mike Buzzi called "inconsistent play", the Newton High soccer team recorded three wins and a tie in its first five games.

The Tigers, to Buzzi's dismay, have established a pattern of playing one good half, and then looking bad in the other.

The booters opened their season against Arlington, and got off to a fast start on goals by Co-captain Rudi Viscomi and Frank Bodengraven to take a 2-0 lead at the half. But in the second stanza, they allowed Arlington to even the score, before Viscomi netted his second tally to give Newton a 3-2 victory. Doug Giron had two assists and Tom Burke one in the win.

In what Coach Buzzi regarded as his team's best game of the young season, Newton defeated Cambridge Latin, 3-1, for win number two. Rudi Viscomi, Joe Moussalli, and Ronnie Brown scored goals for Newton, while Bodengraven registered an assist.

But the Tigers fell victim to poor play as they were beaten by Brockton, 3-2, and then played what Buzzi termed "a lousy first half" against Newton South. But a solid second half and a bit of luck enabled North to salvage a tie. Rudi Viscomi and Joe Moussalli had the Tiger goals, with Moussalli and Jon Eagle getting assists to lead the effort. But the Tigers still needed good fortune to tie, and they got it when a South penalty kick, that could have won the game, hit the goal post.

Newton then capped the week with a solid 2-0 win over Brookline. The scoring for Newton was identical to that against South, with Moussalli and Viscomi the goal scorers, and Moussalli and Eagle assisting. Co-captain Mark Wasserman got the shutout, his first of the season.

Coach Buzzi says that it's too early for predictions, but promises that the team's play will improve with each day and game. He blames the early season inconsistency on lack of teamwork resulting from having to constantly change the lineup, players coming out late, and injuries.

Buzzi cites the defense's trouble with "marking men" as the team's major weakness, and says its strength is in trapping and passing. He says the Tigers possess "good ball control for a high school team."

Buzzi has been pleased most so far by the play of Viscomi, a forward, center fullback Bill Bertrand, and Steve Forte who he calls "a real surprise. Excellent on defense and offense."

He says the team is strongest on offense, a fact borne out by the fact that Newton has outshot all its opponents to far this season.

Newton's next games are at home, Tuesday October 2 against Somerville and next Thursday with Rindge.

If this team can overcome its inconsistencies it should prove one of the best. As Buzzi put it, "once we get it all together, we are going to be a very strong club."

Academy Offers Exercise Class

An exercise class for women in the suburban area will open Oct. 25 at 8:30 at the Academy of Physical and Social Development, 792 Beacon street, Newton Centre.

The group will be led for the second season by Mrs. Carol Schiff, who donates all proceeds to the Massachusetts Chapter for Cystic Fibrosis Research.

"The class is open to any woman who knows that regardless of age, she has to feel good in order to look good," Mrs. Schiff said. She has trained for six years under George E. Mattson, and holds a first degree Black Belt rank in the art of karate.

This particular group, however, specializes in exercises to limber, firm and tone every part of the body, according to the needs of each member. In her teaching, Mrs. Schiff places no emphasis on self-defense. Exercises are taught to motivate the individual so that she will understand the meaning of body and mind conditioning.

Martin Carlin and Mike Burg of the Academy have made ample space available to the group without charge as a special contribution to medical research. The early morning hour was chosen so that professional women as well as housewives may participate.

Membership fee for 10 Thursday morning sessions in the "Exercise for Cystic Fibrosis" group is $30. Registrations will be accepted immediately by Mrs. Schiff for women who call her at 332-0179 at 55 Grace road, Newton Centre.

Committee Favors Creation Of Development Corporation

The Urban Affairs Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature has given favorable approval to the creation of a Massachusetts Development Corp., according to Representative Peter F. Harrington (D-Newton), a committee member.

The Massachusetts Development Corp. is designed to make housing available to middle and low income families.

The proposal, originally designed to develop commercial, industrial, housing and recreational sites, has died in committee when proposed for the past 3 years. Major objections have been concerned with the scope of the proposed corporation and the granting of free use of eminent domain, Harrington said.

This year, the prior proposals were scrapped and the concept of a state development corporation was redesigned to apply to the growing housing shortage for middle and low income families, removing the objection that the corporation's scope was too broad.

The problem of eminent domain was answered with the requirement that the corporation may acquire real property by the use of eminent domain only after it has received specific local approval.

Representative Harrington said, "another practical aspect of this bill is that it allows for decentralization of a state-wide agency. It eliminates the problem of a Boston-based state authority making unrealistic decisions based upon inadequate information. The entire concept is designed to return control of community development and expansion to local residents."

The Massachusetts Development Corporation is required to inform residents of a potential project area concerning the particulars of the proposed project at public hearing. Furthermore, a Project Area Council shall be elected at that public hearing which shall be composed of residents of the potential impacted area. The Council shall have "full knowledge" of a project plan and any later changes.

The corporation has the right to create subsidiary corporations for the purpose of conducting construction or operation of projects.

Essentially, there are two different types of subsidiaries.

First, a corporation based in the project area, and which may petition the MDC for subsidiary designation, a majority of the organizations board being local residents; or a corporation formed by the MDC, two-thirds of the board of directors being residents.

A corporation based in the project area created by petition takes a priority standing over a subsidiary internally created by the MDC.

A project plan cannot be adopted until the local governing body approves the plan, or disapproves within 60 days. The corporation must accept all modifications or, in the case of local disapproval, must withdraw the project proposal.

"This proposal is unique in the Nation," Harrington continued, "It specifically addresses itself to solvingthe coming housing crisis."

Representative Harrington concluded, "if it works, and I expect it will, it may well become a model for all other states."

Temple Sisterhood Meets Here Soon

Beth-El Atereth Israel Women will hold their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 3, at 8 p.m. in the Youth Room of the synagogue, 561 Ward Street, Newton Centre.

President Mrs. Samuel Andler will preside and Mrs. Harry Leeds will give the invocation.

Greetings to Sisterhood will be delivered by Rabbi Abraham Koolyk. Mrs. Israel H. Rotman will present Mrs. Robert S. Ziegler, president of Tay-Sachs Foundation of New England.

Mrs. Zeiger will discuss Tay+Sachs, a rare genetic disease affecting children primarily of Jewish "Ashkenazi" background which is 100 percent fatal. Mrs. Zeiger will also speak of the first mass screening in New England for Tay-Sachs which will be held on Sunday, Nov. 4, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Jewish Community Centre on Sutherland Road, Brighton.

Mrs. Ruben Blinder, hospitality chairman, Mrs. Melvin Chefitz and Mrs. Arnold Alford, co-chairmen, cordially invite all members to bring guests and to join in the coffee hour following the meeting.

New Faculty Appointments To Newton Junior College

President Charles W. Dudley of Newton Junior College has announced the addition of new full- and part-time Faculty members for the Academic Year 1973-0974.

Miss Marie E. Snyder, R.N. joins the Faculty as Director of the Mental Health Curriculum Project under a training grant from the National Institute of Mental Health of H.E.W. Miss Snyder holds a B.S. degree from the University of Pennsylvania and an M.S. from Boston University.

She was a J.D. candidate at Suffolk University Law School and has had considerable experience as Staff Nurse, Instructor and Consultant in the Mental Health Project.

Mrs. Marilyn A Kelly, R.N., formerly part-time at Newton Junior College as an Instructor of Nursing, holds a B.S. from Simmons College School of Nursing.

Newton part-time Faculty are:

Mrs. Catherine Bermann, R.N., lecturer in Nursing at the Long Island College Hospital, obtained both her B.S. and M.S. from Hunter College. She has had considerable work experience in Nursing.

Miss Joan Bruce, R.N., was a lecturer in Nursing at Brockton Hospital and received a B.S. from Boston College School of Nursing and an M.S. from the University at Massachusetts in Psychiatric Nursing. She has had teaching experience at Faulkner Hospital School of Nursing.

Mrs. Kathleen Felsing, R.N., lecturer in Nursing at Catherine Laboure School of Nursing, holds a B.A. from the University of Detroit and has had experience as a Staff Nurse and Teacher at Macomb County Community College.

Mrs. Nancy Skinner, R.N., was a lecturer in Nursing at Grace - New Haven School of Nursing and holds a B.S. degree from Boston University School of Nursing. She obtained considerable experience as a Staff Nurse.

Mrs. Shirley Sole-Costa, lecturer in Spanish, was formerly from Meadowbrook Junior High School.

St. Margaret's Appoints Local Doctors

Two Newton physicians have recently been appointed to the staff of St. Margaret's Hospital in Dorchester.

James Arfania, M.D., 98 Manet Rd. has been appointed to the obstetrical and gynecological courtesy staff by the hospital's Board of Trustees.

Dr. Arfania received his medical degree from the Tehran University School of Medicine and completed his internship at the Tehran University Hospitals and Illinois Masonic Hospital in Chicago in 1968, and served his residency at Women's Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital Center of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons. Fron 1972 to 1973, he completed a fellowship in Infertility and Gynecological Endocrinology at Harvard Medical School and Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Doctor Arfania, who maintains an office at 1842 Beacon St., Brookline, is a member of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, the American Fertility Society and the American College of Surgions.

Appointed to the courtesy staff of the pediatric department was Victor Tesoriero, M.D., 43 Algonquin Rd., also of Newton.

Dr. Tesoriero, born in Brooklyn, New York, completed his pre-medical training at Fairfield University, Connecticut. After two years of study at the University of Bologna, Italy, he received his medical degree from State University of New York, Downstate Medical Center in 1969 after additional study there. He then went on to serve both his internship and residency at Boston Floating Hospital.

In addition to St. Margaret's, Dr. Tesoriero holds staff membership at the New England Medical Center Hospital and is a candidate to the American Academy of Pediatricians.

A Different Drummer

The Percussion Academy of 41 Placid Rd., Newton Centre, has dedicated itself to the total learning experience of its students.

According to the academy's director, Arthur Press, member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, "the academy stresses a total musical exposure to the young percussionist."

"In other words," stated Press, "students are not only taught proficiency in playing drums, but in addition other aspects of musical awareness and sophistocation such as ensemble playing, stylistic correctness, pulse and meter comprehension, musical terminology, and proper use of the various dynamics."

Because of a great deal of student interest, the academy has also expanded its facilities to include all styles of guitar instruction.

In addition to Press, the faculty consists of Gene Roma, Dean Anderson, Robert Kaufman and Gary Spellisey.

John Scofield and Chris Boydston are available for guitar instruction.

"Another purpose of the academy," stated Press, "is to adequately prepare students, should they desire, for entrance into the higher institutions of learning."

"All in all, the students' total musical exposure is organized and coordinated to assure maximum learning depending on his or her individual needs," Press concluded.

Tapeler Promotes Two

Tapeler Corporation of Newton, manufacturer of automatic and semi-automatic tape applying systems, has recently named Ralph S. Bruce and Robert F. Davis Vice Presidents of the company.

Bruce comes to Tapeler from Dennison Manufacturing Company where he served as Senior Project Engineer for the past three years. His extensive engineering background makes him particularly suitable for overseeing the expansion of Tapeler's line into new fields. He will also actively participate in the design of new equipment for specific applications.

Davis assumes overall production responsibility for the manufacturing of both the tape and tape applying systems marketed by Tapeler. He has been employed by Tapeler since the inception of the company in 1968. Both Bruce and Davis are residents of Framingham

Harvard Has Family Day

Family Day at Harvard Stadium is set for Oct. 6 when the Crimson football team hosts Boston University at 1:30 p.m.

The contest will mark Harvard's second straight against a Yankee Conference opponent and its final non-Ivy League appearance of 1973.

By rolling back its ticket prices for the game, Harvard seeks to encourage a large number of families from around Greater Boston to residscover college football.

Under its plan for the game, the head of the household will be admitted to the bowl end of the stadium for $3. The rest of the family will be admitted for 50 cents each.

Campus Notes

Mount Ida Junior College celebrates its 75th year with the largest freshman class in its history. Saturday, Sept. 15, four hundred and sixty freshman registered from 30 states and 12 foreign countries.

Approximately $100,000 in financial aid was awarded to this year's student body.

Mary Ellen Slattery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Slattery of 74 Vista Ave., Newton, has been named to the Dean's List at The Catholic University of America in Wash., D. C.

Compiled at the end of each semester, the dean's list includes all those students who have attained a cumulative average of at least 3.0, a B average.

The Catholic University, in northeast Washingtn, D.C., is a liberal arts institution granting bachelors, masters and doctoral degrees. Founded in 1887 by U.S. bishops, the univessity today has 6500 graduate and undergraduate students in ten schools.

Three young men from the Newton area are among the 340 students who began classes at Amherst College this week after four days of orientation sessions.

Lee M. Levinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm B. Levinson of 38 Cabot St, Newton, is a 1973 graduate of Newton North High School, where he received varsity letters in football, indoor track and baseball.

He received varsity letters in football and baseball.

Lasell Collaborates With Learning Guild

Lasell Junior College in Newton will enter a cooperative venture with The Learning Guild, Inc. starting Oct. 1.

The college is offering its facilities to The Learning Guild, a group of professional artists and educators, to house workshop programs during the fall semester.

These workshops which will run for two hours an evening for eight weeks, will offer courses in nature and art, macrame, flower arranging, indoor gardening, leathercraft, rubbings, law, family law, environmental education, gardening and landscape, consumer education and remodeling old houses.

These workshops are open to the public on a first come basis. There will be a $34 charge.

For registration or further information contact Dean James Pollock or Mrs. Athena Verros at Lasell Junioor College; 243-2000.

Perlmutter Publishes Magazine Article

Intergroup reltaions have been changing for the better with the passage of the years and laws, stated Philip Perlmutter, in the new summer issue of the "Journal of Intergroup Relations."

These changes, he stated, have been overwhelmingly cumulative, with little, if any, significant recidivism. Perlmutter reviewed a number of perceptual, logical, and historical fallacies made by reformers and revolutionaries in attempting to evaluate progress, such as, selective perception, vestigial observation, use of petrified language, and doomsday generalizations.

Perlmutter is the New England Regional Director of the American Jewish Committee, and resides in Waban.

Little Miss Buttermilk Bay this year is Karen Vestal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Vestal of 235 Cabot st., Newtonville. She also won the award last year.

Don't Be Afraid To Hassle Over House Price

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — What is a house worth?

Different prices to different people—the seller, the professional appraiser, the buyer, of course. A given house will have different worth to different buyers, depending upon the preferences and needs of a family, and on individual finances.

Two identical houses may have different values to the same person, depending solely on location.

Given this, how does a would-be homeowner go about getting the house he wants at the lowest possible price?

"You can often save a pot of money if you know how to bargain for a house, particularly a used house. Even some new builder houses can be subject to reduced price by bargaining," says A.M. Watkins, author of "How to Avoid the 10 Biggest Home Buying Traps," recently published in a revised paperback edition.

Ready to Lose

In a section on buying strategy, Watkins advises: "To get a house at the lowest possible price, you must be prepared to lose it to a possible higher bidder."

In preparing to bid for a house you'd like to buy, Watkins suggests, it is most helpful if you can determine how long the house has been on the market. The longer it has gone unsold, the more likely the owner will take a reduced price, and the lower your first offer can be.

For houses priced up to about $25,000 to $35,000, Watkins says, the first bid can be at least 10 to 20 per cent under the asking price. The higher the asking price, the more you can underbid. "For houses priced over $35,000 or so, there are no general rules to go by. Things are wide open, with some being bought for as much as 50 per cent under the asking price."

He cites examples:

A couple who wanted to buy a house priced at $30,000—no great shakes of a house but a superb river view. They could not afford $30,000 but, just for a lark, offered $25,000. It was snapped up so fast it made them think they should have offered even less.

A fine old English Tudor showplace was on the market for $68,500. One man, whose top was $50,000, hesitated to make so low a bid. He learned later the house went for $39,000.

Location important

The latter, Watkins says, illustrates the importance of location. The house was in a onetime area of rolling countryside, now built up. Its neighbors were development houses in the $35,000 to $40,000 price range. No one with $60,000 to $70,000 to spend for a house wanted to live there. By the same token, a house can gain in value when more expensive houses go up around it.

Although verbal bids play a big part in negotiating for a house, Watkins says, they are not necessarily binding. In many cases a bid must be in writing to be legally binding. The wording of a bid need not be complex but it is critical and should be checked by your lawyer to make sure it conforms with your intentions and that you are protected and can pull out of the deal if, for example, the house turns out to have serious structural defects or, perhaps, you can not obtain a satisfactory mortgage.

What about the seller who says, or advertises, his price is "firm." They imply they will settle for no less. However, Watkins says, if they don't get their price, many will face reality and come down. Don't worry about insulting someone with a "ridiculous" price. If you really want a house, bid what you feel is right and you may be surprised.

Builders' Houses

While new builder houses in a new development are likely to be firm in price, particularly for a new house you order from a builder's model to be built in a development, you can save money on some builder's houses, Watkins said.

The already finished, speculatively built house, is the kind most likely to be overpriced. It is, therefore, the new house most likely to be subject to bargaining, particularly if it has gone unsold for a while. It costs builders money every month to keep a house.

Even on a development house, there is a possibility of savings when a builder is closing out a tract and has a few remaining houses, already finished, that he wants to unload. Again, this is expecially true if the houses have been standing unsold for a long time.

To avoid paying too much for a house, Watkins notes, you must determine how much a house is really worth.

Hire Appraiser

To find out, hire an appraiser —generally at a fee ranging from $50 to $75, more or less, depending on house price. Look for one who is a member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers or the American Institute of Real Estate Appriaisers.

An engineer's report on the condition of a house, along with your own appraisal of what remodeling or redecorating would be necessary, gives an indication of how much you would have to spend on the house.

To find out what an owner paid for a house, if he won't tell you, or you don't want to ask, consult the real-estate deed files at City Hall or the country courthouse. They are open to all. If the previous sale price is not given, generally it can be determined from the tax stamps on the deed.

V.A. Newsletter

A 14 per cent increase in fiscal year 1973 pushed GI Bill school enrollments past 2.1 million to the highest level in 22 years, reported Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Included among the 2.1 million veterans who trained under the GI Bill in fiscal year 1973 were 1.2 million in college, 756,000 in other schools, and 189,000 who took apprenticeship or other on-job training.

Johnson commented that increased enrollments had been expected, and "reflect, in part, efforts of many veterans discharged prior to enactment of current benefits to make use of them before the eight-year May 31, 1974, expiration date."

It was explained, however, that these same veterans have until August 30, 1975, to complete on-the-job training, farm cooperative, flight, and apprenticeship programs, because these programs did not become available until October 1967.

VA has paid $27.1 billion to educate or train 14.3 million veterans and servicemen since World War II. A breakdown reveals $14.5 billion went to 7.8 million World War II veterans, and $8.1 billion to 4.1 million Post Korean Conflict veterans (service after Jan. 31, 1955, including Vietnam Era veterans.)

The agency currently pays $220 monthly GI Bill benefits to eligible single veterans who train fulltime, with higher allowances to those with dependents.

To be eligible, a veteran must have received an other than dishonorable discharge after at least 181 days of active duty, any part of it after Jan. 31, 1955, or be released for a service connected disability, regardless of length of service. Servicemen on active duty also become eligible after at least 181 days of active service.

\+ \+ \+

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q.–As an eligible veteran, I'd like to get a GI home loan, but my salary is not large enough for the house we need. Will the Veterans Administration include my wife's earnings in addition to mine in considering our eligibility for a loan?

A.–Yes. Since July 18, VA has been giving full consideration to income of the veteran's spouse in processing GI home loans.

Q.--My daughter attends college under the Veterans administration dependents' educational assistance program. If she marries, will VA continue to provide this benefit?

A.–Yes. VA will continue to pay this assistance. However, the agency is not permitted to pay additional allowances for your daughter's dependents.

Q.–As a widow of a veteran who died of a service connected disability, am I entitled to commissary privileges?

A.--Yes, provided your husband was retired, or was rated as having a 100 percent service connected disability at the time of his death. Application forms may be obtained from any Veterans Administration regional office or the appropriate military base.

Be Your Dogs Best Friend

By DR. CARLTON E. BUTTRICK
President, Animal Rescue League of Boston

This week is National Dog Week, an appropriate time for every dog owner to make an effort to be his dog's best friend.

While your dog may act almost human at times, do not be deceived into forgetting he is a dog. Pets are not people; they need people to care for them, to train them and to love them. Your dog will be a welcome addition to his new family, friends and community if you exercise your responsibilities as a pet owner:

Licenses are required by law for all dogs three months or older. They must be purchased annually on or before April 1. Be sure your dog wears his tag because it will identify him if he is lost or injured. In Boston, licenses are $3 for a male or spayed female and $10 for an unspayed female. They can be obtained, in Boston, at your police station; outside Boston, at the Town Clerk's office. Fees may vary in other communities.

Leashes help ensure your dog's safety and your neighbor's peace of mind. Never let your dog roam at will or relieve himself on your neighbor's lawn or a public sidewalk.

Over Pup-u-lation. Unless you are prepared to keep a litter of puppies until you find a permanent home for each one, you should have your female dog spayed at about five months of age. Contrary to popular belief, spayed females do not grow fat and lethargic and, in fact, make very desirable pets. All young female dogs adopted from the League are spayed free of charge. Unspayed females can have litters of puppies twice a year.

If your dog is lost, notify your local dog pound, animal welfare society or the Animal Rescue League of Boston at once. Also try newspaper ads, post notices at nearby stores or schools, and check with former neighbors if you've recently moved. Don't give up—your pet won't.

If your dog is sick or injured, take him promptly to your private veterinarian or the Animal Rescue League Clinic.

If you must give up your dog, bring him to the Animal Rescue League Shelter or to any other animal welfare society. Never abandon your pets. The average life of a stray dog is less than a year.

\+ + +

Having a problem with your pet? Write to Pet Care Corner, Animal Rescue League of Boston, P.O. Box 265, Boston, Mass. 02117. Space permitting, we will try to answer your inquiries in this column.

A PUP NEEDS A PAL - Three-year old Brian Shaw gets some pointers on puppy care from Dr. James O'Brien, staff veterinarian at the Animal Rescue League in connection with National Dog Week. The League urges anyone who can give a puppy a good home to visit its Adoption Center at the corner of Arlington and Tremont streets, Boston.

Anti-defamation League Events Fete 60th Year

Two major events celebrating the 60th anniversary of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith will be held Sunday, Oct. 14, 1973 in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, according to Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Paley of Brookline, co-chairmen of ADL's 60th anniversary celebration planning committee.

A day-long program will begin with a commemorative meeting on "Religious Freedom in America" at the historic Touro Synagogue in Newport, Rhode Island. The keynoter will be Rabbi Irwin M. Blank, President of the Synagogue Council of America and Rabbi of Temple Ohabei Shalom of Brookline. A luncheon will follow at the Sheraton Islander Inn on Goats Island, (Newport) Rhode Island.

In the evening the New England Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League will conduct its annual meeting which this year will celebrate the League's 60th anniversary and a special program has been arranged for this occasion. The guest speaker will be Seymour Graubard of New York, the national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League. The dinner meeting will commence with a cocktail party and reception at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton. Co-chairmen of a special arrangements committee for this event are Mr. and Mrs. David E. Grossman of Newton.

Jewish community leaders from all over New England who have participated in the day-to-day activities of the League in their own areas will join in celebrating ADL's 60th anniversary. The ADL is an American Jewish organization whose history spans some of the most harsh and critical periods of Jewish life in the United States. ADL today combats the more complicated problems of bigotry, extremism and discrimination with methods developed over six decades. Today its major effort is aimed against those extremist and forces seeking to destroy Israel's image in the United States. It has also earned an enviable reputation with leaders of the Christian churches, educators, social scientists, government officials and community groups for its efforts to build interreligious and intergroup cooperation and understanding. Its educational programs for increasing understanding on such issues as Soviet Jewry and the security of Israel have made a marked and significant difference in American public opinion.

Seymour Graubard, the sixth national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League, is an eminent attorney and civic leader who has served the American Jewish community and ADL for over thirty years. His distinguished career in civic affairs includes important assignments with all of New York City's Mayors since Fiorello LaGuardia, and with Governors of the State. He has been equally prominent with bar associations in the city and state of New York. He is a trustee and former chairman of the Board of the City Club of New York and a member of Mayor Lindsay's Coordinating Council for Criminal Justice. He has written and lectured extensively on municipal finances and administrative and international law. In the Spring of this year, Mr. Graubard accompanied New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay on an official visit to the Soviet Union where he spent seven days in Moscow and Leningrad meeting with members of the Russian Jewish community and Soviet officials.

New Hours At Art Museum

The Museum of Fine Arts in Boston announces that the Museum will be open every day of the week from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Tuesday and Thursday evening until 9 p.m.

Admission is $1.50, with free admission on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Senior citizens are admitted free on Monday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Museum Of Science Plans Night For College Students

This Friday night, September 28, Boston's Museum of Science is offering reduced admission, special rates for college students, and a free science fiction film with advice on how to be a success thrown in.

The Museum gives everyone half-price admission after 5 p.m. on Fridays, and, on September Friday nights, it has extended a special welcome to college students by admitting them for 25 cents.

As the last Friday in the month, September 28 is the last chance collegians will have to take advantage of this introductory price. (College students are, however, always admitted for 50 cents less than the adult fee.)

The movie scheduled for September 28 is "From the Earth to the Moon," the story of a post-Civil War inventor set on launching a rocket to the Moon.

Based on two Jules Verne novels, it is the third in a series of four science fiction films being shown on consecutive Friday nights at the Museum.

The final film, to be shown October 5, is the H. G. Wells classic, "Things to Come." All films are shown at 6 and 8:15 p.m.

The inventor in "From the Earth to the Moon," Victor Barbicane, discovers a source of infinite energy that will propel his projectile skyward.

Despite opposition and derision from government and business rivals, he is not deterred in his pursuit, and he remains a shining example of determination to succeed.

The climax of the film, the launching of the rocket with four space explorers aboard, gave original viewers a thrilling glimpse at the dream of space travel. Today's viewers find excitement in the adventure, and amazement in the far-sightedness of the story and its originator, Jules Verne.

Friday night admission is $1.00 for adults, and 50 cents for children.

The Skyline Cafeteria, overlooking the Charles River and the Boston-Cambridge skyline, is open for dinner from 5 to 8 o'clock on Friday nights. Parking is available at a minimal charge in the Museum garage. By MBTA, take the Green Line, Lechmere car, to Science Park Station.

Tough Cop Hates Hollywood Social Whirl; Lives Simply

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If a television star could be described as holding down a lunch bucket job, then Gerald O'Loughlin, the tough cop of "The Rookies," would best fit the portrait.

O'Loughlin couldn't be further removed from Zsa Zsa Gabor's Hollywood social whirl if he worked in a Pittsburgh steel mill. And the actor wouldn't have it any other way.

He's not antisocial, but neither is he anxious to read his name in the society columns.

O'Loughlin and his wife, Meryl—married seven years—live in a simple little house in the San Fernando valley, which is to Los Angeles what Long Island is to Manhattan.

The house has four bedrooms to accommodate son Christopher, 6, daughter Laura, 4, and a live-in housekeeper who takes care of the kids.

Now the average Pittsburgh steel worker doesn't hire a housekeeper, and neither would the O'Loughlins if Meryl wasn't employed as the casting director for another television series, Buddy Ebsen's "Barnaby Jones."

But as is the case with her husband, Meryl isn't caught up in the exciting social life of Hollywood's beautiful people.

Like working people everywhere the couple rises at specific times each day and head for their jobs, although their hours are somewhat more demanding than most.

Early Riser

O'Loughlin is up at 5:30 a.m. in order to prepare himself a skimpy breakfast, allowing enough time to drive to 20th Century-Fox studios by 7:30 for makeup. Meryl is able to sleep later, drives the youngsters to school and then heads for Goldwyn studios where she interviews actors for the "Barnaby Jones" shows.

Usually O'Loughlin is home by 5:30 in the evening in time to have dinner with Chris and Laura. Dinner is prepared by the housekeeper. Meryl has dinner by herself when she arrives home sometime after 6 p.m.

Because their homelife prohibits a normal amount of togetherness during the week, the O'Loughlin family makes up on weekends for going its separate way during the week. Parents and children stay around the house relaxing and talking together.

It is a Sunday morning ritual that Papa O'Loughlin takes the children out for breakfast at a restaurant while Meryl catches up on her sleep.

Gerald would like to own a trailer and a boat, but he has neither the time nor that much loose change at the moment.

He is a compulsive do-it-yourself fixer-upper around the house with a goodly collection of power tools in the garage, part of which he has transformed into a shop.

He loathes tennis, golf and other social sports. If he has a few minutes to call his own he sometimes fritters them away with a stamp collection he has had since childhood.

O'Loughlin once was a two-fisted drinker and a life of the party type. Now, at 50, he doesn't drink at all and avoids parties whenever he can, especially cast parties of his ABC-TV show. The other members of "The Rookies" are younger by many years than Gerald.

A native of New York, O'Loughlin starred in the theater for years before turning to motion pictures and television. He came west because movies and television roles are cast almost exclusively in Hollywood these days.

O'Loughlin has been a teacher at the Actors Studio West and works with young actors during breaks on the series. Next year he plans to make a movie during the show's hiatus. But even so, odds on Gerald S. O'Loughlin becoming a social butterfly are nil.

Temple Considers Youth

Because of the growing needs of the young people in the congregation, Temple Beth Avodah has announced that a Rosh Hashanah morning service will be conducted by the Temple Youth Group in the library chapel at 10:30 a.m., Thursday, Sept. 27.

Under the supervision of Richard Blacker, third through seventh grade youngsters will worship at this service; the older boys and girls will attend services with their parents in the Sanctuary.

Tentative plans include singing by the newly formed Junior Choir, Roger Cohen accompanist. Andrew Lustig will act as cantor, Andrew Wise will deliver the Torah portion of the service, and Philip Miller will blow the shofar.

This meaningful Holyday service will be planned in entirety by the young people of the Temple.

High Holyday services will be conducted in the Sanctuary by Rabbi Robert Miller at 8:15 on Wednesday evening, Sept. 26, and at 10:30 a.m. the following morning.

Worship service on Yom Kippur will be held at 8:15 on Friday evening, Oct. 5, and at 10:30 a.m. the following day; concluding service will commence at 3 p.m.

As is the custom with the Temple Beth Avodah family, the congregants will break the fast together in the social hall following Yom Kippur concluding service.

Rabbi Miller and the congregation of Temple Beth Avodah would like to take this opportunity to say "L'shanah Tovah"—Happy New Year to their many friends in the community.

At Seminar In Denmark

Arthur Eisenberg of Waban, executive vice president of Longwood Management, Inc., recently returned from attending a one week seminar in Copenhagen, Denmark, sponsored by The Danish Institute (Det Danske Selskab) on the Care of the Aged.

Attendance was limited to 25 members representing 10 different countries. Eisenberg was one of the participants representing the United States., The seminar included visits to many different kinds of nursing homes, geriatric treatment centers, welfare centers and a folk high school, as well as lectures by Danish experts. The final lecture of the seminar was offered by Mrs. Eva Gredal, Minister of Social Affairs for Denmark.

Longwood Management owns and operates four nursing homes, two of which are located in Newton.

Suffolk Honors Late City Resident

Suffolk University will dedicate its marine biology station in Cobscook Bay, Edmunds, Me. in memory of its late biology department charman, Dr. Robert S. Friedman, on Sunday, Oct. 7 at 2:30 p.m.

The dedication will be part of a two-day marine sciences program involving Suffolk and 10 consortium member colleges of the New Hampshire College and University Council.

Dr. Friedman was Suffolk's first biology department chairman and had served the university for more than 25 years. At the time of his death last Apr. 8, he was Distinguished Service Professor of Biology at Suffolk.(He lived at 178 Prince St. W. Newton.)

Cobscook Bay, which has the greatest tide fluctuations in the Continental United States outside of alaska, was a special project of Friedman's. It was through his leadership that Suffolk acquired a 40-acre site for the study of marine life five years ago.

Suffolk University President Thomas A. Fulham will confer an honorary degree of doctor of humane letters on Dr. William E. Morrell of the National Science Foundation. Dr. Morrell has been a pioneer in the NSF summer institute programs for science teachers.

The Saturday program will begin with a 10 a.m. meeting hosted by The Research Institute of the Gulf of Maine (TRIGOM) at the nearby University of Maine at Machias. Marine education papers will be presented for discussion throughout the day.

Cobscook Bay, which lies in the famed Bay of Fundy region, some 320 miles from Boston, long has been a treasure haven for researchers and scientists. Situated in Washington County, the eastern most county in the United States, it is one of the nation's last frontiers of both marine and land resources. Its tides vary about 24 feet near the bay at Lubec and Eastport.

Before Suffolk purchased the tract of land, the school had conducted biology institutes for secondary school teachers, which included a week's field study at the Cobscook Bay State Park.

Following acquisition of the property, three National Science Foundation-supported teachers programs were presented by Suffolk in the area in successive summers.

In the early years, a 34-foot renovated house trailer was used for shelter and to house equipment, food and other materials. The emphasis was on the out-of-doors and some 92 persons camped and worked on the station during a summer week in 1970.

Recent additions to the site include an all purpose building for study and camping activities. Several wooden shelters have also been erected.

Recently, as part of an inter-institutional cooperation between the New Hampshire College and University Council and Suffolk University, students from some 11 institutions utilized the facilities and equipment at the new Cobscook Day Laboratory.

Under National Science Foundation support, the schools share facilities, faculty and funding in providing a unique opportunity for students to explore the area of marine sciences.

Bible Society Luncheon

Lewis M. Foster of Newton Highlands, president of the Massachusetts Bible Society, will preside at the 164th annual luncheon program of the society, to be held at historic Bible House, Bromfield st., Boston, Tuesday, Oct. 2.

The Bay State society is one of the oldest of its kind in the world.

Foster said the latest statistics indicated that sales of complete bibles are up 102 percent during the past year, and New Testament sales have increased 29 percent in the same period.

Foster said there would be several reports, an election of officers, and memorial services for the late Rev. Dr. Vaughn Dabney, formerly dean of the Andover Newton Theological School, Newton. Dr. Dabney was a long-time trustee of the Society.

Hospital Holds Open House

Students, parents and guidance counselors are invited to an Open House at Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing on Wednesday, Oct. 17 at Allen Riddle Hall, the school's dormitory.

From 2 to 4 in the afternoon, guests will be given tours of the hospital and grounds, will have a chance to see an exhibit of students' activities and interests and to visit with students now at the school during informal refreshments.

There were more than 1,500 requests for applications for the 80-member class of 1973. Among the 80 selected are high school seniors, licensed practical nurses, medics, post-high school women and men, both married and unmarried, and several with B.A., B.S., and associate degrees.

The school asks those planning to attend the Open House to call 244-2800, ext. 343 or 347 so that it may know how many guests to expect.

Poster Contest Highlights Fair

A clown poster contest is being conducted for the benefit of Pequossette Chapter 141, Order of the Eastern Star.

The contest is being held in conjunction with the "Carnival Star Time Fair" to be held at the Masonic Temple, Church St., Watertown, on Saturday, Sept. 29, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

A midway of games and prizes, hot dogs, popcorn, pizza, and plenty of game booths will be available. A ham and bean supper will be served at 6 p.m. Adults will be charged $1.99 and children, $1, to enjoy the delicious dinner.

For dinner reservations please call Mrs. Elizabeth Farrell at 926-1972 before Sept. 27.

The entry fee for the poster contest is $1 and the poster should be no larger than 15 inches by 20 inches. The entrant's name, age, address and telephone number should be listed on the back of the poster.

If an entrant desires to sell his or her poster they should also include the asking price on the back of the poster.

Bring poster and check to Miss Helen M.E. Hansen, 167 Melrose St., Auburndale, before Sept. 26. Prizes will be awarded in three different age groups.

Matross Heads N.E. B'nai B'rith Office

The appointment of Irving B. Matross, veteran B'nai B'rith leader and Boston civic figure, as new director of the New England office of District Grand Lodge 1 to succeed the retiring Philip L. Bauxbaum was announced by Lester A. Macktez, president of District 1.

As the new director, Matross' jurisdiction includes four councils in New England - Greater Boston, North Shore, Central New England, and Maine.

Buxbaum who has headed the Boston Regional Office of District 1 since 1951 has been appointed by Al Elkes, national membership director, as new lodge consultant in the New England area.

Matross rose to the presidency of Mayflower Lodge in Boston after serving as chairman or member of every lodge committee. The lodge honored him with its coveted leadership award as well as naming him as the "Most Outstanding Member of Its First 25 Years." He is a member of the New England A.D.L. Board, the New England BBYO Regional Board, the Career and Counseling Board and the new Hilel Advisory Board. Career and Counseling honored him with a "Tribute Dinner" last April.

Among many of Greater Boston Council activities, Matross served as Council A.D.L. Bulletin Editor, Chairman of the Membership Cabinet, and was Council President in 1967.

He chaired the New England Family Conference in 1972 and was named "Greater Boston Council Man of the year, 1972." Matross was also chairman of the three very successful B'nai B'rith Israel Bond Dinners.

He is a member of the Board of Governors of District Grand 1.

He resides in Newton with his wife, Annette, daughter, Marjorie, and son, Edward. Matross is a member of Congregation Beth El Atereth Israel of Newton.

Obituaries

Vida Barrs

A memorial service will be held Sunday (Sept. 30) at 3 p.m. for Mrs. Vida (Randolph) Barrs in the Fuller Chapel of the Second Church in Newton (Congregational).

Mrs. Barrs, wife of James T. Barrs, 166 Chestnut st., West Newton, died Thursday (Sept. 13).

Mrs. Barrs is survived by two daughters, Dorothy Caroline Sterge of Beverly Farms, Mass., and Ann Radcliffe List of Alburquerque, N.M.; a son, Andrew F. of Onset and seven grandchildren.

Donations may be made in her memory to the Memorial Fund of the Second Church.

Morris Bearak

Services for Morris I. Bearak, prominent Boston attorney, who died suddenly at his home in Auburndale Sunday evening, Sept. 23, were held at the Levine Chapel, Brookline, on Tuesday, Sept. 25.

Mr. Bearak, who lived at 38 Brae Burn Rd., was 54 years old.

He was born in Boston, attended the Boston schools and Brown University in Providence R. I., and graduated from Boston University Law clerk to Justice Stanley Qua of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court after his graduation. He was associated with the law firm of Guterman, Horvitz, Rubin, and Rudman in Boston for 20 years, and was a senior partner at the time of his death. He belonged to the American, Massachusetts, and Boston Bar Associations.

He was also active in local community affairs. In addition to being a trustee of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies, he was a past president (president during the years 1956 to 1959) of the Jewish Family and Childrens' Service in Boston. He was also an organizer and founder of the Massachusetts Parkinson Foundation.

Mr. Bearak is survived by his wife, Dorothy (Shapiro); a son, Joseph, and a daughter, Barbara, both of Newton; his mother, Mrs. Fannie Bearak of Boston; and a brother, Herbert Bearak, of Framingham.

LEGAL NOTICES

HEARING NOTICE FROM OFFICE OF CITY CLERK NEWTON, MASS.

WHEREAS: Petitions have been filed with the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton as defined in list attached hereto under the "Zoning Ordinance. Chapter 25." as amended. it is ORDERED: That a hearing be held on MONDAY, OCTOBER 15. 1973, 7:45 p.m. at CITY HALL in said City of Newton, before the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen, at which time and place all parties interested therein will be heard.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED: That notice of said hearing be given publication in the Newton Graphic on September 27, 1973 and October 4, 1973:

863-72(2) Ald. Edward L. Richmond recommending amendments to the Zoning Ordinance providing for the regulation of the development of "Major Parcels" of land:

Amend Section 25-1 by adding a new definition as follows: Major Parcels. A parcel of undeveloped land consisting of nine or more acres including, but not limited to, the parcels shown on listing on file in the office of the Newton City Clerk.

Amend Section 25-5 by adding a new subsection (c). Subsection (c) provides that in return for the preservation of at least fifteen per cent (15 percent) of land as open space on any Major Parcel, a density bonus not to exceed five per cent (5 percent) of that density otherwise permitted in the appropriate single residence district may be exercised and that for each additional one per cent (1 percent) of open space preserved in excess of the initial 15 percent, the denisty may be increased by one-half of one per cent using the five per cent bonus as a base. Minimum lot areas may be reduced below those otherwise required but to no less than 15,000 square feet in Single Residence A; 10,000 square feet in Single Residence B; and 7,000 square feet in Single Residence C Districts.

The open space preserved must be held and maintained by the developer, or the City of Newton, or the Newton Conservation Commission, or as may be designated by the Board of Aldermen. The procedures stipulated in Section 25-22 (Site Plan Approval) and Section 25-26 (Exceptions to Use Regulations) are applicable to the exercise of this section.

863-72(4) City Planning Committee recommending amendments to the Zoning Ordinance providing regulations for cluster development. Amend Section 25-13 by adding a new subsection (f). Section 25-13(f) provides the Board of Aldermen the authority to grant permission for cluster development under the procedures of Section 25-22 (site plan approval) and Section 25-26 (exceptions to use regulations) in single or two-family developments subject to specified conditions. These conditions include: minimum development area of five acres; minimum lot area: 15.000 square feet in Single Residence A; 10,000 square feet in Single Residence D; 7.000 square feet in Private Residence, Residence D and E Districts: minimum permanent open space based on the differences between the minimum lot area otherwise required under Section 25-13(a) and the minima required by this section; open space use limited to recreation and open space uses; open space land shall be held and maintained by the developer until conveyance is made to the City of Newton; or the Newton Conservation Commission; or an association, trust or corporation of all owners of lots within the development, or a non-profit trust or corporation having its primary purpose the maintenance of open space, or as may be designated by the Board of Aldermen.

318-73(2) Ald. Peter F. Harrington proposing amendment to Section 25-20 of the Revised Zoning Ordinance by inserting a new subsection to be identified as 25-20(h) as follows:

(h) 1. In the event that any existing structure be changed, modified or altered so as to convert its use from any one of those described in Section 25-20(g) 1-14 to any other described therein, then, before a permit shall be granted to so change modify or alter said building, the parking requirements of Section 25-20(g) 1-14 shall apply.

2. The exemption of any existing structures from the requirements of providing parking space under Section 25-20 based on its existence prior to the enactment of Section 25-20 shall automatically cease and the provisions of paragraph 1. above shall apply where any permit is granted for each change, modification or alteration.

56-73(3) Old Colony Petroleum Co. Inc., petition for permissive use for free-standing 34 sq. ft. sign at gasoline selling station at 1172 Beacon Street. Ward 5, Section 54, Block 21, portions of Lots 51 and 52, containing approx. 19,000 sq. ft. in Business B District. Sign to have aluminum frames with molded plastic faces.

781-73 WHDH Corporation, petition for permissive use for a radio station at 1175 Chestnut Street, Ward 5, Section 51, Block 45, Lot 7, containing approx. 264,020 sq. ft. in Private Residence District. The proposed two-story structure to be of brick and concrete.

782-73 The Thomas A. Lyons Funeral Home Inc., petition for permissive use for a parking lot in connection with adjoining funeral home for land at 1487 Washington Street, Ward 3, Section 33, Block 4, Lot 1, in Private Residence District. Land is within 150' of Business or Manufacturing Zone and is now being used for parking.

South Gridders Bow To Weston 27-0

"They had a senior team and we had a junior team. They were experienced and we weren't, and that was the story of the game," were the words of Newton South High School coach George Winkler after his gridders had been blanked by Weston 27-0 Saturday at Weston in the opening football game of the season for the Newton South eleven.

Weston scored in each period and held the South unit scoreless.

"We had some solid chances to score but every time we got in close we fumbled. We only lost one fumble, but when we fumbled we lost seven or eight yards and that hurt us," commented Winkler.

Coach Winkler still had praise for his players in defeat. "I thought that Greg Moan and Aaron Moynihan did a fine job as linebackers in their first game and Pete Nathison ran the ball well but those fumbles and inexperience hurt us. We'll bounce back," Winkler said.

In the first period Weston opened the scoring as Bill Bond scored the first of his three touchdowns when he dove over the middle from the one yard line.

Don Melone kicked the extra point and Weston had all the points they needed for the win, the way the game turned out.

In the second period it was Steve Shaw capping another long drive and scoring from the one yard line for a 13-0 halftime lead for the Weston gridders.

In the third period the Weston defense came evident in the game as Pete Nathison was tackled in the end zone for a safety and it was a 15-0 Weston lead.

Bond scored the final two touchdowns on runs of seven and 20 yards and it was a 27-0 victory for Wayland in the game.

The South team will now look for their first win of the season against Maynard this Saturday afternoon at 1:30 at Newton.

"They have lost two games, but they're a dangerous club and in both of their losses it was by close scores. We'll have our work cut out for us, but I think those first game jitters will be gone and the kids will show an improved effort," coach Winkler closed with.

A good crowd on Saturday afternoon would certainly give the South team a big boost and it wouldn't be a surprise if they won their first game of the year this Saturday.

Weston and Concord-Carlisle share the lead in the County League as both have one win each, and Newton South and Lincoln-Sudbury have 0-1 records.

Acton-Boxboro, Bedford and Wayland have yet to see action in the Dual County League.

In other league games this Saturday Acton-Boxboro is at Concord while Bedford tackles Lincoln-Sudbury.

Still a long way to go in the Dual County League this year, and one game doesn't mean a season.

South-North Battle To 2-2 Tie

By RANDY GRODMAN

The Newton South Soccer team has continued to look good, but due to many tough breaks and some unfortunate circumstances they just can't always get it all together.

Their first league game was scheduled for Tuesday, September 18, at Acton; however, due to heavy rain, the game was postponed indefinitely.

On Thursday, September 20, South traveled to Newton North to challenge their cross-town rivals. Both teams had winning on their minds, but the irony of sport prevailed, for the final score was 2-2.

South began the scoring five minutes into the first quarter. Sent in alone on a beautiful pass from teammate Paul Lnn, Aris Bidianos found the lower right hand corner. Aris has been proving his talent throughout his high school career, but this year looks to be his most promising.

Five minutes after South's goal, North was blessed with a penalty kick. Taking full advantage of the situation, John Eagle of Newton North tied the score at 1-1. With the momentum in their favor, North took the lead on a beautiful corner kick made good by North's Steve Forte. This was in the third period.

Three minutes into the last quarter Aris Bidianos scored his second goal of the game, this time on a penalty kick.

For the remainder of the contest, the two teams struggled continually, but neither could break the tie. The game went into two five minute overtime periods. With two minutes remaining in the last overtime, Aris Bidianos made an attempt to score when South was awarded a penalty kick. His shot hit the right goal post, and bounced out. Final score of the game: 2-2.

On Saturday, September 22, South played ther first league match at Concord-Carlisle. The team looked as strong as ever in the first half, but the second half proved to be disastrous. Only three minutes into the game, Aris Bidianos scored on a head ball. The pass came from junior Jimmy Young. After that South was held scoreless.

Concord-Carlisle put in a great team effort, and eventually came back to win. They scored their first goal on a direct kick which was headed in late in the first period. In the second quarter they took advantage of a corner kick, and scored what proved to be the winning goal.

Concord-Carlisle's third and final goal came in the fourth period on a beautiful passing play which split the defense. Although Newton South lost, there were three team members who played exceedingly well. They are seniors Roger Gordon, Paul Lynn, and Andy Moore.

Fortunately, South's Junior Varsity Soccer team has been more successful. Their only game so far was played against Concord-Carlisle at home on Friday. Goalie John Bamel virtually stopped Concord-Carlisle, not allowing a single goal. South's team combined talents in a good all-round team effort to win by a score of 3-0.

Sophomore Carson Milgroom scored the first goal in the first quarter on a penalty kick. Then Jan Waalewyn scored on a mix-up in front of Concord-Carlise's net in the third period. On a totally confused play late in the fourth quarter, Ronny Litwin came through with the third goal.

If both the Varsity and the Junior Varsity can maintain their top performances, they may have the best seasons in Newton South history. Both teams lack school and town support, and perhaps more local interest could prove to be an inspiration. This is the Varsity's schedule for 1973:

Tues., Sept. 18—Acton (A)
Thurs., Sept. 20—Newton North (A)
Sat., Sept. 22—Concord-Carlisle (A)
Tues., Sept. 25—Lincoln-Sudbury (H)
Sat., Sept. 29—Bedford (H)
Tues., Oct. 2—Weston (A)
Fri., Oct. 5—Wayland (H)
Sat., Oct. 13—Acton (H)
Tues., Oct. 16—Concord-Carlisle (H)
Friday, Oct. 19—Lincoln-Sudbury (A)
Tues., Oct. 23—Bedford (A)
Fri., Oct. 26—Weston (H)
Tues., Oct. 30—Wayland (A)

B.C. Gives Tulane Battle; Experts Take Second Look

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Tulane is supposed to be top 20 material, huh? Well, then where does that leave Boston College, 21st?

There wasn't much difference between the Newton contingent and the New Orleans eleven, outside of a little weight in the trenches and a shifty running quarterback named Steve Foley, who led the southern squad to a 21-16 decision before 33,880, last Saturday in New Orleans.

Foley only threw nine times and completed just four of those for 40 yards, but rushed for 118 yards and two touchdowns. He also directed the Green Wave to all its points in the second quarter.

Dave Bynum bulled his way for 108 yards to aid Foley's tip-toeing through the line.

The Eagles scored first in the game at 1:39 of the first period when super halfback Mike Esposito swept around right end from five yards out. Fred Steinfort booted the point after touchdown and BC had a lead which lasted for 18 minutes.

The Foley barrage began with four minutes gone in the second stanza and when the teams adjourned for the half it was 21-7.

Steinfort kicked a 39-yard field goal in the third quarter and Dave Zumbach grabbed a 22-yard pass from Gary Marangi for a touchdown in the fourth quarter for the Eagles' other scoring, but all of it was futile after the second quarter.

Esposito, who exploded for 159 yards in the BC opener a week ago, was limited to 72 yards in 20 carries last Saturday.

His runningmate Keith Barnette picked up 66 yards for a decent enough evening's work.

The questions about how good Boston College is still unresolved. After thrashing Temple 45-0 and losing a tough game to a top team it's safe and silly to say the Eagles are somewhere in-between. It seems they are a good local team, but not quite up there for bowl contention.

Further proof of where the Eagles rate is sure to come this week when they travel to Texas for a battle with Texas A&M. They cannot be encouraged by what they have read thus far of their foe.

The Aggies bombarded Wichita State, 48-0, in their opener and last Saturday almost upset 11th ranked Louisiana State, falling 28-23.

Counselors At Seminar

The role of women's colleges in American higher education will be outlined in an informational program Tuesday (Oct. 2) for secondary school guidance counselors in the Boston area.

The program will be held at the Marriott in Auburndale.

Being at their best may not be good enough against a team that can stay with the Tigers like that.

The Eagles' cross-country team finally opened its season by scoring a double victory over Boston University and Tufts. BC bested tough Tufts, 35-36 and rolled over BU, 35-57.

Campus Notes

David E. Jacobson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Jacobson, 223 Upland Rd., Newtonville, has been named to the dean's list at Boston University's College of Business Administration. A grade point average of 3.3 on a scale of 4.0 is needed to qualify for this distinction.

Jacobson, a sophomore, is a 1972 graduate of Newton High School.

Virginia E. Boylan a senior at the College of Mount Saint Vincent, Riverdale, N.Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Boylan, 142 Pine Grove Ave., Newton. was on the dean's list for the spring semester of 1973.

She participated in an Honors Convocation held Sept. 16 at the College of Mount Saint Vincent to honor students with an average of 3.50 or higher.

Northeastern University awarded degrees to the following Newton residents during the eighth annual fall commencement held Sept. 13 at the university. Receiving degrees were 575 students.

Mark R. Feinstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael B. Feinstein of 125 Wayne Road, Newton, has enrolled as a freshman at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute for the fall semester.

The freshman class, comprising 1,050 students from virtually every state and nearly 50 foreign countries, is one of the largest ever enrolled by the university. RPI has a total student body of 3,500 undergraduates and 1,200 graduates in its Schools of Engineering, Science, Arthitecture, Management, and Humanities and Social Sciences.

Campus Note

Robert Kwasnick son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kwasnick of 237 Dedham St., Newton, has joined the Swarthmore College student body as a freshman this fall. He is a graduate of Newton South High School.

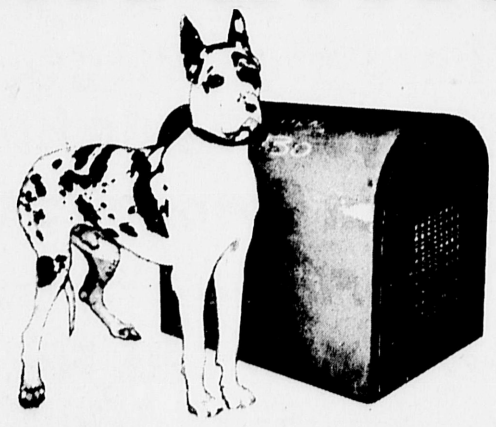
DEAD on Arrival



Thousands of airborne animals die before reaching their final destination because of:

- Suffocation
- Starvation
- Heat prostration
- Crushing and injury from unsecured freight
- Poor and cramped crating

Our investigations indicate that in nearly all cases airlines show complete lack of concern for the safety of the animals they accept as cargo.

We need your help. The International Society for the Protection of Animals (ISPA) has already embarked on a worldwide campaign to protect animals in transit. Specifically by:

1. Promoting the enactment of stringent regulations governing the care of animals while airborne, or in the custody of the airlines.
2. Establishing more completently staffed animal-ports such as are now in operation in New York, London, and Miami.

This worldwide effort requires strong public support. We need your immediate help. Federal legislation has been introduced to insure the humane treatment of animals by the airlines and common carriers.

Please support our efforts through membership in ISPA. Send your contributions for membership today ($5, $10, $25 or more) and receive our quarterly ISPA NEWS.

Get involved in our worldwide crusade programs for both domestic and wild animals. Your indifference could be the cruelest torture of all.

AUTO FACTS
Now there is a white sidewall cleaner that keeps white sidewall tires looking clean as new. It works with spray and chemical action. A kitchen cleanser can do almost as good a job. For severe discoloration, make a paste of cleanser and water and allow to stand on the tire for a few minutes. This will bleach the tire clean again. Then simply rub with a brush or a wet cloth. Rinse, and your sidewalls will look like new.
NEWTON AUTO SUPPLY, 438 Lexington St., 969-1191 carries a complete line of auto parts which will help your car act like new. We pride ourselves on the personal service and attention given to each customer. Among many famous brands we carry the complete Delco line. Hours: Mon.-Fri. 8-7, Sat. 8-5.
HELPFUL HINT: Keep a tire gauge in your glove compartment — you will know when your tires need attention.

Heart Association Receives Several Memorial Gifts

A number of Newton residents have been honored during recent months with memorial gifts made to the Heart Fund.

These donations are a part of the thousands of memorial gifts received by the Greater Boston Heart Association each year. The Heart Association uses these funds to help support cardiovascular research, public and professional education, and community service.

When a memorial gift arrives at the Heart Association office, it is acknowledged with a card sent to the family of the deceased, informing them of the gift and the name of the giver. The amount of the gift is not stated. A receipt is sent to the giver at this time. As gifts to the Heart Association are tax deductible, the receipt may be used for tax purposes.

A memorial gift can be made by forwarding the following items: the donation (cash or check); the name and address of the deceased; the name and address of the family of the deceased; and the name and address of the donor.

We ask the friends of the Heart Association who have made gifts in the past to please note that the Greater Boston Heart Association office has moved to a new location. The gift and the above information should now be sent to the Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, 112 Cypress st., Brooklin, Mass. 02146.

Gifts can also be made to the Heart Association to mark special events in people's lives, such as birthdays, Bar Mitzvahs, confirmations, and wedding anniversaries. A card appropriate to the occasion will be forwarded to the person honored.

The following Newton residents were remembered by friends and relatives with gifts to the Heart Association: William Adler, Louis Alexander, Jack Alpert, Mrs. Doris Arcese, Abraham Aronson, Royal T. The Donors are Mr. and Mrs. George S. Wolper. Wolper is the treasurer of the agency and Mrs. Wolper has served as recording secretary.

Explorers Organize Diversified Groups

The Exploring Division of Norumbega Council, Inc., kicked off its high school age Exploring program recently with groups being formed at the Marriott Motel (Hotel-Restaurant Management Post 519); Medfield State Hospital (Psychology Post 503); Honeywell (Data Processing Post 534); Newton-Wellesley Hospital (Medical Post 535); Central Congregational Church (Cycling Post 505) and Middlesex Amateur Radio Club (Ham Radio Post 510).

Exploring, the high school age division of the Boy Scouts of America, is co-ed, non-uniformed and focuses primarily on practical career guidance of students ages 15-20. This is accomplished through the formation and sponsorship of Explorer Posts with specific areas of interest programs in business, industrial, professional, service, and religious organizations.

Norumbega Council which includes the city of Newton and the towns of Wellesley and Weston hosts one of the finest exploring programs in the country. Since the inception of the new Explorer program two years ago, Exploring has grown from 67 Explorers in seven units to be projected 1200 students in over 50 units by December. This growth would give Norumbega Council the highest density of Ex,lorers in the country.

In the next two weeks, Explorer Posts will be forming in the following special interest areas: Automotive (Warren Coveney Ford), Architecture (Drummey Rosane Anderson), Law Enforcement (Newton and Weston Police Departments), Medical Technology (Newton-Wellesley Hospital - Seniors only), Teaching (Wellesley Future Teachers of America), Accounting (Honeywell Corp.), Commercial Art (Waldron Associates), Horsemanship (Ellendale Stables), Snowmobiling (Newton Snowmobile Center) plus many more throughout the fall. The cost is $2.50 per year and includes six issues of Exploring Magazine.

For further information and Exploring and specific meeting dates of Special Interest Explorer Post you may call Peter Johnson or Larry Bearfield who are the Exploring Executives at 332-2220 before 5 p.m.

Elected To Membership

Hub Business Forms Company, 91 Spiers Rd., Newton Centre has been elected to membership in the National Business Forms Association.

Stanley Goldberg, president of the local business forms distributing company has been with Hub Business Forms Company since December 1971. He has worked for other forms companies for the past 12 years. Goldberg is on the board of directors of the Jewish Big Brother of Boston and Brotherhood Temple Beth Avodah, and an officer of King Solomon Order of Odd Fellows.

The National Business Forms Association represents the Independent segment of the business forms industry. Its membership services include sales training and education, research and development in the areas of forms design and construction, representation of the membership on the national level, and sponsorship of the International Business Forms Exposition, a one-of-a-kind trade show held every two years.

Hub Business Forms Company specializes in snap-out, continuous and accounting forms.

Goldberg and his wife, Sandra, live in Newton. They have twins, Scout and Robert.

The rate of illiteracy for persons 14 years and older—those unable to read and write a simple statement in English or any other language—was reduced by more than 50 per cent during the decade ending in 1969, according to the National Education Association.

CREDIT RISKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite some possibly male chauvinist beliefs to the contrary BankAmericard says single women are better credit risks than single men.

The credit company, which operates through 4,500 member banks, struck a blow for women's liberation with a computer analysis of years of credit records.

The analysis showed also that single women, although better risks than their male counterparts, are not as good bill payers as widows and married women. As a result of the findings, BankAmericard has advised its members that many special requirements for women applying for credit cards no longer are necessary.

Consumer Advocate

Editor's note: Consumer advocate is published monthly by the Boston Federal Executive Board. Direct all inqueries to Boston Federal Executive Board, Room 2200, John F. Kennedy Building, Boston, Ma. 02203.

My neighbor tells me that pretty soon government regulations are going to make us pay for a visit to the doctor to get a prescription to buy vitamins and minerals.

A. Not so! The Federal Food and Drug Administration assures Consumer Advocate that they are not restricting the sale of vitamins or minerals to prescription only, nor are they taking any vitamins off the market. A prescription will be required only for excessive doses of vitamin A and vitamin D which have been proven to be toxic. The major purpose of the new regulations is to require more complete labeling information on vitamin and mineral packaging.

Q. My child just suffered a serious injury playing with a toy bought for him recently. To whom can I report this so some other child does not suffer the same injury?

A. You may report the circumstances to the Consumer Product Safety Commission located at 408 Atlantic Avenue, Boston 02210 or call them at 223-5576.

Q. What may I ask, is the Consumer Product Safety Commission and what is its role?

A. The Consumer Product Safety Act last year created this new independent Federal regulatory agency. Its primary goal is that of reducing injuries associated with consumer products. The Commission has broad authority to issue and enforce safety standards for more than 10,000 consumer products — from toasters, to cribs to lawn mowers.

Q. My wife and I are thinking of buying a microwave oven. Sales brochures say they are perfectly safe but I have read reports about possible leakage of harmful radiation. Do you have any accurate information?

A. The Federal Food and Drug Administration assured us that microwave ovens are safe because all microwave ovens must meet strict standards set by the Bureau of Radiological Health, a part of FDA. Also, microwave ovens are required to be capable of shutting themselves off when the safety interlock fails and remains shut off until repaired. Therefore it would be impossible for the oven to operate when the door is open.

Q. Was there some sort of law passed recently giving certain disabled veterans an annual clothing allowance of $150?

A. Yes! The law authorizes a $150 annual clothing allowance if you wear a prosthetic or orthopedic device for a service connected disability which tends to wear or tear your clothing. Simply apply at any VA office.

Q. I read an article in my Sunday paper about the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS). In plain language, what does it do for me?

A. In a nutshell it is a statistically sound data collection system which provides daily reports to the Consumer Product Safety Commission to monitor trends in product related injuries. One hundred and nineteen hospital emergency rooms across the country report daily injuries associated with consumer products to CPSC's Washington computer for evaluation.

Q. As the 18 year old son of a veteran who has a 60 per cent service connected disability, am I eligible for VA education benefits?

A. No. Only children of veterans who suffered permanent, total disabilities or deaths from service connected causes, or children of servicemen missing in action or prisoners of war for more than 90 days are eligible for education benefits.

Q. My husband is allergic to MSG. How can I avoid buying processed foods which contain this additive?

A. Simply read the labels. The addition of MSG to any foods except mayonnaise, french dressing and salad dressing, without clearly stating so on the label is illegal. Wise shoppers are good label readers.

Liberal Republicans Push Court Battle

WASHINGTON — A legal battle that could influence the future control of the national Republican party is moving toward a showdown in the federal courts.

It could decide whether or not the big Northern states, which have dominated the G. O. P. for a century, must finally yield their power to the coalition of the South and the West, which outvoted them at the Miami Beach convention last year.

The Ripon Society, a liberal elite group based in Cambridge, Mass., and usually identified with the Nelson Rockefeller wing of the party, is pressing a motion for a summary judgment in a lawsuit here. The suit seeks to have the courts throw out the Miami Beach formula, or Rule 30, for allocating delegates to the 1976 convention.

The Ripon Society and its allies want a ruling that Rule 30 unconstitutionally discrimates against the large states and the party must write a new formula giving them more convention votes. The liberals presume that their chances of nominating Rockefeller, the New York governor, or Illinois Sen. Charles Percy for President would be improved by reducing the strength of the delegations from the South and West, whose current favorites are John Connally, Spiro Agnew and Ronald Reagan.

The liberals lost a round when National Chairman George Bush chose William Cramer, a former Florida Congressman, as special counsel to represent the Republican National Committee in the court fight. Cramer will strongly defend the Rule 30 formula which the South-and-West coalition, with some help from Midwestern delegates, rammed through the Miami Beach convention over the prostrate forms of Senator Percy, Wisconsin Congressman William Steiger, and the delegations from such big Northern states as New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

"We're filing a cross-motion requesting the judge to sustain the convention decision," Cramer said in an interview. "We expect to have arguments in mid-October. We will contend that this whole issue is a political question that is not justiciable by the courts."

Critics of Rule 30 contend it penalizes the big states by giving six convention votes to each of the 50 states, regardless of size. A formula as complicated as a Rube Goldberg cartoon invention also awards 4½ delegates to each state giving its electoral votes to the Republican presidential nominee, plus "bonus" delegates equal to 60 per cent of its electoral vote.

Cramer, who played a major role in devising this formula, defended it as an honest attempt to broaden the Republican party's narrow base.

"The size of the next convention was increased by 73 per cent – from 1,346 to more than 22,200 votes – so that we could bring in more people and try to make it a truly 'open' party, nondiscriminatory," he said. "Any party that doesn't keep up to date is likely to die."

However Cramer said: "It is impossible for the courts to decide the question: 'Who is a Republican?' Is it someone registered as a Republican? Several states don't register voters by party affiliation. Is it someone who votes Republican for President but not for state office?"

Conservatives are closely watching Congressman Steiger's work as chairman of the new reform committee called the "Rule 29" group after the title of the convention rule which created it. The Steiger committee has applauded Chairman Bush's declaration that the Republicans must bar sex, age and race quotas of the "George McGovern" type which contributed to the Democrats' disaster in last year's presidential election by alienating old-line party loyalists.

Nevertheless, the conservatives are worried about the recommendations which Steiger may make to carry out Rule 32, which requires that each state Republican party "shall take positive action to achieve the broadest possible participation by everyone in party affairs, including such participation by women, young people, minority and heritage groups, and senior citizens, in the delegate selection process."

Clarke Reed, the Mississippi state chairman who spearheaded the successful fight for the delegate formula at Miami Beach, over the Percy-Steiger bloc's opposition said the Southern and Western Republicans aren't totally reassured by the "no quota" pledge.

"We're suspicious of Steiger's staff operation," said Reed, who heads the Southern state chairmen. "We want to make sure they don't reopen the 1972 quota fight under another name, such as 'goals.'"

Textures and tones tell the winter fashion tale for Ginori, where heavy emphasis on pants suits and colorful sweater combinations guarantee action and attraction. "We're out to achieve a vibrant warmth through deep colors and full-bodied fabrics," said Ginori president, Alan Duddle. "Our flame-stitched wool sweaters are a good example of what we have tried to do. They're bright and bold—and fresh—black bodies with flame-stitched stripe combinations like beige, red and pink or beige and light and dark green ..."

Library Continues Cinematic Delights

Free films, every Wednesday at noon, are screened at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton Corner, now through May.

The extensive range of thoughtfully selected films will provide information, provoke discussion or entertain, but will never bore the viewer.

It "Happens To Us." women taling about their abortion experiences; and "Women's Liberation," a fascinating film covering all phases of the movement, will be screened on Oct. 3.

On Oct. 10 viewers can see "The Vision of William Blake," illustrating his spiritual struggle to attain the state of innocence, and "I Am Pablo Neruda," a film on the life and writings of the contemporary South American poet.

All phases of life on a Kibbutz will be explained on Oct. 17, when "Kibbutz Daphna" is screened, along with a film about the Israeli artist, "Shalom of Safed."

On Oct. 24, the library screens "Marathon," a film depicting the activities of several drug addicts with an attempt to explain how and why drug addiction occurs.

Viveca Lindfors stars in two films on Oct. 31, Brecht's "The Jewish Wife" and Strindberg's "The Stronger."

Film fans, meet your friends, bring your lunch and enjoy a cup of coffee at this hour-long Newton Free Library Wednesday noon free film series.

This free film series continues through May 29 and a complete annotated schedule of the films is available at the Main Library and all branches.

Beginning Oct. 1 the library resumes its winter schedle; the Main Library is open Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. as well as from 9 am. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday Schedules listing the Library's winter hours are available through the library system.

Miss Blank Returns From Mexican Trip

Miss Karen L. Blank, 18, of 996 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, spent eight weeks in Mexico this summer.

She participated in the Experiment in International Living, a program of cross cultural study.

She was part of a group of nine North American college students and lived for one month with a family in Acambaro, Guanajuate, Mexico.

For the remainder of the summer, Miss Blank travelled throughout eastern Mexico.

She is entering her sophomore year at Boston University, College of Liberal Arts, where she is an honor, dean's list student.

Miss Blank spent earlier summers with the Blackfoot Indians in Montana and working with minority group children in Boston's inner city.

Campus Notes

Stephen B. Ross, 50 Irving St., Newton, a lecturer in Northeastern University's graduate department of counselor education, received a certificate of advanced graduate studies from Northeastern in ceremonies Sept. 13.

Ross was one of more than 500 graduates attending Northeastern's eighth annual fall commencement exercises.

A native of Lodz, Poland, and now a U.S. citizen, he is married to the former Suzanne London of Hartford, Conn. and has two children.

Presenting

Solo Piano Concert Sunday

Newton pianist Phyllis Moss will present an evening of solo piano music Sunday (Sept. 30) at Jewett Arts Center auditorium on the Wellesley College campus at 8 p.m.

Miss Moss has been a member of the faculty there since 1967.

Born in Philadelphia, Pa., Miss Moss (Mrs. Herbert Graetz) studied under the direction of Mme. Isabelle Vengerova and was awarded a scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music when she was 11.

At the age of 12, she made her Philadelphia debut with the Philadelphia Symphonietta and was soloist with the New York Federal Symphony when she was 15.

Miss Moss has toured extensively both as a soloist and as a member of the Boston Trio which includes two members of the Boston Symphony, Roger Shermont and Martin Hoherman. They have given concerts in Jordan Hall and at Tanglewood.

Miss Moss has also performed as a soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Boston Pops, the Bamberger Symphony, the Boston Civic Symphony, the New Bedford Symphony and the Newton Symphony.

Sunday's program includes music by Scarlatti, Mozart, Debussy, Ravel and Moussorgsky.

There is no admission charge.

The Emphasis Is On Family

The Newton Recreation Department is instituting a new family night program at the Angier School, 1697 Beacon st., Waban, beginning Thursday, Oct. 18.

The two hour program, to be conducted Thursday nights from 7 to 9 p.m. will include general gym activity including volleyball and basketball and will allow mom, dad and children to participate as a family unit.

Mark Altierio, a member of the Newton School Physical Education Staff, will direct the program.

Tag Football

The Recreation Department's Tag Football League has been expanded to ten teams this year, up two from a year ago.

The League, for men 18 years and older, plays its games at the lighted field at the Albemarle Playground on the following schedule:

Tuesday nights, games at 7:30 and 8:30; Wednesday nights, games at 7:30 and 8:30; Thursday nights, one game at 7:30. Friday night is reserved for making up rained out games. Game time will be 7:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. if necessary.

League rules call for seven man teams playing on a 40 by 60 yard field. The field is divided into three 20 yard zones and a team has four downs to make 20 yards. A touchdown is worth six points and the conversion, one point for a pass and two points for a run.

The league is now in its fifth year. Teams and coaches are: Art Carroll Packers, Kevin Marden; Auburndale A.C., Jerry Sullivan; Capello Bros., Joe Capello; Gaths, Bob Hill; Paulini Loam, Tom Paulini; Rogan Sporting Goods, Mike Rogan; Stumblebums, John Lilly; Troubadours, Frank Cooney; Crystal Lake AA, Russ Brooks; and the Dudes, Andy Johnson.

The first senior life savings class conducted in conjunction with the American Red Cross was recently graduated at the Gath Memorial Pool at the Albemarle Playground.

This was an experimental program initiated by instructors William Walsh and Leonard Bacevicius under the supervision of manager John F. Walsh, Sr.

The program was designed to train local young people who could staff the pools life guard corps in future years.

Bacevicius is a senior at Newton North High School and Walsh is a sophomore at Suffolk University and a Ouimet Scholar. Both have served as lifeguards for the Newton Recreation Department.

John Walsh, who has been associated with the Newton Recreation Department Water Safety Program for almost 30 years, reports that they hope to continue the program which was received so well this season, each year from now on.

Girls' Street Hockey

The Girls' Street Hockey League will begin play at the Cabot Basketball Court on Thursday, Sept. 27. Games will be played at 6:15, 7:15 and 8:15 p.m.

Practice sessions were held at Cabot, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, and a final session is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 25th. Last year the league had four teams and this year it will be expanded to six.

Boys' Street Hockey

Practice sessions for Newton youths aged 11 to 15 will be scheduled afternoons at Cabot Park. Boys interested in playing in the Boys' Street Hockey League should contact Recreation Intern, Austin Moore at the Recreation office, 969-3171; 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, for further information.

Mann Urges Compliance With Revaluation Law

Mayor Theodore D. Mann today announced that he has communicated with Anthony Scibelli, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, uring that the State Legislature take steps to make certain that all communities are in compliance with existing law that require all localities maintain their property tax assessments on the basis of their full and fair market value.

In his letter Mann stated that because Newton has been forced to revalue as a result of a court order in conformance with state law, the city should not be penalized relative to other communities which for one reason or another did not comply with State statutes.

In a related matter, Mayor Mann has sent letters to Newton's state senator and four state representatives urging their support for bills pending before the state legislature that insure equal treatment foor all property owners in communities that undergo revaluation.

"While the assessors have some discretionary powers to alleviate financial hardships resulting from property taxation. I feel it is the duty of the state to pick up any losses incurred by home owners resulting from compliance with laws passes and administered by the State," the mayor siad.

"Each year, bills are placed before the state legislature dealing with the equitable treatment of home owners faced with revaluation. I regard passage of such legislation a metter of highest priority to be supported by the Legislature led by Newton's delegation," Mayor Mann concluded.

Armenian Relief Society Hears Famous Organist

The Soseh Chapter of the Armenian Relief Society will sponsor a lecture-discussion by Berj Zamkochian, organist, on Sunday, Oct. 7, at 3 p.m. in the auditorium of the Hosmer School, Concord Rd., Watertown.

The topic of Zamkochian's talk will be "Thoughts on Directions for American-Armanians." During the question and answer period, Zamochian will welcome comments and questions which need not be confined to the topic at hand.

Zamkochian, a native of Boston, received his formal musical training at the New England Conservatory. During his years of graduate study he served on that institution's organ faculty.

In 1957, he was appointed organist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Concerts have taken him throughout Europe, Canada and the United States.

In 1965, he became the first North American organist to tour the Soviet Union. Since that time, he has returned for six tours of that country.

He has also been called upon to dedicate and play some of the most formidable and outstanding instruments in North America, and has conducted concerts at the White House for the past four Presidents.

Pope Paul VI and the late Cardinal Aghajanian have also honored him. In 1965, the tile of titular organist of the Basilica Church of Saint Peter's in Rome was bestowed upon him.

In New England, Zamkochian has served on the faculties of Regis College, Boston College, and the New England Conservatory of Music.

He is a life-time member of the International Faculty of the Gregorian Institute of America.

The Armenian Relief Society is a charitable, educational, and cultural organization, which has served the Armenian community all over the world since 1910.

Silk Screen Prints Will Be Exhibited

An exhibition of silk screen prints created by the well known artist Corita will be on display at Newton College in Newton through Oct. 12.

The exhibition, being held in the Kenny-Cottle Library on the Centre St., Newton campus, is open to the public and is free of charge.

Corita Kent, a faculty member at Immaculate Heart College in Los Angeles, is renowned for her serigraphy and optical illusion art. She has had her work exhibited in numerous one-man shows in museums, galleries and universities in the United States, Canada and Spain.

Her art work is also represented in the permanent collections of the Metropolitan Museum, Museum of Modern Art, Library of Congress, Rosenwald Collection at the National Gallery, Cincinnati Museum, California Palace Legion of Honor, Los Angeles County Museum, Philadelphia Museum, New York Public Library, Art Institute, Chicago; Victoria and Albert Museum, London; Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris, and others.

A writer for Newsweek (Dec. 27, 1967) described Miss Kent's serigraphs as "colorful. . . buoyant" work in which "bits of newspaper prints, a grocery list, a philosopher's maxim, or an ad for United Air Lines. . . flit gaily across abstract patches of orange, red and yellow like charged-up billboards."

A deep commitment to the ecumenical religious and peace movements is reflected in all her work, even in the book and record jackets she has designed for such companies as the Container Corporation of America, Westinghouse and Nieman-Marcus.

Backyard Fair

Russell C. Covner, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Covner, 112 Osborne Path, recently conducted a back-yard Fair for the benefit of the Leukemia Society of America.

He was assisted by Larry Robin, Mark Corcoran, Suzanne Boisvert, Lisa Butters, Marc Marbi, Maxwell Stearns, Paula Boisvert, Mala Arnaldy, Karen Siddons and Kenny Siddons.

The group raised $65.

Backyard Fairs are conducted in cooperation with Channel 5.

Newton Day At The Zoo

Sunday is Newton Day at the Children's Zoo in Franklin Park.

The Boston Zoological Society has announced that Newton people will be admitted to the zoo at half price.

Emphysema Club To Meet At Library

Joanne Patriarca

Jazz Dance Workshop At Center

New to the Community Center's fall program will be a Jazz Dance Workshop taught by Joanne Patriarca, a student at Regis College in Weston.

The purpose of this course is to give the student physical agility, poise and the ability to move with grace and comfort.

Free movement and expression, coordination of mind and body and an appreciation of jazz as an American art are the main intents of the course. Warm up exercises, jazz barre, center barre, progressions and combinations will comprise each class. No previous dance is required. All are welcome, there is no age limit.

Miss Patriarca is a member of the Dance Teacher's Club of Boston, Inc., with the American Society and is a member of Dance Masters of America, Inc. She is a qualified examiner of the NCDTO medal testing program. Presently she is on the staff of the Bertagna School of Dance in Arlington.

Classes will begin Oct. 1 at the Community Center, 429 Cherry st., West Newton. Registrations are being taken at 969-5906.
